(b) cause, so far as he can, all provisions of this Act to be complied with;

(c) inspect, on arrival, all vessels bringing return emigrants to the port at which he is Agent;

(d) inquire into the treatment received by such emigrants during the voyage and report thereon to the local Government;

(e) aid and advise such returned emigrants when requested by them to do so.

8. Every Emigration Agent, and all persons in charge of, or employed in, any depôt or in any vessel licensed to carry emigrants as hereinafter provided, shall give the Medical Inspector every facility for making such inspections, examinations, and surveys as may be necessary or proper under this Act, and shall afford him all such information as may be reasonably required by him.

Emigration Agent, &c., to give information to Medical Inspector.

Emigration Depôts.

9. At each port of embarkation under this Act, the local Emigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for emigrants.

Establishment of depôts for emigrants.

10. The Medical Inspector of Emigrants shall, at least once in every week, inspect the emigrants in the depôt, and examine into the state of the depôt and the manner in which the emigrants are therein lodged, fed, clothed, and otherwise provided for and attended to.

Inspection of depôts.

The Medical Inspector shall report to the local Government any circumstances which may come to his knowledge, showing that the depôt is not suitable for its purpose, or that the emigrants are treated with any neglect or oppression.

Recruiters.

11. The Emigration Agent at each port of embarkation under this Act shall license as many fit persons as he thinks necessary to be recruiters of laborers for British Burmah; and no person shall be employed as a recruiter of such laborers except under a license from the Emigration Agent.

Licensing of recruiters.

Every recruiter shall be licensed to obtain laborers from one or more districts to be named in the license.

12. Every recruiter shall wear a badge having legibly inscribed thereon, in English and in the Vernacular language of such district or districts, the words "Recruiters of Emigrants for British Burma."

Recruiter to wear a badge.

13. The license granted to recruiter, under section eleven, may be in the form set forth in schedule A hereto annexed.

Form of license.

No license shall be in force for a longer period than one year, and in case of misconduct on the part of the recruiter, the Emigration Agent may cancel his license before the expiration of the period for which it was granted.

Period for which it shall remain in force.

14. A recruiter shall not be deemed to have obtained authority in any place other than a Presidency town to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant until his license has been countersigned by the Magistrate of the district or of the division of the district, or to have obtained such authority in any Presidency town, until his license has been countersigned by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police.

Countersignature of Magistrate to recruiter's license.

15. No such Magistrate or Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police shall countersign a recruiter's license unless and until he has satisfied himself by such inquiry as he thinks fit that the license is no by character or from any other cause unfitted to be a recruiter under this Act.

License not to be countersigned until recruiter's fitness is ascertained.

Every such officer refusing to countersign a recruiter's license shall, without delay, report his refusal and the grounds of it to the Emigration Agent by whom the license has been issued.

Contracts and Registration and Journey to Depôts.

16. Any person desiring to emigrate under this Act to British Burma may enter into a contract with a recruiter to proceed to British Burma and there serve in a certain district, for a fixed period of not less than three and not more than five years from the date of his arrival in such district;

Contract to be entered into with intending emigrant.

Every such contract shall be in writing and shall specify—

(a) the district in which the service is to be performed;

(b) the term of service;

(c) the number of days and hours of work per month;

(d) the nature of the work;

(e) the intending emigrant's monthly wages in money;

(f) the price at which rice or other proper food is to be supplied to him during his service;

(g) the persons (if any) intending to accompany him as his dependents.

The monthly rate of wages shall in no case be less than seven rupees for an adult laborer.

No contract to labor in British Burma shall be binding on an emigrant unless it is made in accordance with this Act.

17. Every native of India outside the limits of British Burma who enters into a contract under this Act with any recruiter to proceed to British Burma for the purpose of laboring for hire shall be brought by such recruiter before the Civil Surgeon of the district or such other medical officer as the Local Government appoints in that behalf or, if no such officer has been appointed, before such medical officer as the Magistrate directs.

Medical examination of intending emigrant.

The medical officer shall thereupon examine the person produced by the recruiter, and shall either reject him or shall certify that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to proceed to British Burma and to work for hire therein.

The certificate shall be in the form set forth in Schedule B hereto annexed, and the recruiter shall pay to the medical officer such fee for each person examined as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Recruiter and emigrant to appear before Magistrate.

18. Every emigrant shall appear with the recruiter before a Magistrate in the district or town within which the contract was entered into.

Examination by Magistrate of emigrants under contract.

19. The Magistrate shall thereupon inspect the medical certificate, and shall, apart from the recruiter, examine the emigrant with reference to his contract, and if it appears that he understands the nature of the contract he has entered into as regards the place, term and nature of the service, the rate of wages and the price at which food is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register—

(1) the name, the father's name, and the age of such emigrant;

(2) the name of the village or place in which he resides;

(3) the port of embarkation to which it is intended that he shall proceed;

(4) the district in which he has contracted to labor;

(5) the period of service; and

(6) the rate of wages and the rate at which rice or other proper food is to be supplied to him.

The emigrant shall thereupon be deemed a registered emigrant.

If the Magistrate thinks that the emigrant does not understand the nature of the contract, or has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register the above particulars.

Examination of dependents on emigrants.

20. On the appearance of any person claiming to be dependent on a registered emigrant, the Magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall, apart from the recruiter, examine such person if able to give intelligent answers to questions, as to his dependence upon the emigrant under contract whom he is about to accompany, and as to his willingness to accompany such emigrant.

If the Magistrate is satisfied as to the said dependence and willingness, he shall register the dependent as a dependent on such emigrant.

But if the Magistrate sees reason to doubt any such dependence or willingness, he may object to register the alleged dependent.

Registration of emigrants.

21. The Magistrate shall furnish to every registered emigrant an authenticated copy on substantial paper of the registration under section nineteen.

And shall also furnish a like copy of every registration under section twenty to the emigrant whom the dependent desires to accompany.

Another authenticated copy of each registration under section nineteen and section twenty, together with the original certificate of the medical officer, shall be forthwith forwarded by the Magistrate to the Emigration Agent at the port of embarkation to which the emigrant is about to proceed.

Registration fee.

22. For each registration the recruiter shall pay to the officer making it a fee of one rupee, eight annas.

Should any registered emigrant desert before embarkation, the fee paid in respect of him shall be refunded by the officer who made the registration, upon a certificate of the fact of such desertion signed by the Emigration Agent at the port of embarkation.

Care of emigrants on the journey to depôt.

23. All emigrants proceeding to a depôt shall be accompanied throughout the journey by the recruiter himself or by a competent person appointed by him, with the approval of the Magistrate by whom such emigrants have been registered.

The Magistrate shall give to the person so appointed a certificate under his signature, stating that he has been appointed to accompany certain emigrants during their journey to the depôt.

Every recruiter by whom any emigrant is forwarded to a depôt shall, throughout the journey, provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging.

Penalties for infringing provisions as to recruitment.

24. Whoever, being a duly licensed recruiter, removes any emigrant whom he engages in any district or presidency town from such district or town without such emigrant having appeared before a Magistrate in order to be examined and registered;

and whoever by means of intoxication, violence, fraud, or false pretences induces any native of India to enter into a contract for labor to be performed in British Burma, or to proceed to or towards any seaport for the purpose of proceeding to British Burma without having entered into any contract; and whoever wilfully neglects to supply any [illegible] emigrant whom he has engaged, or any registered dependent, with proper and sufficient food and lodging, or otherwise ill-treats such emigrant on his journey to the depôt;

and whoever forwards, sends, or conveys any such emigrant or dependent with intent to contravene the provisions of this Act; shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Procedure on arrival of Emigrants at Depôt.

Notice of arrival of emigrants at depôt to be given to Protector.

25. The Emigration Agent shall, within twenty-four hours after the arrival at the depôt of any emigrant, give to the Medical Inspector notice in writing of such arrival.

Medical Inspector to examine emigrants.

26. The copy of the registration and the medical certificate of every emigrant, received by the Emigration Agent as above provided, shall be shown to the Medical Inspector at the port of embarkation, and all emigrants shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector immediately after their arrival at the depôt.

If he be satisfied of the fitness of an emigrant to proceed to, and to labor in, British Burma, he shall countersign the copy of the registration; if he be not satisfied thereof, he shall give a certificate to that effect to the Emigration Agent.

Emigration Agent to pay return expenses of rejected emigrants.

27. If the Medical Inspector certify that any emigrant is in such a state of health that his journey to British Burma, or detention in the depôt, would be dangerous to himself or others, or that he is unfit for labor in British Burma, the Emigration Agent shall pay to such emigrant such sum as is necessary to enable him to return to the place at which he was registered:

And any emigrant who, from his state of health, is, in the opinion of the Medical Inspector, unfit to undertake such journey shall be entitled to be fed, lodged, and attended to at the port of embarkation at the expense of the Emigration Agent, until he is reported by the Medical Inspector fit to undertake such journey.

If a dependent has accompanied such emigrant, the Emigration Agent shall pay such dependent such sum as is necessary to enable him to return to the place at which he was registered, as well as to feed and lodge him during the detention (if any) of the emigrant in the depôt.

If the Emigration Agent wilfully omits to feed, lodge, and attend to any emigrant, or dependent, in accordance with the provisions of this section, he shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Procedure in case of ill-treatment on the journey.

28. If, upon the arrival of any emigrant or dependent on an emigrant at the depôt, it appear that he has suffered any ill-treatment, or that the recruiter has failed to provide such emigrant or dependent with proper and sufficient food and lodging during the journey to the depôt, the local Government may cause him to be removed from the depôt, and may order the Emigration Agent to pay him a reasonable sum by way of compensation.

Ratification of contracts of emigrants passed by Medical Inspector.

29. In the case of every emigrant who is passed by the Medical Inspector as in health, and able to journey to, and labor in, British Burma, the Emigration Agent shall ratify the contract into which the emigrant has entered.

Such ratification shall be made by countersigning the copy of the registration furnished to the emigrant under section twenty-one.

Registration of contracts.

30. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Emigration Agent for the purpose, and a copy of such entry or of the contract, authenticated by himself, shall be forwarded by him to the Immigration Agent at the port of British Burma, at which it is intended that the emigrant shall disembark.

Procedure if emigrant refuses to produce copy of contract for ratification.

31. Any emigrant who, without reasonable cause, refuses to produce his copy of the contract for the purpose of being ratified by the Emigration Agent shall be punished with a fine equal in amount to the cost incurred in engaging, registering, and conveying him to the depôt, and in default of payment of such fine with imprisonment which may extend to two months, and such emigrant shall forthwith be discharged from the depôt.

A certificate signed by the Emigration Agent that reasonable cause for refusing to produce the copy of the contract has not been shown, shall be admissible as primâ facie evidence in any proceeding taken under this section.

A certificate signed by the Emigration Agent stating the cost incurred in engaging, registering, and conveying the emigrant to the depôt shall be conclusive evidence of the amount of such cost.

Every fine levied under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the Emigration Agent.

Procedure if Agent neglects to ratify contract.

32. If within thirty days after the arrival at a depôt of any emigrant engaged for labour, the Emigration Agent does not offer to ratify such contract in manner aforesaid, or if the Emigration Agent, without the consent of the Local Government, refuses to be bound by the contract made by the recruiter with the emigrant, the Local Government may order the Emigration Agent to pay to such emigrant such sum of money as is necessary to enable him, together with the dependents (if any) upon him to return to the place where he was registered, and in such case the emigrant shall be released from his contract.

Suit on behalf of emigrant for breach of contract.

33. The Local Government shall, in every case in which it seems proper to do so, cause a suit to be instituted, in the name of such officer as it thinks fit, on behalf of the emigrant against the Emigration Agent for the recovery of damages for any breach of contract.

In every such suit the contract entered into by the recruiter shall be deemed to have been entered into by, and to the binding on, the Emigration Agent.

Recovery of sums payable by Agent under sections 27, 28, and 32.

34. If the Emigration Agent, having been ordered under any of the provisions of section twenty-seven, twenty-eight, or thirty-two to pay any sum of money, omits for twenty-four hours to comply with such order, the Local Government may advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the person named in the order, and recover from the Emigration Agent the sum so advanced with interest at the rate of nine per cent. per annum from the date of such advance.

and no further evidence shall be required by any Court in any suit for the recovery of money so advanced than that the Local Government made such order as aforesaid and advanced the money as aforesaid.

Emigrant vessels and embarkation of Emigrants.

When contract is ratified, emigrant may be forwarded to British Burma.

35. When the contract of any emigrant has been duly ratified as aforesaid, he may be forwarded to British Burma, together with his registered dependents (if any).

No vessel to carry emigrants without a license.

36. It shall not be lawful to receive any emigrant on board any vessel unless a license to carry emigrants in such vessel has been obtained from the Local Government of the port of embarkation. The granting or withholding of any such license shall be in the discretion of the Local Government.

Licensee bound to comply with provisions of Act and Rules.

37. Every person obtaining a license under the last preceding section shall be bound to comply with the provisions of this Act and the Rules made hereunder, so far as such provisions and Rules relate to him.

And any such person failing to comply with any of such provisions or Rules shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Certificates from Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector.

38. Before leaving the port of embarkation, the master of any vessel licensed to carry emigrants under this Act shall obtain from the Emigration Agent and the Medical Inspector of Emigrants certificates under their respective hands, to the effect that they have in respect of the emigrants proceeding in such vessel done all that is hereinbefore required to be done on the part of such Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector, respectively, and that, to the best of their knowledge, all the directions herein contained for ensuring the health, comfort, and safety of the emigrants have been duly complied with, as well as all rules for the time being in force under sections one hundred and five and one hundred and six.

Procedure if emigrant refuses to embark.

39. If any emigrant without sufficient cause refuses or neglects to embark when called upon by the Emigration Agent so to do, it shall not be lawful to compel such emigrant or his dependents (if any) to embark, or to put him or them on boardship against his will, or to detain him or them against his will at the depôt or elsewhere; but nothing in this section shall diminish or effect the civil or criminal liabilities which such emigrant incurs by reason or in respect of his refusal or neglect aforesaid.

Explanation.—The arbitrary refusal of any such dependent to embark shall not be deemed 'sufficient cause' within the meaning of this section.

Every case in which an emigrant is charged before a Magistrate of Police in a Presidency town shall be heard and determined in a summary manner, and every such emigrant shall on conviction, whether by such Police Magistrate or any other Magistrate, be punished in the manner provided in section 492 of the Indian Penal Code for the punishment of offences under that section.

Emigration Agent to ascertain health of emigrant upon embarkation.

40. The Emigration Agent may, if he think fit ascertain that every emigrant is in a fit state of health to proceed to, and to labor in, British Burma.

If the Emigration Agent is of opinion that any emigrant is not in such a fit a state of health, the Emigration Agent may prohibit his embarkation, and the dependents (if any) of such emigrant may, notwithstanding anything herein contained, thereupon refuse to embark.

The Emigration Agent shall also, before the embarkation of any emigrant, ascertain that he has in his possession the copy of the registration provided under section twenty-one. If it appear to the satisfaction of the Emigration Agent that any emigrant has lost such copy, the Agent may furnish him with another copy of such registration, to be made from the copy received by the Agent from the Magistrate under section twenty-one, and shall thereupon allow such emigrant to embark.

Vessel sailing from Calcutta to depart within 24 hours after embarkation;

41. The master of every vessel carrying emigrants from the port of Calcutta shall proceed on his voyage within twenty-four hours after the embarkation of such of the emigrants as shall have first embarked.

and to take steam down the river.

Every such vessel shall, if not a steamer, proceed from the port of Calcutta to sea under tow of a competent steamer.

Copies of Act and Rules to be kept on board.

42. Two copies of this Act and of all existing Rules relating to the voyage made under section one hundred and six, and two copies of a translation of this Act and of such Rules, in such language or languages as the Local Government may direct, shall be delivered to the master of every vessel carrying emigrants by the Emigration Agent at the time of clearance, and shall be kept on board of every such vessel during the whole voyage.

One of such copies or translations shall, upon request made at any reasonable time to the master of the vessel, be produced to any emigrant for his perusal.

Penalties for fraudulent acts whereby certificate becomes inapplicable to vessel.

43. If, after having obtained a certificate in accordance with the provisions of section thirty-six, the master of any vessel cleared for any port of debarkation of emigrants, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act, whereby such certificate becomes inapplicable to the altered state of the vessel or other matter to which such certificate relates, he shall be liable to fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

Penalty for proceeding to sea without steam.

44. If the master of any vessel sailing from the port of Calcutta, licensed under section thirty-six, and sailing with emigrants on board, causes or allows his vessel (not being a steamer) to leave the port of Calcutta without such vessel being in tow of a competent steamer, or if such vessel has not left the port of Calcutta and proceeded on her voyage within the time prescribed in section forty-one, he shall be liable to fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

PART III.

DISEMBARKATION AND TRANSIT TO DISTRICTS OF LABOR.

Officers and Depôts at ports of debarkation.

Immigration Agent and Medical Inspectors of Immigrants.

45. The Chief Commissioner of British Burma shall, at each port of debarkation, appoint an Immigration Agent and a Medical Inspector of Immigrants, and shall, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, define the local limits within which every such Agent and Medical Inspector shall exercise the powers conferred upon him by this Act.

Depôt at port of debarkation.

46. At every such port the local Immigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for immigrants under this Act, and provide them with proper and sufficient lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance in such depôt until they are despatched to the place of labor.

Such depôt shall be at all times open to the inspection of the Medical Inspector of Immigrants.

Procedure of arrival of vessel carrying immigrants.

Master to report arrival of vessel carrying immigrants.

47. Upon the arrival at any port of debarkation of any vessel carrying immigrants, the master of such vessel shall at once report his arrival to the Immigration Agent, and no immigrant on board shall be allowed to land without the permission of such Agent first obtained.

Any master of a vessel who allows any immigrant to land without such permission, shall be punished by a fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each person so landed.

Examination of immigrants by Immigration Agent and Medical Inspector.

48. Upon receipt of the report of arrival of any vessel carrying immigrants, the Immigration Agent and the Medical Inspector of Immigrants shall forthwith go on board such vessel, and the Agent shall satisfy himself that the vessel has on board its proper list of immigrants and shall compare the immigrants on board with the list, and shall note any births or deaths which may have occurred during the voyage.

The Medical Inspector shall further examine the immigrants, in order to ascertain whether any of them are suffering from contagious or infectious disease.

Any immigrant suffering under any such disease may, if the Medical Inspector thinks fit, be removed to a proper hospital for treatment.

Examination of vessel and enquiry into treatment of immigrants on the voyage.

49. The Immigration Agent may, if he think fit, and shall on complaint made by any of the immigrants, with the aid of the Medical Inspector, enquire into the general and medical treatment of the immigrants during the voyage, and submit a report thereon to the Chief Commissioner, who shall thereupon decide whether the provisions of this Act and the Rules framed under it in regard to the voyage appear to have been duly observed; or, if not, whether any [illegible] action should be taken to enforce the liability of the master, either by civil suit or criminal prosecution.

Should the Chief Commissioner decide to take such action, the Immigration Agent may institute such suit or lodge such complaint as may be determined upon.

Transit to place of labor.

Assignment of immigrants to employers.

50. The Chief Commissioner shall make rules regulating applications to the Immigration Agent by persons desiring to employ immigrants, and the mode in which and extent to which the Agent shall assign immigrants to such persons respectively, and may from time to time alter and add to the rules so made.

All such rules, additions, and alterations shall be published in the British Burma Gazette.

The person to whom any immigrant is so assigned shall be deemed to be the 'employer' of such immigrant within the meaning of the contract into which he has entered and of the provisions hereinafter contained and of the rules made hereunder.

Despatch of immigrants.

51. Immigrants may from time to time be despatched from the depôt to the place of labor by their respective employers, or by the agents of such employers, but subject always to the provisions of this Act.

Immigrants' passes.

No immigrant shall be so despatched unless the permission of the Immigration Agent has been first obtained, and the immigrant has received a pass in the form set forth in Schedule C hereto annexed, signed by the employer or his agent, and countersigned by the Immigration Agent, specifying his name and age, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer.

Immigrants not to be conveyed on any vessel without a license.

52. It shall not be lawful for the master of any vessel, without a license granted by an Immigration Agent, to convey any immigrants as defined in this Act in or through British Burma, and it shall be in the discretion of the Immigration Agent to grant or withold such license.

Such license shall be in force only for one voyage or trip, and shall specify the number of immigrants which the vessel is licensed to carry, and the number of persons, including the crew other than immigrants, which such vessel is licensed to carry.

Penalty for conveying immigrants in vessel without a license.

The master of any vessel in which immigrants are conveyed without a license having been obtained as aforesaid, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for fraudulent acts, whereby vessel becomes unfit for immigrants.

53. If the master of any vessel, after having obtained a license as aforesaid, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act or thing whereby the state of the vessel is altered, so that such vessel is unfit for the accommodation of the number of immigrants mentioned in such license, he shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Penalty for taking on board excessive number of passengers.

54. The master of any vessel licensed to carry immigrants who receives on board his vessel a greater number of immigrants, or of other persons, than is specified in his license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every immigrant or other person so received in excess of the licensed number.

Two children under ten to count as one person.

In computing under this section the number of immigrants or other persons on board of any vessel, two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

No immigrant to be taken on board without a pass.

55. The master of any vessel, whether licensed or not, shall not take on board any immigrant, unless such immigrant, or some person accompanying him, shows the pass prescribed in section fifty-one.

A master taking any immigrant on board without a pass shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for every such immigrant.

No immigrant to be allowed finally to leave vessel at any place other than that mentioned in his pass.

56. If the master of any vessel, save as hereinafter provided, causes or permits any immigrant finally to leave such vessel at any place other than that named as the destination of such laborer in his pass, such master shall be liable to fine not exceeding ten rupees for each such immigrant.

Proviso.

Provided that this section shall not be deemed to prevent the master of any vessel from permitting immigrants to disembark at any place or places on the voyage, so long as such disembarkation is not intended, or known to be likely to be final; nor to prevent the final disembarkation of any immigrants in case of accident or other unavoidable necessity, if such accident or necessity be forthwith reported to the Immigration Agent by whom the license of such vessel was granted, and to the nearest Magistrate in the district within which such accident occurs or necessity arises.

Magistrate may inspect vessel.

57. A Magistrate may at any time go on board of any such licensed vessel carrying immigrants within the local limits of his jurisdiction, and may inspect the vessel, the immigrants, and all persons on board.

The master and officers of such vessel shall be bound to afford to such Magistrate all reasonable facilities for such inspection, and to give him all such information respecting the immigrants or other persons on board as may be reasonably required, and respecting any deaths which may have occurred on board, and respecting any other facts which may affect the health of the immigrants.

Penalty.

Any master or other officer who wilfully or negligently omits to give any such information to the Magistrate, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Removal of immigrants in excess of licensed number.

58. If it appears to a Magistrate making an inspection of any such vessel, that the number of immigrants on board is larger than the number specified in the license, he may remove the excess number and detain them until another opportunity of forwarding them to their destination is found.

The expense necessarily incurred on maintaining such immigrants and in conveying them to their destination shall be recovered from the master of such vessel.

Detainer of vessel for breach of Act or Rules.

59. If it appears to a Magistrate making an inspection of any such vessel, that anything required to be done or provided, under the provisions of this Act or of any rule made hereunder, has not been done or provided, he may detain such vessel until the omission has been supplied.

Provision to be made for disembarked immigrants.

60. The Magistrate shall, on the arrival at his station of any vessel licensed as aforesaid, give notice of such arrival to the respective employers of the immigrants on board, or to the agents of such employers, who shall forthwith take charge of their immigrants respectively.

The Magistrate shall ascertain whether reasonable provision has been made for the support and loading of immigrants whose place of disembarkation may be at such station from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination;

and if their respective employers fail to make such reasonable provision, or if such employers or their respective agents are not present at the place of disembarkation, the Magistrate may order such arrangements to be made, and incur such expenses as under the circumstances seem to him necessary;

and the amount of expenses so incurred by him in the disembarkation, or in respect of the food, lodging, medicines, hospital attendance, or clothing of the immigrants shall, with interest at the rate of nine per cent. per annum, be recoverable by the Magistrate from their respective employers.

Power to family of detained immigrant to remain with him.

61. Whenever an immigrant remains behind or is detained under the provisions of section fifty-eight or sixty, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such immigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the immigrant so remaining behind or detained, or to be taken forward along with the immigrant so further conveyed, whether such wife or husband have contracted to work for hire or not.

The children (if any) of an immigrant so remaining or detained shall also be allowed to remain with him.

Magistrate to send detailed report to Immigration Agent.

62. The Magistrate shall, upon the arrival or detention of any immigrants belonging to a party of more than twenty, despatch, without delay to the Immigration Agent by whose permission they were forwarded, a detailed report of the number of immigrants who have arrived or been detained, together with a copy of the report (if any) of the civil surgeon or other medical officer, and any observations which such civil surgeon or other medical officer or such Magistrate may think fit to make as to the state of health and general condition of the immigrants.

Penalty for wilful neglect to enforce rules.

63. Every master of a vessel, or medical officer in charge of immigrants on board of any vessel carrying immigrants, who wilfully and knowingly neglects or refuses to enforce on board of such vessel such rules as may from time to time be prescribed under this Act for his guidance, shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Jurisdiction over offences committed on board vessel.

64. Any offence against any of the provisions of this Act, or any rule passed under the provisions thereof, committed on board of any vessel, may be tried by any Magistrate exercising jurisdiction in any place at which immigrants may have embarked on board such vessel, or may have disembarked from such vessel, or in any place in which such vessel may be detained under the provisions of this Act.

Provisions to be carried on every vessel.

65. There shall be laden, under the supervision of the Immigration Agent, on board of every vessel employed in carrying immigrants within British Burma at the time of the embarkation of such immigrants, proper and sufficient provisions for the consumption of the said immigrants to the amount, or in the proportion, prescribed by any rule passed under section one and for the time being in force.

Medical and other officers.

Any master who commences the voyage without having on board such provisions as aforesaid, or without having on board such medical and other officers, cooks, and other attendants, as the Immigration Agent orders, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Provided that it shall not be lawful for the Immigration Agent to order that a medical officer shall proceed with any number of immigrants less than fifty who may go together to the place of labor.

PART IV.

THE LABOUR DISTRICTS AND RELATIONS OF EMPLOYER AND IMMIGRANT.

Imported Labour Fund.

66. The Chief Commissioner of British Burma may, from time to time, by order published in the British Burma Gazette, fix a yearly sum, not exceeding five rupees per immigrant, for the purpose of defraying the expense of carrying out the purposes of this Act, and the sum so fixed shall be paid half-yearly by the employer of such immigrant on the last day of July and the last day of January in each year.

Yearly rate payable to provide for expenses of Act.

The amount so realised shall be credited to a fund which shall be called the British Burma Imported Labour Fund, and such fund shall be at the disposal of the said Chief Commissioner for the payment of the salaries and expenses of the Agents, Recruiters, and Inspectors, and for otherwise carrying out the provisions of this Act.

67. If any employer fails to pay the amount for which he is liable under the provisions of the last preceding section, the Deputy Commissioner shall notify such default to him; and if within one month from the receipt of such notification, or such longer period as may, under special circumstances, appear to the Deputy Commissioner reasonable, such employer fails to pay the amount, the Deputy Commissioner shall levy it by distress and sale of any movable property found in the possession or under the charge of such employer.

Procedure when employer fails to pay the rate.

If the full amount has not been recovered by distress and sale, the Inspector of Immigrants, or the Deputy Commissioner on behalf of the Government, may sue the employer liable for the same in any Civil Court having jurisdiction at any place where immigrants have been employed by such employer.

Inspectors of Immigrants.

68. The Chief Commissioner may appoint, in any district in which this Act may be in force, so many Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors of Immigrants as he thinks proper, and may from time to time define, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, the local limits within which each such Inspector and Assistant Inspector shall exercise and perform the powers and duties conferred and imposed on him by this Act.

Appointment of Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors.

The Chief Commissioner may confer all or any of the powers of a Magistrate on such Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors; and they shall be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Powers of Inspectors.

69. Every employer of immigrants under this Act shall, on or before the last day of January and the last day of July in every year, make out in writing, and deliver to the Inspector of Immigrants, a return of the number of immigrants employed by such employer on the last day of the preceding month, and a return of the sickness and mortality among them during the preceding six months.

Return of immigrants to be sent in half-yearly by employer, &c., to Inspector.

70. Any employer refusing, or wilfully omitting to send in any such return as mentioned in the last preceding section, or knowingly sending in an incorrect return, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees;

Penalty for refusing or omitting to send in return, or sending in incorrect return.

and a certificate under the hand of the Inspector to whom such return ought to have been sent, stating that such return has not been sent, or is incorrect as aforesaid, shall be received as primâ facie evidence of the truth of the facts stated in such certificate.

71. Every Inspector of Immigrants shall, so often as may be directed by the Chief Commissioner, visit all lands and houses within the limits of his authority on which any immigrant is employed, and inspect every hospital, tent, camp, or building in any way used by any such immigrants, and investigate the condition of the immigrants employed, and for such purpose the Inspector may require that any immigrant shall be produced before him with his instrument of contract, and may make such enquiries as may to him seem proper.

Inspector's visits.

Every such Inspector shall keep books, in which, from time to time, shall be entered,

Inspector's books.

(a) the number of immigrants then under contract with each employer;

(b) the number who shall then be sick or missing, or who shall have complained of ill-treatment;

(c) the particulars of such complaints; and

(d) such other particulars regarding the immigrants as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs.

Each Inspector shall annually make a written report to the Chief Commissioner through the Commissioner of the Division, of the aforesaid particulars; and every such report, as regards the immigrants under any particular employer, shall, at all reasonable times, be open to the inspection of such employer or any person by him appointed in writing in that behalf, and the person so inspecting shall be entitled to take a copy of the report so far as it relates to such immigrants.

72. Any Magistrate exercising jurisdiction in the district, and any person authorized by him in writing in this behalf, may at any time

Power to inspect hospitals and make enquiries as to immigrants.

(a) enter and inspect any hospital, tent, or building, wholly or partially used by or for immigrants;

(b) require that any immigrant be brought before him; and

(c) make any inquiries which he thinks proper touching the condition or treatment of any immigrant.

73. Any employer, and any person acting under his orders, or on his behalf, who wilfully obstructs or impedes any entry, inspection, or inquiry under either of the two preceding sections, shall be liable for every such offence to a fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty on person obstructing inspection, &c.

Regulation of Labor.

74. Every employer shall, from time to time, with the sanction of the Inspector previously obtained,

Power to fix daily tasks.

(a) fix the daily tasks to be executed by the immigrants employed by such employer;

(b) frame a schedule of such daily tasks; and

(c) publish the same by posting a copy thereof in the vernacular language of the majority of the immigrants upon the door of each place of payment of the immigrants employed by such employer, and by sending a copy thereof in the English language to the Inspector:

No deduction shall be made from the wages of an immigrant on account of the rest for one day in each week. The obligation to provide on holidays for the care of animals, and the necessities of daily life, shall not be considered as work.

75. The Inspector shall, at any time on the application of an employer, summon a committee for the purpose of revising such schedule of daily tasks, if he declines to sanction such modification thereof as the employer desires.

Committee to revise schedule of tasks.

The committee shall consist of the Inspector, of some employer to be nominated by him, and of some person to be nominated by the employer on whose application the committee is summoned.

Such committee, or the numerical majority thereof, shall have power, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, to make any modification of the schedule which it may deem proper, and the schedule so modified shall be published in manner aforesaid, and every schedule published as aforesaid shall have effect as between the employer and immigrants in substitution for any former schedule.

Suspension or Cancellation of Contract.

76. The Inspector of Immigrants, within the local limits of whose authority any laborer is employed, may suspend, for such period as he thinks fit, the contract of such immigrant, or any particular term thereof, if he or she be in the judgment of the Inspector temporarily incapacitated for the performance thereof by reason of sickness, pregnancy, or other sufficient cause:

Inspector may suspend contract of any immigrant temporarily unfitted for labor.

Provided that every such immigrant shall, during such incapacity, receive from his or her employer such subsistence money as the Inspector thinks sufficient.

77. If any immigrant is compelled to perform any species of labor for which he is at the time manifestly unfit, or for which he did not engage, the employer by whom he was so employed shall on conviction by a Magistrate be liable to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for compelling immigrant to perform work for which he is unfit.

78. If, in the opinion of the Inspector of emmigrants, any immigrant is permanently incapacitated for the performance of his contract or any material part thereof, the Inspector shall certify to that effect in writing, and deliver such certificate to the employer of such immigrant or some one on his behalf, and from the date of such certificate the contract of such immigrant shall wholly cease and determine.

Power to discharge immigrants permanently unfitted for labor.

The Inspector shall make a return of all such cases of determination of contract in his report under section seventy-one.

Every immigrant whose contract has been determined as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive from his employer such sum, not exceeding three months' wages, as the Inspector may award, and such sum shall be recoverable before a Magistrate in the manner hereinafter provided for the recovery of wages.

Provisions for the health and comfort of Immigrants.

79. Whenever any immigrants are employed in British Burma, their employer shall be bound to provide for them sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, and sanitary arrangements.

Sufficient house accommodation, &c., to be provided.

He shall also provide good rice or such food as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct, and the immigrant shall be entitled to purchase such food at the price specified in the contract into which he has entered under this Act.

80. Any Inspector or Assistant Inspector who is himself a Magistrate, may institute within the local limits of his jurisdiction, on the lands in charge of any employer, or at some place within such limits not more than ten miles distant from such lands, an inquiry whether such employer has provided for his immigrants sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or [illegible] food.

Powers of Inspector as to house accommodation, &c.

On the complaint of any Inspector or Assistant Inspector, a similar inquiry may be made by any Magistrate.

Every such inquiry, whether conducted by an Inspector or Assistant Inspector, or before a Magistrate on the complaint of an Inspector or Assistant Inspector, shall be dealt with and conducted as a case triable by a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure.

81. Any employer disobeying rules passed under section one hundred and seven, clause (e), and binding upon him shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and the convicting Magistrate may order compliance with such rules within a reasonable time to be fixed in the order.

Penalty for breach of rules as to house accommodation.

If the employer wilfully omits to comply with such order, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees a day for every day that such omission continues.

In default of payment by the employer of the last-mentioned fine, the person on whose account such employer has been acting shall be liable to pay the fine.

82. Wherever such hospital accommodation or medical charge, as required by rules made under section one hundred and seven, or medicines of such quality and kind, and according to such scale as aforesaid, have not been provided, the employer or other person through whose neglect such default has occurred shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every week during which any such default continues.

Penalty for breach of rules as to hospital.

Procedure when Inspector believes any estate unfit for habitation.

83. If an Inspector of Immigrants has at any time reason to believe that any estate or portion of an estate situated within the local limits of his jurisdiction is in a condition so unhealthy, or in such a situation as to be unfit for the residence of immigrants, he shall report his opinion in writing to the Magistrate of the District.

On the receipt of such report the Magistrate shall forthwith summon a committee to enquire whether such estate or por tion is unfit for the residence of immigrants.

Such committee shall consist of the Magistrate of the District, the Inspector of Immigrants, the Medical Officer of the district, and, if practicable, one or more employers of immigrants.

If the Magistrate is unable to procure the service on such committee of any employer of immigrants, he may, with the sanction of the Commissioner of the Division, appoint such other person or persons as he may deem qualified to serve on the committee.

Such committee shall proceed with as little delay as possible to enquire into the condition of the estate or portion of estate to which the order appointing the committee has reference, and shall hear such evidence on the subject as the owner of the estate or portion, or the employer, or Inspector desires to place before it.

Effect of finding of unfitness.

If the committee, or the majority thereof, is of opinion that such estate or portion is in a condition so unhealthy or in such a situation as to be unfit for the residence of immigrants, it shall record a finding to that effect;

and the contract of every immigrant who has contracted to serve on such estate shall thereupon be void as regards such estate or portion as may be found unfit for the residence of immigrants:

Provided that every such contract shall continue valid in regard to any other portion of such estate belonging to the same employer.

Penalty for permitting immigrants to reside on unhealthy estates.

84. Every employer causing or permitting any immigrant to reside upon any such estate or portion of an estate as under the provision of section eighty or section eigty-three has been found unfit for the residence of laborers, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five thousand rupees.

Provided that in case it appears to the Inspector that any such estate, or portion, or any part of such portion has become fit for the residence of immigrants, he shall, with the sanction of the Magistrate of the District, give under his hand a certificate of such fitness, and no employer shall be liable to fine by reason of his causing or permitting immigrants to reside in any place respecting which such certificate of fitness has been given.

Breaches of conduct by Immigrants.

Penalty on immigrant absenting himself without sufficient cause.

85. Any immigrant who voluntarily and without reasonable cause absents himself from his labor, or neglects or refuses to labor as required by his employer, the labour so required being reasonable and proper, may, on conviction by Magistrate, be sentenced to lose all claim to wages or allowances during the period of such absence, and also to forfeit to his employer a sum not exceeding eight annas for each day during which such absence has continued; and in case such absence has exceeded seven days, or in case such immigrant has been already convicted of the same offence within a period of three months, he may be further sentenced at the request of the employer to rigorous imprisonment for fourteen days.

The employer of any immigrant convicted under this section may, by endorsement on his copy of the contract with such immigrant, transfer his rights thereunder to any other employer of immigrants in the same district; and such employer, on assenting in writing to such transfer, shall be deemed to be the employer of such immigrant within the meaning of the original contract.

Explanation.—Ill-treatment of such immigrant by his employer, or the neglect of the employer to fulfil any condition of the contract, may be 'reasonable cause' within the meaning of this section.

Immigrant deserting may be apprehended without warrant.

86. If any immigrant desert or attempt to desert from his employer's service, such employer or any other person acting in his behalf may, without first procuring a warrant, and without the assistance of any police officer (who, nevertheless, shall be bound to give such assistance if called upon to do so), apprehend such immigrant wherever he may be found:

Proviso.

Provided that if he be found in the service of another employer, he shall not be arrested without a warrant:

Further proviso.

The employer or other person apprehending an immigrant under this section shall, within a reasonable time from the time of such apprehension, give him in charge at the nearest police station, and there enter the charge upon which he has been apprehended.

Immigrant when made over to the police, to be taken before nearest Magistrate.

87. Any immigrant so given in charge shall be conveyed, without delay, to the nearest Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act.

If the place from which such laborer is charged with having deserted be within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate, he shall himself adjudicate upon the charge; but if not, he shall forward the said laborer, under custody, to the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such place is situate, who shall adjudicate upon such charge.

Punishment for desertion.

88. Every immigrant deserting from his employer's service shall be liable, upon conviction, to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to one month.

Every immigrant who after having been convicted under this section again deserts from his employer's service, shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to two months.

Every immigrant who after having been twice convicted under this section again deserts from his employer's service, shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to three months.

Such punishment may be imposed in addition to the forfeiture to which the immigrant is liable under section eighty-five.

Cancellation of contract by desertion.

89. Whenever any immigrant has actually suffered imprisonment amounting in the whole to six months for desertion from his employer's service the Inspector shall if the employer so desire cancel the contract of such immigrant by endorsing the word 'cancelled' on the immigrant's copy of the contract, or the employer may, by endorsement on his copy of the contract, transfer his rights thereunder to any other employer of immigrants in the same district, and such employer, on assenting in writing to such transfer, shall be deemed to be the employer of such immigrant within the meaning of the original contract.

Provisions regarding desertion and unlawful absence to apply to desertion in transit.

90. All the provisions of this Act regarding the desertion or unlawful absence of immigrants shall apply to immigrants who desert while in transit to the district in which they have contracted to labor for hire; and such immigrants may be tried either in the district in which they may be apprehended, or in the district in which under their contracts they are bound to labor for hire.

Penalty for enticing away, harbouring, or employing immigrants under contract to another person.

91. Any person who knowingly and wilfully entices away, harbours, or employs, or attempts to entice from his employment any immigrant before such laborer has been lawfully released from his contract, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and the convicting Magistrate may award to the employer of such immigrant the whole or any portion of such fine.

Portion of sentence may be cancelled if employer apply for return of immigrant.

92. The employer, or any person authorized to act for the employer of any immigrant imprisoned for any offence under this Act, may apply to the Magistrate, at any time before the expiry of such sentence, that such immigrant be made over to him for the purpose of completing his contract, and the Magistrate may, if he see good cause, make over such immigrant to his employer, and in that case the Magistrate shall cancel the remainder of the sentence passed on him, and shall endorse on the instrument of contract of such immigrant a memorandum signed by him of such cancellation.

On expiry of sentence immigrant to be made over to employer.

93. When any immigrant has been sentenced to imprisonment for any offence under this Act, the Magistrate shall (subject to the provisions of section eighty-nine) make over such immigrant on the termination of his imprisonment to any person appointed on the part of his employer to receive charge of him;

Conviction not to operate as a release.

and no conviction under this Act, or imprisonment under such conviction, shall, save as aforesaid, operate as a release to any immigrant from the terms of his contract:

The period of imprisonment shall in no case be prolonged by reason of there being no person present on the part of the employer to take charge of the immigrant at the expiry of his sentence; but such immigrant shall, in that case, be sent to the place, or principal place of business of such employer, and the expense of so sending him shall be levied from the employer in the manner herein provided for the recovery of rates.

Time of unlawful absence and of imprisonment to be included in term of immigrant.

94. The duration of every unlawful absence from labor, of which any immigrant may be convicted, and every sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, shall be endorsed by the convicting Magistrate on the employer's copy of the contract with such immigrant, and no such period of imprisonment or unlawful absence so endorsed shall be reckoned as part of the term for which the immigrants is bound to serve, but such term shall entend to such further period as shall be equivalent to the aggregate amount of the imprisonment and unlawful absence so endorsed.

Breaches of contract or ill-usage by employer.

If immigrant desire to complain, employer to give notice to Inspector.

95. If any immigrant state to his employer, or to any person acting for such employer, that he desires to make a complaint to the Inspector of Immigrants of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act on the part of such employer or other person, the person to whom such statement has been made shall, within forty-eight hours, send notice thereof in writing to the Inspector, and in default of so doing, such person shall be liable to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Procedure on receipt of notice of complaint.

96. Whenever any Inspector of Immigrants receives such notice in writing as aforesaid, or whenever any complaint of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid is made to him by any immigrant against his employer, or any person acting for such employer, or whenever the Inspector has other reasonable grounds for believing that any such immigrant has been injured by personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid, such Inspector shall forthwith, if the place in which such offence has been committed is not situate within the local limits of his own authority, give notice thereof in writing to the Inspector within the limits of whose authority such place is situated; and if such place be situate within those limits, then such Inspector shall, so soon as conveniently may be, proceed to some place not more than ten miles in a direct line from the place, or principal place, of business of such employer, and make full enquiry into the matter complained of.

Procedure if complaint be untrue or frivolous.

97. If, upon such enquiry, the Inspector finds that the complaint is untrue or frivolous, he shall enter in his book the particulars of such complaint, and a short statement of the grounds of his finding respecting it, and shall dismiss the complaint, and in such case shall endorse on the employer's copy of the contract of such complainant, the number of days during which the complainant has been absent from work in consequence of such enquiry, and such number of days shall be added to the period for which the complainant had contracted to serve, and every such endorsement shall be conclusive evidence that such immigrant has absented himself from his labor without sufficient cause during the number of days which shall be so endorsed.

98. If, upon enquiry as aforesaid, the Inspector is of opinion that the complaint is well founded, he shall, if a Magistrate, dispose of the case in due course of law.

Procedure if the complaint be well founded.

If the Inspector is not a Magistrate, he shall without delay send the complainant and his witnesses to the nearest Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall thereupon dispose of the case in due course of law.

99. If, upon the complaint of any immigrant, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that the wages of such immigrant are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of his wages for two months, such Magistrate may award to the complainant the amount which appears to be then due to him; and also, by way of compensation, such further sum not exceeding that amount, as appears to the Magistrate to be just; and, in case of default, the Deputy Commissioner shall, upon the requisition of the Magistrate, levy the entire sum in the manner prescribed for the levy of rates under this Act.

Recovery of wages.

Compensation if wages are due for more than two months.

100. If any employer, or any person placed in authority over any immigrant by such employer, is convicted of any offence causing injury to the person or property of such immigrant and triable under the Code of Criminal Procedure by the Court of Session;

Cancellation of contract.

or if any such employer, or other person as aforesaid is twice convicted of any such offence against such immigrant triable under the said Code by a Magistrate;

or if it be proved before a Magistrate that the wages of such immigrant are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of such immigrant's wages for three months;

or if a Magistrate, on the report of the Inspector and after due enquiry, in the presence of the parties is satisfied that any immigrant has been compelled to perform any labor while he was to his employer's knowledge unfit for it, or has been subjected to ill-usage by such employer or any other person placed in authority over the immigrant by such employer, the Magistrate may, if he think fit, on the application of the immigrant, in each of such cases cancel the contract of such immigrant, and award to him, in addition to the wages (if any) due for service performed, compensation not exceeding thirty rupees.

Every such cancelment shall be certified by the Magistrate on the back of the instrument of contract.

The compensation may be recovered in the same way as rates leviable under section sixty-seven.

Determination of Contracts.

101. Every immigrant on completing the term of his contract may appear before the Inspector, in order that the completion of the contract may be registered.

Immigrant who has completed his contract may have such completion registered.

Any employer forcibly or fraudulently detaining an immigrant after the completion of his contract, or failing to give notice of such completion to the Inspector within one month after the date of such completion, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

102. If any immigrant is able and desirous to redeem the unexpired term of his contract of service by payment of a sum equivalent to the value thereof, he may demand to be taken or allowed to go before the Inspector of Immigrants within the local limits of whose authority he may be employed, and on his depositing such sum in the hands of such Inspector, such Inspector shall give notice to the employer that such immigrant requires him, within one week, to show cause why such immigrant should not be released from his contract;

Power to redeem contract.

and if no sufficient cause be shown, such Inspector shall require the production of the contract of such immigrant, and endorse thereon a certificate of release by purchase, and shall hold the sum in deposit on account of the employer of such immigrant.

If any employer, or other person authorised to act for him, neglect to comply with such demand as aforesaid, such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

The value of the unexpired term of contract shall be deemed to be the aggregate amount of one rupee for every month of the unexpired portion of the first year, of two rupees for every such month of the second year, and of three rupees for every such month of the third year of the original term of the immigrant's engagement.

103. Every immigrant whose contract has been completed, determined, released by purchase as aforesaid, or rescinded by the mutual assent of the parties thereto, shall be entitled to receive forthwith from the Inspector a certificate of release in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Commissioner by an order to be published in the British Burma Gazette.

Certificate of release from contract.

104. Any immigrant whose contract has been completed, determined, or rescinded by the mutual assent of the parties thereto, shall be entitled to be conveyed back to the port from which he embarked for British Burma at the expense of the employer with whom he may have contracted.

Return passage.

The Chief Commissioner, shall, from time to time, determine what shall be taken to represent the cost of such re-conveyance, and to make rules for the care and protection of immigrants on their return journey.

The cost of such re-conveyance shall be recoverable from the employer, liable in the same manner as rates leviable under section sixty-seven.

PART V.

SUBSIDIARY RULES.

105. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the following matters—

Power of Government of India to make rules.

(a) the periodical returns to be made by the Emigration Officers, by Magistrates, by Immigration Agents, and by the Inspectors of Immigrants;

(b) the books to be kept for the registration of emigrants and their contracts;

(c) the dates between which no emigrants shall proceed to British Burma;

(e) the probable maximum length of the voyage from each port of embarkation to each port of debarkation;

(f) and generally to carry out the purposes of this Act.

Power of Local Government of port of embarkation.

106. The Local Government of every port of embarkation under this Act may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the following matters—

(a) the fees payable under section seventeen;

(b) the form of notice of the arrival of emigrants at depôts;

(c) the management and regulation of depôts;

(d) the medical care of emigrants during their residence at the depôts and during transport;

(e) the clothing to be supplied to emigrants during transport;

(f) the mode of applying for licenses under section thirty-six;

(g) the survey of emigrant vessels;

(h) the procedure on embarkation;

(i) the space to be provided for emigrants on board ships sailing from ports of embarkation under this Act;

(j) the provisions, fuel and water to be laden on board such vessels, and the daily allowance to be issued to each emigrant;

(k) the medical officers, medicines, and medical requirements to be on board such vessels;

(l) the ventilation and cleanliness of vessels during the journey, the control of officers, cooks, and other servants, and generally the accommodation of emigrants.

Power of Chief Commissioner of British Burma.

107. The Chief Commissioner of British Burma may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, from time to time make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the following matters—

(a) the transport of immigrants from ports of disembarkation under this Act to the places of their respective employments, their medical inspection during such transport, their detainer at any place on the way on account of sickness and the accommodation, support and medical treatment of immigrants so detained;

(b) the diet, clothing, medical attendance, and management of immigrants in transit;

(c) the hospital accommodation, medicine, and medical attendance to be provided by employers for their immigrants at the place of employment;

(d) the periodical inspection of immigrants, and the books to be kept by Inspectors of Immigrants;

(e) the house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements and supply of suitable food to be provided by employers for their immigrants, and the price of such food;

(f) the hospital accommodation and medical care of laborers, and the nature, quality, and quantity of medical drugs and other stores to be provided for them;

(g) and generally to provide for the security, well-being, and protection of immigrants.

Publication of rules.

108. All Rules made under sections one hundred and five, one hundred and six, and one hundred and seven shall be published—in the case of rules made under section one hundred and five, in the Gazette of India, in the case of rules made under section one hundred and six, in the local official Gazette;

in the case of rules made under section one hundred and seven, in the British Burma Gazette; and shall thereupon have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill, which has been prepared at the desire of the Chief Commissioner of British Burma, is to regulate the transport of coolies to that Province, and their employment therein under contracts of service. It is divided into five Parts.

Part I contains the usual preliminary provisions and repeals, so far as regards British Burma, Madras Act V of 1866.

Part II relates to emigration. It provides for the appointment at each port of embarkation of an Emigration Agent and a Medical Inspector of Emigrants, and describes the duties of those officers. It provides for the establishment and inspection of depôts for emigrants; it prescribes rules for (a) the recruiting emigrants, (b) the contracts into which they will enter, (c) their medical examination, (d) the ascertainment of their knowledge of the nature of their contracts, (e) their registration, (f) their journey from their homes to the depôt, (g) the procedure on arriving at the depôt, (h) emigrant vessels and the embarkation of emigrants. For the survey of vessels, procedure on embarkation, space, fuel, water, provisions, &c., to be provided on board, rules will be made by the Local Government of the port of embarkation.

Part III relates to the disembarkation of immigrants in Burma, and their transit to the districts in which they have contracted to labor. The Chief Commissioner will appoint at each port of debarkation an Immigration Agent and a Medical Inspector, and the former officer will establish a suitable depôt, and provide the immigrants with proper lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance until they are despatched to the place of labor. The Bill then provides a procedure on the arrival of vessels carrying immigrants, and regulates their assignment to employers, and their transit to the place of labor.

Part IV relates to the labour-districts and the relations of employer and immigrant. It begins with clauses empowering the Chief Commissioner to fix and realise a yearly payment not exceeding five rupees per immigrant, to be paid by the employers, and to be credited to a Labor Fund, which will be applied in carrying out the provisions of the proposed Act. It then provides for the appointment of Inspectors of Immigrants, and details their duties. It requires employers, with the previous sanction of the Inspector, to fix the immigrants' daily tasks. It empowers the Inspector in proper cases to suspend the execution of the contract of any immigrant, and (where the immigrant is permanently incapacitated for labor) to cancel his contract. It contains provisions for securing the health and comfort of the immigrants. It provides penalties for immigrants breaking their contracts, and for persons enticing away, &c., immigrants under contract to others. It lays down the procedure when immigrants desire to complain of breach of contract or ill-usage by their employers.

Part IV then contains three clauses relating to the determination of immigrants' contracts, and concludes with a clause entitling immigrants whose contracts have been completed, determined or rescinded by mutual assent of the parties, to a return passage at the employer's expense.

Part V empowers the Governor-General in Council, the Local Governments, and the Chief Commissioner to make subsidiary rules consistent with the Act.

Nothing in the Bill applies to contracts with, or the emigration of, Native seamen, domestic servants, or skilled artizans.

SIMLA, A. HOBHOUSE.
The 24th July 1873.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First Publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th August 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months.

No. 17 of 1873.

A Bill to explain and amend the law relating to certain Married Women, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to make such provision as hereinafter appears for the enjoyment of wages and earnings by women married before the first day of January 1866, and for insurances on lives by persons married before or after that day:

And whereas by the Indian Succession Act, 1865, section four, it is enacted that no person shall, by marriage, acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries, nor become incapable of doing any act in respect of his or her own property, which he or she could have done, if unmarried:

And whereas by force of the said Act all women to whose marriages it applies are absolute owners of all property vested in, or acquired by, them, and their husbands do not by their marriage acquire any interest in such property, but the said Act does not protect such husbands from liabilities on account of the debts of their wives contracted before marriage, and does not expressly provide for the enforcement of claims by or against such wives;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Married Women's Property Act, 1873."

Extent and application.

2. It extends to the whole of British India, and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty.

But nothing herein contained applies to any married woman who, at the time of her marriage professed the Hindú, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Síkh, or Jaina religion, or whose husband, at the time of such marriage, professed any of those religions.

And the Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by order, either restrospectively from the passing of this Act or prospectively, exempt from the operation of all or any of the provisions of this Act the members of any race, sect, or tribe, or part of a race, sect, or tribe, to whom he may consider it impossible or inexpedient to apply such provisions.

The Governor-General in Council may also revoke any such order, but not so that the revocation shall have any retrospective effect.

All orders and revocations under this section shall be published in the Gazette of India.

The fourth section of the said Indian Succession Act shall not apply, and shall be deemed never to have applied, to any marriage one or both of the parties to which professed at the time of the marriage, the Hindú, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, or Jaina religion.

Commencement.

3. This Act shall come into force on the passing thereof.

II.—Married Women's wages and earnings.

Married women's earnings to be their separate property.

4. The wages and earnings of any married woman acquired or gained by her after the passing of this Act, in any employment, occupation, or trade in which she is engaged, or which she carries on separately from her husband, and also any money or other property so acquired by her through the exercise of any literary, artistic, or scientific skill, and all savings from and investments of such wages, earnings, and property shall be deemed to be her separate property, and her receipts alone shall be good discharges for such wages, earnings, and property.

III.—Insurances by Wives and Husbands.

Married woman may effect policy of insurance.

5. Any married woman may effect a policy of insurance upon her own life, or the life of her husband, on her own behalf and independently of him; and the same and all benefit thereof, if expressed on the face of it to be so effected, shall enure as her separate property, and the contract evidenced by such policy shall be as valid as if made with an unmarried woman.

Insurance by husband for benefit of wife.

6. A policy of insurance effected by any married man on his own life, and expressed on the face of it to be for the benefit of his wife, or of his wife and children, or any of them, shall enure and be deemed to be a trust for the benefit of his wife, or of his wife and children, or any of them, according to the interest so expressed, and shall not, so long as any object of the trust remains, be subject to the control or the husband, or to his creditors, or form part of his estate.

When the sum secured by the policy becomes payable, it shall, unless special trustees are duly appointed to receive and hold the same, be paid to the Official Trustee of the Presidency in which the office at which the insurance was effected is situate, and shall be held by him upon the trusts expressed in the policy, or such of them as are then existing.

And in reference to such sum he shall stand in the same position in all respects as if he had been duly appointed trustee thereof by a High Court, under Act No. XVII of 1864 (to constitute an Office of Official Trustee), section ten.

Nothing herein contained shall operate to destroy or impede the right of any creditor to be paid out of the proceeds of any policy of assurance which may have been effected with intent to defraud creditors.

IV.—Legal proceedings by Married Woman.

Married women may take legal proceedings.

7. A married woman may maintain a suit in her own name for the recovery of property of any description which, by force of the said Indian Succession Act, 1865, or of this Act, is her seperate property: and she shall have in her own name, the same remedies, both civil and criminal, against all persons, for the protection and security of such property, as if she were unmarried.

V.—Liability of wife's debts.

Husband not liable for wife's antenuptial debts.

8. A husband shall not, by reason of any marriage subsequent to the thirty-first day of December 1865, be liable to the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, but the wife shall be liable to be sued for, and shall, to the extent of her separate property, be liable to satisfy such debts as if she had continued unmarried:

Proviso.

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall affect any suit instituted before the passing of this Act, nor invalidate any contract into which a husband may, before the passing of this Act, have entered in consideration of his wife's antenuptial debts.

Wife's liability for postnuptial debts.

9. If a married woman possesses separate property, and if any person enters into a contract with her with reference to such property, or on the faith that her obligation arising out of such contract will be satisfied out of her separate property, such person shall be entitled to use her, and, to the extent of her separate property, to recover against her whatever he might have recovered in such suit, had she been unmarried at the date of the contract and continued unmarried at the execution of the decree:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of a husband for debts contracted by his wife's agency express or implied, or render a married woman liable to arrest or to imprisonment in execution of a decree.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), section four, declares that no person shall by marriage acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries. This section, however, does not apply to marriages contracted before the 1st January 1866, and, in the case of persons married after that day, the Act does not protect the husband from liability from the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, nor does it expressly provide for the enforcement of claims by or against such wives.

The objects of the present Bill are, first, to extend the protection afforded to wives by section four of the Succession Act (so far as regards future wages and earnings and policies of insurance) to women married before 1st January 1866; secondly, to declare that a married woman may sue in her own name for any property which, by force of the Succession Act, or the proposed Act, is her seperate property; thirdly, to relieve the husband of a wife married after the 31st December 1865, from her antenuptial debts: and lastly to declare that any person entering into a contract with a wife (otherwise than as her husband's agent), shall be entitled to sue for her, and, to the extent of her separate property, to recover against her whatever he might have recovered had she been unmarried.

Clause 4 (as to a wife's wages and earnings) is equivalent to the Married Women's Property Act (33 and 34 Vic., Cap. 93, section one.

Clause 5 is copied from the first paragraph of section ten of that Act. It declares that any married woman may effect a policy of insurance on her own life or on her husband's life, on her own behalf, and that the amount assured shall be her separate property. As the law stands, if a wife effects such a policy (otherwise than out of her separate estate), and dies in her husband's life-time, the husband, in the capacity of her administrator, becomes the absolute owner of the policy.

Clause 6 is equivalent to the second paragraph of the same section, the Official Trustee under Act XVII of 1864 replacing the trustee appointed in England by the Court of Chancery or the County Court. It provides that an insurance effected by a husband on his own life and expressed to be for his wife's benefit shall be deemed to be a trust for her benefit, and shall not be subject to the claims of his creditors, except, of course, when the transaction was intended to defraud them. This provision is necessitated by the doctrine that a husband as such has no insurable interest in his wife's life. It is true that, as the law stands, such a policy might be effected; but it would only be in the nature of a voluntary settlement, and it would be liable to the dangers to which such settlements are exposed.

Clauses 7 (as to legal proceedings by married women) and 8 (as to the non-liability of a husband for his wife's antenuptial debts) are respectively equivalent to sections eleven and twelve of the Married Women's Property Act.

Clause 9 declares the law as to a wife's liability for her postnuptial debts in conformity with a recent decision of Mr. Justice Phear (Archer v. Watkins, 8 Ben. L. R., 372). This decision is binding only in Bengal: the Bill will extend its authority throughout British India.

The Bill does not apply to married women who are Hindús, Muhammadans, Buddhists, Síkhs or Jainas, and power is taken to exempt from its operation, either retrospectively or prospectively, the members of any race, sect, or tribe to whom it is inexpedient to apply its provisions.

[First Publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th August 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months

No. 18 of 1873.

A Bill for the further amendment of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen,, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), section one hundred provides that, in the cases of loss, abandonment, damage, or casualty therein mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Local Government, if a formal investigation appears to it to be requisite or expedient, to appoint two persons to make the same, and declares that one of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is held, and that the other may be any person conversant with maritime affairs:

And whereas it is expedient to amend the said section so as to enable the Local Government to add to the body so constituted either one or two members in each case as it thinks fit:

And whereas it is further expedient to provide more efficient means for enforcing the attendance of witnesses in investigations and trials under the said law and under Act No. XII of 1859 (to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty), and the four and sixth sections of Act No. XV of 1863 (to amend Act I of 1859), as to remove certain doubts which have arisen as the manner in which proceedings under the said fourth section of Act No. XV of 1863 should be initiated;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of Act I of 1859, section 100.

1. The following clause shall be added to the said section:—

"In addition to the persons appointed under the former part of this section, the Local Government may also appoint to make the said investigation either one or two persons, as in each case it thinks fit, provided that such person or persons is or are conversant with maritime or merchantile affairs. The provisions of sections CI and CII of this Act shall apply to all persons so appointed."

Power to compel attendance of witnesses.

2. The authority conducting a trial or investigation under Act No. I of 1859, section one hundred, or under Act No. XII of 1859 or under section four or section six of Act No. XV of 1863, may, in addition to the powers conferred by the said Acts or any other law for the time being in force for compelling the attendance of witnesses exercise all the powers in that behalf conferred on a Magistrate by the Code of Criminal Procedure, Chapter XXVI.

Amendment of Act XV of 1863, section 4.

3. The said fourth section of Act No. XV of 1863 shall be read as if, after the word "authorized," the following words were inserted (that is to say): "on a report or a statement of the case being submitted to it by the Local Government, or by such officer as the Local Government may have empowered in this behalf," and as if, in the first proviso, for the words "Report, or a statement," the words "Report or Statement" were substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Act No. I of 1859, section one hundred, enables the Local Government, in cases where a ship has been lost or abandoned, to appoint two persons to make a formal investigation, one of whom is to be a Magistrate, and the other a person conversant with maritime affairs.

Cases have recently occurred which prove the desirability of strengthening these tribunals by adding a member conversant with mercantile affairs. And the principal object of this Bill (which has been prepared at the suggestion of the chief Local Governments) is to enable them to make this addition. Another object is to provide greater facilities for the attendance of witnesses at the investigation, and to clear up some ambiguity arising out of Act XV of 1868, by which Act I of 1859 was amended.

EMIGRATION TO THE LABOR DISTRICTS.

The Acting Advocate General said he had the honor to present to the Council two reports of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and to regulate contract labor and service. The first report related to the Bill generally: the other was on a matter which subsequently came before the committee, as to which they had thought it necessary to make a special report.

In presenting the first preliminary report of the committee he took occasion to say a few words on the general features and characteristics of the Bill. The principles then enunciated had been carried out by the committee; and the labors of the committee had been principally directed to the careful revision of the language of the Bill. The matter had been carefully summarised in the report; and he did not, therefore, deem it necessary to say much on the subject. He considered that the report spoke fully for itself as to what had been done. There were only one or two matters to which he wished to direct attention.

The committee had altered the definition of "Magistrate." The word, as it stood in the Bill, included "a magistrate of a district or division of a district, and any magistrate of the first or second class, and any magistrate deputed by the magistrate of the district for the control of emigration or laborers, and any magistrate of police for the town of Calcutta." The Subordinate Magistrate who was capable of being appointed by the magistrate had very limited powers and functions; and we thought it therefore necessary to strike out from the definition the words "and any magistrate deputed by the magistrate of the district for the control of emigation or laborers."

The powers given to a magistrate deputed by the magistrate of the district were expressly defined in the Bill.

Then the committee said—"We have omitted the provisions relating to evidence in Sections 28, 62, 63, 66, 106 and 133, and the references to the Penal Code in Sections 13, 103, 108 and 132." THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL would draw attention to this as one of great importance, and one which the Council should take into consideration when settling the clauses of the Bill. He might mention that one of these sections, Section 28, provided that an extract of every such contract should be entered in a register to be kept by the magistrate, and a certified copy of such entry, or of the contract should be forwarded to the Superintendent of Emigration, by whom it should be forwarded, after entry in his own register, to the magistrate of the labor district within which the emigrant contracts to labor. "Such certified copy of the entry or of the contract so forwarded shall be admissible in any suit as evidence of the contents of the contract." The committee had been obliged to strike out this form of evidence, inasmuch as this Council had no power to define what should be evidence, or to add to or alter the rules of evidence. This Bill having repealed the existing emigration law, the Council had taken away from itself any power to provide that an entry or any special form of evidence should be evidence in a particular proceeding. The result was that every contract which might become the subject of controversy between laborer and employer would have to be proved in the ordinary way, namely, by the proof and production of the original, or in the absence of the original, by the proof or production of a copy. If it should be necessary to preserve this short form of proof, the present Act would have to be repealed with the exception of the particular portion which provides for the reception of this kind of evidence. If it should be deemed advisable to have a special form of evidence as a part of the law relating to emigration, we would have to repeal the former Act, excepting from the repeal the portions relating to evidence, inasmuch as the evidence Act had preserved all matters of evidence in reference to special and local Acts.

In the same way references to the Penal Code had been struck out, this Council having no power to add to or alter any of the provisions of the Code. For instance, in regard to section 13, if a person was a public servant within the terms of the Penal Code well and goods; if not, this Council had no power to make him one.

There was one other matter to which THE ADVOCATE GENERAL thought it necessary to refer—he alluded to the part of the report which was as follows: "we have slightly altered the constitution of the Labor Transport Fund to meet the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, Section 308," whereby the Procedure Code enabled a Magistrate to award a portion of the fine to a complainant. The Bill as it stood devoted the whole of the fine to a particular purpose. We had made that provision subject to section 308 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

He did not think it necessary to refer to this report further than to say, that the committee had introduced certain forms in the Schedule which they trusted would be considered satisfactory. A form of contract was provided in Schedule A, and the Council would see that it was a very short and simple form of contract—quite sufficient, he thought, for the purposes of the Act. The form of contract hitherto in use comprised within it all the principal provisions of the law itself. The relative positions of employer and employed were defined in the Bill, and the introduction of such provisions into the contract did not make them more binding. They had, therefore, adopted this form of contract. It might be a question whether, under the instructions of Government, the Magistrate should not be directed to explain the general provisions and features of the Act to the emigrants before the signing of the contract. That, however, was a matter which the Executive Government would be able to govern and direct without the authority of the Legislature.

With regard to the supplementary report, the Council would observe that the committee were of opinion that the systems of free recruiting and recruiting under the Act could not well work side by side. The committee did not feel themselves able, on the materials before them, to recommend that Cachar or any other district, should be exempted from the operation of the Act, or to make any specific recommendation to the Council on the general subject. He had carefully read the whole of the opinions received, and beyond the letter of the President, respecting the state of the Chandypore gardens, he had not met with any specific evidence. If the facts stated in that letter referring to Chandypore gardens could be extended by evidence to other estates, or if the evidence tended to show that the state of things at Chandypore existed in other localites, then the committee would have had sufficient material to make a specific recommendation; and if they had had such information they would have been inclined to make a recommendation. But as the matter stood they had not had such evidence. No doubt a number of most valuable opinions had been received, but those who undertook the task of legislation were bound to form their own opinion, on good and sufficient evidence, and to have a firm groundwork as the basis of a sound and important measure. The committee had had several meetings on the subject, and had devoted considerable time and attention to it, and the result was that they found themselves unable to make any specific recommendation.

On the other hand, the Council would observe that, if they should now be disposed to order a further inquiry specifically on the subject, the committee would be perfectly ready to take into their consideration the results of such further inquiry. With regard to the opinions which had been received, the ADVOCATE-GENERAL would make this observation, that the opinions were generally to the following effect—that free recruting was approved subject to the provisions regulating the due performance of contracts being preserved. No doubt if free recruting were allowed subject to the condition that the portion of the law relating to specific performance of contracts should be preserved, such an arrangement would suit the employers very well. But he ventured to think that this Council would not accept the above recommendation, on the subject of recruting, so fettered and encumbered.

On the other hand, with regard to the laborers employed, their view was wholly unrepresented. Whether it was capable of being represented he did not know, but he thought it was worth an attempt to get, as far as possible, the opinion of the laboring classes by means of inquiries instituted under the direction of Government by the Magistrates or other Government officials, or by means of a commission of investigation and enquiry.

When all these matters were put before the Council, they would be in a position to say whether or not they would exempt Cachar from the operation of the Act. THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL would protect the poor native in every possible way, and he thought that the provisions of the existing law afforded the laborer every necessary protection. But then it was said that if the time had arrived when the parties could deal with each other without any restrictive provisions, it was the duty of the Government to remove such provisions, and that the freedom which was to be enjoyed under the new state of things was highly desirable. He must confess that the partial restraint of freedom did not weigh very heavily with him when he found that such restraint was more than counterbalanced by positive advantages in respect of health, wages, and other matters contributing to the welfare of the employed. All persons who were bound to others in the capacity of servants had to submit to considerable restraint of their own actions and inclinations, for several hours of the day.

On the whole he considered that the provisions of the law relating to emigration sustained a fair equilibrium between employer and employed.

His Honor the President said the motion of which there was notice was that the report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Acting Advocate-General observed that the motion as it stood in the list of business, came from His Honor the President, and had been inserted in the paper by the routine of the office. He did not think the Council were now in a position to consider the clauses of the Bill; the report of the Chamber of Commerce, for instance, had only lately been received, and had not been considered by the Select Committee.

His Honor the President said he thought it desirable that the Bill should be taken into consideration in the form recommended by the committee, merely to give them a starting point for further proceedings, and he would, therefore, move that it be so considered.

In doing this, he would take the opportunity to explain the course which the Government proposed to take with respect to this Bill. The Council were probably aware—those who read the newspapers must be aware—that it was rumoured, he could not say whether truly or not, that there was on the anvil a plan for separating from Bengal and attaching more closely to the Government of India the districts for which this Bill more particularly provided as a labor districts. The Council were also aware that there was before the Legislative Council of the Governor-General, a Bill somewhat cognate with this Bill—he alluded to the Bill to promote emigration to British Burmah. That being the state of the case, and he also being not aware whether the separation of these districts to the east of the Brahmapootra would or would not take place, the Government would not think it right that this Bill should be forced through the Council without communication with the Government of India. On the other hand, if in this Council, with the general consent of all parties, a good Bill of this kind could be settled and passed, a great advantage would be gained; because even if these districts were relieved from the control of this Council, on the other hand, the recruiting grounds would still remain subject to the jurisdiction of the Council. That being so, if the labor districts were separated from the recruiting districts before this Bill was passed, considerable difficulties might arise, and it would in many respects be a great advantage if, before any separation of this kind should take place, these questions should be settled amicably and as much as possible with general consent.

In His Honor's view, it was the greatest possible object to promote emigration from the thickly populated—it might be over-populated—districts of Western Bengal to the thinly populated Eastern districts. What was wanted to render the Eastern districts productive, and a source of prosperity to the people and the nation, was population. He was inclined to believe that the districts of Western Bengal, if not over-populated, were on the verge of being over-populated; and in the interests of all parties it was advisable that facilities for transport should be given, every means in the power of the Government being used to promote that end. He wished to promote emigration as much as possible; he wished to promote free and voluntary emigration as far as might be; and as emigration could not be altogether spontaneous, he believed all interested in tea plantations and the welfare and prosperity of the Eastern districts, would agree, that above all things the great thing wanted was cheap recruiting, cheap transport, cheap means of providing a population in those labor districts. The Government would do all it could to promote that object. He should shortly lay before the Council, by means of the Gazette, the measures he was about to take in order to improve roads and facilitate traffic from the East to the West. It lay on the Council to do what it could to facilitate that traffic—which we all agreed to be a good thing—by good laws. The Committee of which the learned ADVOCATE-GENERAL was the head, having taken charge of the Bill, had elaborated it in a manner and with an ability which had resulted in very great good. They had done great service; they had much improved the Bill; and so far as their labors had achieved, we accepted those labors, and took the Bill into consideration in the improved form in which they had presented it.

He did not think it now necessary to refer to particular points in which the Committee had somewhat altered the Bill. He must say, however, that he was a little startled at one view of the law which the learned ADVOCATE-GENERAL had enunciated. He was not prepared to find that the provisions of the general law of evidence and of the general law for the punishment of crime, debarred us from passing any local law on the subject. His impression was that while we could not alter any general law passed by the Legislative Council of the Governor-General, we had not been debarred from adding to that law particular local laws of our own. The learned ADVOCATE-GENERAL was a better judge on such a point than HIS HONOR was, and he must suppose the state of things in this matter to be as the ADVOCATE-GENERAL had explained it to us; but still he must hope that the ingenuity for which the ADVOCATE-GENERAL was so remarkable, would get us out of that great difficulty.

Then, not dwelling on the minor and general amendments made in the Bill by the Committee, HIS HONOR came to the particular amendment which he did himself the honor to suggest to the Committee, but which, so far, the Committee had not thought proper to adopt. The Committee had told us that in one point they were unanimous—that the system of free recruiting was incompatible with recruiting under the Act; that the two systems could not work side by side. Then as to the question whether Cachar and Sylhet were fitted for free recruiting, they said they were not yet in possession of sufficient evidence to enable them to make any recommendation. Now, he should like to explain that his own suggestion was not that the planters should be left wholly without protection and remedy if once free recruiting were allowed. Under the system of free recruiting, capitalists, planters, those who engaged labor, would have the protection of the ordinary civil law of contract. In the particular case of laborers transported from distant districts, the employers of laborers had also special protection in the shape of the Penal Code, which protected persons in cases where they expended money in importing their laborers. Section 492 of the Penal Code did establish a penal provision by which these contracts can be enforced. When we had a law of that kind, the general civil law and this particular penal law, contracts not very onerous and not of very long duration would be sufficiently protected. HIS HONOR'S view was that if you can make recruiting cheap, and make transport cheap, these contracts need not be so onerous and so long as to risk their not being sufficiently protected by the ordinary civil law and the ordinary penal law.

The learned ADVOCATE-GENERAL had said that under any contract there must be a certain restraint of freedom. But on the other hand, it seemed to HIS HONOR, that the position of the coolie whilst his contract lasted, was not a position of limited freedom such as that which the ADVOCATE-GENERAL described, but it was a position of very complete absence of freedom. He was not only obliged to labor for a definite time, but he was removed from the position of an ordinary freeman under the law. If he deserted, his master was not obliged to resort to the ordinary process for his remedy, but by the aid of his guards he could seize the coolie and forcibly bring him back. HIS HONOR must say that this system involved more loss of freedom to the coolie than was experienced by a person under the ordinary law of contract. It did make him for the time a slave.

Well then, coming to the particular question upon which the Committee were unanimously agreed, namely that it was not possible that the two systems—the system of recruiting under the Act, and the system of free recruiting—should go on together, he felt bound very much to defer to the opinion of the Committee. At the same time, unanimous though the Committee were, there were very considerable authorities on the other side. He had mentioned that at this time a Bill cognate to the present Bill was under the consideration of the Legislative Council of the Governor-General. It had happened that the member in charge of that Bill, as representing the Government of India, had taken on this particular point a view directly opposite to that which the Committee on this Bill had adopted. His Honor would read to the Council a portion of the speech of the member who was in charge of that Bill in the Council of the Governor-General. He told the Legislative Council of the Governor-General that great portions of his Bill were taken from the Bengal Bill. He then went on to say, comparing his own Bill with the Bengal Bill—

"There was one clause which was conspicuous by its absence, and it would no doubt be asked why it was absent. It was one which was present in the Bengal Act, the Madras Act, and the general Emigration Act—a clause which made it penal for anybody to enable a person to emigrate, except in accordance with the provisions of the Act. That penalty we proposed to omit, for the reason which MR. HOBHOUSE had already explained to the Council, namely, that it was not our desire to repress nor to fetter, but to encourage emigration. MR. HOBHOUSE could understand why such a clause should be in the General Emigration Act or in the Madras Act, because when the emigrant went beyond the bounds of India or the Madras Presidency, he was beyond the law, and the framers of that law would be quite unable to see him righted if he suffered wrong. But why there should be that penalty upon emigration within the Indian dominions he could not understand."

Then he went on—

"If it (emigration) sprung up under the Act, we should be delighted; but if it sprung up independently of the Act, MR. HOBHOUSE for one would be more delighted still; at present he did not believe it would spring up of itself, but that was no reason why we should discourage voluntary emigration. It was quite sufficient to say that those who did not conform to the provisions of the Act should not have the benefit of contracts under the Act. MR. HOBHOUSE could not conceive a more healthy influence on the condition of Indian laborers than that they should be induced, by returning emigrants or otherwise, to pass of their own accord in large numbers to places where people were willing to employ them. If they would do that, it would, in his opinion, be a better state of things than anything that we could hope for under this Bill, and we certainly ought not to put anything in the Bill that would repress such action."

HIS HONOR did not wish to press on the Council this opinion as in any degree superior to that of the Committee on this Bill. He merely read the passage to show that very considerable authorities might differ from that opinion. Not only also did a great authority representing the views of the Government of India differ from that opinion, but amongst the mercantile gentlemen consulted, there were some who had taken an opinion similar to that of the Government of India and different from that of the Committee of this Council. He found that Messrs. Borradaile, Schiller and Co. said this:—

"Although we have thus far found recruiting under the Act the best policy, we are nevertheless of opinion that a system of free recruiting, as proposed by the Lieutenant-Governor, is worthy of a trial. Government interference no doubt retards more or less the flow of emigration, and we are inclined to think that the removal of all restrictions and penalties would not only be a boon to the employer, but inspire the laboring classes with greater confidence, and eventually prove of benefit to all interested in the welfare of tea in India.

"At the same time we are averse to an immediate abolition of the system at present in operation. This system has worked fairly well so far Free emigration, on the other hand, has to be tried, and we therefore think it would be advisable to allow—for a time at least—recruiting under either system."

Then we came next to the opinion of Messrs. Jardine Skinner and Co., an eminent firm, whose authority would have much weight in this Council. They said—

"We take leave to concur in His Honor's opinion as to free-recruiting being quite compatible with a contract system, and there is no reason that we know of why the two systems should not work together."

HIS HONOR had not at all placed these opinions in the balance against the opinion of the Committee of the Council. But he said that both official and private opinions did sometimes differ from that of the Committee of the Council, and therefore he was inclined to suggest, notwithstanding the great authority of that Committee, that the question was still open to consideration. Then as regards the general question as to whether in the districts of Cachar and Sylhet free-recruiting might not be tried, it was certain, as the learned ADVOCATE-GENERAL had put it, that there was a great tendency on the part of the planters to say—"Free-recruiting is an excellent thing, but the freedom of the coolie was not at all so good a thing." That was an inconsistent view which the Council were not at all likely to accept. But on the other hand, it did not seem that the planters had universally taken this somewhat unreasonable, though not unnatural, view. A good many of them had given an opinion distinctly favorable to the plan HIS HONOR had the honor to propound. He found, amongst the opinions given, the opinion of Mr. R. Blechynden, who said—

"I am quite in favor of the proposal, being of opinion that the adoption of such a system of free-recruiting is very desirable, that it can be carried out satisfactorily, and is likely to prove of benefit to the managers of gardens and of advantage to all concerned in tea cultivation."

In this case no reservation was made that the penal clauses of the Bill should be retained whilst the others should be abrogated.

Then HIS HONOR found that the gentleman representing the Directors of the East India Tea Company, Limited, said—

"I am instructed to express their entire approval of the proposal, as they consider the adoption of a system of free-recruiting will prove advantageous to the tea interests generally, and they therefore trust the measure may be sanctioned."

Next, HIS HONOR found that the Directors of the Bengal Tea Company, Limited, also express their entire approval of the proposal.

Then Mr. S. H. Robinson—

"Fully concurs in the opinion expressed by the Landholders' Association, that such free-emigration may be quite safely permitted, and should be freed from all legislative restriction, except such as may be necessary for the purposes of sanitation on the river voyage for emigrants in parties over 20 in number."

Then HIS HONOR found that Messrs. Whitney Brothers said—

"It is our opinion that the interests of the employer and laborer are best served by being left to themselves as much as possible, and we think that the proposal of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is a great step in the right direction."

And HIS HONOR would draw attention to this as showing that they fully considered the interest of the coolie—

"No contracts should be valid which are made before the arrival of the laborers in the tea districts, and with this restriction we feel quite confident that good results will ensue, for employers having to bear the expense of forwarding the coolies will be exceedingly careful in their own interests to engage with none but those who seem in robust health, and are entirely contented with regard to their future expectations."

Then he came to the letter from Messrs. William Moran and Co., who said—

"From our own experience and our knowledge of the views entertained by our planter friends, we have no doubt that free recruiting of labor would be a great boon in some respects, but if that is to be attained by release of the laborers of all restraints imposed by the Contract Law, we much fear a successful issue to such an alteration."

* * * * *

"For the protection of the planter we would venture to suggest that the ordinary law of contract should prevail."

They said that the planter should not be left without protection, and that the ordinary law of contract should prevail, not a highly penal law. Then they went on to say—

"And on the part of the laborer let the Passengers and Carriers Act be amended, if necessary, to secure his full protection; but employers are so thoroughly alive to the advisability of treating their labor force well, and making them happy and contented, that they are not likely to encourage deception.

It seemed, then, that these opinions were not one-sided opinions. Then HIS HONOR would recur to the letter of Messrs. Jardine, Skinner and Co. They went on to say—

"We feel sure that most of the gardens in Cachar would adopt free recruiting, if it was introduced under conditions equitable to both employer and laborer. HIS HONOR propose that no contract should be binding for more than one year, unless the cooly had been six months in the tea district. In answer to this we would submit that coolies are seldom recruited under the cost of Rs. 20 per head."

Then having that basis they went on to suggest the terms which they proposed—

"We would allow laborers to proceed to Cachar direct at their own cost if they choose, and, on the other hand, if their expenses are to be borne by the employer, they should contract with him for eighteen months at least, which, at the rate of bonus for time-expired men, ought nearly to repay the expenses of bringing them to the province. The time named is only six months more than His Honor mentions, and, it seems to us, would offer sufficient inducement for working on the free recruiting system."

So that, in the opinion of Messrs. Jardine, Skinner and Co., they only wished to extend the term of one year to eighteen months. But that, not improbably, this question of a difference of six months might be got over, was made apparent by another statement by which the expense of setting the coolie down in Cachar might be very materially reduced. Probably Rs. 10 would cover the whole operation. If that be so, then a contract for one year would quite sufficiently cover the expense. His Honor had before him a statement which showed the exact expense of conveying a coolie to Cachar:

Railway fare to Kooshtea	1	12	.3
Boat hire from Kooshtea to Cachar, from Rs. 2 to, at the outside	2	8	0
Food purchased on the way during twenty days' average passage, at As. 1-6 per day per man, when a number are travelling together	1	14	0
Total ...	6	2	3

So that, if we put out of the question the purchase-money now paid to the professional recruiter, Rs. 6-2-3 would cover the expense of transporting a coolie to Cachar. Throw in other incidental expenses, and the cost would probably be Rs. 10 per head. At that rate of expense a long term of contract would not be required to recoup the planter's expense.

With respect to another district nearer to Bengal, and also under the Labor Act, namely, Sylhet, he would read to the Council what the Magistrate had said, and it seemed to him conclusive from these remarks that Sylhet was not a district to which the Act should be applied:—

"The largest gardens are practically worked on the free recruiting principle, which the Lieutenant-Governor is so anxious not merely to extend but to legalize. Thus, for instance, the Lallee Cherra Tea Garden has no imported coolies. It has nearly 900 free coolies; and so with Malvi Cherra, Tillaghar, Cherragang, Lakartura, Darabhar, and Gamariah, but on a smaller scale. The principle adopted by the owners and managers of these tea gardens is this. They give out openly that they will have no "agreement" coolies, and that any cooly who chooses might come and settle in their gardens and take up their quarters in their cooly lines; that they may work as they please and when they please, and that they may go away when they please and return when they please. Now this system has worked remarkably well in Sylhet. Mr. Jennings, one of the pioneers of tea-planting in Sylhet, assures me that he will never have an "agreement" cooly again. Mr. Foly and Mr. Hudson tell me that they sometimes have a great many more coolies settled in their lines that they can possibly have work for."

That certainly was strong testimony to the system of free recruiting. If it was the reality—if it was believed by the Council—he could not conceive the Council continuing the existing system in Sylhet. Cachar was very close to Sylhet, and was separated by only an artificial boundary. If a free system was so good in Sylhet, it could hardly be very bad in Cachar.

On the other hand, in Assam, the testimony was of an opposite character, and the opinion both of the Government officers and planters was that Assam was not yet prepared for a system of free recruiting. The parts of Assam in which tea gardens existed were much further removed than were Cachar and Sylhet. The means of communication were infinitely more difficult, and it was impossible to get coolies up to Assam without a very large expense. His Honor was doing all he could to improve the means of communication to Assam; but in the meantime communication was undoubtedly difficult and expensive. Having regard, then, not only to the expenses incurred by the planters, but to the protection and welfare of the coolies on isolated gardens, far from Magistrates and Protectors, it would not, he feared, be feasible to work a system of free recruiting in Assam at present. As regards Assam, there was an opinion with regard to the proposal for free recruiting to which His Honor would refer. The writer of the letter (Mr. Langlois) said "there was no use of mincing words in such an important matter," and he certainly kept his word. He says:

"You would force upon your managers the painful necessity of taking the law into their own hands to protect your interests. The position of your coolies at your gardens would become one far from enviable. The Civil Courts can afford us no relief. It is ludicrous to think of summoning a coolie for breach of contract. Bear in mind that these men do not benefit one pice of the money paid by you to your recruiters."

That last was the saddest part of Mr. Langlois' statement. The recruiters put the money into their own pockets and persuaded the coolies to go; but the coolie did not get a pice. The time had not come to get rid of the recruiters as regards Assam. But His Honor was, he ventured to say, still inclined to think that the time had come to introduce a free system in Cachar and Sylhet; at any rate, the time had come when it was incumbent on the Council very seriously to consider the subject.

The course he suggested was this, that if the Council thought proper to take into consideration the Bill in the form recommended by the Select Committee, we should not proceed further that day, but should adjourn the Council to that day week. In the meantime it would be open to any members to submit any further amendment they wished to propose. He thought it would be not unlikely that the Government might propose tentatively, with a view to consideration by the Council and the public, some amendments which they might deem worthy of consideration; and his view would be, that having received any amendments which might be submitted to the Council at their meeting next week, and having discussed them so far as the Council was disposed to discuss them, we should abandon the further consideration of the Bill till after the long vacation. In the meantime, we should formally consult the officers in charge of the districts, and the planters and employers of laborers—those interested in the question—and, as far as might be, the coolies themselves. It was hoped that a great deal of evidence would be forthcoming within the next two months, and the Council would then be in a position to judge of the course it was desirable to follow. In the meantime, also, we would try to learn from the Government of India what was the probable course of events in regard to these labor districts, and in regard to the Bill now before the Council of the Governor-General. His suggestion was, that after we had heard what any hon'ble member might say to-day, we should adjourn the further consideration of the Bill.

THE HON'BLE MR. ROBINSON said he had only one remark to make on the subject of free recruiting. He felt very strongly convinced, that there had been some misapprehension as to what the proposal really was, from the manner in which the question was put. It so happened that he was present at a conversation between Mr. Wordie of the firm of Messrs. Jardine, Skinner and Co., and Mr. Struthers of Messrs. Borradaile, Schiller and Co. Both those gentlemen had no idea whatever that the proposal contemplated going so far as removing restrictions from the coolie after his arrival in the gardens. They were both clear on the subject that so far as removing restrictions to emigration was concerned, they entirely agreed. But they were not in the least prepared to remove the existing restrictions upon the coolie when he was working in the gardens. And MR. ROBINSON most certainly hoped that before the question was entered into, some steps might be taken to elicit what the opinions of these gentlemen were; otherwise the Council would only be working in the dark, and would add to the difficulties surrounding the subject.

The motion was then agreed to.

The further consideration of the Bill was postponed.

ROAD COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE WESTERN TO THE NORTH-EASTERN DISTRICTS OF BENGAL.

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 1st September 1873.

READ—

Lieutenant-Governor's note of the 27th August 1873, on the subject of facilitating passenger traffic from the districts west of Purneah and Bhaugulpore, as far as the commencement of the Assam Grand Trunk Road, opposite Dhoobree on the Berhampooter.

Read also—

Mr. Stevens' (Engineer, Durbhanga Estate,) letter of the 21st August 1873.

The Government of India will be requested to allow this Government, with reference to paragraph 3 of the note, to depute a civil officer to inquire into the lines of traffic between the western and eastern districts of Bengal; and the Public Works Department will be requested to select a good engineer officer to examine and survey the ground. The Commissioner of Cooch Behar will report on the subject of a steam ferry over the Berhampooter.

NOTE.

IN all the notices of the movements of the population, which the local administration reports now contain, there is evidence of the continual tendency of labor to flow from the western districts to the north-eastern districts of Bengal. It is clear that a large influx of western labor reaches Rungpore, Dinagepore, Bograh, and Cooch Behar, from the Hindustanee districts of the Patna Division, and from the aboriginal districts of Chota Nagpore, &c., and to some extent from Nepal. The reports from Purneah, Julpigoree, Dinagepore, &c., make mention of large streams of laborers passing through every year from west to east. Some of these people remain throughout the year in various kinds of service; more of them seem to come in the cold weather for a few months, and to go back again. A few find their way over the Berhampooter to the Mymensing district. We are told, for instance, that hundreds of Hindustanee bearers come th[illegible] every season. There are instances of small parties walking up into Assam, but they are comparatively rare; the emigration into Assam is at present for the most part confined to the transport of coolies by steamer from Goalundo, boat navigation to Upper Assam being very rare and difficult.

In this paper I shall put aside the more southerly stream of labor traffic from the western parts of the Burdwan Division, the southern parts of Chota Nagpore, and other parts of Southern Bengal, by Goalundo, and thence by boat to Sylhet and Cachar. I would also leave out here the plans for improving the steam navigation of the Berhampooter from Goalundo upwards; this is being separately dealt with. Also I leave out the route up the Assam Valley from its gates at Doobree by road or railway; that also is a separate matter.

What I would now consider is the means of facilitating the labor traffic from the west to the districts north of the Ganges, and if possible by facilitation I would extend eastwards the flow of this current. I am more and more convinced that one principal mode of avoiding the mortality, great expense, and other evils of the coolie transport to Assam, and promoting the population and cultivation of the latter province, is a free immigration of this kind.

The object here set forth must then be to facilitate passenger traffic from the districts west of Purneah and Bhaugulpore as far as the commencement of what is (by a fiction) called the Assam Grand Trunk Road opposite Doobree on the Berhampooter. The proposed new line of the Northern Bengal Railway will run at right angles to this current of passenger traffic, and will not much subserve it. But the branches to Dinagepore and Rungpore, thrown off from a common starting point, will form a continuous line between those two important places, and will be a considerable section of a west to east route.

It is material to observe that a passenger traffic, such as is the subject of the present note, is one of which the conditions are materially different from a goods traffic, and is more easily accommodated. Breaks and transhipments, if frequent, are fatal to a goods traffic, but passengers pack and unpack themselves with great facility. Hence large unbridged rivers affect them little if they are only such that ferry boats can easily ply, and not so large as to make the crossing very tedious and dangerous.

The traffic which I wish to promote seems principally to follow two main lines—that from the districts south of the Ganges to Maldah, Dinagepore, Bograh, and Rungpore, and that from the districts of Behar north of the Ganges and Nepal, by the northern portion of the Purneah district to Julpigoree, Cooch Behar, Rungpore, and Dinagepore. These two lines are connected by the Ganges and Darjeeling Road; so that a man from Patna or Gya, who comes down by rail to Bhaugulpore and Colgong, might travel up the road to Titalya and Julpigoree, and then to Cooch Behar, &c. This, however, is a long and roundabout route not generally taken. What is most wanted is to connect the East Indian Railway line with Dinagepore, and North Behar with the North Bengal districts.

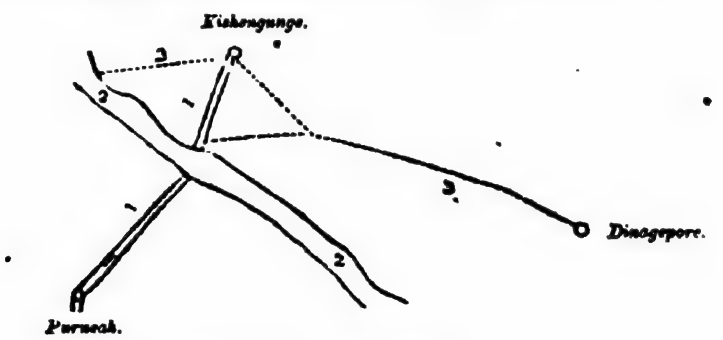
For the former connection two alternative routes seem to present themselves. The one would be to follow the Ganges-Darjeeling Road from Caragolah by Purneah to the Mahanuddee crossing (a tramway might well be put on this portion of that road), and thence by a new or improved road to Dinagepore. The other would follow the railway to Rajmehal, and thence cross by the Maldah district, and so to Dinagepore.

The northern line is probably the most important of the two. The great surplus population of Sarun and Tirhoot seems to be one which is very ready to migrate, especially since so much land is now taken into the direct possession of indigo-planters. There are tolerable roads in Tirhoot, and Durbungah may be taken as the main point of departure for the east. Thence I believe a road to Purneah would not be very difficult; or we might take a more northerly line through the Madheypore sub-division of Tirhoot and Soopool sub-division of Bhaugulpore, and might thus connect with Kishengunge the northern sub-division of Purneah on the Ganges-Darjeeling Road. A good deal would depend on the best place for crossing the Koosee. From Kishengunge we might follow the road to near Titalya and thence to Julpigoree (the Titalya-Julpigoree Road being improved). From Julpigoree a road runs through Cooch Behar to Doobree on the Berhampooter. The Cooch Behar Raj has already done much to this road, and I have urged the Commissioner to do more. We should complete properly our portion of this road. Still much of this traffic might seek a more southerly route to Dinagepore, Rungpore, and Bograh, and if so, a road from Kishengunge to Dinagepore would be wanted. One road with two short branches might lead from Purneah by the Mahanuddee Ferry (where there may some day be a bridge) on one side, and from Kishengunge on the other to Dinagpore; thus—



1 1 Ganges and Darjeeling Road.
2 2 Mahanuddee River.
3 3 Proposed Roads.

The crossing of the Berhampooter is very difficult, and the churs, islands, and changes of the stream render it very long and tedious. No good and easy crossing can be got unless we follow the right bank all the way up to Goalpara, at least, through a very jungly country. (Major Lindsay's trial survey has shown this.) A steam ferry over the Berhampooter is a very crying necessity. For this purpose it would be desirable to gather together and unite, if possible, the Dinagepore-Rungpore line of traffic and the Julpigoree-Cooch Behar line (so far as each stream may go on towards Assam), and taking them together to land them on the other side. The nearest point of the Berhampooter to Rungpore is Bugwah, considerably below Doobree; but it strikes me that if instead of this line the Rungpore-Cooch Behar Road were followed from Rungpore to the crossing of the Dhurlah, and thence a line were taken something like that surveyed by Major Lindsay on his trial towards Assam (which was only unfavorable for a railway in respect of heavy river crossings), a road might be made to meet the Cooch Behar-Doobree road, and so the two lines would be united at Doobree or some such place, where a steam ferry would cross the passengers.

Although the above is grounded on a good deal of personal inquiry, and a study of the map, much of it is necessarily conjectural. I think a systematic study of the subject and a rough survey should be made. I would go about this much as we went about the North Bengal survey last year—a civil officer being deputed to inquire into the lines of traffic, and an engineer officer to examine and survey the ground. Of course a very much rougher survey than a railway survey would be required. We only want to prospect for roads which may be made fit for ordinary native passenger traffic—I may say for foot and horse traffic at all seasons, and for carts in fine weather only. The bridging of ferryable rivers need not be attempted. The Public Works Department should be requested to select a good man for the duty. Major Lindsay's trial survey will be placed at his disposal. The Government of India will be asked to allow us to depute for two or three months a good civil officer, of grade not higher than a Magistrate-Collector, and probably lower; an acting man being put in his place. These officers should commence work as soon as the season will permit.

I have, just as I conclude writing this, received a very valuable note by Mr. Stevens, Engineer of the Durbungah Estate, who knows thoroughly the country east of the Koosee and will so far give all the requisite information and assistance.

G. CAMPBELL.

RESOLUTION ON THE ASSAM GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR 1872-73.

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 8th September 1873.

READ—

The General Administration Report of the Province of Assam for the year 1872-73.

The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the report would have been more convenient for the purposes of Government, if it had embraced the province as a whole, distinguishing features of its separate parts where they are distinguishing, and had not so much reproduced the separate accounts of each district, and even of each sub-division on every subject. The report contains no doubt very much useful information, and very valuable remarks of the Commissioner, but it is only by gleaning and collating that full use can be made of it.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that most of the officers went much about their districts. He notices with approbation the remark of one officer that he "strove to open, as it were, to the people during his tour a short cut to the ears of Government, without their being obliged to go through the usual tortuous ways of courts, petitions, and routine."

3. Happily the concurrent testimony of all seems to show that as a rule the indigenous population of Assam is, judged by an Indian standard, very well off. "The agriculturalists," says the Deputy Commissioner of Nowgong, "are really wonderfully well off." "Our ryots," declares the Commissioner, "are much better off and much more independent than any class of ryots in the permanently-settled districts." Labor is very well paid, food is not dear, and with great abundance of a productive soil, and a sparse population, the Assamese live in comparative comfort, without having to undergo any kind of severe toil. The Cacharees are the cream of the population, and are a very fine race indeed.

4. More than one opinion is given in this report that the general population of Assam is not increasing; and this seems to be the general belief. The cause of this (if it be a fact) is, however, not so apparent. One officer attributes it to the people being so well off, but he does not explain how this operates. Another attributes it to their opium-eating. But there is no reason to suppose that the Assamese have reached the advanced stage of civilization in which prudence deters from marriage and checks population; and it seems to be the case that though much opium is consumed, the practice is not carried to such an excess as to have a very ruinous effect on the general population. Though there has been a good deal of cholera in the past season, the general tendency of all the district accounts and of all the information which the Lieutenant-Governor has been able to gather from various sources, does not seem to indicate that the open and cultivated parts of Assam are specially unhealthy, and that the unhealthiness of the country would account for a complete stagnation or retrogression in population. In Assam, however, where there is a very good indigenous paid agency all over the province, and the system of annual settlements gives exceptional means of a knowledge of the country and the people, Government should be in possession of statistics fuller and better than elsewhere; and the Lieutenant-Governor will look both to a careful working of the specimen areas for vital statistics, as well as to the submission of good and careful returns for the districts generally, to obtain statistics of life which shall truly show the movements of the population, and make clear whether it is really so little progressive as is supposed.

But be that as it may, it cannot be expected that the spontaneous progress of population will be particularly rapid, or that the small existing population will multiply so fast as to fill the country speedily. His Honor thoroughly and entirely recognizes what has repeatedly been said, that the great want of the province is population. It seems to be quite beyond doubt that it once supported a much larger population. This decadence, the Lieutenant-Governor believes, is the result of anarchy and the want of protection against the many wild border tribes. A commencement has been made towards giving that protection. His Honor's hope is, that the measures designed will eventually give protection completely, and that if we can only open sufficient channels for population to flow in, it will flow in to fill the vacuum, and the province may be developed into a most wealthy and productive one. Already His Honor is glad to see that the immigrants begin to form permanent Bengali villages, and he hopes that this may increase. Still it is unfortunately the case that Assam is cut off from the rest of India by long distances and difficult routes. The districts of eastern Bengal to which it is nearest are those in which labor is dearest and population most wanted to gather the rich staples developing there, and for immigration from the districts where the population more presses on the means of subsistence we must have better means of communication before we can expect that it will be free and voluntary to any large extent.

5. The Brahmaputra, the splendid river of Assam, is unfortunately deficient in the means of navigation in an extreme degree, and boat traffic above Gowhatty is excessively scarce, while the steam service is very dilatory, and unhappily not unfrequently attended with great loss of life. What is undoubtedly most wanted is improved communication from the western districts by road, railway or improved steam services. This subject has been under the separate consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor, who has been endeavouring to do all he can to secure it, and it will be very prominently brought to the notice of the Government of India.

6. With respect to the immigrant laborers in the tea gardens, the Lieutenant-Governor has read with very great pleasure the Commissioner's account of the improvement in the state of things reported. "I visited," says Colonel Hopkinson, "a good many tea gardens, inspected the coolies, looked at their lines, and was much pleased with what I saw. The tea plantations were on a happier footing than they used to be in former years, as if the improvement in the financial prospects of tea cultivation had communicated itself to every part of the industry. The coolies looked happy, well, and contented, and for the most part appeared on excellent terms with their masters; these too, as if they had become more hopeful and more satisfied with their position, seemed to think more about making themselves comfortable; their houses were better kept, pains had been taken to attach good vegetable gardens to them, and here and there pretty flower gardens were making their appearance. Tea-planting certainly never appeared to me in so inviting an aspect before. I found the coolies fairly well lodged, and sanitary measures by no means neglected in their lines." The tea industry is now evidently prosperous, and cultivation is being steadily pushed on. The Commissioner reports that the working of the concerns is generally, so far as can be judged, carried on in a safe and prudent manner. It gives the Lieutenant-Governor much gratification to notice this success and progress, and the thorough establishment of tea-planting as no longer a speculation, but an honest industry. His Honor will only say that he could wish to see people cultivating their own gardens more largely and the ownership not so often passing into the hands of limited liability Companies. At present too many it is said, still strive to get up Companies.

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the new waste land rules will shortly be approved by the Government of India, and that every facility will be given for the fair acquisition, on fair terms, by speedy and clear process, of the lands required for bonâ fide tea-planting, while the land-jobbing and abuse which have been proved by experience to result from the adoption of too easy rules and an irregular practice are avoided. The laws regarding the recruitment and transport of laborers and the conditions under which they work out their contracts, are under the consideration of the Bengal Legislative Council. It is the Lieutenant-Governor's wish to give every liberty and freedom consistent with providing against abuse. The easy and cheap influx of labor is the last thing which His Honor would be disposed to check.

7. His Honor trusts that cinchona also may be grown in Assam. The Deputy Commissioner of the Khasi and Jynteah Hills, whilst on a visit at Nunkhlow last September, noticed some very fine cinchona trees in the gardens; but these gardens have not been worked of late, and their cultivation is not extended.

The rubber trade is one that engages attention to develop the supply without waste and destruction.

Seeing how dear elephants are becoming, the great elephant resources of Assam also demand care. It may be hoped that the new regulation will enable Government to regulate without checking enterprise on the frontier.

As regards the produce of the plain country, the Lieutenant-Governor observes that oil-seeds seem to be the principal export, and it is a profitable and increasing trade which may be developed to any extent. The absence of a jute trade in a country where the soil and climate seem so favorable, is strange; but perhaps its absence is in a great measure to be accounted for by the absence of the labor required for its preparation. This, like many other things, can probably only be cured by immigration.

Cotton is already cultivated in the hills and the sub-montane tracts, and His Honor trusts that its growth may be very largely developed.

The Lieutenant-Governor is aware of the great mineral resources of Assam and of the excellent quality of its coal. The Khasi and Jynteah Hills, especially, excel perhaps any part of India in respect of minerals. If there were only some addition to the population so enterprising and energetic (female as well as male—perhaps more than male) we might expect to have not only flocks and cinchona, cotton and fruit-trees, but it is probable that the combination of the best coal, iron, and lime in one place, together with an iron-working population, might make these hills the best manufacturing district in India. The newly annexed tract of the Garo Hills may possibly much extend the field for such industries.

The Lieutenant-Governor notices that in pursuance of his previous instruction a tree nursery and orchard have been established at Shillong, for which a tract of land about 1,500 acres in quantity has been taken up close to the station. A supply of Scotch fir, silver fir, larch and ash seeds obtained from the Botanical Gardens were sown there, but never germinated. It is to be hoped that Colonel Bivar will persevere and be more successful with another supply of seeds this year.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the public press is in a fair state of development in Assam for so remote a province. There are three local newspapers, two at Seebsaugor and one in Gowhatty. The Commissioner speaks favorably of the tone of the press which, so far as it has any influence is said to exercise a beneficial one rather than otherwise.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor believes there is a great deal of truth in the statement put forward by the Deputy Commissioner of Kamroop that in Assam a too strict adherence to the principles laid down in Hindoo law leads to grave injustice sometimes at the hands of foreign Moonsiffs who are unacquainted with the local usages of the province. "There are many particulars," writes Colonel Lamb, "connected with the social condition of the Assamese altogether dissimilar to the provisions of the Hindoo and Mahomedan law; and as regards the aboriginal tribes settled in the province, although some of them have been admitted within a modified Hindooism, yet they still continue to be governed by their own social observances. It would, therefore, occasionally cause grave injustice to administer a rigorous Hindoo law among the people of Assam. "I may mention," he says, "as an instance that the custom of divorce is quite unknown to Hindoo law, although nothing is more common among the Hindoo population of the province. Besides the subject of divorce, there are numerous others connected with marriage, inheritance and other usages, in which a knowledge of the habits and customs of the people is very conducive to the satisfactory discharge of both civil and criminal work, and it is, therefore, very desirable that a greater number of young men of the country should be induced to qualify themselves for employment in the administration of justice." All this is quite true, and the Lieutenant-Governor has noticed the same thing in several other parts of India. His Honor has no doubt that much evil must result if Bengalee lawyers introduce their own Hindoo law into a province where local custom has much varied it; and now that judicial officers in Assam have been separated from those in Bengal, he trusts that every effort will be used to correct this tendency, and to get capable people of the country acquainted with the indigenous laws and customs. In the same sense writes Mr. Carnegy, the sub-divisional officer of Jorehaut: "When exercising Moonsiff's powers, I found that nearly all the disputes leading to cases, except tradesmen's suits brought for goods sold, had been previously brought before a 'salis' for settlement, and that my Court was in reality used as a Court of appeal from the decision given there by those dissatisfied with the justice meted out to them. I generally took the trouble to find out what decision the 'salis' had come to, and almost invariably found it to have been one essentially just, though not always legal according to our ideas." The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that every encouragement will be given to this system of arbitration. The supply of judicial officers no doubt creates the demand for litigation to a very considerable extent. This is generally the case, and must be so; but His Honor trusts that in Assam the Courts will not encourage anything which tends to the obliteration of an indigenous agency and of indigenous customs having the force of law.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor has great pleasure in recognizing, from a revenue point of view, the great success which has attended the Commissioner's exertions in working out the land revenue system in Assam. At the same time, although the revenue is very punctually collected, in the last year or two it appears that this revenue does not advance, or rather, that it is slightly less, and in the three upper districts of Assam is considerably less. It appears also from the excessive number of annual resignations of ryots' holdings, from the almost universal refusal to take 10 years' leases, and from other indications, that the assessment is now so high that no margin of value is given to the land. It is said, that the ryots are induced to go away and settle in tea gardens, this, though a loss to the revenue, is not a loss to the country; but tea planters can and do attract immigrants from outside, and His Honor would not like to believe that the estates are cultivated at the expense of the ordinary cultivation of the province, when the province is already so wanting in population and cultivation. The Commissioner's attention has been separately called to these questions which are of the first importance to the province.

11. A great impulse is reported from all the districts to have been given to education during the year, and primary schools have been started everywhere. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that education will be pushed on rapidly, especially now that it is to be given in the language of the people—a measure which certainly seems to be very popular. It is noteworthy that in Assam, as in several other parts of the country, the education committees have shown more interest than the committees in other departments.

12. The condition of the principal road in Assam—called the Trunk Road—is described as very unequal in different parts of its course. Government has endeavoured to make this road throughout a post-road, and in places has improved it for local purposes; but nothing more can be done until the Government has at its command very large funds for the construction either of a very great and expensive road or a railway; and His Honor thinks that we must perhaps now wait for the latter as cheaper in proportion. On the other hand, as regards local roads, the state of things seems to be by no means so bad as it might be. The Commissioner, in his visit to Durrung, found the roads in excellent condition, and the Seebsaugor and Nowgong roads have shown signs of much improvement. Of the latter district, the Deputy Commissioner records that the general state of communication throughout the district is "certainly matter for congratulation." With the aid of the very liberal grants which the Lieutenant-Governor has lately made to assist the construction and repairs of such roads, Assam ought soon to be pretty well off in this respect. Attention must be given to the improvement of the Luckhimpore roads, which are perhaps the worst in the province. Liberal grants have been made for them.

The Lieutenant-Governor cannot agree with the conclusion of the Commissioner of Assam and his district officers that the road committees are of no practical use. It is clear that the planters must be much interested in the roads. A committee of planters and mouzadars might at least meet at the most convenient season to make a fair distribution of the funds. Often a little money will be best utilized by a member of a committee interested in a road; and it appears quite evident from what Major Lance has written, as well as from other parts of the report, that the planters are willing to assist by money contributions and supervision any efforts of Government in this direction. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the Commissioner's proposal for allowing the mouzadars trifling sums to keep village roads in repair is a very good one.

13. The political administration of Assam is the subject of a separate report and orders, and the relations of the British Government with frontier tribes, and the explorations of country on our borders, though they have occupied much of the Lieutenant-Governor's attention during the year, will not be discussed in this place.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his special thanks to the Commissioner, Colonel Hopkinson, for his able and in-seeing supervision of the province, and very fully acknowledges his sense of what Assam owes to the Commissioner for his long and successful administration.

APPEALS PREFERRED TO HER MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

No. $\frac{3}{1}\frac{1}{1}\frac{1}{3}$, dated Simla, the 19th August 1873.
Endorsed by—The Government of India, Home Department.

COPY forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal for information.

Dated Council Office, Whitehall, London, the 1st July 1873.

From—H. REEVE, ESQ., Registrar, Privy Council,
To—A. C. LYALL, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I AM directed by the Lord President of the Council to transmit to you, for the information of His Excellency the Governor-General of India, six copies of an order of Her Majesty in Council of the 26th June 1873, requiring parties appellant in causes pending before Her Majesty to take effectual steps to set down their cases for hearing within a limited time from the registration of the appeal in England, and I am to request that you will move His Excellency to take the necessary steps to bring this order to the knowledge of parties prosecuting appeals to Her Majesty in Council, and of the public in India.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR CASTLE.

The 26th day of June 1873.

PRESENT:

THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS in many appeals now pending before Her Majesty in Council no effectual steps have been taken by the parties or their agents to set down their cases for hearing, although more than twelve months have elapsed since the arrival and registration of the transcript of appeal in this country, and it is expedient to make further provision in that behalf, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, and upon a recommendation of the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the solicitors or agents for the party appellant in all such appeals now pending before Her Majesty in Council are hereby required to take effectual steps to set down their cases for hearing within six months from the date of this order, and in all other appeals to Her Majesty in Council within a period not exceeding twelve months from the date of the arrival and registration of the transcript in this country.

And Her Majesty is further pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that it shall be the duty of the Registrar of the Privy Council to report to the Lords of the Judicial Committee the names of the parties and dates of the decrees in appeals in which no effectual steps have been taken within the aforesaid periods of time to set down the case for hearing; and the Lords of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council shall be at liberty to call upon the appellant or his agent in such cases to show cause why the said appeal or appeals should not be dismissed for non-prosecution, and (if they shall so think fit) to recommend to Her Majesty the dismissal of any such appeal, or to give such directions therein as the justice of the case may require.

And Her Majesty is further pleased to order that nothing in the present order shall prevent the dismissal of an appeal under the 5th of the rules approved by Her Majesty on the 13th of June 1853, in cases to which that rule is applicable.

Whereof the Governors of Her Majesty's plantations and dominions abroad, and the Judges or Officers of Her Majesty's Courts of Justice from which an appeal lies to Her Majesty in Council, and all other persons whom it may concern, are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 6th September 1873.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
BENGAL.
	Western Districts.	1873.
Burdwan Division. 1	Burdwan ...	Sept. 9th*	1·15	Weather cloudy and close. No rain in the south-east. Heavy rain in the west.	Aus paddy being cut. Prospects of amun paddy good, but more rain wanted.	Public health good in the north and west. Bad in the Sudder and Jehanabad sub-division.
2	Bancoorah ...	„ 6th	1·19	Showery .	Generally good.
3	Beerbhoom ...	„ 6th	1·64	Showery ...	The prospects of the crops throughout the district are generally good.
4	Midnapore ...	„ 6th	0·93	Seasonable and much cooler.	Favorable. Aus crop, which is just ready for cutting, reported to be very good. It is about $\frac{1}{16}$th of the whole crop in this district.
5	Hooghly ..	„ 6th	1·50	Clear and cloudy, very little rain.	Rain much wanted in some parts for the amun crop, otherwise the crops are doing well.
	Howrah ..	„ 6th	2·26	There was rain more or less every day throughout the district.	Transplantation of amun paddy seedling is still going on in some places. The ryots have commenced reaping the aus rice crop and to cut jute.
	Central Districts.
Presidency Division. 6	24-Pergunnahs ...	„ 9th*	3·24	Weather close and showery with heavy rain on Saturday.	The jute is being cut, but the crop is not quite so good as that of the past two years; the aus is being cut at Baraset, Bareepore, and Baseerhaut. Transplantation of amun going on.	A good deal of ordinary fever prevails in the district.
7	Nuddea ...	„ 6th	1·34	Seasonable; there has been a slight deficiency of rain till 4th and 5th instant.	The aus (which has been partly cut) is likely to give a fair out-turn on the whole. Amun dhan also generally promises well. Chillies, sugarcane, &c., are doing well.
8	Jessore ..	„ 6th	2·08	Generally cloudy with seasonable showers.	The prospects of the rice crops continue promising.
Rajshahye Division. 9	Moorshedabad ...	„ 6th	2·57	Bright sunny days with occasional showers of rain. Abundant rain on the last two days.	Aus harvest has commenced; amun dhan is still extremely backward for want of rain. A fair out-turn of jute is expected.
10	Dinagepore ..	„ 6th	0·34	Very little rain has fallen, hot and steamy early in the week; the latter part cool and pleasant; there has apparently been heavy weather to south and east.	Rain much wanted in all parts of the district for the winter rice crops, which is certain to be a very short one.
11	Maldah ..	„ 6th	0·53	Cloudy and stormy with occasional drizzling almost daily.	The prospects of the crops are the same as last week.
12	Rajshahye ...	„ 6th	1·59	There has been very moderate rain throughout the district during the week.	The prospects of the Ropa dhan continue to be very bad owing to the absence of rain. Amun and aus are in a better condition than Ropa dhan, but rain is very much needed for all crops. Aus being reaped, teel and tobacco are now being sown.	A few cases of small-pox have been reported from Pooteah, Bagmara, and Baulleah stations. The fever near Nattore has almost entirely disappeared.
13	Rungpore ...	„ 6th	0·18	Hot and oppressive ...	The continued want of rain is affecting the crops injuriously; bad prospects in every direction.

* Telegram of the 9th September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
BENGAL.—(Contd.)
	Central Districts.—(Contd.)	1873.
Rajshahye Div. 14	Bograh ...	,, Sept. 6th	0·88	Weather much cooler; very little rain has fallen, much more is wanted.	Prospects of the amun crops not at all good. Transplantation continues. Most of the jute has been cut.
Rajshahye Div. 15	Pubna ...	,, 6th	1·29	Weather close, with occasional little showers of rain.	The jute crop is reported to be about ten annas of that cut last year, and the prospects of the rice crops are not favorable
Cooch Behar Division. 16	Darjeeling ...	,, 6th	3·20	Frequent heavy showers, thick mist, and very windy.	In the Terai the transplanting of the cold weather crops may be said to be completed. The early crops are being reaped. With the exception of the slight loss for the want of rain the crops in the hills and plains are prospering favorably.
Cooch Behar Division. 17	Julpigoree ...	,, 6th	6·94	Very regular rain; weather cool and pleasant.	Very favorable. Jute crop good, bhadoi dhan fair average crop. Weather all that could be desired for bymunti dhan.	Health of the district good.
Cooch Behar Division.	Cooch Behar ...	,, 6th	1·39	Showery ...	The season for planting out amun is nearly over. The prospects of the crop are good except in the south, where deficiency of rain has prevented the high lands being cultivated. Jute is being cut and is an average crop. Tobacco cultivation has begun.
	Eastern Districts.
Dacca Division. 18	Dacca ...	,, 9th*	3·13	Weather rainy with occasional sunshine.	Prospects of crops good ...	Public health good. Rivers rising.
Dacca Division. 19	Furreedpore ...	,, 6th	2·[illegible]	Cloudy and rainy with sunshines at intervals.	There has been a sudden fall of water in the rivers. The amun paddy is still in a fair state.
Dacca Division. 20	Backergunge ...	,, 6th	1·41	Rainy and damp with intervals of sunshine.	Good.
Dacca Division. 21	Mymensing ...	,, 6th	0·77	Weather showery with high winds, very little rain in any part of the district.	Indifferent. The harvest will not be more than moderately good at best.	Outbreak of cattle disease reported in the north of the district.
Dacca Division. 22	Sylhet ...	Aug. 30th	2·39	Very close	More rain wanted for the amun crop on high lands. Other crops promise well.
Dacca Division. 23	Cachar ...	,, 30th	1·56	Hot and sultry with slight rain.	From want of rain during the last week the crops are in some degree suffering. Tea operations fair.
Chittagong Division. 24	Chittagong ...	,, 30th	1·35	Showery	Aus being cut, amun nearly all transplanted.
Chittagong Division. 25	Noakhally ...	,, 30th	7·9	Rainy and cloudy ...	The gathering of aus dhan and the transplanting of amun dhan are not yet completed
Chittagong Division. 26	Tipperah ...	Sept, 6th	1·42	Hot and without wind till the last two days. Rainfall still scanty in the north.	At head-quarters very seasonable weather for the crops. But the want of rain in Brahmunberiah is a serious matter, and unless heavy rain falls immediately the damage will be great.
Chittagong Division. 27	Chittagong Hill Tracts	Aug. 30th	4·49	Heavy showers with hot sun alternating. The weather not unseasonable.	The aus paddy crop is in course of being gathered. The cotton crop is in flower. General agricultural prospects flourishing.	District fairly healthy.
Chittagong Division.	Hill Tipperah ...	,, 30th	2·45	Heavy rain during the latter part of the week accompanied by thunder and lightning. Weather cloudy and very warm.	Paddy still being transplanted. Prospects good.

* Telegram of the 9th September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
BEHAR.		1873.
PATNA DIVISION. 28	Patna ..	Sept. 9th*	0·63	Weather clear and fine and does not show signs of more rain.	The small amount of rain which has fallen has done some good, inasmuch as it keeps the crops alive, but much more is wanted.	The number of cholera cases has decreased in Behar and the health of the people in the rest of the district is generally good.
29	Gya ...	„ 6th	0·92	Fine and close ...	Bhadoi crops are being harvested and the prospects of paddy continue good.
30	Shahabad ...	„ 6th	0·12	Cloudy with strong east wind and showery. From present appearance rain may be expected.	Murwa being cut. Aughany rice promising; rain generally required.	Cholera disappearing.
31	Tirhoot ...	„ 6th	0·37	Cloudy and easterly wind prevailing.	An average bhadoi crop is anticipated throughout the district. There is still a want of rain for the rice crop which will suffer much if more and copious rain does not come down at once. In some parts of the north of the district the transplanting of dhan has not yet finished. The worst reports come from Madhubany sub-division, where prospects of rice harvest are looking gloomy.	Cholera still prevailing more than usual.
32	Sarun ...	„ 6th	0·09	Seasonable. Prevailing wind east.	In some of the factories manufacture of indigo (second cutting) has commenced. Paddy in the high lands is being dried up for want of rain. More rain required for the crops.	Cholera decreasing.
33	Chumparun	„ 6th	Nil	Hot and cloudy, easterly wind prevailing.	The prospects of the crop in general are fair, but more rain is required.	Cholera continues in the south of the district.
BHAUGULPORE DIVISION. 34	Monghyr ...	„ 6th	2·	Seasonable	The Bhadoi crop is being cut, though late it is quite up to the average. In the Jumui sub-division, the crop is the best they have had for three years, and that of Begoosarai excellent. Indigo out-turn however is not good.
35	Bhaugulpore ..	„ 9th*	2·55	Fine and cool, but little rain; easterly wind.	A great deal of rain still wanted for aughany rice crop, which is very backward and not half transplanted even yet.	General health good; but fever as usual at this season is appearing in the north of the Ganges.
36	Purneah ...	„ 6th	0·70	Up to last night very hot and sunny.	The aughany, which has been transplanted, has been scorched up Heavy rain on the 6th which may do good.
37	Sonthal Pergunnahs ...	„ 6th	2·54	More rain wanted in the sub-divisions. About Doomka there is constant rain, sometimes heavy with heavy clouds everywhere.	Generally good. More rain wanted in Rajmehal, Godda, and Jamtara. Rains said to be very heavy on the Doomka damain.

* Telegram of the 9th September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District	Date of return from each district	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks
ORISSA.		1873.
Orissa Division. 38	Cuttack ..	Sept. 9th*	3·30	Weather generally cool and cloudy with light rains	Prospects of all crops good ...	Public health good.
39	Pooree ...	Aug. 30th	1·82	Hot with moderate rain. Khoordah rainfall ... 3·57	Weeding and transplanting were finished in the pergunnahs Kotrahang, Lembai, Oldhar Purbodnai and others. Transplanting is going on in the Sarud fields of Kothdeo, Serai, and others. The young sarud plants of certain villages of pergunnahs Rahang, Chowbiskood, Malood and others are suffering from want of water. No preparation for cultivation of high lands in Killah Parikud has yet been made for want of water Beali crop seems thriving in Pergunnahs Serai, Lembai, Kotrahang, and others. All other cold weather crops are generally promising Khordah sub-division. In Dandimal and other places the crops are promising, in some parts of Banpur, especially those places that are lying on the borders of Chilka and in the high lands of Pauchgur and Manikgoda, are backward for lack of sufficient water.
40	Balasore ...	Sept. 6th	3·07	Heavy rain	Very favorable.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-West Frontier Agency.
41	Hazareebaugh ...	„ 6th	2·27	During the early part of the week the weather was very dry and sultry, stormy towards the latter end.	The crops are so far in a critical state, that if the rains close early the rice crop, which was sown late and transplanted late, will suffer greatly The rainfall has already exceeded the average annual fall; the bhadoi crop must be very poor. The rice though backward is looking well.
42	Lohardugga ..	„ 6th	4·03	Seasonable ..	Prospects generally continue very favorable. The goondli crop is being cut, and other crops all promise well.
43	Singbhoom ...	Aug 30th	0·23	No rain to speak of during the week. Most of the days sunny and hot.	Very favorable, but the rains are now holding off rather too late.	Cholera decreasing everywhere. Only a few cases lately
44	Maunbhoom ...	Sept. 6th	1·55	Showery and cool.	All crops on the ground now promise well; transplanting operations have now been completed.	Cholera on the decrease.
ASSAM AND ADJACENT HILLS.
45	Goalparah ...	Aug. 30th	·44	Whole week was very hot and sultry with occasional slight showers of rain. Atmosphere close and heavy.	No change in the state of crops is perceptible; winter rice thriving and other crops doing well.
46	Kamroop ..	Sept. 8th†	2·03	The weather was cool and fine; occasionally very heavy rains.	Shalee dhan, cotton, tea, and sugarcane crops thriving.	Public health good
47	Durrung ...	Aug. 30th	0·21	Hot, frequent fogs in the mornings, little breeze	Dhan planting checked owing to scarcity of rain. Tea plants and sugarcane suffering from same cause. Vegetation suffering from want of rain.	Fever and bowel complaint prevalent.

* Telegram of the 9th September received on the same day Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.
† Telegram of the 8th September received on the 9th. Shows the rainfall during the seven days including the eight.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
ASSAM AND ADJACENT HILLS.—(Contd.)		1873.
48	Nowgong ...	Aug. 30th	0·95	During the past week the weather generally has been close and oppressive, a change for the better since the 29th. Rainfall still very scanty.	Rain wanted for the salee crops. Tea operations doing fairly.	No fresh cases of cattle murrain reported. And no fresh cases of cholera.
49	Seebsaugor ...	„ 30th	1·86	Fair sunny days with occasional showers at night.	Owing to want of rain the rice crop is suffering much. If good rain does not fall soon the crops in the subdivision of Jorehaut will be destroyed. Tea is also at a standstill for want of rain.
50	Luckimpore ...	„ 30th	0·92	The greater part of the week was unusually hot and oppressive. On Thursday evening a good deal of thunder, and lightning followed by rain.	Crops progressing satisfactorily; the aus is all cut. Salee rice all planted out.	Fever and bowel complaints exist to a slight extent all about the district.
51	Naga Hills ...	„ 23rd	1·25	Clear and fine, pretty cool all over the district, and has been all that could be wished for on account of the crops.	All the crops are looking well, and a fair outturn is expected.
52	Khasi & Jynteah Hills	„ 30th	1·02	Rain has fallen heavily throughout the hills, and is seasonable.	The crops are doing well, and promise fair for a good harvest.
53	Garo Hills ...	„ 30th	0·45	The weather has been fine during the week and rather hotter than usual.	Nothing much to remark about the crops, the warm weather is favorable to that part of the dhan crop which is backward. Near Dalbe the planting out of cold weather crop is proceeding with vigor.

NOTE.

Barometric Pressure.—The pressures in column 2 of the above table for all stations below 500 feet are reduced from those given in column 3 of the table on the previous page by adding the weight of a column of air of the temperatures given in column 17. For stations above 500 feet elevation the reduction is made by Dippe's tables as given in Guyot's "Meteorological and Physical Tables." The temperatures at the sea-level are taken from column 3 of the above table.

Temperature.—The temperatures in column 3 are reduced from those in column 17 on the preceding page by adding 1° Fahrenheit for every 450 feet.

Wind Resultant.—The resultant wind direction and its comparative predominance are calculated from the whole number of wind observations recorded during the month. The relative predominance in the direction of the resultant is given as a percentage of the whole number of observations. The direction is computed in the usual way by Lambert's formula.

Serenity.—This column gives the average proportion of unclouded sky; a cloudless sky being indicated by 10, and one completely overcast by 0.

The above being all comparable, afford the data for constructing a meteorological chart for the month, which shall show the isobaric and isothermal lines and the resultant wind directions, which last may be represented by arrows of varying length, proportioned to the prevalence of the wind. To these may be added the rainfall from the previous tables.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

RULES REGARDING AGE-CERTIFICATE OF CANDIDATES FOR THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE RE-PUBLISHED FOR GENERAL INFORMATION :—

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

EDUCATION.

Fort William, the 3rd July 1871.

READ letter No. 2893, dated the 10th ultimo, from the Government of India, in the Home Department, forwarding a set of rules regarding the age-certificates of candidates for the Indian Civil Service, and requesting their promulgation if His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor sees no objection.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to adopt the rules which, as applied to Bengal, are as under :—

1.—Candidates for admission to compete in England for the Indian Civil Service are required, before leaving India, to obtain a certificate of age signed by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department.

II.—In order to obtain a certificate, candidates are required to prove the date of their birth before the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate's family resides; or, if the family residence is in Calcutta, before the Magistrate of Police in either the Northern or Southern Division.

III.—Candidates will signify their desire to compete not less than three months before the date on which they propose to go to England to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department, who will then forward each application for the purpose of inquiry to the Magistrate to whose district it belongs.

IV.—The Magistrate will call upon the candidate to appear and give evidence of the date of his birth within one month. He will carefully examine into the value of the evidence given, and forward a summary of it, with certified copies of all documents tendered, and with his comments and opinion, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department.

V.—The documentary evidence which the candidates may be expected to produce comprises—

(a) The horoscope.
(b) Family books.
(c) Tradesmen's account books showing entries relating to the birth.
(d) The record of admission in the registers of the school in which the candidate was educated, and the record of the candidate's age at various periodical school examinations.
(e) If the candidate is matriculated, a certified copy of his application to the Registrar in form A.
(f) Oral testimony of persons acquainted with the candidate's family and others will also be taken, and the candidate is required to comply to the best of his power with any requisition the Magistrate may make in order to clear up any doubt as to the purport of the documentary proofs.

VI.—If the Secretary shall be satisfied by the papers submitted by the Magistrate that the candidate has stated the date of his birth correctly, he will issue a certificate declaring that the candidate has submitted the proofs of his birth to the Magistrate of the———— district, and has satisfied him that he was actually born on or about the date stated by him, viz. the————day of————18—.

VII.—If the Secretary finds reason to doubt that the candidate was born on the day asserted by him, the certificate will be refused, and the candidate will be unable to obtain admission to the competitive examination for the Indian Civil Service.

VIII.—Where the date of a birth has been formally registered in a register kept by any public officer, an extract from the register duly certified by the proper official shall be accepted as sufficient proof of the date of the birth.

IX.—Any declaration of age made after the application of these rules on occasion of seeking admission to any university examination, educational institution, or Government office, or otherwise recorded in a formal and deliberate manner, will be taken as conclusive evidence in disproof of the subsequent assertion by the same person that he is of a different age to that so declared or recorded.

3. The age-certificates are at present submitted to Government by the Director of Public Instruction. In future they will be submitted by the District Magistrates under the above-mentioned rules, but an opportunity will be given to the Director of Public Instruction to compare them with the school and college entry certificates of candidates.

Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of Divisions for communication to District Magistrates for their guidance.

Also that a copy be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction for information.

Also that a copy be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for communication to the Police Magistrates.

No. 2832.—Simla, the 3rd September 1873.—Notification.—Public.—Mr. H. R. Madocks, of the Bengal Civil Service, has been granted by Her Majesty's Secretary of State an extension of furlough for a period of three months.

The following orders, issued by the Government of India, Financial Department, are republished for general information :—

No. 2784.—Simla, the 4th September 1873.—Notifications.—Accounts.—The following Resolution is published for general information :—

Read—

The undermentioned papers relating to the issue of duplicates of lost Government Promissory Notes :—

Letter to the Accountant-General to the Government of India, No. 5241, dated 17th September 1858.

Financial Abstract Proceedings (Accounts), May 1873, No. $\frac{2}{1 \text{ and } 2}$

Letter from the Comptroller-General, No. 1394, dated 20th May 1873, and enclosures.

Letter to the Comptroller-General, No. 2804, dated 29th July 1873.

Letter from the Comptroller General, No. 3902, dated 14th August 1873, and enclosures.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor-General in Council observes that, at present, when the loss of a Government Promissory Note is reported, it is stopped in the loan and interest books of the Public Debt Office, and the applicant for a duplicate note is required to advertise the loss in three successive issues of the Gazette of India, as well as in the Government Gazette of the Province where he resides.

Should the note have been enfaced for payment of interest at any other Treasury than Calcutta, the loser is required to give the necessary information to the Treasury concerned, and two years after the date of the last advertisement of loss he has to apply to the Public Debt Office for a duplicate note.

Should the note alleged to be lost not be forthcoming, and the title of the claimant be fully proved, the Solicitor to Government is then instructed to prepare, in communication with the Standing Counsel, a bond of indemnity for execution by the owner and two sureties, the latter to be approved by the Solicitor to Government.

In case there is any doubt as to the title of the claimant, the case is submitted for the opinion of the Advocate-General.

On receipt of the bond of indemnity duly executed, the Comptroller-General gives the necessary orders to the Public Debt Office for the issue of a duplicate note.

His Excellency in Council does not wish to alter this procedure, saving to prescribe that in future, instead of giving final orders for the issue of a duplicate note, the Comptroller-General shall submit each case, with his opinion, for the orders of the Government of India.

As a general rule, duplicate notes will not be issued until ten years after the last correct advertisement of loss, but meanwhile, interest will be paid on the lost notes after the lapse of two years under a bond of indemnity.

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

NOTIFICATION.

The 8th September 1873.—The following additional rules for the guidance of officers in matters connected with the enforcement of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, have been sanctioned by the Governor-General of India in Council, and are published for general information, in conformity with Section 59 of the Act:—

Rule IX.—On the date on which payment of compensation in any case may become due under Section 41 of the Act, the Collector shall tender the amount to such of the persons entitled to receive it as may be present at his office in person or by agent duly authorized to receive the same. Should any such person be absent, and have no authorized agent at the Collector's Court, the Collector shall serve a notice upon him calling upon him to attend in person or by agent, within one week of his receipt of the notice, to receive the amount due to him, and warning him that on failure to appear, the money will be invested in Government securities, and that no interest will be allowed in excess of the interest payable on such securities. Should such person neglect to appear within the time specified, the Collector shall, on being satisfied of the due service of the notice, invest the amount of the compensation money due to such person in Government securities, and hold the same in deposit until the amount shall be applied for by the person entitled to it.

On the application of such person, the Collector shall make over the Government securities to him, or shall sell the securities and make over the amount realized to him, and at the same time pay to him any cash balance which has been too small for investment, together with interest on such balance calculated at four per cent.

The Collector shall follow the same course in regard to any compensation money which may be refused by a person entitled to receive it, provided that such investment shall be limited to even sums of Rs. 500 or multiples of Rs. 500. The amount of compensation, if less than Rs. 500, and any fractional parts, if the compensation is above that sum, shall be held by the Collector in deposit bearing interest at four per cent.

Rule X.—From and after the date of investment of compensation money under the last preceding rule, no interest on the amount so invested shall be allowed in addition to that due on the said securities.

Rule XI.—Similarly, when a Collector has referred a case to the Civil Court under Sections 15, 38, or 43 of the Act, he shall at once invest the amount of compensation awarded by him in Government securities. In all cases of reference under Section 38, and in cases of reference under Sections 15 or 43, in which the Collector's award shall be confirmed by the Court, no interest on the amount so invested shall be allowed in addition to that due on the investments. Whenever, in a case of reference under Sections 15 or 43, a higher sum than was awarded by the Collector shall be awarded by the Court, the Collector shall pay to the persons entitled to receive it the difference between the amount of interest which may have accumulated on the Government securities from the date of investment and the amount of interest calculated at six per cent. under Section 42 of the Act from the date of the taking possession of the land.

The following resolution, passed at an official meeting of the East Indian Railway, regarding a reduction in the carriage of rhea fibre, is published for general information :—

Office Memo. No. 1325G-R, dated Simla, the 31st July 1873.

From—LIEUT.-COL. K. C. PYE, Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of India, Public Works Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Dept. of Agriculture, Revenue, and Commerce.

THE undersigned is directed to forward for information the accompanying copy of Resolution No. 473, passed at the official meeting of the East Indian Railway, No. 30 of 1873, on the subject of a reduction in the rate of carriage of rhea fibre.

Extract from Official Meeting No. 30, East Indian Railway, held on the 19th June 1873.

SUBMITTED the following extract from minutes of Agency Meeting No. 24, held on 17th instant :—

"Submitted Traffic Manager's No. 4451 of 9th instant, and enclosures.

"Lieutenant-Colonel Thelwall, of Mussoorie, inquired of the Traffic Manager if the Railway Company would be prepared to convey rhea fibre, when pressed, at the same rates as jute, hemp, &c., viz. 1st class, and stated that the manufacturers in England at present would only purchase the fibre in large quantities when in a very raw state, and that the fibre is therefore prepared of three qualities, the lowest being worth from £10 to £14 per ton in London, the second quality being worth from £15 to £20 per ton, and the first from £25 to £30 per ton, but that the second and third qualities are most in demand and produced at present. Further, that the expenses of cultivating and manufacturing, &c., &c., are very heavy, and unless the planters can secure their produce being carried to the seaports at a rate which will leave them some margin for profit, it would be useless their extending the cultivation on a large scale; that the produce of this fibre in the North-Western Provinces might be unlimited, should it be proved that it can be produced as a remunerative crop, the great obstacle now existing to its extensive development being the high rates of railway freight now ruling. The Traffic Manager replied that he did not see his way at present to recommend the Agency to reduce the rate as requested; that the article was admittedly a valuable one, and the higher class fibres could easily bear the higher rates; that it does not give the Company a full load for their wagons in weight; that he would be glad to do all he could to encourage a remunerative traffic, but that the amount the Company would earn at the reduced rate would not be sufficient to warrant the reduction; that after hearing again from Colonel Thelwall he would be glad to refer the matter to the Agency if he wished it, but that he could not recommend them to agree to his proposal or to bind the Company to so low a rate until something more was known of the traffic.

"Colonel Twelwall explained that the rhea was pressed into bales of 320lb each, covered with gunny and fastened with iron ties; that 7 bales go to the ton; and that the area occupied by a ton would be from 52 to 56 cubic feet; that the fibre in a rough state is what the London firms require, and that the high rate of freight at present is one of the great difficulties; that in a few years the cultivation of rhea will probably increase to an enormous extent if proper encouragement is given to induce its extension.

"The Traffic Manager of the Delhi Railway, to whom a similar representation was made by Colonel Thelwall, agreed with Mr. Batchelor that an alteration of rate at present was not desirable.

"At Colonel Thelwall's desire the matter has been placed before the Agency for decision.

"In the Agency's opinion rhea screwed to 8 feet per bale of 320lb may fairly be called fully screwed, and would give a full load.

"As regards value, it is sold by 'ton' and not per 'lb,' and the lowest quality is not much above jute, less than one-fourth that of cotton."

"No. 2377.—Resolved, that as this is a new trade which requires development, and as its conveyance will extend over the entire length of the line, the Agency are prepared to reduce to 1st class all rhea fibre screwed to 8 feet per bale of 300lb, but would let half-screwed bales stand as at present, viz. 2nd class."

With reference to Resolution No. 474 of Official Meeting No. 35 of 1872—

473.—Resolved, that the Resolution of the Agency be recorded, the reduced rate to take effect from 1st August next.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

JUDICIAL.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

THE Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that the accompanying notification regarding the duties imposed by law upon landowners and others, and upon the public generally, with reference to giving information of offences, the consorting of bad characters, and other matters of a like character, be translated into the vernaculars and circulated widely for the guidance of those concerned.

2. A copy of the notification will be given to all considerable landholders and their agents. It will, when possible, be delivered by the police at the residence of the landholder, and a receipt be taken for it; otherwise it will be handed over by the towjih nuvis to the agent of each landholder when paying in revenue or zemindari dâk tax, a receipt being taken as above directed. The district officers will determine how best to give effect to this order.

3. Copies will be affixed and renewed from time to time in some conspicuous place in each village of Bengal. The report of such proclamation having been made, shall be signed by the local representative of the zemindar and some of the principal men of the village. The report should also certify that the notification has been read in the presence of the village chowkidar or chowkidars. This will not exempt police officers in charge of stations from fully and regularly explaining their duty in connection with crime to chowkidars when they visit the stations.

4. Copies will also be supplied to the managers of estates under the Court of Wards, who will be responsible for communicating them to their subordinates.

5. It will rest with Magistrates now to enforce the provisions of the law. If this is done vigorously in one or two cases, the Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt a great improvement will follow in the working of the district police.

A. MACKENZIE,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT

JUDICIAL.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

THE following provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure set forth the duty of landholders, village police, and others, in the matter of aiding the Magistrate and Police by giving early information respecting the commission of crime and co-operating in the apprehension of criminals.

2. By Section 89 of the Code of Criminal Procedure every person aware of the commission of any offence made punishable under the sections of the Indian Penal Code mentioned in the accompanying schedule is bound to give information of the same to the nearest police officer or Magistrate.

Sections 89 and 91 refer to all persons.

3. By Section 91 every person is bound to assist a Magistrate or police officer demanding his aid in the prevention of a breach of the peace, or in the suppression of a riot or an affray, or in the taking of any other person whom such Magistrate or police officer is authorized to arrest.

Section 90 refers specially to landlords, village police, and others holding cognate positions.

4. By Section 90 every village headman, village watchman, owner or occupier of land, or the agent of any such owner or occupier, and every native officer employed in the collection of revenue or rent of land on the part of Government or the Court of Wards, is (in addition to the obligations imposed on him by Sections 89 and 91) bound forthwith to communicate to the nearest Magistrate, or to the officer in charge of the nearest police station, any information which he may obtain respecting—

(b) the resort to any place within the limits of such village of any person or persons known or reasonably suspected of being a thug or robber;

(c) the commission or intention to commit suttee or other non-bailable offence at or near such village;

(d) the occurrence of any sudden or unnatural death.

5. Besides those set out in the schedule attached to this notification, the principal non-bailable offences in regard to which the persons described in paragraph 4 above are specially bound to give information are the following:—

Penal Code Sections.

Sections 194 and 195.—Giving or fabricating false evidence in order to get any person convicted of a capital offence or of an offence punishable with transportation or imprisonment for more than seven years.

Section 226.—Unlawful return from transportation.

Sections 231 to 254.—All offences connected with counterfeit coin.

Section 307.—Attempt to murder.

Sections 313 to 316.—Causing miscarriage or abortion without the woman's consent or when death ensues.

Sections 326 to 329.—Causing grievous hurt by dangerous means for purposes of extortion, and administering stupefying drugs in order to cause hurt.

Sections 331 to 333.—Causing grievous hurt to extort confession, or to deter a public servant from his duty.

Sections 363 to 369 and 371-373.—Kidnapping, dealing in slaves, selling and buying children for purposes of prostitution.

Sections 376 and 377.—Rape and unnatural offences.

Sections 379 to 382.—Theft.

Sections 386 to 389.—Extortion by putting in fear of death or grievous hurt, or by threat of accusing of heinous crime.

Sections 400 and 401.—Association of persons for habitual dacoity or theft.

Sections 411 to 414.—Receiving, dealing in, or concealing stolen property.

Sections 466 to 468. } Forgery of records, wills, and such like, or of Govern-„ 471 „ 477. } ment notes, counterfeiting seals, dies, plates, &c.

Section 505.—Circulating false statements to cause mutiny or breach of the public peace.

Offences under Special Laws.

N.B.—All offences under special laws, when punishable with three years' imprisonment or upwards, are not bailable. Hence information must be given of the following offences:—

Act XXXI of 1860, Sections 2, 18, 23.—Unlicensed manufacture of cannon and unlicensed importation or transportation of arms or military stores.

Act XIV of 1866, Section 48.—Theft, destruction, or secretion by a Post office employé of any article sent by post, or the abetment of such an offence.

Act XVIII of 1854, Section 25.—Any wilful act or omission endangering the safety of railway passengers.

6. Neglect of the duties imposed by the above quoted sections (89, 90, and 91 of the Criminal Procedure Code), i.e., intentionally omitting to give the information or assistance prescribed, is punishable under several sections of the Indian Penal Code by sentences varying in severity with the precise nature of the neglect involved: but the punishment may in certain cases amount to six months' rigorous imprisonment or fine unlimited, or both. (Sections 176, 187, 202 of the Penal Code.) The punishment for giving false information is still more severe.

7. Owners or occupiers of, and persons interested in land, are liable to special penalties for failing to give information of an impending riot or for failing to do all they can to prevent it. The following sections of the Penal Code bear upon this point:—

Offences against the Public Tranquillity.

Owner or occupier of land on which an unlawful assembly is held.

(154.) Whenever any unlawful assembly or riot takes place, the owner or occupier of the land upon which such unlawful assembly is held, or such riot is committed, and any person having or claiming an interest in such land, shall be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, if he or his agent or manager, knowing that such offence is being or has been committed, or having reason to believe it is likely to be committed, do not give the earliest notice thereof in his or their power to the principal officer at the nearest police station, and do not, in the case of his or their having reason to believe that it was about to be committed, use all lawful means in his or their power to prevent it, and in the event of its taking place, do not use all lawful means in his or their power to disperse or suppress the riot or unlawful assembly.

Liability of person for whose benefit a riot is committed

(155.) Whenever a riot is committed for the benefit or on behalf of any person who is the owner or occupier of any land respecting which such riot takes place, or who claims any interest in such land, or in the subject of any dispute which gave rise to the riot, or who has accepted or derived any benefit therefrom, such person shall be punishable with fine, if he or his agent or manager, having reason to believe that such riot was likely to be committed, or that the unlawful assembly by which such riot was committed was likely to be held, shall not respectively use all lawful means in his or their power to prevent such assembly or riot from taking place, and for suppressing and dispersing the same.

Liability of agent of owner or occupier for whose benefit a riot is committed.

8. Landholders, farmers, and managers of land should also be aware that under Section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the Magistrate of the district may direct a warrant to any of them for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender, or person who has been accused of a non-bailable offence, and who has eluded pursuit. The landholder or other person to whom the warrant is directed is bound to acknowledge its receipt, and to execute it, should the person for whose arrest it is issued enter on or be in his estate, farm, or land under his charge, and must then hand over the prisoner with the warrant to the nearest police officer.

9. Under Sections 22 and 23 of Act XIII of 1857, all landholders, farmers, gomashtahs, and managers of land, and all village police, are bound under penalty to give information of any illegal cultivation of poppy within the estates or farms held or managed by them.

HIGH COURT, the 16th September 1873.

Orders by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

No. 11.

Dated Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

HIGH COURT.
ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.
Criminal.

C. O. No. 81, dated 4th November 1870, paragraphs 7 to 9.

THE orders noted on the margin are hereby rescinded, and the Quarterly Statements D and E will henceforth be submitted by the Sessions Judges to the High Court in the revised form now circulated, commencing with those for the 3rd quarter of 1873.

2. Statements received in other than the printed forms supplied by the Superintendent of Stationery will be returned, and the district will be dealt with as if no statements had been received.

3. The statements will continue to be sent in duplicate as required by Circular Memorandum No. 4, dated 7th June last.

4. Column 1 of Statement D will comprise the names of all officers exercising criminal authority in the district, the letters "C. S." being inserted after the names of Covenanted Officers. Magistrates other than the Magistrate of the District will be designated according to their powers as Magistrates of the 1st Class, of the 2nd Class, or of the 3rd Class; and not as Joint-Magistrates, Assistant Magistrates, or Deputy Magistrates.*

* e. g. Magistrate of the District.
A. Jones, Esq., C.S., 1st Class.
B. Williams, Esq., 1st Class.
Baboo M. N. Dass, 1st Class.
C. Howell, Esq., C.S., 2nd Class.
M. Anwar Ali, 2nd Class.
&c. &c.

5. The Benches of Magistrates which have sat in the quarter under report will also be entered here, and the names of the Magistrates who have served on them will be shown in the column of "remarks" instead of on the back of the statement, as required by Circular Memorandum No. 3, dated 26th May last.

6. Columns 3, 4, and 5 will be filled up according to the instructions contained in Circular Order No. 7, dated 10th April last, to which it may be added that column 5, "acquitted," will show all dismissals (as under Section 205) and discharges (as under Section 496) which operate as acquittals. New trials ordered under Section 328 will appear in column 8. The persons shown as "remaining under trial" at the close of one quarter should be included (though not separately exhibited) in column 3 of the return for the following quarter, as "persons under trial." Cases decided by Municipal Commissioners should not be entered in this statement.

Statement D.

7. This statement is intended to comprise all appeals preferred either to the Sessions Judge, or to the Magistrate, without detail of the officers from whom the appeals may be preferred; and also references made to the High Court under Section 296, Act X of 1873, either by the Sessions Judge or by the Magistrate. Persons whose cases are shown as "pending" in column 10 should be included in the number entered in column 2 of the ensuing quarter's returns.

Statement E.

8. After the Magistrate has prepared and signed Part I of Statement D, and filled up his portion of Statement E, the statements will be submitted to the Sessions Judge, who will enter, in Part II, Statement D, the result of trials disposed of by him; and, in Statement E, the result of appeals preferred before his Court. He will then forward the completed return to the High Court.

9. Both Magistrates and Judges are called upon to see that the statements are prepared neatly, as well as correctly, in respect of the entries made, and that they are not disfigured by slovenly or bad writing. On such cases occurring the Statements will be liable to be returned.

10. The column of "remarks," which in each statement is of ample size, will contain the mention of any cases or particulars which do not appear to be fairly provided for in other columns, and will also contain brief explanations of any noticeable results appearing on the face of the returns, specially of such as if unexplained might lead to erroneous conclusions: in short, any comments that will tend to throw light on the figures.

11. This return will not interfere with the submission of the Statement No. III prescribed by Circular Order No. 10, dated 12th July 1870.

By order of the High Court,
W. M. SOUTTAR,
Registrar.

11*th September* 1873.

Rules for admission of Vakeels in the High Court.

1. Every person, before being admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court, shall have obtained the Degree of Bachelor of Laws in the University of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay.

2. Except as mentioned in Rules 20 and 23, every person, before being admitted as a pleader in the High Court, shall serve a regular clerkship to some attorney or vakeel of the High Court to be approved by the Court before the contract is entered into, under articles of clerkship by contract in writing pursuant to the rule hereinafter contained for the full period of two years.

3. The term of service required by the last preceding rule need not be all under one and the same contract, nor to one and the same person, but may be to different persons by virtue of an assignment or assignments, or by virtue of successive independent contracts, upon the dissolution of the original or succeeding contract.

4. The person under whom the articles shall be served shall during the whole period of the service, be actually practising as an attorney or vakeel in the High Court.

5. No person who is himself acting as clerk to an attorney or vakeel shall be able to take any clerk for service under articles.

6. No person shall be capable of service under these rules until he shall have passed the B. A. examination of the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

7. The contract in writing whereby a person shall engage as aforesaid to serve as a clerk to any attorney or vakeel shall be filed with the Registrar of the High Court on the Appellate Side within one calendar month after the execution of the same, together with an affidavit by such attorney or vakeel that he has been himself duly admitted, and has been practising for five years as an attorney or vakeel, and that such contract has been duly executed by himself and by the clerk therein mentioned. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel and his place of abode or business, and the name of the clerk and his place of abode, together with the day on which the contract was actually executed.

8. In case the articles of clerkship shall be assigned, the assignment shall be in writing, and shall be in like manner filed within one calendar month after the execution thereof, together with an affidavit that the same has been executed by all the necessary parties. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel to whom the articles are assigned and his place of business, together with the day on which the assignment was actually executed.

9. If by reason of death or for any other good and sufficient reason an assignment of the articles cannot be obtained, a fresh contract in writing shall be entered into by the clerk with the person under whom the service is continued, which shall be filed in the manner and with the affidavit prescribed by Rule 8.

10. In case the contract or assignment, together with the necessary affidavit, be not filed within the time specified, the same may be filed with the said Registrar after the expiration thereof; but the service of such clerk shall be reckoned to have been commenced or renewed from the date of filing such contract or assignment unless the Court shall otherwise order.

11. Every person who shall be articled to serve as a clerk to a vakeel or attorney for the purpose of being admitted as a vakeel shall, during the whole period of such service, continue, and be really and actually employed by such attorney or pleader in the proper business, practice and employment of an attorney or vakeel.

12. Before any person shall be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court, he shall sign and file with such Registrar as aforesaid answers to the questions contained in the Schedule A, hereunto annexed; and the person or persons under whom he shall have served his articles shall sign and file answers to the questions contained in the Schedule B, hereunto annexed, as also a certificate in the form given therein.

13. In case the applicant should show sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be fully complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule which it may think fit and reasonable.

14. The applicant shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character.

15. The applicant shall also, if required, sign and leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such other questions as shall be directed by the Court touching the service and conduct of the applicant, and also, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same; and shall also, if required, procure the attendance of the person or persons with whom he shall have served his clerkship as aforesaid to answer either personally on in writing any question touching such service or conduct, or shall make proof to the satisfaction of the Court of his inability to procure the same.

16. Upon compliance with the aforesaid rules, if the Court shall be satisfied as to the fitness and capacity of the applicant, a certificate shall be granted to him in the following form:—

In pursuance of the rules of the High Court relative to the admission of vakeels, it is hereby certified that A. B. has complied with the requirements of the said rules, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court.

(Signed) C. D.,

A Judge of the High Court.

17. Any person intending to apply to be admitted to practise as a pleader in the High Court shall also give one month's notice in writing to the Registrar aforesaid stating his intention, and shall also insert in the Calcutta Gazette a like notice for four successive weeks prior to his application.

18. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, and who shall produce the certificate mentioned in Rule 17, shall, after giving the notice required by Rule 18, be enrolled as a vakeel of the High Court.

19. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, and who shall prove to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised for four years as a pleader in one or more of the Courts of the mofussil subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court, and that he is a person of good character, may, after giving the notice required by Rule 18 be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel without service under articles.

20. Every person applying to be admitted under the last rule shall, one month prior to admission, leave with such Registrar, as aforesaid, answers to the questions contained in the Schedule C hereunto annexed, and also a certificate or certificates in the form contained in Schedule D hereunto annexed.

21. In case the applicant should show sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule upon such terms as it may think fit and reasonable.

22. An applicant under Rule 20, shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character; and shall also, if required, leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such questions as the Court shall direct touching the qualification of such person to be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court; and shall, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same.

23. Any attorney of the High Court who shall establish to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised as such for the period of three years, and that he is a person of good character and ability, may be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel.

24. These rules shall come into force on the first day of January 1874.

SCHEDULE A.

Questions as to due service of articles to be answered by the applicant.

1. What was your age at your last birthday?

2. Have you served the whole term of your articles at the place where the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned carried on his or their business? and, if not, state for what reason.

3. Have you at any time during the term of your articles been absent without the permission of the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned? and, if so, state the length and occasions of such absence.

4. Have you during the period of your articles been engaged, or concerned, in any, and, if any, what profession, business or employment, other than your professional employment as clerk to the person or persons to whom you were articled or assigned?

5. Have you since the expiration of your articles been engaged or concerned, and for how long a time, in any, and if any, what profession, trade, business or employment, other than the profession of an attorney or vakeel?

SCHEDULE B.

Questions to be answered and certificate to be given by the person or persons with whom the clerk may have served any part of his time under articles.

1. Has A. B. served the whole period of his articles at the place where you carry on your business? and, if not, state the reason.

2. Has the said A. B. at any time during the period of his articles been absent? and, if so, state the length and occasions of such absence.

3. Has the said A. B. during the whole period of his articles been engaged or concerned in any, and, if any, what profession, business, or employment, other than his professional employment as your articled clerk?

4. Has the said A. B. during the whole period of his clerkship, with the exceptions above mentioned, been faithfully and deligently employed in your professional business of an attorney [or vakeel, as the case may be]?

5. Has the said A. B., since the expiration of his articles, been engaged or concerned, and for how long a time, in any profession, trade, business or employment, other than the profession of an attorney or vakeel?

And I do hereby certify that the said A. B. has duly and faithfully served under his articles of clerkship [or assignment of articles, as the case may be] bearing date, &c., for the term therein expressed, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted as a vakeel of the High Court.

SCHEDULE C.

1. What was your age last birthday?

2. What is the date of your enrolment as a pleader, and where were you enrolled?

3. Have you practised in one or several courts? State the periods during which you practised in each, and the dates of the beginning and end of each period.

4. Have you at any time been engaged or concerned in any, and, if any, what profession, business, or employment, other than that of a pleader? If so, when and for what period?

SCHEDULE D.

I, C. D., District Judge [or Subordinate Judge or Munsiff, as the case may be] do certify that to the best of my belief A. B. practised in my court regularly as a pleader from the day of 18 to the day of 18 , and that he was diligent and faithful in the performance of his duties, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted as a vakeel of the High Court.

(Signed) C. D.

EDUCATIONAL NOTICE.

IN the Burdwan Division the 18th and 19th of September are fixed for the preliminary examination of all candidates for junior scholarships who wish to qualify in Physical Geography, Surveying, and Drawing.

The following rules are issued in accordance with paragraph 11 of the Junior Scholarship Rules, for the guidance of those whom they may concern :—

1. Candidates from schools in the Districts of Hooghly, Howrah, and Burdwan, will present themselves for examination at the Hooghly College. Candidates from schools in the districts of Midnapore, Beerbhoom, and Banccorah, will present themselves for examination at the Midnapore High School, the zillah schools of Bancoorah and Beerbhoom, respectively.

2. The Vice-President of each District Committee is requested to appoint a special committee of not less than three members of the local committee to hold the examination on the days fixed as above. The Secretary to the District Committee should, if possible, be a member of the special committee.

3. The Head-master of each school which sends a candidate to the examination should despatch to the address of J. R. Swindon, Esq., Professor of Engineering, Hooghly College, in a registered cover, well secured and sealed, specimens of each candidate's survey work and drawing, so as to reach its address on or before the 18th of September. Specimens submitted after that date will not be examined.

4. Two sheets of drawing and specimens of surveying with compass and field book, as well as with compass and plane table, must be submitted. Each sheet must be attested by the signature of the candidate and the Survey Master under whom he has studied. To each set of specimens will be attached a certificate in the following form :—

This is to certify that the specimens of Drawing and Surveying, signed by (here enter the name of candidate), of the (here give name and description of school) school, were prepared by him in school hours under the supervision and without the aid of the Survey Master.

Date———— (Sd.)———— ———— Head-Master.

5. The Head-master of each school should give a certificate to each candidate sent up by him, certifying that he has paid the prescribed fee, and that he has studied for twelve months in the school. Candidates presenting themselves without a certificate to this effect will not be admitted to the examination.

6. On each day of examination the question papers will be distributed at 11 A.M. Any candidate presenting himself more than ten minutes late will not be admitted. The answers of each candidate to each paper of questions must be finished and given in within three hours.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

THE following Bill as settled by the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations, on the 13th September 1873, is by order of the President published for general information.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Embankments and Watercourses.

WHEREAS it is expedient that provision should be made for the better construction, maintenance, and management of embankments and watercourses in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; It is enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Bengal Embankment Act, 1873."

It extends to the whole of the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, except the province of Orissa and the Soonderbuns as defined under the provisions of Clause 2, Section 13, Regulation III of 1828.

And it shall come into force on the day of the passing thereof.

2. From such day Act No. XXXII of 1855 (relating to embankments) and Bengal Act No. VII of 1866 (to make better provision for the acquisition of land for embankments and other matters relating thereto) shall, except so far as relates to the province of Orissa and the said Soonderbuns, be repealed.

Repeal of former Acts.

3. The following words shall, for the purposes of this Act, have the meanings hereby declared, save where, from the context, a contrary intention appears:—

Interpretation.

"Estate" means—(1) Any land or share in land subject to the payment to Government of an annual sum, in respect of which the name of a proprietor is entered on the register, known as the general register of all revenue-paying estates, or in respect of which a separate account may, in pursuance of Section 10, or Section 11 of Act XI of 1859, have been opened;

"Estate."

(2) Any land entered in the register of revenue-free tenures;

(3) Any land acquired under any rules issued by or under authority of Government for the sale, grant, or clearance of waste lands.

"Embankment" includes every bank, dam, wall, and dyke, made or used for excluding water from, or for retaining water upon, any land, and every sluice, spur, groyne, training wall, or other work annexed to or portion of any such embankment, and every bank, dam, dyke, wall, groyne or spur made or erected for the protection of any such embankment or of any land from erosion or overflow by or of rivers, tides, waves, or waters; and also all buildings intended for purposes of inspection and supervision.

"Embankment."

"Watercourse" includes a line of drainage, weir, culvert, pipe, or other channel for the passage of water, whether natural or artificial.

"Watercourse."

"Zemindar" means all or any of the holders of an estate; and where two or more zemindars are jointly holders thereof, they shall be jointly and severally liable under this Act.

"Zemindar."

"Tenure" includes all interests in land other than estates as above defined, held permanently at a fixed rental, or held lakhiraj.

"Tenure."

"Proprietor" means the holder of a tenure.

"Proprietor."

"Public Embankment" means an embankment maintained by the officers of Government.

"Public Embankment."

"Public watercourse" means any watercourse under the charge of the officers of Government.

"Public watercourse."

"The Engineer" means the District Engineer or any Engineer specially appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to perform the functions of an Engineer under this Act.

"The Engineer."

"Collector" means any Collector, Deputy Collector or other Revenue Officer in independent charge of any district or portion of a district, or specially appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

"Collector."

"District" means the portion of territory throughout which any person vested with the powers of a Collector is authorized to exercise such powers.

"District."

"Land" includes interests in land and benefits arising out of land and things attached to the earth or permanently fastened to anything attached to the earth.

"Land."

PART II.

Powers of Collector and procedure thereon.

Powers of Collector.

4. Under the conditions and in the manner hereinafter provided—

Power to take charge of embankments.

(1.) The Collector may cause any embankment which connects public embankments, or forms, by junction with them, part of a line of embankments, or any embankment or watercourse which is necessary for the protection or drainage of the neighbouring country, to be taken charge of and maintained by the officers of Government.

Power to remove embankments and obstructions.

(2.) The Collector may cause to be removed or altered any embankment which endangers the stability of a public embankment, or any obstruction of any kind which interferes withthe general drainage of any tract of land.

Power to change line of embankment.

(3.) The Collector may, when necessary, change the line of or lengthen any public embankment; or make a new embankment in the place of or renew any public embankment; or make an embankment in any place in which he may deem such embankment required for the protection of any lands, or for the improvement of any watercourse; or make a sluice in any public embankment.

Power to improve drainage.

(4.) The Collector may construct any sluice or watercourse, or effect any alteration in any public watercourse, when such construction or alteration may be required for the improvement of the health, or for the protection of any village or cultivable land.

Power to alter roads and construct watercourses.

(5.) The Collector may call upon the person in charge of any road which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land to alter such road, or to construct any watercourse under or through such road. In the event of such person failing to comply with such requisition in such manner and within such time as the Collector shall prescribe, the said Collector may cause the road to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed. The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the person in charge of the said road.

Applications for sluices to be made to Collector.

(6.) If any landholder, farmer, or cultivator be desirous of having a sluice made in any public embankment for the purpose of drainage or irrigation, he shall make an application in writing to the Collector of the district in which such embankment is situate. The application shall contain such particulars of the land to be drained or irrigated as may enable the Collector to judge of the advantage which may be derived from the work. The Collector shall decide whether it is expedient that such application shall be granted.

Application for new embankment or drainage to be made to Collector.

(7.) Whenever any person is desirous that any new embankment be erected, or that any new watercourse be made, or that any watercourse be obstructed or diverted, if such work is likely to interfere with, counteract, or impede any public embankment or any public watercourse, he shall apply to the Collector, and at the time of making such application shall deposit with him a statement of the proposed work. The Collector shall decide whether it is expedient that such application shall be granted.

Procedure.

5. When it shall appear expedient to the Collector that any of the works specified in the last preceding section should be executed, he shall cause to be prepared plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map shewing the boundaries of the various estates likely to be affected by the said works, and he shall cause a proclamation to be issued giving notice of his intention to cause such works to be executed. Such proclamation shall be in the form, and state the particulars mentioned in Schedule (A) annexed to this Act; and the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as aforesaid, shall be kept at the office of the Collector and shall be open to the inspection of any interested persons who shall be allowed to take copies thereof. The Collector shall not commence any of such works until final order made in respect thereto under the provisions of Sections 8, 59, and 60 of this Act.

Publication of proclamation.

6. Every such proclamation shall be published by affixing the same at the cutcherry of the Collector, and in the manner provided in the third clause of Section 56.

7. Every such proclamation shall be published not less than thirty days before the day appointed for hearing the persons interested.

Proclamation to be published for thirty days.

8. The Collector shall, on the day appointed for the hearing, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing shall be adjourned, hear the objections of any persons who may appear, and, after recording any evidence which they may adduce, shall pass an order in regard to the execution of the proposed works. Notice of such order shall be served on such persons as may have appeared in pursuance of the proclamation.

Hearing of objections to works.

9. If the lands, which are likely to be affected by any such proposed works, are situated within the limits of different districts, the Collector of any district, within which any portion of such lands is situated, shall apply to the Commissioner of the division for authority to proceed in such matter; and the Commissioner of the division, if all the lands are situated within his division, may give authority to such Collector, or to any other Collector within whose district any portion of such lands is situated, to proceed in respect of all the lands likely to be affected by such works.

Authority to take proceedings where lands likely to be affected by the works are in different districts;

If the districts, within which the lands likely to be affected by any such works are situated, are subject to the Commissioners of different divisions, the Collector shall apply to the Commissioner of the division within which his district is situated, and such Commissioner may, with the concurrence of the Commissioner to whom the other district is subject, give authority to proceed in such matter.

or different divisions.

10. All the powers vested in the Collector by Section 4 of this Act, may be exercised by the Engineer in cases referred to him by the Collector subject to the general orders of the Collector.

The Collector may delegate certain powers to Engineer.

PART III.

Procedure in cases of imminent danger to life or property.

11. Whenever the Collector shall be of opinion that the proceedings commenced by notice under Sections 5 to 8 of this Act would cause delay in the exercise of any of the powers conferred upon him by Clauses 2, 3, and 4 of Section 4, likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to commence to exercise such powers. Provided that he shall forthwith cause to be prepared the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as provided in Section 5, and shall cause a proclamation to be issued as provided in that section giving notice that the work mentioned therein has already been commenced, and thereupon such proceedings and inquiries shall be had as in and by Part II of this Act are directed.

Proceedings in emergencies.

12. Whenever any land, or earth from any land the property of any person, is required for the purposes of any works commenced in pursuance of the provisions of the last preceding section, or for the purposes of Section 18 in cases where the Collector shall be of opinion that proceedings for the acquisition of such land according to the provisions hereinafter contained in Section 25, would cause delay as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause a proclamation to be issued in form in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act, giving notice thereof at convenient places in the locality in which such land is situated, and he may at the same time take possession of the same for the said purposes.

Power to take possession of land.

13. The Collector shall ascertain and record the nature and estimated value of the crops and trees (if any) standing on such land, and shall offer adequate compensation to the persons interested. If such offer is not accepted, the value of such crops and trees shall be allowed for in awarding compensation for the land under the provisions of Section 29.

Compensation for standing crops and trees.

14. The Collector may depute to the Engineer the powers described in Sections 11, 12, and 13 subject to his own general orders, and in that case when the Collector is not present the Engineer may, if he shall be of opinion that delay for the purpose of obtaining the orders of the Collector would be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, exercise the powers conferred on him by the Collector.

Power to Engineer to act in absence of Collector.

15. Whenever, upon an inquiry had under the provisions of this Part, it has been determined in the final order to be passed on such inquiry that anything done by the Collector, or by the Engineer under the last preceding section was unnecessary, the land or the embankments or drainage shall, so far as any alteration thereof shall appear to be unnecessary, be at the expense of the Government restored as nearly as possible to the state in which they were when the Collector commenced to act under the provisions of this Part; and any person who shall have sustained loss, damage, or injury by the execution of such works, shall receive compensation from the Government to be assessed according to the provisions contained in Part V of this Act.

Power to restore embankments, &c.

16. The provisions of Section 9 shall be applicable to proceedings taken under this Part.

Section 9 to apply to proceedings under this Part.

PART IV.

Powers of Engineer.

17. The power conferred on the Engineer under this Part shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Collector.

Engineer subject to control of Collector.

18. The Engineer may make any repairs in, and may do all acts necessary and proper for the maintenance of any public embankment, public watercourse, or other work executed or taken charge of under the provisions of this Act, or of any of the Acts repealed by this Act.

Power to make repairs.

19. The Engineer may call upon the manager, or other person in charge of any railroad which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land, to alter such railroad or to construct any watercourse under or through such railroad.

Power to alter railroads or construct watercourses.

In the event of such person failing to comply with such requisition in such manner and within such time as the Engineer shall prescribe, the Engineer may thereupon, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, cause the said railroad to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct. The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the said manager, or other person in charge of the said railroad.

Power to make temporary roadway, watercourse or dam.

20. Whenever any person is desirous that a temporary roadway should be made over, or that a temporary watercourse should be made through, any public embankment, or that a temporary dam should be constructed in any embanked river or public watercourse, he shall apply to the Engineer, who shall communicate the application to the Collector, and the Collector shall pass such orders thereon as he shall think fit. If the proposed work is to be executed by an officer of Government, the applicant, before the commencement of the work, shall deposit the amount estimated by the Engineer to be necessary to defray the expenses of, and incidental to, making and removing such roadway, or of, and incidental to, making and closing or removing such watercourse or dam. If the amount deposited is found insufficient, the Engineer shall recover from the said applicant the further amount required; and if it exceeds the amount required, such excess shall be returned to the said applicant.

Power to remove houses.

21. Whenever the Engineer shall be of opinion that the removal of any trees, houses, huts, or other buildings, situated between a public embankment and the river, is necessary, he shall make a report to that effect, accompanied by a detailed statement of the trees, houses, huts, or other buildings to be removed, to the Collector of the district in whose jurisdiction the land on which such trees, houses, huts, or other buildings stand, is situated; and the Collector shall report the same to the Lieutenant-Governor in order that proceedings may be taken, in accordance with the provisions of "The Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870," or other law for the time being for the acquisition of land for public purposes, for obtaining possession of such trees, houses, huts, and buildings. Provided always that in case the Collector be of opinion that the delay required by such proceedings is likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to cause such trees, houses, huts, or buildings to be removed, and in such case the compensation due therefor shall be ascertained and paid in the manner hereinafter provided.

Sluices to be opened or shut under authority of the Engineer.

22. Sluices constructed in any public embankment shall be opened or shut only by or with the general or special permission of the officer in the immediate charge of the embankment, under such orders, either general or special, as he may receive from the Engineer.

Power to appropriate land or earth for embanked towpath.

23. In any case where an embanked towpath has heretofore been maintained by Government alongside any canal, river, khal, or channel, the Engineer shall be entitled to appropriate without payment, as heretofore, land or earth for the maintenance, repair, or re-construction of such embanked towpath. If in any case the Engineer shall consider it necessary for the purposes of towing to enlarge an existing towpath, or to construct a new towpath, proceedings shall be taken in accordance with the subsequent provisions of this Act relating thereto.

Power to enter and survey land, &c.

24. It shall be lawful for the Engineer, or any person whom he may authorize in that behalf, in order to carry out any of the purposes of this Act, to enter upon, and survey, and take levels of any land;

to dig or bore into the sub-soil;

to do all other acts necessary to ascertain whether the land is adapted to the purpose projected by such Engineer; or by the Collector;

Power to mark out line.

to set out the boundaries of the land proposed to be taken, and the intended line of the work proposed to be made thereon;

to mark such levels, boundaries, and line, by placing marks and cutting trenches;

Power to clear land.

and, where otherwise the survey cannot be completed or the levels taken, to cut down and clear away any part of any standing crop, fence, or jungle.

Previous notice of entry.

Provided that no person shall enter into any building or upon any enclosed court or garden attached to a dwelling-house (unless with the consent of the occupier thereof) without previously giving such occupier at least seven days' notice in writing of his intention to do so.

Payment for damage.

The Engineer or other person so authorized shall at the time of such entry pay or tender payment for all necessary damage to be done as aforesaid, and, in case of dispute as to the sufficiency of the amount so paid or tendered, he shall at once refer the dispute to the decision of the Collector, and such decision shall be final.

PART V.

Acquisition of lands.

Acquisition of land.

25. Whenever in the course of proceedings under this Act, save in those cases in which the Collector has proceeded under the provisions of Part III, it appears that land is required for any of the purposes thereof, proceedings shall be forthwith taken for the acquisition of such land in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being for the acquisition of lands for public purposes.

When land taken, proclamation to be published.

26. Whenever any land shall have been taken or used under the provisions of Part III, the Collector shall cause a proclamation to be issued in form in Schedule (C) annexed to this Act at convenient places on or near the land so taken, stating that Government has taken possession of the land, and that claims to compensation for all interests in such land shall be made to him. Thereupon the land shall vest absolutely in the Government free from all incumbrances, subject, however, to the claims for compensation to be ascertained in manner as in this Part is provided.

Contents of proclamation.

27. Such proclamation shall state the particulars of the land so taken, and shall require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent before the Collector at a time and place therein mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of issuing the proclamation), and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land, and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for such interest.

Further notice to be served on certain parties.

28. The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier (if any) of such land, and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, or to be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside, or have agents authorized to receive service on their behalf, within the revenue district in which the land is situate.

Proceedings after notice.

29. After service of such notice proceedings shall be had and taken to determine the amount of compensation to be payable in respect of such land, in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

Compensation for consequential damage.

30. Whenever any land other than land required or taken by the Engineer, or any right of fishery, right of drainage, right of the use of water, or other right or property, shall have been injuriously affected by the due exercise of the powers or provisions of this Act, the person in whom such property or right is vested may prefer a claim by petition to the Collector for compensation.

Application to be made within a year.

31. No claim shall be entertained which shall be made later than one year next after the completion of the work by which such right is injuriously affected.

Procedure for such compensation.

32. When any such claim is made, proceedings shall be taken in view to determine the amount of compensation, if any, which should be made, and the person to whom the same should be payable, in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

33. In determining the amount of compensation to be awarded in such cases, the Judge and Assessors shall take into consideration—

First, the market value of the property or right injuriously affected at the time of acquiring the land;

Secondly, the damage sustained by the claimant by reason of such acquisition injuriously affecting the property or right;

Thirdly, the consequent diminution of the market value of the property or right injuriously affected at the time of acquiring the land.

But the Judge or Assessors shall not take into consideration—

Matters not to be considered in determining compensation.

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition;

Secondly, any damage sustained by the claimant, which, if caused by a private person, would not in any suit instituted against such person justify a decree for damages.

Land, &c., taken possession of to vest in Government.

34. All buildings, land, earth, pathways, sluices, gates, bermes, hedges, belonging to, or forming part of, any embankment or watercourse, of which charge has been or may hereafter be taken by the officers of Government, shall vest in the Government, and shall be held on behalf of the Government in respect of the embankments mentioned in Schedule (D) annexed to this Act, and in respect of other works on behalf of the persons interested in the lands to be protected or benefited by such embankment or watercourse, subject to the provisions of Section 63; and all monies received on account of such lands shall be payable to the Engineer and credited to the cost of the construction and maintenance of such works respectively.

PART VI.

COST OF WORKS, PROCEEDINGS, &c.

1. Ascertainment thereof.

Embankments in Schedule (D.)

35. The provisions in this Part contained shall not apply to any of the embankments mentioned in Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, save so far as any works or repairs are executed therein or in relation thereto under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 20 of this Act; or to any of such embankments as may hereafter be erected for the protection of lands which at the time of the passing of this Act are protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule, save so far as the erection of such embankments may protect lands not protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule. All sums payable in respect of any works or repairs executed therein, or in relation to the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule except under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 20 of this Act, shall be paid by the Government.

Exclusion from Schedule.

If at any time after the passing of this Act, on inquiry made by the Collector as far as possible in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Act, it shall be found that it is unnecessary for the public interests to retain any embankment mentioned in Schedule (D), the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that the same shall be no longer included in the said schedule. Provided that the Lieutenant-Governor may restore the same to the said schedule if on any subsequent enquiry similarly conducted it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor that it is necessary so to do.

Addition to Schedule.

The Lieutenant-Governor may at any time after the passing of this Act, by a notification published in the Calcutta Gazette, direct that any embankment not mentioned in Schedule (D) be included in the said schedule, and the provisions of this section shall apply to such embankment.

Contribution of public money towards the maintenance of the embankments in the pergunnahs entered in Schedule (F) to be continued.

36. In accordance with the custom heretofore in force in respect of the pergunnahs entered in Schedule (E) annexed to this Act, the Government shall continue to contribute annually the sum noted therein for each pergunnah respectively towards the maintenance of the embankments thereof.

If the embankments maintained in any such pergunnah shall at any time be declared to be public embankments under the provisions of Section 4, the Collector shall, from the date of such declaration, keep a separate account for such pergunnah, in which the aforesaid sum shall be credited at the commencement of each financial year. The unexpended balance at the close of each year shall be carried on to the credit of the account in the next succeeding year, and shall be available for the cost of repairing or erecting all the embankments which it may be deemed necessary to maintain in such pergunnah.

If sach embankments are declared to be public, Collector to keep a separate account.

If at any time after the passing of this Act, on an inquiry made by the Collector as far as possible in accordance with the provisions of Part II, it shall be found that it is unnecessary for the public interest to retain any embankment in either of the said pergunnahs, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that such contribution shall cease in respect of such pergunnah. Provided that such contribution shall again be made in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore contained, if it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor, on the report of an inquiry similarly conducted, that the maintenance of any embankment in such pergunnah has again become necessary for the public interest.

Contribution may be discontinued if it be found unnecessary for the public interest to maintain the embankments.

37. Specifications of any works or repairs to be executed under the provisions of this Act, and estimates of the expenses to be incurred therein or relating thereto, including such proportion of establishment charges as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, shall be prepared by the Engineer as soon after the month of October in each year as may be practicable. And whenever it appears that the actual expenses to be incurred will exceed the amount mentioned in the said estimates by one-tenth, the Engineer shall forthwith prepare further estimates, and, if necessary, further specifications. Copies of all specifications and estimates shall be transmitted to the office of the Collector, together with vernacular translations thereof, or such abstracts thereof as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time direct, and may be examined by any person interested in such works or repairs. Notice of the receipt of specifications and estimates shall be served for all estates chargeable for, or likely to be affected by, the said works or repairs; and should any objection in regard to the amount of such expenses be preferred by any such person within a period of one month from the date of such notice, the Collector shall pass such orders as may appear to him reasonable and proper. Such order shall be subject in any case to an appeal by the person making such objection to the Commissioner of division whose decision shall be final.

Estimates and specifications to be prepared.

38. The accounts of the actual expense incurred in executing any works or repairs shall be prepared as soon as possible after the completion thereof. The Engineer shall sign a certificate stating the true amount of all such expenses, and the names of the estates chargeable for, and of the estates and villages affected by, the said works and repairs. Copies of the said accounts and certificates shall be forwarded to the office of the Collector, and may be there examined by any person interested. Notice of the receipt thereof shall be served for the said estates and villages and such others as in the opinion of the Collector are liable to contribute to the payment of the said amount; and if, within thirty days from the service of such notice, any interested person shall object to the accounts on the ground either that the work charged for has not been performed, or that the whole sum charged has not been expended, or that the rates of charge are higher than those mentioned in the estimates, the Collector shall inquire into such objection, and may pass any order thereon subject in any case to an appeal by the objector to the Commissioner of division whose decision shall be final.

Preparation and settlement of accounts.

39. The Collector shall add to the amount appearing in the said certificate all sums which have been paid or have become payable in respect of compensation, costs and expenses under and incidental to any proceedings taken or directed to be taken under Parts II and V of this Act, including costs of all surveys and plans. He shall thereupon make an order specifying the total sum found payable, and in respect of works done under Section 4, Clause 5, and Sections 19 and 20, the persons by whom, or in respect of other works the estates in respect of which, the same is payable to him. If the order is made in respect of work done under Section 4, Clause 5, and Sections 19 and 20 the same shall forthwith be served upon the party or parties liable to pay; otherwise the Collector shall proceed under the provisions in the next chapter contained.

Total sum payable.

Interest may be charged upon any sum paid as compensation from the date of payment thereof at such rate, not exceeding 5 per centum per annum, as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct.

Interest.

40. The said total sum, save so far as is otherwise provided in this Act, shall be paid to the Collector by the zemindars of the estates in which are situated the lands benefited or protected by the repairs or works executed. Provided that where any specific sum has hitherto been annually demanded in respect of any embankment not included in Schedule (D), and when the said embankment is at the time of this Act coming into operation being maintained by Government, then such special payments shall, after the passing of this Act, thenceforth cease and determine.

Parties liable to pay.

Every zemindar, who is liable under this rule for the payment of the whole or a portion of such total sum, shall be entitled to recover from the proprietor of every tenure which is declared to be a part of his estate, the sum apportioned to such tenure by the Collector, under the provisions of Section 45. And similarly, every proprietor shall be entitled to recover from the proprietor of any subordinate tenure which is declared to be a part of his tenure, the sum apportioned to such subordinate tenure by the Collector, under the said provisions.

2. Apportionment thereof.

41. So soon as the total sum payable as aforesaid has been ascertained, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served for every one of the said estates and villages mentioned in

Notice to be given before apportionment.

Section 38. Every such notice shall specify the estates and villages aforesaid, and that an inquiry will be held at a day and place therein named for the purpose of apportioning amongst the zemindars and proprietors the said total sum, with interest and the costs of apportionment.

Mode of enquiry as to the proportion chargeable to each estate.

42. On the day fixed in the said notice, which shall not be less than thirty days later than the date of any service of such notice, the Collector shall proceed to make the said enquiry. In making this enquiry he shall receive such evidence as may be tendered by, or on behalf of, the said zemindars and proprietors, and by, or on behalf of, any other persons who may claim to be interested therein.

Names of proprietors.

43. In any such enquiry the Collector shall take down in writing the names of all persons who may claim, or who may be alleged by any party interested, to be proprietors of tenures within any of the estates mentioned in such notice. In default of appearance of any such person, the Collector shall issue and serve a notice calling on him to appear at a date and place therein mentioned, and to show cause against being included in the order of apportionment to be made therein, and shall adjourn the enquiry till such date.

Apportionment amongst zemindars.

44. At such or any subsequently adjourned enquiry, the Collector, if there be only one estate liable, shall charge the zemindar thereof with the total amount payable; and if there be two or more estates, he shall apportion the same amongst the zemindars thereof, rateably in proportion to the respective benefits derived by such estates from such works or repairs; or in proportion to the areas of the lands benefited or protected thereby, and comprised within such estates respectively; or with the sanction of the local Government in proportion to the amount of revenue respectively payable for such estates, if, before the passing of this Act, such proportion has been usually adopted.

Provided that the said total amount payable in respect of the embankments on the right bank of the river Gunduk shall be chargeable, in accordance with the custom in force for such estates, to the zemindars of all the estates situated in the district of Sarun, in proportion to the amount of revenue respectively payable for such estates.

Proviso in respect of the pergunnahs in Schedule (E.)

Provided also that the sum standing to the credit of a pergunnah in Schedule (E) in the account kept by the Collector, at the time when the total amount payable is fixed under the provisions of Section 39, shall be deducted from the total amount payable in respect of such portion of any embankment as is situated in such pergunnah; and that the zemindars of the estates situated therein shall be charged only with the balance of the amount (if any) which may remain payable.

Apportionment amongst proprietors.

45. The Collector shall, in like manner, apportion, except in respect of the said Gunduk embankments, the amount payable in respect of each estate amongst all the tenures therein rateably in the proportion of benefit so received or area so benefited or protected, first deducting therefrom such sum as, on the like principle of proportion, is payable in respect of such portion of the estate as is not included within any tenure.

Apportionment where the lands held without payment of rent, not being estates on the register of revenue-free tenures.

46. All lands held without payment of rent not being estates entered in the register of revenue-free tenures, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to form a part of the tenure within the local boundaries of which they are included; and, if they are not included within the local boundaries of any tenure, then to be a part of the estate within the local boundaries of which they are included; and, if they are not included within the local boundaries of any estate, then to be a part of such conterminous estate as the Collector, in whose district such conterminous estate is situated, shall, by an order under his seal and signature, declare.

Amount apportioned payable by instalments.

47. The amount apportioned to any estate or tenure, shall be payable in equal instalments on such days as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, provided that no instalment shall exceed four annas for every acre of land in respect of which the same is payable, and that not more than four instalments shall be payable in any one year.

Interest.

Interest shall be charged on the unpaid portion of the said amount from the date of the same becoming due until payment thereof at such rate, not exceeding five per centum per annum, as the Lieutenant-Governor shall from time to time determine.

Final order of apportionment.

48. On the completion of the apportionment the Collector shall make an order specifying the estates and tenures, and the several sums payable in respect thereof, the instalments of such sums, and the dates on which the same are payable.

3. Recovery thereof.

Orders for payment.

49. The Collector shall, within thirty days from the final order of apportionment, make and serve for every estate therein mentioned an order, stating the amount with interest due in respect thereof, and that the same is payable to him, and the date or dates at which such amount or instalments thereof shall become payable to him.

Recovery from zemindars.

50. If such sum or any instalment thereof be not, pursuant to the said order, paid, the same with interest shall be recoverable as arrears of a demand under the provisions of Bengal Act VII of 1868 (to make further provision for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as arrears of land revenue).

Recovery by zemindars or proprietors.

51. Every zemindar or proprietor to whom any sum or instalment thereof is payable under the said order, may recover the same with interest as aforesaid in the manner provided for the recovery of arrears of rent in respect of putnee tenures by the provisions of Clauses 2 and 3 of Section 8, Sections 9, 10, 14, 15, and Clauses 1, 2, and 3 of Section 17 of Regulation VIII of 1819, as amended by Bengal Act VIII of 1865; provided that the right or interest of any person holding from the proprietor of such tenure shall not be affected by any sale held under these provisions.

PART VII.

Miscellaneous.

Penalty for obstructing persons in exercise of powers of Act.

52. Whoever wilfully obstructs any person duly authorized under this Act in removing or levelling any embankment, house, hut, or other building, or in the lawful exercise of any of the powers in this Act conferred, shall, in case such obstruction shall not amount to an offence within the provisions of the Indian Penal Code, be liable to imprisonment of either description for any period not exceeding six months, at the discretion of the Magistrate, or to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, commutable, if not paid, to a period of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

Penalty on unauthorized interference with embankments or drainage.

53. Every person who, without the previous permission of the Engineer, shall erect, or cause or wilfully permit to be erected, any new embankment, or shall obstruct or divert, or cause or wilfully permit to be obstructed or diverted, any watercourse, if such embankment or watercourse is likely to interfere with, counteract, or impede, any public embankment or any public watercourse, or shall abet any such act, shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or in default of payment, to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months.

Penalties for injuring works under Act.

54. No person shall, without due authority, cut through, or attempt to cut through, any public embankment, or destroy, or attempt to destroy any such embankment, or open or shut, or obstruct any sluice in any such embankment, or any public watercourse; and every person who shall commit any breach of the provisions of this section shall, in case the act shall not amount to mischief within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, be liable to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding one month, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Penalties for diverting rivers or permitting cattle to graze on embankments.

55. Every person who shall make any dam or other obstruction for the purpose of diverting or opposing the current of a river, wherein or whereon there are public embankments, without the permission of the officer in immediate charge of the embankments, or shall refuse or neglect to remove any such dam or obstruction when so required by the Engineer, or shall cut or otherwise alter the banks of any embanked river, or shall remove the earth from any public embankment, or shall drive stakes into it, or by any other wilful act destroy or diminish the efficiency of such embankment; and every person who shall cause or knowingly and wilfully permit any cattle to graze upon any such embankment, or shall tether, or cause or wilfully permit any cattle to be tethered upon any such embankment, or who shall root up any grass or other vegetation growing on any such embankment, shall be liable to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Obstructions to be removed and damage repaired.

56 Whenever any person is convicted of an offence under either of the three last preceding sections, the convicting Magistrate may order that he shall remove the embankment or obstruction, or repair the damage, in respect of which the conviction is held, within a period to be fixed in such order. If such person neglects or refuses to obey such order within the fixed period, the Engineer may remove such embankment or obstruction or repair such damage, and the cost of such removal or repair shall be levied from such person in addition to any other penalty in the manner provided in Section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Service.

57. Every proclamation, notice or order in and by this Act required to be served may, unless when otherwise provided, be served—

(3) by posting a copy of the proclamation, notice or order at the mal-cutcherry of the estate, village or tenure to which the same relates; or if no such mal-cutcherry be found, on some conspicuous place on the said estate, village or tenure, and by delivering, in the case of estates paying their annual revenue by four instalments, another copy thereof to the agent who shall have paid an instalment of revenue next before or after the preparation of such proclamation, notice or order. In all cases where two or more persons are holders of an estate, village or tenure service under this clause shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on each and all of such persons.

No proceedings to be impeached for want of form.

58. No proceedings under this Act shall be impeached or affected by reason of any mistake in the name of any person thereby rendered liable to pay any sum of money, or in the description of any estate or tenure or land in respect of which he is rendered liable to pay; provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with; and no proceedings under this Act shall for want of form be quashed or set aside in any Court of Justice.

Appeal from orders made on objection.

59. Every order passed by the Collector in respect to applications under Section 4, Clauses 6 and 7, or under Sections 8, 39, and 48, shall be appealable to the Commissioner of Revenue, and every order of the Commissioner except when otherwise directed by this Act, shall be appealable to the Board of Revenue, but no appeal shall lie under this section against any order unless the same be presented within one month from the date of the order.

60. Subject to the right of appeal above-mentioned and to the orders and control of Government, every order passed under the provisions aforesaid shall be final, and shall not be open to revision by any Civil Court.

Orders to be final.

61. In any inquiry or appeal held under this Act, the Collector and the Commissioner shall respectively have the same powers as those conferred on Courts by the Code of Civil Procedure of summoning and examining witnesses and compelling the production of documents.

Powers on inquiry and appeal.

62. All the powers of a Collector under this Act shall be exercised under the general control and orders of the Commissioner of the Division, and all the powers of Collectors and Commissioners shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Board of Revenue and of the Government.

General control of Commissioner and Government.

63. Whenever the maintenance of any public embankment, or the retention of any land appropriated to the purposes thereof, may no longer be required, and the permanent relinquishment of the same may be deemed expedient, such land shall be conveyed by the Collector to the proprietor of the land, within the limits of which it may be situated, on payment of the compensation, if any, which was paid for such land when the same was taken for the purpose of the embankment. If the proprietor of such lands refuse or neglect to pay such price within a reasonable time after demand, the same shall be sold by the Collector for such price as he can obtain for the same. All sums obtained for the conveyance of lands under the provisions of this section shall, after the payment of all expenses incurred on account of the same, be applied to the payment of the cost of any new embankment or drainage works affecting the said lands, and in such case the residue only of the cost of such new works shall be charged upon the zemindars of estates benefited as hereinbefore provided.

Disposal of lands no longer required for embankments.

64. A Collector may delegate any of his powers under this Act to a Deputy Collector, but from any order passed by a Deputy Collector to whom powers have been so delegated, an appeal shall lie to the Collector if presented within thirty days of the date of the order.

Collector may delegate any of his powers to a Deputy Collector.

65. All offences created by this Act shall be inquired into and tried by a Magistrate of the first or second class.

Jurisdiction.

66. Nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of "the Hooghly and Burdwan Drainage Act 1871."

Saving of Bengal Act V of 1871.

From Messrs. Schoene, Kilburn and Company, dated 9th June 1873, and enclosures.
Petition of certain contractors under Act II of 1870.
From Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association, dated 19th July 1873.

We have received and considered the papers noted in the margin.

We have made numerous alterations in the draft of the Bill, restoring in many cases the language of Act II of 1870, for instance, in Sections 11, 14, 35, 38, 62, 73, 84, 94, 97, 99, 109, 111, 116, 117, 122, and 125. We have altered the definition of "emigrant" and of "magistrate," and in reference to the latter we have specified in Section 93 the sections under which a Subordinate Magistrate may be deputed to act.

We have omitted the provisions relating to evidence in Sections 28, 62, 63, 66, 106, and 133, and the references to the Penal Code in Sections 13, 103, 108, and 132. We have omitted Section 12, the Council of India having brought in a Bill to deal with the subject of it. We have also omitted the definition of "servant" from Section 3; Clauses 4, 15, and 16 from Section 5; and the following sections or parts of sections :—Sections 26, 34 (last part), 42, 65, 67, 83 (last part), 97, 109 (last part), 112, 116 (last sentence), 122 (proviso), 124 (last sentence), and 140.*

We have not required that a garden-sirdar should pay a fee for having his certificate countersigned under Section 19, or that a recuiter should pay a fee to the medical officer for a certificate under Section 45. We have slightly altered the constitution of the Labor Transport Fund to meet the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, Section 308.

We have given power to a Magistrate to advance any sum which a garden-sirdar may be ordered to pay to an emigrant under Section 31 and to recover the amount from the employer with interest; and we have provided that interest shall be recoverable on sums advanced by a Magistrate under Sections 79, 80, 81, and 86.

We have reduced the amount of fine which may be imposed under Sections 66, 67, 72, 75, 77, and 94. We have given power to the Lieutenant-Governor to affix penalties to the breach of rules framed by him under Section 5, and we have provided that the penalties (if any) shall be published with the rules.

We have required (in Sections 22, 46) that the garden-sirdar or recruiter, as the case may be, shall produce his certificate or license when he appears with a recruit before a

Magistrate for registration. We have struck out the provision that a recruiter shall wear a badge. We have given the same power of cancelling the license or certificate of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar under Sections 21, 36, and 41. We have substituted the word "rice" for "food" in Sections 5 (clause 13), 17, 23, 46, and 114.

We have slightly modified Sections 67, 119, 120, and 135.

We have annexed as Schedules to the Act forms of a garden-sirdar's certificate of a contract between emigrant and employer, and of a certificate of release on determination of contract. We have omitted Schedule D.

We have also made many verbal alterations.

The 25th August 1873.

As I am going to England for three or four months, I shall be unable to sign the final report of the Select Committee, but having attended nearly all meetings up to this date, I wish to record my general assent to the Bill with the alterations and amendments agreed to by the Select Committee so far as they have at present been considered, viz., to Section 99.

25th June 1873. B. D. COLVIN.

I agree to the report, but think that the objections raised to the Sections CV, CVIII, CIX, and CXI in Act II of 1870 (being part of the Bill, Sections 125, 126, 127, and 128,) still hold good.

RE-AMENDED BILL.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and to regulate contract labor and service.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law regulating the emigration of native inhabitants of India from or through the provinces subject to the Government of Bengal to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and the manner of engaging and contracting with native inhabitants of the said provinces to proceed to the said districts, and providing for the protection of the persons so proceeding, and for the enforcement of the contracts of service entered into by them; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.—PRELIMINARY.

Chapter 1.—Application and Miscellaneous.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Labor Districts Emigration Act."

Repeal of Act II of 1870.

2. Bengal Act II of 1870 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to the transport of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and their employment therein) is hereby repealed. All contracts entered into, appointments made, and licenses granted, under the said Act or any of the Acts thereby repealed, shall be deemed to have been respectively entered into, made, and granted under this Act.

Interpretation clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

India.

"India" means the territories for the time being vested in Her Majesty by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 106, entitled "An Act for the better government of India," other than the settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca.

Labor Districts.

"The Labor Districts" means the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and "a labor district" means one of those districts.

Magistrate.

"Magistrate" includes a magistrate of a district or of a division of a district, and any magistrate of the first and second class, and any magistrate of police for the town of Calcutta.

Employer.

"Employer" means the chief person for the time being in charge of any lands upon which laborers may be employed.

Emigrant.

"Emigrant" means any native of India above the age of sixteen years who has engaged with any gardensirdar or recruiter to proceed to a labor district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, and has been registered as hereinafter provided.

Laborer.

"Laborer" means any emigrant who has been conveyed to a labor district in accordance with a contract made under the provisions of Bengal Act III of 1863, Bengal Act VI of 1865, Bengal Act II of 1870, or this Act, during the duration of such contract.

Vessel.

"Vessel" includes a steamer, a flat, a boat, and anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

Master.

"Master" means the person for the time being in charge of a vessel.

Provisions regarding emigration not to apply to domestic servants, or to persons proceeding alone.

4. The provisions of part II of this Act regarding emigration shall not apply to domestic servants, or to any person proceeding alone, or accompanied by his family only, or to any persons not exceeding twenty in number proceeding to a labor district to labor for hire, without the intervention, direct or indirect, of any person employed to induce natives of India to emigrate to a labor district. In computing the number of persons two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

Power of the Lieutenant-Governor to make rules.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act, and from time to time alter, vary, and revoke such rules:—

(1)—To regulate the subordination of the several officers of emigration to the superintendent.

(2)—To prescribe the periodical returns and reports to be made by the emigration officers, by magistrates, and by the inspectors of laborers.

(3)—To prescribe the amount of the several fees to be paid under the provisions of this Act.

(4)—To provide for the management and regulation of contractors' depôts and of hospital depôts.

(5)—To provide for the medical care of emigrants during their residence at the depôts and during transport to a labor district.

(6)—To prescribe the nature, quality, and quantity of medical drugs and other stores to be carried on vessels taking emigrants.

(7)—To prescribe the clothing to be supplied to emigrants while proceeding to a labor district.

(8)—To prescribe the description, quantity, and quality of provisions to be taken by vessels carrying emigrants, and the daily allowance to be issued to each emigrant during the journey.

(9)—To provide for the ventilation and cleanliness of vessels during the journey, to prescribe the number of officers, cooks, and other servants, and to provide for their control; and to provide generally for the accommodation of emigrants.

(10)—To provide for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of all emigrants detained at any place by order of a magistrate on account of sickness.

(11)—To provide for the periodical inspection of laborers, and the books to be kept by inspectors of laborers.

(12)—To provide for the house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and supply of rice to be provided by employers for their laborers.

(13)—To provide for the hospital accommodation and medical care of laborers, and to prescribe the nature, quality, and quantity of medical drugs and other stores to be provided for them.

The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time fix penalties not inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act for infringements of any such rules, which may be enforced and recovered as other penalties under this Act on conviction by a magistrate. Provided that no penalty shall exceed five hundred rupees.

All such rules, with the penalties (if any) for their infringement, shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and shall be separately printed and sold to the public at 4 annas for each copy.

6. Every contract made with an emigrant, and all arrears of wages due under any such contract, and all fines imposed on any employer under the provisions of this Act, shall be a charge upon the lands upon which such laborer has been engaged to work.

Contract made with emigrant is a charge upon the land;

The owner of such lands for the time being shall have all rights and remedies against such laborer, as if such owner had been originally the party executing such contract as employer.

and is transferred with the land.

No person, after he has ceased to be the owner of such lands, nor his property nor effects, shall be in anywise liable or responsible for any breach of such contract which may have occurred after he has ceased to be such owner.

Determination of ownership determines liability.

7. Any engagement or contract made under the provisions of this Act by a native of India, who is above the age of sixteen years, shall be held valid.

Any person above the age of 16 years may contract.

8. All offences against this Act committed without the town of Calcutta shall be inquired into and tried according to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and all offences against this Act committed within the said town shall be inquired into and tried by a police magistrate of the said town according to the provisions of the laws regulating the investigation and trial of offences within the said town, which shall be for the time being in force.

Procedure on trial of offences created by Act.

9. For every offence against the provisions of this Act, for which no special penalty or amount of fine is prescribed, the offender shall on conviction by a Magistrate be punished with a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees. Wherever in this Act no special term of imprisonment is appointed in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall be liable to imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term not exceeding one month.

Penalty for any offence not especially provided for.

PART II.—EMIGRATION.

Chapter 2.—Restrictions and Appointment of Officers.

10. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in case he shall be of opinion that the emigration of natives of India from any district, or to any particular part of any labor district, for the purpose of becoming laborers, is likely to be attended with danger to the health of any native so emigrating or others, or if the Lieutenant-Governor has reason to believe that a political disturbance is likely to occur in any labor district, to prohibit, by an order under his hand, the emigration of such natives from such district, or to such labor district or particular part thereof, and from time to time to revoke or vary any such order; and every such order or variation or revocation thereof shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Power to prevent emigration of laborers.

11. Any person who shall knowingly engage any native so to emigrate while any such emigration shall be prohibited under the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every native who may have been so engaged.

Penalty on engaging natives contrary to such order.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint a proper person to be the superintendent of emigration at Calcutta, and may also appoint proper persons to be embarkation agents and medical inspectors of emigrants at any places where he may think proper, and define by notification in the Calcutta Gazette the local limits within which each such officer shall exercise the powers and authority conferred upon him by this Act. He may at any time suspend or remove any such officer.

Appointment of superintendent of emigration, embarkation agents, and medical inspectors.

13. It shall be lawful for any employer to engage, by the agency of a garden-sirdar, or by the agency of a contractor, natives of India to proceed to a labor district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire upon lands of which such employer is in charge.

Employer may recruit by garden-sirdar.

14. It shall be lawful for the superintendent of emigration to grant to such persons as he may think fit licenses to act as contractors for engaging and supplying persons for the purpose of laboring for hire in the labor-districts, or to act in behalf of some contractor as recruiters for engaging persons to proceed to the said districts for the purpose of laboring therein for hire.

Superintendent may license contractors and recruiters.

15. From and after the commencement of this Act, whoever shall, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, engage any native of India in any of the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to proceed to any or either of the labor districts for the purpose of laboring there for hire; and whoever shall, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, convey any such native through any of the said provinces to any or either of the labor districts for the purpose of laboring there for hire, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine for every person so engaged or conveyed.

Natives of India shall not be engaged to proceed to the labor districts, or be conveyed there, save under this Act.

Penalty

16. Whoever, not being a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, shall otherwise than through or by the agency of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar engage any native of India to proceed to any of the labor-

No person not licensed as a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, may engage or contract to supply laborers.

districts for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, and whoever, not being a contractor, shall enter into any contract to supply, or shall supply, or shall transfer or make over whether to a recruiter or any other person, any such native for the purpose of laboring for hire in any of the labor districts; and whoever not being a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, shall enter into any contract to engage, or shall attempt to engage, any such native to proceed to any of the labor-districts for the purpose aforesaid; and whoever shall employ or appoint any person other than a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, to engage any such native, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished for each offence with fine or imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term not exceeding three months.

Penalty.

17. It shall not be lawful for any emigrant to be conveyed to any labor-district, unless and until he shall have entered into a duly registered contract with some person to serve such person there for a fixed period, which shall in no case exceed the term of three years from the date of his arrival on the estate of his employer in the said labor district. Every such contract shall be in the form in Schedule (A) annexed to this Act, and shall be reduced to writing, and shall specify the monthly amount of wages in money, the period of service, the name of the district in which the service is to be performed, and the price at which rice is to be supplied to the laborer.

Emigrant not to be conveyed to or towards a labor district until contract is executed.

Form and particulars of contract.

Chapter 3.—Garden-sirdar.

18. Every garden-sirdar, authorized by an employer under the provisions of section 13 to engage natives of India to proceed to a labor-district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, shall, before proceeding to engage any such native, personally present to the magistrate of the district, or division of the district within which is situate the estate of the employer, a certificate signed by such employer, in which shall be stated the name and description of such garden-sirdar, the name and description of the lands for the purpose of laboring upon which he is about to engage such natives, the district (or the town of Calcutta, as the case may be) in which he is about to engage them, the number which he is authorized to engage, and, if the number exceeds twenty, the name of the contractor to whose depôt they shall be conveyed. The certificate shall be in the form set forth in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act.

Garden-sirdar to obtain certificate from employer, and to present it to magistrate.

19. Such magistrate shall inquire into the facts stated in such certificate, and, upon being satisfied that the same are true, shall, unless it appears to him that the person so presenting such certificate is unfit to be employed for the purpose of engaging natives to proceed to a labor-district to labor therein for hire, countersign and date such certificate; and every such certificate shall be in force for six months from the date last mentioned, and no longer.

Magistrate after inquiry to countersign it.

20. If, under his certificate from his employer, any garden-sirdar is authorized to engage more than twenty natives of India, he shall be in all respects, save as regards his certificate, subject to the provisions of this Act which relate to recruiters. The following rules of this chapter shall apply to every garden-sirdar who is not authorized to engage more than twenty such natives.

Garden-sirdar authorized to engage more than twenty natives to be subject to provisions relating to a recruiter.

Garden-sirdar who is not a Recruiter.

21. A garden-sirdar shall not have authority in any district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant, until his certificate has been countersigned by the magistrate of such district or of such division of the district; or in Calcutta, until his certificate has been countersigned by the commissioner or the deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta.

Has no authority until certificate is countersigned by magistrate.

It shall be lawful for such magistrate, in case of misconduct or disobedience to or neglect of any of the provisions of this Act by a garden-sirdar, to cancel the certificate of such garden-sirdar.

Magistrate may cancel certificate.

22. Every native of India, who enters into an engagement with a garden-sirdar to proceed to a labor-district for the purpose of laboring for hire, shall appear with the garden-sirdar before the magistrate of the district or of the division of the district within which the engagement was made, or through which he shall first pass on the road to his destination. The garden sirdar shall at the same time produce his certificate to the Magistrate.

Every native to appear before magistrate before removal from district.

23. On the appearance of such native the magistrate shall examine him with reference to his engagement; and, if it appears that he understands such engagement as regards the locality, period, and nature of the service, the rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the magistrate shall register, in a book to be kept for the purpose, the following particulars, viz.—

Magistrate to examine native, and if the examination is satisfactory, to register particulars;

(1)—The name, the name of the father, and the age of such native;

(2)—The name of the village or place of which such native is a resident;

(3)—The labor-district to which he is engaged to proceed;

(4)—The period of service;

(5)—The rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied.

Provided that the magistrate may, if he thinks fit, require such native to appear before such medical officer as he may direct, and may refuse to register such native unless the medical officer certifies in writing that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district.

but may require medical certificate.

24. If the magistrate finds that such native does not understand the nature of the engagement, or has been induced to enter into the engagement by fraud or misrepresentation, or if the garden-sirdar shall not have produced his certificate, he shall refuse to register such native.

Magistrate, &c., may refuse to register.

25. For the registration of every such native the garden-sirdar shall pay to the registering officer a fee not exceeding one rupee and eight annas.

Fee to be paid for registration.

26. When such registration has been made, the emigrant shall execute a contract with the employer with whom he intends to contract. Such contract shall, in the presence of the magistrate, be signed in duplicate both by the emigrant and by the garden-sirdar on behalf of his employer. The contract may be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, and shall be on substantial paper. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the magistrate for the purpose; and after such abstract has been so entered, one of the duplicates shall be given to the emigrant and the other to the garden-sirdar.

Contract to be executed in duplicate and abstract to be entered in book to be kept by the magistrate;

The magistrate shall forward a certified copy of every such abstract so entered as aforesaid to the superintendent of emigration, by whom it shall be forwarded, after entry in his own register, to the magistrate of the district within which the service under such contract is agreed to be performed.

and copy to be sent to superintendent and magistrate.

27. The provisions of the six last preceding sections shall be applicable to natives of India engaged by a garden-sirdar within the town of Calcutta, except that they shall appear for registration and execution of contract before the superintendent of emigration.

Similar provisions for natives recruited in Calcutta.

28. Every native of India who shall be brought or induced to come by any garden-sirdar from any province or district not under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of entering into a contract to proceed to the labor-districts to labor therein for hire, shall be presented by the garden-sirdar for registry under the provisions of this chapter at some place within the district under the control of the said Lieutenant-Governor into which he shall first come, or at Calcutta, if he shall first come there.

Natives recruited in districts not in Bengal.

29. The garden-sirdar shall personally accompany natives of India engaged by him throughout their journey from the place in which the engagement was made to the place in which they are to be employed.

Garden-sirdar must personally accompany emigrants.

30. It shall not be lawful for two or more garden-sirdars to proceed together towards a labor-district accompanied by emigrants, if the total number of such emigrants exceeds twenty, or unless the permission of the superintendent of emigration or embarkation agent shall have been first obtained.

Garden-sirdar cannot proceed with more than twenty emigrants in one batch.

31. Every garden-sirdar, by whom any emigrant is accompanied, shall provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging throughout such journey. If it shall appear to any magistrate, on the complaint of any such emigrant, at any place on the journey that he has suffered any ill-treatment during the journey or that the garden-sirdar has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging; or if it be found on examination by a medical officer appointed by a magistrate for such purpose, that any such emigrant is not in a fit state of health to proceed to or to labor in a labor-district; such magistrate may order the garden-sirdar to pay to such emigrant a sum of money by way of compensation, or may cancel the contract and order the garden-sirdar to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged.

Garden-sirdar must provide food and lodging for emigrants on journey.

If such not provided, or if emigrant unfit, magistrate may award compensation, or cancel contract.

32. If any garden-sirder, who may be ordered under the provisions of the last preceding section to pay any sum of money, shall for twenty-four hours omit to comply with such order, it shall be lawful for the magistrate to advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the emigrant named in such order, and to recover from his employer the sum so advanced with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the date of such advance.

Recovery of fines ordered to be paid by Magistrate.

33. On the arrival in Calcutta of any emigrant whose contract has been executed by a garden-sirdar on behalf of his employer, any person empowered to act as the agent or representative of such employer may require the emigrant to appear before the superintendent of emigration for the purpose of cancelling the contract. The superintendent of emigration shall, on the appearance of such emigrant, declare that the contract is cancelled, if a sum of money sufficient for his support during his return to the place at which he was engaged, be paid to him before himself, and not otherwise, and shall make an endorsement to that effect on the contract, and shall attest it with his signature. Provided that the contract of any husband or wife or parent or child of such emigrant, who may have executed a contract at the same time with the same employer, shall be cancelled at the request of such person, and in such case an equal sum of money shall be paid to such person.

Agent in Calcutta may procure order from superintendent of emigration cancelling the contract on payment of expense of return.

34. It shall not be lawful for a garden-sirdar to embark any emigrants on board a vessel for conveyance to or towards a labor district, if the total number of persons to be carried by such vessel, exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying the emigrants, exceeds twenty, unless such emigrants are furnished with a pass by the embarkation agent in the form set forth in schedule (E) annexed to this Act.

Not to embark emigrants on any vessel containing more than twenty persons without a pass from the embarkation agent.

The embarkation agent shall not grant any such pass without a certificate from the medical inspector that such emigrants may be allowed to embark without danger to the health of other persons on board the vessel.

Pass not to be granted unless medical inspector is satisfied in regard to health.

35. As soon as possible after the arrival of the garden-sirdar with emigrants at the place of disembarkation, or at the nearest civil station in the district within which the emigrant has engaged to labor, the garden-sirdar shall report himself to the magistrate of the district or division of the district or to any subordinate magistrate whom the magistrate may depute for that purpose, and such magistrate shall check the number of emigrants landed with the number of those registered, and shall report to the superintendent of emigration any deaths which may have occurred on the journey. Any garden-sirdar who neglects to report himself as aforesaid shall on conviction by a magistrate be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to three months.

Must report arrival in labor-district.

Chapter 4.—Contractor.

36. The license granted to a contractor under section 14 shall be in the form set forth in the schedule (C) annexed to this Act. For every license there shall be paid to the superintendent of emigration a fee not exceeding one hundred rupees. Every such license shall be in force for one year and no longer; and in case of misconduct or disobedience to, or neglect of, any of the provisions of this Act by a contractor, the superintendent may cancel his license before the expiration of such period.

Form of license.

Fee.

Period.

37. It shall be the duty of every contractor to afford such information to the superintendent of emigration and to make such returns and reports to him as the superintendent, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, may from time to time require.

To give information to superintendent.

38. Every contractor shall forthwith, upon obtaining his license, establish a depôt in a place to be approved of by the superintendent of emigration. Every such depôt shall be maintained by such contractor for the reception of natives of India to be supplied or forwarded by or through him. All such natives shall on their arrival at or in the neighbourhood of the depôt so established by the contractor, by, through, to, or for whom they were engaged or forwarded, be forthwith received therein; and shall receive in such depôt, at the expense of such contractor, suitable lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance, until such native shall be declared by the superintendent to be no longer thereto entitled. Every such depôt as aforesaid shall be under the supervision of the superintendent, and shall be open to his inspection and the inspection of the medical inspector at all times.

To establish and maintain depôts.

39. A contractor may without other license act as a recruiter, and shall in such case be subject to all the provisions hereinafter contained with regard to recruiters.

May act as recruiter.

40. In addition to the depôts for the reception of emigrants which the contractors are required to establish and maintain, the Lieutenant-Governor may at any time direct that a separate depôt shall be established and maintained at any place for the reception of emigrants who are affected with cholera or other contagious disease. Whenever such hospital depôt is established, every contractor may be required to contribute to the expense of establishing and maintaining it in such proportion as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct. Such hospital depôt shall be under the charge of the medical inspector, who shall be competent at any time to direct the transfer thereto of any emigrants on or after their arrival at any depôt.

Establishment of hospital depôt.

Contractor to contribute to expense.

Under charge of medical inspector.

Chapter 5.—Recruiter.

41. The license granted to a recruiter under section 14 shall be in the form set forth in schedule (D) annexed to this Act. For every license there shall be paid to the superintendent of emigration a fee not exceeding sixteen rupees. Every such license shall be in force for one year and no longer; and in case of misconduct or disobedience to, or neglect of, any of the provisions of this Act by a recruiter, the superintendent may cancel his license before the expiration of such period.

Form of license.

Fee.

Period.

42. Every recruiter shall hold a written pass signed by the contractor on whose behalf he is licensed to act.

Recruiter must hold a pass.

43. A recruiter shall not have authority in any district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant until his license has been countersigned by the magistrate of the district or of the division of the district, or in Calcutta, until his license has been countersigned by the commissioner or the deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta; and such magistrate or commissioner or deputy commissioner of police shall, unless it appears to him that the person to whom a license has been granted is unfit to be employed as a recruiter, countersign such license.

No authority till license is countersigned by magistrate of recruiting district.

The magistrate or commissioner or deputy commissioner of police may at any time for any sufficient reason withdraw such license, provided that in any such case he shall record his reasons in writing and shall forward a copy thereof without delay to the superintendent of emigration.

Magistrate may withdraw license and suspend recruiting.

44. The magistrate or the commissioner or deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta, to whom any recruiter's license shall have been exhibited for countersignature, shall not countersign the same until he shall be satisfied that sufficient accommodation has been provided and is available for such natives of India as may be engaged by such recruiter pending their removal to a depôt.

Recruiter to provide accommodation for natives before license is countersigned.

Magistrate charged with superintendence of accommodation.

The magistrate of the district, or division of the district, in which there may be any such accommodation provided, shall have, for the supervision, management, and regulation of such accommodation, all such and the same powers and authorities as are vested in the superintendent of emigration for the supervision, management, and regulation of depôts which are subject to the powers and authority of the superintendent.

Native to be taken for examination to medical officer, who may reject.

45. Every native of India who shall, in any place or town within the said provinces, enter into any engagement with any recruiter to proceed to a labor-district, for the purpose of laboring for hire, shall be brought by such recruiter before such medical officer as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time appoint to examine such natives within such place or town; or, if no such officer has been appointed, before such medical officer as the magistrate may direct. The medical officer shall thereupon examine the native brought by the recruiter, and shall reject him or shall certify in writing that he is in a fit state of health and able, in point of physical condition, to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district.

If certified to be fit, native to be taken to magistrate.

46. Every such native who is certified by the medical officer, as required in the last preceding section, to be fit to emigrate to a labor district, shall thereupon appear with the recruiter before the magistrate of the district or division of the district within which the place or town where the engagement was entered into is situate. The recruiter shall at the same time produce his license to the magistrate.

Magistrate to examine native respecting the engagement.

On the appearance of such native the magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall examine him with reference to his engagement, and if it appears that he understands such engagement as regards the locality, period, and nature of the service, the rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the magistrate shall register in a book to be kept for the purpose—

If satisfied, magistrate will register certain particulars.

(1.) The name, the name of the father, and the age of such native;

(2.) The name of the village or place of which such native is a resident;

(3.) The contractor's depôt to which it is intended that he shall proceed;

(4.) The labor-district to which he is engaged to proceed;

(5.) The period of service;

(6.) The rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied.

If dissatisfied, will reject.

If the magistrate thinks that such native does not understand the nature of the engagement, or has been induced to enter into the engagement by fraud or misrepresentation, or if the recruiter shall not have produced his license, he shall refuse to register such native.

Copy of registration to be given to emigrant.

47. A certified copy of his registration, written on substantial paper, shall be furnished by the magistrate to each emigrant.

Copy of registration and medical certificate to be sent to superintendent.

48. A certified copy of every such registration and the original certificate of the medical officer shall be forthwith forwarded by the magistrate to the superintendent of emigration.

Fee for registration.

49. For the registration of every such native the recruiter shall pay to the registering officer a fee not exceeding one rupee and eight annas.

Similar provisions for natives recruited in Calcutta.

50. The provisions of the five preceding sections shall be applicable to all natives of India engaged by recruiters within the town of Calcutta, except that they shall be brought for registration before the superintendent of emigration therein.

Natives recruited in districts not in Bengal.

51. Every native of India who shall be brought or induced to come by any recruiter from any province or district not under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of entering into a contract in a district under such control, shall be presented by the recruiter for medical examination and registry under the provisions of this chapter at some place within the district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor, into which he shall first come, or at Calcutta, if he shall first come there.

Penalty for forwarding natives without registration.

52. Every recruiter, who forwards or accompanies any native of India from the district or division of the district within which the place or town where he has been recruited, is situate, or into which, under the last preceding section, he has first come, or who induces any such native to leave such district or division of district for the purpose of proceeding to a labor district, without being duly registered as above required; or who forwards, accompanies, or induces any such native to proceed to any depôt other than the depôt registered under section 38, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished in respect of every such native so forwarded, accompanied, or induced, with a fine which may extend to fifty rupees, or with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term which may extend to one month.

Recruiter must accompany emigrants to depôt, or depute person approved by magistrate.

53. All emigrants proceeding to a depôt shall be accompanied throughout the journey by the recruiter himself, or by a competent person appointed by him with the approval of the magistrate, by whom such emigrants have been registered. The magistrate shall give to the person so appointed a certificate under his signature stating that he has been appointed for the journey to the depôt.

Recruiter must provide food and lodging for emigrants on journey.

54. Every recruiter, by whom any emigrant is forwarded or accompanied to a depôt, shall, throughout the journey, provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging. If it shall appear to a magistrate, on the complaint of any such emigrant at any place on the journey, that the recruiter has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging at such place, such recruiter shall, on conviction by such magistrate, be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees. The whole or any portion of such fine may be awarded to such emigrant as compensation. If the fine be not paid within twenty-four hours, the recruiter shall be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to one month.

Chapter 6.—Depôt.

Contractor to report arrival of emigrants.

55. Within twenty-four hours after the arrival at any depôt of any emigrant, the contractor by whom such depôt is maintained shall give to the superintendent of emigration a notice in writing of such arrival, which notice shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the superintendent shall prescribe.

Emigrants to be inspected by medical inspector immediately on arrival.

56. The copy of the registration and the medical certificate of every emigrant received by the superintendent as provided in section 48 shall be shown to the medical inspector; and all emigrants shall be inspected by the medical inspector at the depôt. If he be satisfied that an emigrant is in a fit state of health, and able in point of physical condition to journey to and labor in a labor-district, he shall countersign the copy of the registration; if he be not satisfied thereof, he shall give a certificate to that effect to the superintendent.

Medical inspector to examine emigrant if medical certificate not given.

The medical inspector shall examine any emigrant in regard to whom a medical certificate is not forthcoming, and shall certify whether such emigrant is in his opinion in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district; and if satisfied of his fitness, he shall countersign the copy of the registration.

Emigrant rejected by medical inspector to be sent back.

57. If the medical inspector shall certify that any emigrant so examined is in such a state of health that his journey to a labor-district would be dangerous to himself or to others, or that he is unfit for labor in a labor-district, the superintendent may order the contractor, or the garden-sirdar, if such emigrant has been forwarded or brought to the depôt by a garden-sirdar, to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged. Provided that any such person, who from his state of health is, in the opinion of the medical inspector, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where he was engaged, shall, until he is reported by the medical inspector fit to undertake such journey, be fed, clothed, lodged, and medically attended at the expense of such contractor, or of such garden-sirdar, as the case may be. If such contractor or garden-sirdar negligently or wilfully omits to provide food, clothing, lodging and medical attendance for such person, the superintendent may order such contractor or garden-sirdar to pay to him a sum of money by way of compensation.

Family of detained emigrant may remain with him.

58. Whenever an emigrant remains behind or is detained under the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such emigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the emigrant so remaining behind or detained. If there are any children, they shall also be allowed to remain behind with the father or mother.

Emigrant ill-treated during journey may obtain compensation.

59. If upon the arrival of any emigrant at a depôt, it shall appear to the superintendent of emigration on the complaint of such emigrant, that he has suffered any ill treatment on the journey or that the recruiter or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging, the superintendent may cause him to be removed from the depôt, and may order the contractor or garden-sirdar, for or by whom he shall have been taken to such depôt, to pay to him a sum of money by way of compensation, or sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged, and in such latter case he shall not be bound to execute any contract.

Contract to be explained by superintendent and executed in duplicate, and abstract to be entered in book to be kept by superintendent.

60. Every emigrant, who is passed by the medical inspector as in a fit state of health and able, in point of physical condition, to journey to and labor in a labor-district, shall execute a contract with the employer with whom he intends to contract before he is forwarded from the depôt. Such contract shall, in the presence of the superintendent of emigration, be signed in duplicate both by the emigrant and by the employer with whom he intends to contract or his agent. The contract may be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, and shall be on substantial paper. Before the emigrant signs the contract, the superintendent shall personally explain it to him, and shall attest such contract and certify at the foot thereof that he has personally explained the same. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the superintendent for the purpose, and after such contract has been so entered, one of the duplicates shall be given to the emigrant, and the other to the person with whom he has contracted or his agent.

The superintendent shall, within seven days after the entry of such abstract, send by post a certified copy of every such abstract to the magistrate of the district in which the service under such contract is agreed to be performed.

Penalty on emigrant refusing to execute contract.

61. Any emigrant who, without reasonable cause, refuses to execute such contract in conformity with the engagement previously registered shall, on conviction by a Magistrate, be punished with a fine equal in amount to the entire cost incurred by, or on behalf of, the contractor, or the garden-sirdar, as the case may be, in engaging, registering, and bringing or forwarding him to the depôt, and shall forthwith be discharged from such depôt. Every fine levied under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the contractor or garden-sirdar on whose behalf or by whom the person from whom such fine shall have been levied was originally registered.

Penalty on contractor failing to provide contract.

62. If within thirty days after the arrival of any emigrant at a depôt, the contractor or, if he has been engaged by a garden-sirdar, the garden-sirdar on whose behalf or by whom such emigrant has been registered, shall not tender to him for execution such contract as under the provisions of the preceding sections he would be bound to execute, the superintendent may order the contractor or the garden-sirdar, as the case may be, to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place where he was engaged, and in such case such emigrant shall not be bound to execute any contract.

Money ordered to be paid by superintendent, may be advanced by him and recovered.

63. If any contractor or garden-sirdar who may be ordered, under the provisions of sections 57, 59, and 62, to pay any sum of money, shall for twenty-four hours omit to comply with such order, it shall be lawful for the superintendent to advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the person named in such order, and to recover from such contractor or garden-sirdar or his employer the sum so advanced, with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the date of such advance.

Chapter 7.—Transport.

Transport rules when applicable.

64. The provisions of this chapter excepting sections 70, 79, 80, 81, 82, and so much of section 97 as refers to sections 29, 31, 32, and 33, shall not apply to the transport of emigrants recruited by a garden-sirdar when the number of such emigrants does not exceed twenty, unless they have embarked under a pass from the emigration agent in accordance with the provisions of section 34.

Emigrant to be forwarded to labor-district with permission of superintendent.

65. When the contract of any emigrant has been duly executed, he may, with the permission of the superintendent of emigration, be forwarded to the labor-district in which he has engaged to labor by the contractor in whose depôt he is residing, or by the employer with whom he has made the contract or his agent.

To be furnished with a pass.

Every such emigrant shall be furnished with a pass in the form set forth in schedule (E) annexed to this Act, signed by the contractor or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, and countersigned by the superintendent of emigration and by the emigration agent at the place at which the laborer embarks, specifying his name and age, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer. Every such pass shall be entered in a book to be kept by the emigration agent, and shall be dated and numbered in a consecutive series.

Vessel must be licensed to carry emigrants.

66. It shall not be lawful for the master of any vessel, without a license granted by the emigration agent within the local limits of whose authority any emigrant may embark, to convey more than twenty emigrants at any one time to or towards any labor-district; provided always that the number of persons (exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) carried by any vessel shall not exceed twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34.

Fee for license.

A fee not exceeding four annas for every emigrant shall be paid for every such license, and it shall be in the discretion of the emigration agent to whom application is made to grant or withhold any such license. Such license shall be in force for only one voyage to one or more of the labor-districts, and shall specify the number of emigrants which the vessel is licensed to carry and the number of persons (including the crew) other than emigrants whom such vessel is licensed to carry.

Penalty for carrying without license.

The master of any vessel, in which at one time more than twenty emigrants are conveyed without a license having been obtained as aforesaid, or in which the number of persons on board (exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) exceeds twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for delay in despatching vessel.

67. Such license shall state the date on which the vessel shall leave the place at which the emigrants are to embark. If the vessel does not leave such place and proceed on its voyage within 24 hours of the day fixed, the master thereof shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for each day during which the vessel remains at or within five miles of the place of embarkation. Provided that such penalty shall not be incurred if the delay is caused by or with the sanction of the emigration agent or by any casualty incidental to or attending navigation, or is due to other reasonable and sufficient cause.

Fraudulent alteration of vessel after grant of certificate.

68. If the master of any vessel, after having obtained a license as aforesaid, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act or thing whereby the state of the vessel is altered, so that such vessel is unfit for the accommodation of the number of emigrants mentioned in such license, such master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for receiving on board more passengers than number specified in license.

69. The master of any vessel licensed to carry emigrants, who receives on board his vessel a greater number of emigrants or other persons than the number specified in his license shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine for every emigrant or other person so received in excess of the licensed number.

Two children under ten to be counted as one person.

70. In computing under this Act the number of persons on board of any vessel, two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

No emigrant to be received on board without pass.

71. The master of any vessel, whether licensed or not, shall not take on board any emigrant, if the number of such emigrants exceeds twenty, unless such emigrant, or some person accompanying him, shall show the pass prescribed by section 65 countersigned by the emigration agent; or if the number of persons to be carried by such vessel (exclusive of the crew or of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) exceeds twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34. The master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine not exceeding ten rupees for every emigrant illegally taken on board.

Embarkation agent to furnish the master with a list of emigrants on board.

72. The master of a licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall not proceed on the voyage towards a labor-district until he has received from the embarkation agent a list of all the emigrants on board.

List what to contain.

Such list shall contain all the particulars noted in the pass of each such emigrant; but if all the emigrants whose names are entered in any one pass embark on board the same vessel, it shall be sufficient if the number and date of such pass are noted in the list.

To be compared with emigrants by agent and master.

The embarkation agent and the master of the vessel shall together personally ascertain that the number of emigrants on board corresponds with the number entered in such list.

Penalty for admitting emigrants not in list.

If the master of such vessel allows any emigrant not entered in such list to proceed in the vessel, he shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Copy of list to be sent to magistrate.

The embarkation agent shall send a copy of the said list or an extract from it to the magistrate of the labor-district to which any of the emigrants are proceeding.

Provisions, medical and other stores, medical officers, cooks, &c.

73. There shall be laden under the supervision of the embarkation agent on board of any licensed vessel carrying emigrants to or towards any labor-district, at the time of the embarkation of such emigrants, such supplies of provisions, clothing, medical drugs, and other stores, and such medical and other officers, and such cooks and other attendants, as may be required under the rules made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act.

Penalty if master proceeds without.

The master of any such vessel who shall commence the voyage without having on board such supplies of provisions, clothing, medical drugs, and other stores, and such medical and other officers, and such cooks and other attendants, as may be required as aforesaid, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Vessel carrying 200 emigrants must carry a qualified medical officer.

74. No vessel carrying two hundred emigrants shall be allowed to proceed on the voyage unless a medical officer, who is a licentiate in medicine, or who is declared to be qualified for such charge by order of the Lieutenant-Governor, has been appointed to the charge of such emigrants. And any master who shall commence the voyage without having on board such medical officer as aforesaid shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months.

Emigrant not allowed finally to leave vessel at any place other than that mentioned in pass.

75. If the master of any licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall, save as hereinafter is provided, cause or permit any emigrant finally to leave such vessel at any place other than that named as the destination of such emigrant in his pass, such master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for each such offence. Provided always that this section shall not be deemed to prevent the master of any vessel from permitting emigrants to disembark at any place or places on the voyage so long as such disembarkation is not intended or known to be likely to be final; nor to prevent the final disembarkation of any emigrants in case of accident or other unavoidable necessity, if such accident or necessity be forthwith reported to the embarkation agent by whom the license of such vessel was granted, and to the nearest magistrate in the district within which such accident may occur or necessity arise.

Master to report arrival of emigrants at every intermediate station where there is a magistrate.

76. Every licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall stop at every place in which a magistrate is stationed, intermediate between the places of embarkation and disembarkation of such emigrants, and shall remain during not less than six hours of daylight. The master of every such vessel shall immediately on arrival report to the magistrate, or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 94, the number of emigrants on board, the general state of their health, and the number of deaths (if any) which have occurred among the persons who embarked on such vessel.

Any master who wilfully omits to comply with the provisions of this section shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may at any time inspect vessel.

77. A magistrate may at any time go on board of any such licensed vessel carrying emigrants while within the limits of his jurisdiction, and may inspect the vessel, the emigrants, and all persons on board.

Master bound to give all information required.

The master and officers of such vessel shall be bound to afford to such magistrate all reasonable facility for such inspection, and to give him all such information respecting the emigrants or other persons on board as may be reasonably required, and respecting any deaths which may have occurred on board, and respecting any other facts which may affect the health of the emigrants.

Penalty for omission.

Any master or other officer, who wilfully omits to give any such information to such magistrate, shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may regulate communication between vessel and land.

78. On the arrival of such vessel, or at any time while it is within the limits of his jurisdiction, the magistrate may regulate the communication between such vessel and the land, and may prohibit all persons from leaving the vessel and all persons on land from proceeding on board. And any person not complying with any order made under this section shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may detain vessel for inspection and for removal of disease, and may detain sick emigrants.

79. A magistrate may, if he has reason to believe that any emigrants on board any vessel within the limits of his jurisdiction are or are likely to be affected with any infectious or contagious disease, detain such vessel, and require the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inspect the emigrants on board such vessel, and to report on their health, and whether any or what measures are requisite for the removal or prevention of such disease. After the submission of such report the magistrate may detain the vessel for a further period not exceeding five days for the purpose of carrying out such measures, if any, recommended by the medical officer in his report, and he may further detain at such station for medical treatment any emigrant who is affected with any infectious or contagious disease.

Magistrate may detain emigrants proceeding by land.

80. A magistrate may, if he has reason to believe that a party of emigrants proceeding by land within the limits of his jurisdiction are or are likely to be affected with any infectious or contagious disease, detain such party and require the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inspect the emigrants and to report on their health, and whether any and what measures are requisite for the removal or prevention of such disease, and the magistrate may further detain for medical treatment such party or such emigrants of the party as are affected with any infectious or contagious disease for such period as the medical officer may certify to be requisite.

Magistrate may detain sick emigrants,

and shall arrange for their accommodation and treatment.

81. If in any case whatever it appears to a magistrate expedient that any emigrant, in consequence of ill health, should not be allowed to proceed towards a labor district, he may order the detention of such emigrant; and in such case he shall cause all necessary arrangements to be made for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of such emigrant.

Expenses how to be recovered.

82. All expenses incurred under sections 79, 80, or 81, by a magistrate or other officer deputed by him under the provisions of section 93, in respect of any emigrant so detained shall, with interest at six per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the contractor by whom the emigrant has been engaged or forwarded; or in the case of an emigrant engaged by a garden-sirdar, from the employer from whom such garden-sirdar received his certificate.

Measures to be taken if excess number of emigrants is found on board.

83. If it appears to a magistrate making an inspection of any licensed vessel that the number of emigrants on board is larger than the number specified in the license, he may remove the excess number and detain them until another opportunity of forwarding them to their destination is found. The necessary expense of maintaining such emigrants, and of conveying them to their destination, shall be recoverable by such magistrate or other officer who may have been deputed as aforesaid from the master of such vessel.

Infraction of the Act and rules to be reported.

84. In any case in which, on making an inspection of a licensed vessel, a magistrate shall find that any of the provisions of this Act or of any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act have not been complied with, he shall report the same to the embarkation agent by whom the license to carry the emigrants was granted to such vessel;

Vessel may be detained.

and, if the circumstances of the case are such as in such magistrate's opinion make it necessary so to do, he may detain the vessel until the provisions of this Act, or any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor as aforesaid, have been complied with, so far as to make it possible for the voyage to be further prosecuted with safety and reasonable comfort to the emigrants.

On arrival of licensed vessel at the place of disembarkation, the master shall give information to the magistrate.

85. Whenever any licensed vessel carrying emigrants arrives at a civil station at which it is intended that any of such emigrants shall disembark, the master shall immediately give notice of the arrival to the magistrate or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 93, and shall forward to him at the same time the list furnished to him by the embarkation agent under the provisions of section 72, or a copy of so much of the said list as relates to the emigrants who are to disembark. The master shall not permit any such emigrants to leave the vessel without the order of the magistrate.

Magistrate shall send information to employer or agent,

Immediately on the receipt of such notice the magistrate shall send information of the arrival of the emigrants to the employers with whom they have contracted, or to the agents of such persons. And he shall at the same time direct the civil medical and direct medical inspection.

officer of the station, or other qualified medical officer, to go on board such vessel and to inspect such emigrants.

Report of medical inspection.

Such medical officer shall, without delay, make a careful inspection of all such emigrants; and, after making such inspection, shall prepare and sign a report, in which he shall certify the state of health and general condition of each emigrant so inspected.

Sick emigrants to be detained at station.

86. The magistrate shall detain at the station for medical treatment any emigrant who is, in the opinion of the medical officer, in such a state of health as to be unfit to proceed to the place at which he has contracted to labor. In such case he shall cause all necessary arrangements to be made for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of such emigrant, and all expenses so incurred by the magistrate in respect of any emigrant so detained shall, with interest at six per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the employer with whom such emigrant has contracted.

87. The magistrate shall also ascertain whether reasonable provision has been made for the support and lodging of the emigrants from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination. If he is satisfied that such reasonable provision has been made, the employer with whom such emigrants have contracted or his agent shall forthwith take charge of such emigrants except those, if any, detained under the provisions of the last preceding section. But if such reasonable provision has not been made, or if the employer or his agent shall not be present at the place of disembarkation, the magistrate shall order such arrangements to be made, and incur such expenses as under the circumstances may seem to him necessary; and the amount of expenses so incurred by him in the disembarkation, or in respect of the food, lodging, medicines, hospital attendance, or clothing of the laborers, shall, with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the employer with whom such emigrants have contracted.

If necessary provision has been made for the support and lodging of the emigrants, they shall be made over to employer or agent.

If not made, or if employer or agent not present, magistrate to make arrangements; expenses recoverable from employers.

88. If it is intended that the emigrants on board of any licensed vessel shall disembark at a place which is not a civil station, the master of such vessel shall report the arrival, as required in section 85, to the magistrate or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 93, at the last civil station which such vessel shall pass before arriving at the said place of disembarkation, and shall not proceed on his voyage until the medical inspection of such emigrants has been made as provided in the said section. The master shall not permit any such emigrants to leave the vessel without the order of the magistrate. Immediately on the receipt of such notice, the magistrate shall send information of the arrival of the emigrants to the employers with whom they have contracted, or to the agents of such persons. When such inspection has been made, the magistrate shall, without delay, authorize the master to proceed on his voyage, provided that he may, if he thinks fit, detain any emigrant who is unfit to proceed under the provisions of section 81.

If emigrants are to disembark at a place other than a civil station, medical inspection to be made at the civil station last preceding.

89. On the arrival of any licensed vessel at a place of disembarkation which is not a civil station, the emigrants who are to disembark at such place shall, in case the employers with whom they have contracted to labor, or the agents of such persons, be present, be disembarked and given in charge to such employers or agents. Provided that in case the medical officer in charge of such emigrants, if there be any such medical officer, and if there be not, then the master of the vessel in which such emigrants have been conveyed, shall be of opinion that any of such emigrants are in such a state of health as to be unfit to proceed to the places where they have respectively contracted to labor, or that reasonable provision for the support and lodging of such emigrants from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination has not been made, or in case the employers with whom such emigrants have contracted to labor, or the agents of such persons, shall not be present at the place of disembarkation, then and in every such case the emigrants so unfit to proceed, or for whose support reasonable provision has not been made, or whose employers may not be present personally or by their agents, shall be further conveyed in the vessel to the next civil station, and shall be there disembarked, and the place at which they shall be so disembarked shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be their place of disembarkation.

Disembarkation at such place.

If necessary provision not made, emigrants to be carried on to next station.

90. Whenever an emigrant is detained under the provisions of sections 81, 86, or 88, or is further conveyed under the provisions of section 89, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such emigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the emigrant so detained, or to be taken forward along with the emigrant so further conveyed. If there are any children, they shall also be allowed to remain, or be taken forward with the father or mother.

Family of detained emigrant may remain with him.

91. Every medical officer who is required to make a report under the provisions of this chapter, shall submit such report to the magistrate, and shall enter therein the name and age of each emigrant, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer, as set forth in the list prepared by the embarkation agent under the provisions of section 72.

Particulars to be entered in the reports of medical officers.

92. The magistrate or other officer deputed by him under the provisions of section 93, shall make a detailed report to the superintendent of emigration, of the arrival of all emigrants carried in a licensed vessel, and of all proceedings taken and orders passed by him under the provisions of this chapter, and shall forward with such report a copy of every report made to him by a medical officer relating to emigrants proceeding to a labor district. He shall also forward to the superintendent any observations which he or the medical officer may think fit to make in regard to the state of health and general condition of the emigrants. Whenever such reports or observations relate to emigrants carried in a licensed vessel, he shall forward them to the embarkation agent by whom such emigrants were despatched, and the agent shall transmit them to the superintendent with any remarks which he may desire to record.

Magistrate to report arrival of all emigrants, and all proceedings, to the superintendent of emigration;

in certain cases through the embarkation agent.

93. The magistrate of a district, or of a division of a district, may depute any subordinate magistrate to exercise the powers and authorities conferred, and perform the duties imposed on a magistrate under the provisions of sections 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83, 84, 85, 86, 88, and 92.

Magistrate may depute a subordinate magistrate to discharge the functions of the magistrate.

94. Every master of a vessel, or medical officer in charge of emigrants on board of any vessel carrying emigrants, who shall wilfully and knowingly neglect or refuse to obey or to enforce on board of such vessel any rule which may from time to time be prescribed by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty, if master or medical officer neglects to enforce rules.

95. Any offence against any of the provisions of this chapter, or of any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act, committed on board of any vessel, may be tried by any magistrate exercising jurisdiction in any place at which emigrants may have embarked on board such vessel, or may have disembarked from such vessel, or in any place in which such vessel may be detained under the provisions of this Act.

Jurisdiction, if offence created by this Act is committed on board.

96. Any emigrant who deserts while in transit from the district in which he has been registered to the district in which he has engaged to labor may, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a period which may extend to three months. Such offence may be inquired into and tried in the district in which such emigrant is apprehended, or in the district in which the desertion took place, or in the district in which he was registered.

Punishment of emigrant for desertion.

97. The provisions with regard to engaged natives of India and emigrants contained in sections 29, 31, 32, 33, 54, 57, 59, 73, 79, 80, 81, 84, 86, 87, and 88 of this Act, shall be applicable to such women, children, and aged relatives of such natives and emigrants as may, with the consent of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, and with the written permission of the registering magistrate or superintendent, accompany them without having entered into an engagement.

Provisions of sections 29, 31, 33, 54, 57, 59, 73, 79, 80, 81, 84, 86, 87, 88 to apply to children, &c., accompanying emigrants.

PART III.—LABOR DISTRICTS.

Chapter 8.—Inland Labor Transport Fund.

98. The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time, by order published in the Calcutta Gazette, fix a yearly rate, not exceeding one rupee and eight anas per laborer, for the purpose of defraying the expense of carrying out the purposes of this Act; and the sum or rate so fixed shall be paid half-yearly by each employer on the last day of July and the last day of January in each year for each laborer entered in the last return of laborers furnished (as is hereinafter provided) by such employer before such date.

Annual rate payable by employers.

99. If any employer shall fail to comply with the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to notify such default to him; and if within one month from the receipt of such notification, or such longer period as it may, under special circumstances, appear to the magistrate reasonable, such employer shall not so comply, the magistrate shall, by distress and sale of any movable property which may be found in the possession or under the charge of such employer, levy the sum so payable.

Payment of rate how to be enforced.

If there shall be no such movable property, or insufficient movable property so found, the amount shall be recoverable by a civil regular suit from the person for whose benefit the laborers in respect of whom the same may be payable shall have been employed. In every such suit the Government shall be named as plaintiff, and the cause of action shall be taken to have arisen within the limits of the jurisdiction of any court having jurisdiction at any place where any such laborers may have been employed by such employer.

100. Subject to the powers conferred on a magistrate by this Act or by the Code of Criminal Procedure, of awarding fines in whole or in part as compensation to or for the benefit of any complainant or other person, all fines, fees, and rates levied and paid under this Act shall be credited to a fund which shall be called the "Inland Labor Transport Fund," and such fund shall be at the disposal of the Lieutenant-Governor for defraying the expenses of carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Fines, fees, and rates to be credited to "Inland Labor Transport Fund."

Chapter 9.—Inspector's Returns and Magistrates' Inspections.

101. The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint in any labor district so many inspectors and assistant inspectors of laborers as he may think proper, and may define, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, the local limits within which each such inspector and assistant inspector shall exercise the powers and authorities conferred, and perform the duties imposed on him by this Act. Such inspectors and assistant inspectors may be by the said Lieutenant-Governor vested with all or any of the powers of a magistrate.

Appointment of inspectors and assistant inspectors.

102. The Lieutenant-Governor may authorize inspectors and assistant inspectors to entertain such establishment as he may think fit. An assistant inspector shall perform all such duties and exercise all such powers of an inspector as he is authorized in writing by the inspector to perform or exercise.

Establishment.

Duty of assistant inspector.

103. Every employer shall, on or before the last day of January and the last day of July in each and every year, make out in writing, and deliver to the inspector of laborers, a return of the number of all laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed by such employer on the last day of the preceding month, and return of the sickness and mortality among the laborers during the preceding six months.

Half-yearly report of laborers employed, of their state of health, and of mortality.

104. If any employer shall refuse or wilfully omit duly to send in any such return, or shall knowingly send in an incorrect return, such employer shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for omission to furnish such report or for submitting false report.

Periodical inspection of laborers to be made by inspector.

105. Every inspector of laborers shall once within each of such periods as may be fixed for such purpose by the Lieutenant-Governor, visit all lands within the limits of his authority on which there shall be employed any laborers, and inspect every hospital, tent, camp, or building in any way used by any such laborers, and investigate the condition of the laborers employed; and for such purpose the inspector may require that any laborer shall be brought before him with his contract, and may make such inquiries as may to him seem proper. Every such inspector shall keep books, in which from time to time shall be entered the number of laborers then under contract with each employer, the number who shall then be sick or missing, or who shall have complained of ill-treatment, the particulars of such complaints, and such other particulars regarding the laborers as the Lieutenant-Governor shall from time to time direct. Each inspector shall annually make a written report to the Lieutenant-Governor through the Commissioner of the division of the aforesaid particulars; and every such report, as regards the laborers under any particular employer, shall, at all reasonable times, be open to the inspection of such employer or any person by him appointed in writing in that behalf, and the person so inspecting shall be entitled to take a copy of the report so far as it relates to such laborers.

Books to be kept by inspector.

Annual report.

Such report open to inspection by employer.

Magistrate may at any time inspect laborers' buildings used by them, &c.

106. It shall be lawful for any magistrate exercising jurisdiction in the district, or any person authorized by him in writing in that behalf, at any time to enter and inspect any hospital, tent, camp, or building, wholly or partially used by or for laborers, and to require that any laborer shall be brought before him with his contract, and to make any inquiries which he may think proper touching the condition or treatment of any laborer.

Penalty for obstructing inspection or inquiry.

If any employer, or other person acting for or under such employer, wilfully obstructs or impedes any entry, inspection, or inquiry, made under either of the two preceding sections, such employer or other person as aforesaid shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for each such offence.

Chapter 10.—Regulation of Labor.

Schedule of daily tasks to be framed.

107. Every employer shall from time to time, with the sanction of the inspector previously obtained, fix the daily tasks to be executed by the laborers employed by such employer, and shall frame a schedule of such daily tasks, and publish the same by posting a copy thereof in the Bengali language upon the door of each place of payment of the laborers employed by such employer, and by sending a copy thereof in the English language to the inspector.

Maximum amount of labor.

108. No laborer shall be bound to work under his contract more than six days in one week, or more than six hours consecutively, or more than nine hours on any one day.

Inspector may submit schedule to a committee.

109. If at any time the inspector considers such schedule of daily tasks or any part thereof to be unreasonable, he shall refer the consideration of such schedule to a committee consisting of the inspector, of some employer to be nominated by him, and of some person to be nominated by the employer whose schedule is to be considered, or on his default by the inspector.

Committee to revise schedule.

110. In case the said committee or the majority in number thereof are of opinion that the daily tasks in such schedule contained, or any of them, unreasonable, they shall modify and reduce such daily tasks in such manner as they shall deem reasonable, and such schedule so modified shall be published in manner aforesaid, and every schedule published as aforesaid shall have effect as between the employer and laborers in substitution for any former schedule.

Chapter 11.—Incapacity for Labor.

Inspector may suspend contract of any laborer temporarily unfitted for labor.

111. It shall be lawful for the inspector of laborers within the local limits of whose authority any laborer may be employed, to suspend, for such period as he shall consider advisable, the contract of such laborer, or any particular term thereof, if such laborer shall be, in the judgment of such inspector, temporarily unfitted for the performance thereof by reason of sickness, pregnancy, or other sufficient cause. Provided that every such suspension shall be endorsed by the inspector on the contract. Provided also that every such laborer shall, during such incapacity, receive such subsistence money from his employer as shall be considered sufficient by the inspector, and that the time during which the suspension continues shall not be reckoned as part of the term for which the laborer is bound to serve.

Penalty for compelling laborer to perform work for which he is unfit.

112. If it shall be found that any laborer has been compelled to perform any species of labor for which he was at the time unfit, the employer by whom he was so employed shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Discharge of laborers permanently incapacitated.

113. If, in the opinion of the inspector of laborers, any laborer shall be permanently incapacitated for the performance of his contract or any material part thereof, the inspector shall certify to that effect in writing, and deliver such certificate to the employer of such laborer or some one on his behalf, and from the date of such certificate the contract of such laborer shall wholly cease and determine. The inspector shall make a return of all such cases of determination of contract in his report under section 105. Every laborer whose contract shall have been determined as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive from his employer such sum, not exceeding three months' wages, as the inspector may award, and such sum shall be recoverable before a magistrate in the manner hereinafter provided for the recovery of wages.

Chapter 12.—Necessary Provision for Laborers.

114. Whenever any laborers shall be employed in any labor district, the employer of such laborers shall be bound to provide for them sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and rice.

Sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, and sanitary arrangements to be provided.

115. Every employer shall be bound to provide for his laborers such sufficient hospital accommodation, and such medicines of such quality and description, and according to such scale, as shall from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor; and if three hundred or more laborers shall be employed by any employer, it shall be the duty of such employer to place in medical charge of such laborers a medical officer holding a medical diploma as licentiate in medicine, from some Indian or European collegiate institution authorized to grant diplomas, or an officer for the time being licensed by the local Government to act in such medical charge of laborers.

Hospital, medicines, &c., to be provided.

116. It shall be lawful for any inspector or assistant inspector who is himself a magistrate, to institute within his jurisdiction, on the lands in charge of any employer, or at some place within his jurisdiction not more than ten miles distant from such lands, an inquiry whether such employer has provided for his laborers sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice. On the complaint of any inspector or assistant inspector a similar inquiry may be made by a magistrate.

Inquiry whether employer has failed to provide as required by the rules.

117. If the employer is convicted of gross neglect in not having provided sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice, such employer shall be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees. In any case where a magistrate shall find that proper or sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice, has not been provided, he may order the employer to provide such proper and sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and rice. If the employer wilfully omits to comply with such order, he shall, on conviction, be punished with a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees a day for every day that such omission continues. In default of payment by the employer of the last mentioned fine, the person on whose account such employer has been acting shall be liable to pay the fine.

Punishment for gross neglect as to house accommodation, &c., and for wilfully omitting to comply with the order of the magistrate in such respect.

118. Wherever such sufficient hospital accommodation or such medicines of such quality and description, and according to such scale, or such medical officer as aforesaid, shall not have been provided, the employer or other person through whose wilful default the same shall not have been provided shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for every week during which any such default continues.

Penalty for failure to provide hospital accommodation, &c.

Chapter 13.—Localities unfit for the Residence of Laborers.

119. If an inspector of laborers shall at any time have reason to believe that any estate or portion of an estate situated within the limits of his jurisdiction is by reason of climate, situation, or condition unfit for the residence of laborers, he shall give notice in writing of his opinion to the magistrate of the district, and such magistrate shall forthwith summon a committee to inquire into the fitness of such estate or portion thereof for the residence of laborers. Such committee shall consist of the magistrate, the inspector of laborers, the medical officer of the district, and one or more employers of laborers, when such persons are available. If the magistrate is unable to procure the service on such committee of any employer of laborers he may, with the sanction of the commissioner of the division, appoint one or more persons whom he may deem qualified.

Inspector to report.

Magistrate to summon committee.

Such committee shall proceed, with as little delay as possible, to inquire into the healthiness of the estate or portion thereof to which the order appointing the committee has reference, and shall hear such information on the subject as the owner of the estate, or the employer or inspector, may desire to place before it; and if such committee, or the major part in number thereof, shall be of opinion that such estate or any portion thereof be unfit for the residence of laborers, it shall record a finding to that effect; and the contract of every laborer who shall have contracted to serve on such estate shall thereupon be void as regards such estate or portion of estate as may be found unfit for the residence of laborers.

Proceedings of committee.

If committee finds unfit, contract to be void as regards such locality.

Provided that every such contract shall continue valid with regard to any other portion of such estate or to any other estate of the same employer in the same district.

Proviso as regards other localities.

120. If it shall at any time appear that the number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) who have died on any estate or portion of an estate during the preceding twelve months, bears a larger proportion to the whole number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed thereon during such period than 7 per centum, or if the average annual number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) who have died on such estate or portion thereof during the preceding three years bears a larger proportion to the whole number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed thereon during such period than 7 per centum, it shall be lawful

Lieutenant-Governor how to proceed if mortality in past year exceeds 7 per cent., or if the average of 3 years exceeds 5 per cent.

for the Lieutenant-Governor to direct the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inquire into and report on the following matters :—

Matters to be inquired into.

(1) The cause or causes of such mortality.

(3) The fitness or otherwise of such estate or portion thereof for the residence of laborers and the reasons thereof.

Such medical officer shall proceed with as little delay as possible, and shall hear and record such information on the subject of the several matters aforesaid as the owner of such estate or portion thereof, or the employer, or inspector may desire to place before him, and shall visit and inspect such estate or portion thereof, and shall make his report expressing the reasons of his opinion and transmit the same with the recorded information and notes of his inspection of such estate or portion thereof to the Lieutenant-Governor.

Medical officer to report.

If the Lieutenant-Governor, after perusal and consideration of the said report, information, and notes, shall be of opinion that such mortality was caused by the want of due care or precaution and of the adoption of proper and available sanitary measures on the part of the owner of such estate or the employer, and that such estate or portion thereof is unfit for the residence of laborers by reason of the want of due care or precaution, and of the adoption of proper and available sanitary measures on the part of the owner of such estate or portion thereof or the employer, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to declare in writing that such estate or portion thereof is unfit for the residence of laborers. Such declaration of the Lieutenant-Governor shall have the same effect as the finding of a committee under the last preceding section.

Lieutenant-Governor may declare estate unfit for residence.

Contracts to be void as regards that estate.

121. Every employer who shall cause or permit any laborer to reside upon any such estate or portion of an estate as under the provisions of either of the two preceding sections may have been found to be unfit for the residence of laborers, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine. Provided always that in case it shall appear to the inspector that any such estate, or portion of an estate, or any part of such portion, has become fit for the residence of laborers, he shall, with the sanction of the magistrate of the district, give under his hand a certificate of such fitness, and no employer shall be liable to fine by reason of his causing or permitting laborers to reside in any place respecting which such certificate of fitness shall have been given.

Penalty on employer permitting laborer to reside in locality declared to be unfit.

Chapter 14.—Offences committed by Laborers.

122. Any laborer, who shall absent himself from his labor without sufficient cause, may, on conviction by a magistrate, be sentenced to lose all claims to wages or allowances during the period of such absence, and also to forfeit to his employer a sum not exceeding four annas for each day during which such absence shall be continued ; and in case such absence shall have exceeded seven days, or in case such laborer shall have been already convicted of the same offence within a period of three months, such laborer shall be furthermore sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for fourteen days.

Penalty on laborer for absenting himself without sufficient cause.

123. If any laborer deserts or attempts to desert from his employer's service, such employer or any other person acting in his behalf may, without first procuring a warrant, and without the assistance of any police officer (who, nevertheless, shall be bound to give such assistance if called upon to do so), apprehend such laborer wherever he may be found. Provided, nevertheless, that if such laborer be found in the service of another employer, he shall not be arrested without a warrant. Provided also that such employer or other person shall without delay give the said laborer in charge at the nearest police station, and there enter the charge upon which he shall have apprehended such laborer.

Deserting may be apprehended without warrant.

Any laborer so given in charge shall be conveyed, without delay, to the nearest magistrate; and, if the place from which such laborer is charged with having deserted, be within the jurisdiction of such magistrate, he shall himself adjudicate upon the charge; but if not, he shall forward the said laborer, under custody, to the magistrate within whose jurisdiction such place may be situated, who shall adjudicate upon such charge.

To be taken to nearest magistrate.

Every laborer who deserts from his employer's service shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with rigorous imprisonment which may extend to one month; and every laborer, who after having been convicted of desertion, shall again desert from his employer's service, shall, on conviction as aforesaid, be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a period which may extend to two months; and every laborer who, after having been twice convicted of desertion shall again desert shall, on conviction as aforesaid, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to three months.

Punishment.

124. On the expiry of any sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, save as is provided in section 125, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to make over such laborer to any person appointed on the part of his employer to receive charge of him ; and no conviction under this Act, or imprisonment under such conviction, shall, save as is provided in section 125, be held to operate as a release to any laborer from the terms of his contract. Provided, nevertheless, that the period of imprisonment shall in no case be prolonged by reason of their being no person present on the part of the employer to take charge of the laborer at the expiry to his sentence ; but such laborer shall in that case be sent to the principal place of business of such employer, and the expense of such conveyance shall be levied from the employer in the manner provided in section 99.

Conviction not to operate as a release.

Cancellation of contract by desertion.

125. Whenever any laborer shall have actually suffered imprisonment amounting in the whole to six months for desertion from his employer's service, it shall be lawful for the inspector, and he is hereby required, to cancel the contract of such laborer, and every such cancellation shall be certified by the inspector on the back of the contract.

Portion of sentence may be cancelled on application of employer.

126. The employer, or any person authorized to act for the employer, of any laborer imprisoned for any offence under this Act, may apply to a magistrate, at any time previous to the expiry of such sentence, that such laborer be made over to him for the purpose of completing his contract; and such magistrate may, if he see good cause, make over or forward such laborer to his employer; and in that case such magistrate shall cancel the remainder of the sentence passed on him, and shall endorse on the contract of such laborer a memorandum signed by him of such cancellation.

Expense of restoring deserting laborer to be paid by employer.

127. Every employer who obtains an order for the return or forwarding of any laborer who has deserted, shall pay the expense incurred in such return or forwarding, and shall, before the order is issued, deposit with the magistrate such sum as such magistrate may in his discretion deem to be sufficient for defraying the expense of such return or forwarding.

Time of unlawful absence or imprisonment to be excluded from contract period.

128. The duration of every unlawful absence from labor, of which any laborer may be convicted, and every sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, shall be endorsed on the contract, at the time of its being passed, by the officer passing it; and no such period of imprisonment or unlawful absence so endorsed shall be reckoned as part of the term for which the laborer is bound to serve, but such term shall extend to such further period as shall be equivalent to the aggregate amount of the imprisonment and unlawful absence so endorsed.

Other person enticing away, harbouring, or employing laborer under contract.

129. Any person who knowingly and wilfully entices away, harbours, or employs, or attempts to entice from his employment, any laborer, before such laborer shall have been lawfully released from his contract, shall on conviction by a magistrate be punished with fine, the whole or any portion of which may be awarded to the employer of such laborer.

Chapter 15.—Complaints made by Laborers.

Employer to give notice to inspector if laborer wishes to complain of personal ill-usage or breach of contract.

130. If any laborer states to his employer, or to any person acting for such employer, that he desires to make a complaint to the inspector of laborers of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act on the part of such employer or other person, the person to whom such statement is made shall, within forty-eight hours, send notice thereof in writing to the inspector, and in default of so doing, such person shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Inspector how to proceed on receipt of notice, or if complaint is made to him, or if he has reason to believe that there is ground for a complaint.

131. Whenever any inspector of laborers receives such notice in writing as aforesaid, or whenever any complaint of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid, is made to him by any laborer against his employer or any person acting for such employer, or whenever the inspector has other reasonable grounds for believing that any such personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid has been suffered by a laborer, such inspector shall forthwith, if the place in which such offence has been committed is not situated within the limits of his own authority, give notice thereof in writing to the inspector within the limits of whose authority such place is situated; and if such place be situated within the limits of his own authority, then such inspector shall, so soon as conveniently may be, proceed to some place not more than ten miles from the principal place of business of such employer, and make full inquiry into the matter complained of.

Procedure.

Penalty for obstructing service of, or disobedience to, summons.

132. For the purposes of such inquiry the inspector may summon such laborer and any witnesses. If any employer, or other person acting for or under such employer, in any way wilfully obstructs the service of, or obedience to, such summons; or if the laborer or any witness summoned intentionally omits to attend as required in such summons, he shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

If complaint is untrue or frivolous.

133. If, upon such inquiry made on the complaint of a laborer, the inspector is of opinion that the complaint is untrue or frivolous, he shall enter in his book the particulars of such complaint, and a short statement of the grounds of his opinion respecting it, and shall dismiss the complaint, and in such case shall endorse on the employer's copy of the contract of such complainant the number of days during which such complainant has been absent from work in consequence of such inquiry, and such number of days shall be added to the period of the contract of such complainant.

If complaint is well founded.

134. If, upon inquiry as aforesaid, the inspector is of opinion that the complaint is well-founded, he shall, if himself a magistrate, dispose of the case according to due course of law. If the inspector shall not be a magistrate, he shall without delay send the complainant and his witnesses to the nearest magistrate and such magistrate shall thereupon dispose of the case according to due course of law.

Recovery of arrears of wages.

135. If, upon the complaint of any laborer, it is proved to the satisfaction of a magistrate that the wages of such laborer are in arrear for two months, it shall be lawful for the magistrate to award to such laborer the amount which shall appear to be then due to him; and also, by way of compensation, such further sum, not exceeding that amount, as shall appear to such

Compensation may be given if arrear is for two months.

magistrate to be just; and in case of default, the magistrate shall levy the entire sum by distress and sale of any movable property which may be found in the possession or under the charge of such employer.

Contract may be declared cancelled, if employer is convicted of maltreatment by session court, or twice by magistrate;

136. If any employer, or any person placed in authority over any laborer by such employer, shall be convicted of any offence causing injury to the person or property of such laborer triable under the Code of Criminal Procedure by the court of session; or if any such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall be twice convicted of any such offence against such laborer triable under the said Code by a magistrate;

or if wages are in arrear for four months;

or if it shall be proved before a magistrate that the wages of such laborer are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of such laborer's wages for four months; or if a magistrate shall, on the report of the inspector and after due inquiry, upon oath, in the presence of the parties, be satisfied that any laborer has been compelled to perform any labor while he was unfit for it, or if ill-usage is proved.

or has been subjected to ill-usage by such employer, or any other person placed in authority over the laborer by such employer; it shall be lawful for the magistrate, if he think fit, on the application of the laborer, in each of such cases, to cancel the contract of such laborer, and award to him compensation not exceeding thirty rupees, and every such cancelment shall be certified by the magistrate on the back of such contract.

Chapter 16.—Determination of Contract.

Laborer may appear before the inspector to register completion of contract.

137. Every laborer who has completed the term of his contract shall be forthwith entitled to appear before the inspector or assistant inspector in order that the completion of his contract may be registered

Penalty if employer detains, or omits to report.

If an employer detains such laborer after the completion of his contract, or fails to give notice of such completion to the inspector within one month after the date of such completion, such employer shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Power to redeem contract.

138. If any laborer is able and desirous to redeem the unexpired term of his contract of service by payment of a sum equivalent to the value thereof, such laborer may demand to be taken or allowed to go before the inspector of laborers within the local limits of whose authority he may be employed, and on his depositing such sum in the hands of such inspector, such inspector shall give notice to the employer that such laborer requires him within one week to show cause why the contract of such laborer should not be released; and, in case no sufficient cause should be shown, such inspector shall require the production of the contract of such laborer, and endorse thereon a certificate of release by purchase, and shall hold the sum in deposit on account of the employer of such laborer. If any employer, or other person authorized to act for the employer, shall neglect to comply with such demand as aforesaid, such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Value of unexpired term of contract.

The value of the unexpired term of contract shall be deemed to be the aggregate amount of one rupee for every month of the unexpired portion of the first year, of three rupees for every such month of the second year, and of five rupees for every such month of the third year, of the original term of the laborer's engagement.

Certificate to be given of determination of contract.

139. Every laborer the period of whose contract has expired, or whose contract has been rescinded by the mutual consent of the parties thereto, or whose contract has been cancelled or redeemed under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to receive forthwith from the inspector a certificate of release in the form set forth in Schedule (F) annexed to this Act.

SCHEDULE A.

(See Section 17.)

FORM OF CONTRACT BETWEEN EMIGRANT AND EMPLOYER.

"THIS contract made under Bengal Act of 187 , between (emigrant's name) of the one part and (employer's name) of the other part. Judicial and Legislative Depts.

THE following Supplementary Report of the Select Committee on the "Bill to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and to regulate contract labor and service therein," is published for general information :—

WE, the Select Committee on the Bill "to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and to regulate contract-labor and service therein," have read and considered the correspondence noted in the margin relating to a proposal by the Lieutenant-Governor to provide for the gradual introduction of a system of free recruiting of laborers for the labor districts.

The Committee are unanimously of opinion that the systems of free recruiting and recruiting under the Act cannot work side by side. They do not feel themselves able, on the materials before them, to recommend that Cachar or any other district should be exempted from the operation of the Act, or to make any specific recommendation to the Council on the general subject.

SCHEDULES.

A Bill to regulate the transport of Native laborers to British Burma, and their employment therein.

Whereas it is expedient to regulate the transport of native laborers to British Burma and their employment therein under contracts of service; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The British Burma Labor Contract Law, 1873:"

Short title.

Local extent

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

Saving of contracts with Native seamen, domestic servants, or artizans.

2. Nothing in this Act applies to contracts with, or the emigration of, Native seamen, domestic servants, or skilled artizans.

Repeal of Madras Act No. V of 1866, so far as it affects British Burma.

3. Madras Act No. V. of 1866 (to regulate the manner of engaging and contracting with native inhabitants within any of the districts subject to the Government of Fort St. George, for labor to be performed in any part of India beyond the territorial limits of the Presidency of Madras) is repealed as to engagements hereafter made in the Presidency of Madras for labor to be performed in British Burma and as to the emigration of natives of India from such Presidency to British Burma.

Interpretation clause.

4. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Emigrants" and "emigration," respectively, mean emigrant and emigration under this Act.

"Emigrant."

"Magistrate" means a Magistrate of a district or of a division of a district, or any Magistrate deputed by the Magistrate of the district for the control of emigration or laborers, or any Magistrate of Police for a Presidency town.

"Magistrate."

"Employer" means the chief person for the time being in charge of any lands or houses upon or in which laborers may be employed.

"Employer."

"Immigrant" means any emigrant who has gone to British Burma in accordance with a contract made under the provisions of this Act, and includes any person not being a native of India conveyed to British Burma under contract, who shall, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, enter into a contract in British Burma before a Magistrate or Immigration Agent, during the period their respective contracts remain in force.

"Immigrant."

"Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

"Vessel."

"Master" means the person for the time being in charge of a vessel.

"Master."

PART II.

OF EMIGRATION.

Emigration Agents and Medical Inspectors.

Appointment of Emigration Agent.

5. At every port of emigration the Chief Commissioner of British Burma shall, with the previous sanction of the local Government, appoint an Emigration Agent to whom such remuneration shall be assigned as the Government of India may from time to time direct.

Appointment of Medical Inspector.

At every such port the local Government shall appoint a competent person to be Medical Inspector of emigrants.

6. Every such Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector shall be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector to be deemed public servants.

7. In addition to the special duties hereinafter assigned to him, every such Emigration Agent shall—

Duties of Agent.

(a) protect and aid, with his advice, all emigrants;

(b) cause, so far as he can, all provisions of this Act to be complied with;

(c) inspect, on arrival, all vessels bringing return emigrants to the port at which he is Agent;

(d) inquire into the treatment received by such emigrants during the voyage and report thereon to the local Government;

(e) aid and advise such returned emigrants when requested by them to do so.

8. Every Emigration Agent, and all persons in charge of, or employed in, any depôt or in any vessel licensed to carry emigrants as hereinafter provided, shall give the Medical Inspector every facility for making such inspections, examinations, and surveys as may be necessary or proper under this Act, and shall afford him all such information as may be reasonably required by him.

Emigration Agent, &c., to give information to Medical Inspector.

Emigration Depôts.

9. At each port of embarkation under this Act, the local Emigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for emigrants.

Establishment of depôts for emigrants.

10. The Medical Inspector of Emigrants shall, at least once in every week, inspect the emigrants in the depôt, and examine into the state of the depôt and the manner in which the emigrants are therein lodged, fed, clothed, and otherwise provided for and attended to.

Inspection of depôts.

The Medical Inspector shall report to the local Government any circumstances which may come to his knowledge, showing that the depôt is not suitable for its purpose, or that the emigrants are treated with any neglect or oppression.

Recruiters.

11. The Emigration Agent at each port of embarkation under this Act shall license as many fit persons as he thinks necessary to be recruiters of laborers for British Burmah; and no person shall be employed as a recruiter of such laborers except under a license from the Emigration Agent.

Licensing of recruiters.

Every recruiter shall be licensed to obtain laborers from one or more districts to be named in the license.

12. Every recruiter shall wear a badge having legibly inscribed thereon, in English and in the Vernacular language of such district or districts, the words "Recruiters of Emigrants for British Burma."

Recruiter to wear a badge.

13. The license granted to recruiter, under section eleven, may be in the form set forth in schedule A hereto annexed.

Form of license.

No license shall be in force for a longer period than one year, and in case of misconduct on the part of the recruiter, the Emigration Agent may cancel his license before the expiration of the period for which it was granted.

Period for which it shall remain in force.

14. A recruiter shall not be deemed to have obtained authority in any place other than a Presidency town to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant until his license has been countersigned by the Magistrate of the district or of the division of the district, or to have obtained such authority in any Presidency town, until his license has been countersigned by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police.

Countersignature of Magistrate to recruiter's license.

15. No such Magistrate or Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police shall countersign a recruiter's license unless and until he has satisfied himself by such inquiry as he thinks fit that the licensee is not by character or from any other cause unfitted to be a recruiter under this Act.

License not to be countersigned until recruiter's fitness is ascertained.

Every such officer refusing to countersign a recruiter's license shall, without delay, report his refusal and the grounds of it to the Emigration Agent by whom the license has been issued.

Contracts and Registration and Journey to Depôts.

16. Any person desiring to emigrate under this Act to British Burma may enter into a contract with a recruiter to proceed to British Burma and there serve in a certain district, for a fixed period of not less than three and not more than five years from the date of his arrival in such district;

Contract to be entered into with intending emigrant.

Every such contract shall be in writing and shall specify—

(a) the district in which the service is to be performed;

(b) the term of service;

(c) the number of days and hours of work per month;

(d) the nature of the work;

(e) the intending emigrant's monthly wages in money;

(f) the price at which rice or other proper food is to be supplied to him during his service;

(g) the persons (if any) intending to accompany him as his dependents.

The monthly rate of wages shall in no case be less than seven rupees for an adult laborer.

No contract to labor in British Burma shall be binding on an emigrant unless it is made in accordance with this Act.

17. Every native of India outside the limits of British Burma who enters into a contract under this Act with any recruiter to proceed to British Burma for the purpose of laboring for hire shall be brought by such recruiter before the Civil Surgeon of the district or such other medical officer as the Local Government appoints in that behalf or, if no such officer has been appointed, before such medical officer as the Magistrate directs.

Medical examination of intending emigrant.

The medical officer shall thereupon examine the person produced by the recruiter, and shall either reject him or shall certify that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to proceed to British Burma and to work for hire therein.

The certificate shall be in the form set forth in Schedule B hereto annexed, and the recruiter shall pay to the medical officer such fee for each person examined as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Recruiter and emigrant to appear before Magistrate.

18. Every emigrant shall appear with the recruiter before a Magistrate in the district or town within which the contract was entered into.

Examination by Magistrate of emigrants under contract.

19. The Magistrate shall thereupon inspect the medical certificate, and shall, apart from the recruiter, examine the emigrant with reference to his contract, and if it appears that he understands the nature of the contract he has entered into as regards the place, term and nature of the service, the rate of wages and the price at which food is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register—

(1) the name, the father's name, and the age of such emigrant;

(2) the name of the village or place in which he resides;

(3) the port of embarkation to which it is intended that he shall proceed;

(4) the district in which he has contracted to labor;

(5) the period of service; and

(6) the rate of wages and the rate at which rice or other proper food is to be supplied to him.

The emigrant shall thereupon be deemed a registered emigrant.

If the Magistrate thinks that the emigrant does not understand the nature of the contract, or has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register the above particulars.

Examination of dependents on emigrants.

20. On the appearance of any person claiming to be dependent on a registered emigrant, the Magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall, apart from the recruiter, examine such person if able to give intelligent answers to questions, as to his dependence upon the emigrant under contract whom he is about to accompany, and as to his willingness to accompany such emigrant.

If the Magistrate is satisfied as to the said dependence and willingness, he shall register the dependent as a dependent on such emigrant.

But if the Magistrate sees reason to doubt any such dependence or willingness, he may object to register the alleged dependent.

Registration of emigrants.

21. The Magistrate shall furnish to every registered emigrant an authenticated copy on substantial paper of the registration under section nineteen.

And shall also furnish a like copy of every registration under section twenty to the emigrant whom the dependent desires to accompany.

Another authenticated copy of each registration under section nineteen and section twenty, together with the original certificate of the medical officer, shall be forthwith forwarded by the Magistrate to the Emigration Agent at the port of embarkation to which the emigrant is about to proceed.

Registration fee.

22. For each registration the recruiter shall pay to the officer making it a fee of one rupee, eight annas.

Should any registered emigrant desert before embarkation, the fee paid in respect of him shall be refunded by the officer who made the registration, upon a certificate of the fact of such desertion signed by the Emigration Agent at the port of embarkation.

Care of emigrants on the journey to depôt.

23. All emigrants proceeding to a depôt shall be accompanied throughout the journey by the recruiter himself or by a competent person appointed by him, with the approval of the Magistrate by whom such emigrants have been registered.

The Magistrate shall give to the person so appointed a certificate under his signature, stating that he has been appointed to accompany certain emigrants during their journey to the depôt.

Every recruiter by whom any emigrant is forwarded to a depôt shall, throughout the journey, provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging.

Penalties for infringing provisions as to recruitment.

24. Whoever, being a duly licensed recruiter, removes any emigrant whom he engages in any district or presidency town from such district or town without such emigrant having appeared before a Magistrate in order to be examined and registered;

and whoever by means of intoxication, violence, fraud, or false pretences induces any native of India to enter into a contract for labor to be performed in British Burma, or to proceed to or towards any seaport for the purpose of proceeding to British Burma without having entered into any contract; and whoever wilfully neglects to supply any registered emigrant whom he has engaged, or any registered dependent, with proper and sufficient food and lodging, or otherwise ill-treats such emigrant on his journey to the depôt;

and whoever forwards, sends, or conveys any such emigrant or dependent with intent to contravene the provisions of this Act;

shall be punished with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Procedure on arrival of Emigrants at Depôt.

Notice of arrival of emigrants at depôt to be given to Protector.

25. The Emigration Agent shall, within twenty-four hours after the arrival at the depôt of any emigrant, give to the Medical Inspector notice in writing of such arrival.

Medical Inspector to examine emigrants.

26. The copy of the registration and the medical certificate of every emigrant, received by the Emigration Agent as above provided, shall be shown to the Medical Inspector at the port of embarkation, and all emigrants shall be inspected by the Medical Inspector immediately after their arrival at the depôt.

If he be satisfied of the fitness of an emigrant to proceed to, and to labor in, British Burma, he shall countersign the copy of the registration; if he be not satisfied thereof, he shall give a certificate to that effect to the Emigration Agent.

Emigration Agent to pay return expenses of rejected emigrants.

27. If the Medical Inspector certify that any emigrant is in such a state of health that his journey to British Burma, or detention in the depôt, would be dangerous to himself or others, or that he is unfit for labor in British Burma, the Emigration Agent shall pay to such emigrant such sum as is necessary to enable him to return to the place at which he was registered:

And any emigrant who, from his state of health, is, in the opinion of the Medical Inspector, unfit to undertake such journey shall be entitled to be fed, lodged, and attended to at the port of embarkation at the expense of the Emigration Agent, until he is reported by the Medical Inspector fit to undertake such journey.

If a dependent has accompanied such emigrant, the Emigration Agent shall pay such dependent such sum as is necessary to enable him to return to the place at which he was registered, as well as to feed and lodge him during the detention (if any) of the emigrant in the depôt.

If the Emigration Agent wilfully omits to feed, lodge, and attend to any emigrant, or dependent, in accordance with the provisions of this section, he shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Procedure in case of ill-treatment on the journey.

28. If, upon the arrival of any emigrant or dependent on an emigrant at the depôt, it appear that he has suffered any ill-treatment, or that the recruiter has failed to provide such emigrant or dependent with proper and sufficient food and lodging during the journey to the depôt, the local Government may cause him to be removed from the depôt, and may order the Emigration Agent to pay him a reasonable sum by way of compensation.

Ratification of contracts of emigrants passed by Medical Inspector.

29. In the case of every emigrant who is passed by the Medical Inspector as in a fit state of health, and able to journey to, and labor in, British Burma, the Emigration Agent shall ratify the contract into which the emigrant has entered.

Such ratification shall be made by countersigning the copy of the registration furnished to the emigrant under section twenty-one.

Registration of contracts.

30. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the Emigration Agent for the purpose, and a copy of such entry or of the contract, authenticated by himself, shall be forwarded by him to the Immigration Agent at the port of British Burma, at which it is intended that the emigrant shall disembark.

Procedure if emigrant refuses to produce copy of contract for ratification.

31. Any emigrant who, without reasonable cause, refuses to produce his copy of the contract for the purpose of being ratified by the Emigration Agent shall be punished with a fine equal in amount to the cost incurred in engaging, registering, and conveying him to the depôt, and in default of payment of such fine with imprisonment which may extend to two months, and such emigrant shall forthwith be discharged from the depôt.

A certificate signed by the Emigration Agent that reasonable cause for refusing to produce the copy of the contract has not been shown, shall be admissible as primâ facie evidence in any proceeding taken under this section.

A certificate signed by the Emigration Agent stating the cost incurred in engaging, registering, and conveying the emigrant to the depôt shall be conclusive evidence of the amount of such cost.

Every fine levied under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the Emigration Agent.

Procedure if Agent neglects to ratify contract.

32. If within thirty days after the arrival at a depôt of any emigrant engaged for labour, the Emigration Agent does not offer to ratify such contract in manner aforesaid, or if the Emigration Agent, without the consent of the Local Government, refuses to be bound by the contract made by the recruiter with the emigrant,

the Local Government may order the Emigration Agent to pay to such emigrant such sum of money as is necessary to enable him, together with the dependents (if any) upon him to return to the place where he was registered, and in such case the emigrant shall be released from his contract.

Suit on behalf of emigrant for breach of contract.

33. The Local Government shall, in every case in which it seems proper to do so, cause a suit to be instituted, in the name of such officer as it thinks fit, on behalf of the emigrant against the Emigration Agent for the recovery of damages for any breach of contract.

In every such suit the contract entered into by the recruiter shall be deemed to have been entered into by, and to the binding on, the Emigration Agent.

Recovery of sums payable by Agent under sections 27, 28, and 32.

34. If the Emigration Agent, having been ordered under any of the provisions of section twenty-seven, twenty-eight, or thirty-two to pay any sum of money, omits for twenty-four hours to comply with such order, the Local Government may advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the person named in the order, and recover from the Emigration Agent the sum so advanced with interest at the rate of nine per cent. per annum from the date of such advance.

and no further evidence shall be required by any Court in any suit for the recovery of money so advanced than that the Local Government made such order as aforesaid and advanced the money as aforesaid.

Emigrant vessels and embarkation of Emigrants.

When contract is ratified, emigrant may be forwarded to British Burma.

35. When the contract of any emigrant has been duly ratified as aforesaid, he may be forwarded to British Burma, together with his registered dependents (if any).

No vessel to carry emigrants without a license.

36. It shall not be lawful to receive any emigrant on board any vessel unless a license to carry emigrants in such vessel has been obtained from the Local Government of the port of embarkation. The granting or withholding of any such license shall be in the discretion of the Local Government.

Licensee bound to comply with provisions of Act and Rules.

37. Every person obtaining a license under the last preceding section shall be bound to comply with the provisions of this Act and the Rules made hereunder, so far as such provisions and Rules relate to him.

And any such person failing to comply with any of such provisions or Rules shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

38. Before leaving the port of embarkation, the master of any vessel licensed to carry emigrants under this Act shall obtain from the Emigration Agent and the Medical Inspector of Emigrants certificates under their respective hands, to the effect that they have in respect of the emigrants proceeding in such vessel done all that is hereinbefore required to be done on the part of such Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector, respectively, and that, to the best of their knowledge, all the directions herein contained for ensuring the health, comfort, and safety of the emigrants have been duly complied with, as well as all rules for the time being in force under sections one hundred and five and one hundred and six.

Certificates from Emigration Agent and Medical Inspector.

39. If any emigrant without sufficient cause refuses or neglects to embark when called upon by the Emigration Agent so to do, it shall not be lawful to compel such emigrant or his dependents (if any) to embark, or to put him or them on boardship against his will, or to detain him or them against his will at the depôt or elsewhere; but nothing in this section shall diminish or effect the civil or criminal liabilities which such emigrant incurs by reason or in respect of his refusal or neglect aforesaid.

Procedure if emigrant refuses to embark.

Explanation.—The arbitrary refusal of any such dependent to embark shall not be deemed 'sufficient cause' within the meaning of this section.

Every case in which an emigrant is charged before a Magistrate of Police in a Presidency town shall be heard and determined in a summary manner, and every such emigrant shall on conviction, whether by such Police Magistrate or any other Magistrate, be punished in the manner provided in section 492 of the Indian Penal Code for the punishment of offences under that section.

40. The Emigration Agent may, if he think fit ascertain that every emigrant is in a fit state of health to proceed to, and to labor in, British Burma.

Emigration Agent to ascertain health of emigrant upon embarkation.

If the Emigration Agent is of opinion that any emigrant is not in such a fit a state of health, the Emigration Agent may prohibit his embarkation, and the dependents (if any) of such emigrant may, notwithstanding anything herein contained, thereupon refuse to embark.

The Emigration Agent shall also, before the embarkation of any emigrant, ascertain that he has in his possession the copy of the registration provided under section twenty-one. If it appear to the satisfaction of the Emigration Agent that any emigrant has lost such copy, the Agent may furnish him with another copy of such registration, to be made from the copy received by the Agent from the Magistrate under section twenty-one, and shall thereupon allow such emigrant to embark.

41. The master of every vessel carrying emigrants from the port of Calcutta shall proceed on his voyage within twenty-four hours after the embarkation of such of the emigrants as shall have first embarked.

Vessel sailing from Calcutta to depart within 24 hours after embarkation;

Every such vessel shall, if not a steamer, proceed from the port of Calcutta to sea under tow of a competent steamer.

and to take steam down the river.

42 Two copies of this Act and of all existing Rules relating to the voyage made under section one hundred and six, and two copies of a translation of this Act and of such Rules, in such language or languages as the Local Government may direct, shall be delivered to the master of every vessel carrying emigrants by the Emigration Agent at the time of clearance, and shall be kept on board of every such vessel during the whole voyage.

Copies of Act and Rules to be kept on board.

One of such copies or translations shall, upon request made at any reasonable time to the master of the vessel, be produced to any emigrant for his perusal.

43. If, after having obtained a certificate in accordance with the provisions of section thirty-six, the master of any vessel cleared for any port of debarkation of emigrants, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act, whereby such certificate becomes inapplicable to the altered state of the vessel or other matter to which such certificate relates, he shall be liable to fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

Penalties for fraudulent acts whereby certificate becomes inapplicable to vessel.

44. If the master of any vessel sailing from the port of Calcutta, licensed under section thirty-six, and sailing with emigrants on board, causes or allows his vessel (not being a steamer) to leave the port of Calcutta without such vessel being in tow of a competent steamer,

Penalty for proceeding to sea without steam.

or if such vessel has not left the port of Calcutta, and proceeded on her voyage within the time prescribed in section forty-one, he shall be liable to fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

PART III.

DISEMBARKATION AND TRANSIT TO DISTRICTS OF LABOR.

Officers and Depôts at ports of debarkation.

45. The Chief Commissioner of British Burma shall, at each port of debarkation, appoint an Immigration Agent and a Medical Inspector of Immigrants, and shall, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, define the local limits within which every such Agent and Medical Inspector shall exercise the powers conferred upon him by this Act.

Immigration Agent and Medical Inspectors of Immigrants.

46. At every such port the local Immigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for immigrants under this Act, and provide them with proper and sufficient lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance in such depôt until they are despatched to the place of labor.

Depôt at port of debarkation.

Such depôt shall be at all times open to the inspection of the Medical Inspector of Immigrants.

Procedure of arrival of vessel carrying immigrants.

47. Upon the arrival at any port of debarkation of any vessel carrying immigrants, the master of such vessel shall at once report his arrival to the Immigration Agent, and no immigrant on board shall be allowed to land without the permission of such Agent first obtained.

Master to report arrival of vessel carrying immigrants.

Any master of a vessel who allows any immigrant to land without such permission, shall be punished by a fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each person so landed.

Examination of immigrants by Immigration Agent and Medical Inspector.

48. Upon receipt of the report of arrival of any vessel carrying immigrants, the Immigration Agent and the Medical Inspector of Immigrants shall forthwith go on board such vessel, and the Agent shall satisfy himself that the vessel has on board its proper list of immigrants and shall compare the immigrants on board with the list, and shall note any births or deaths which may have occurred during the voyage.

The Medical Inspector shall further examine the immigrants, in order to ascertain whether any of them are suffering from contagious or infectious disease.

Any immigrant suffering under any such disease may, if the Medical Inspector thinks fit, be removed to a proper hospital for treatment.

Examination of vessel and enquiry into treatment of immigrants on the voyage.

49. The Immigration Agent may, if he think fit, and shall on complaint made by any of the immigrants, with the aid of the Medical Inspector, enquire into the general and medical treatment of the immigrants during the voyage, and submit a report thereon to the Chief Commissioner, who shall thereupon decide whether the provisions of this Act and the Rules framed under it in regard to the voyage appear to have been duly observed; or, if not, whether any and what action should be taken to enforce the liability of the master, either by civil suit or criminal prosecution.

Should the Chief Commissioner decide to take such action, the Immigration Agent may institute such suit or lodge such complaint as may be determined upon.

Transit to place of labor.

Assignment of immigrants to employers.

50. The Chief Commissioner shall make rules regulating applications to the Immigration Agent by persons desiring to employ immigrants, and the mode in which and extent to which the Agent shall assign immigrants to such persons respectively, and may from time to time alter and add to the rules so made.

All such rules, additions, and alterations shall be published in the British Burma Gazette.

The person to whom any immigrant is so assigned shall be deemed to be the 'employer' of such immigrant within the meaning of the contract into which he has entered and of the provisions hereinafter contained and of the rules made hereunder.

Despatch of immigrants.

51. Immigrants may from time to time be despatched from the depôt to the place of labor by their respective employers, or by the agents of such employers, but subject always to the provisions of this Act.

Immigrants' passes.

No immigrant shall be so despatched unless the permission of the Immigration Agent has been first obtained, and the immigrant has received a pass in the form set forth in Schedule C hereto annexed, signed by the employer or his agent, and countersigned by the Immigration Agent, specifying his name and age, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer.

Immigrants not to be conveyed on any vessel without a license.

52. It shall not be lawful for the master of any vessel, without a license granted by an Immigration Agent, to convey any immigrants as defined in this Act in or through British Burma, and it shall be in the discretion of the Immigration Agent to grant or withold such license.

Such license shall be in force only for one voyage or trip, and shall specify the number of immigrants which the vessel is licensed to carry, and the number of persons, including the crew other than immigrants, which such vessel is licensed to carry.

Penalty for conveying immigrants in vessel without a license.

The master of any vessel in which immigrants are conveyed without a license having been obtained as aforesaid, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty for fraudulent acts, whereby vessel becomes unfit for immigrants.

53. If the master of any vessel, after having obtained a license as aforesaid, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act or thing whereby the state of the vessel is altered, so that such vessel is unfit for the accommodation of the number of immigrants mentioned in such license, he shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Penalty for taking on board excessive number of passengers.

54. The master of any vessel licensed to carry immigrants who receives on board his vessel a greater number of immigrants, or of other persons, than is specified in his license, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every immigrant or other person so received in excess of the licensed number.

Two children under ten to count as one person.

In computing under this section the number of immigrants or other persons on board of any vessel, two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

No immigrant to be taken on board without a pass.

55. The master of any vessel, whether licensed or not, shall not take on board any immigrant, unless such immigrant, or some person accompanying him, shows the pass prescribed in section fifty-one.

A master taking any immigrant on board without a pass shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for every such immigrant.

No immigrant to be allowed finally to leave vessel at any place other than that mentioned in his pass.

56. If the master of any vessel, save as hereinafter provided, causes or permits any immigrant finally to leave such vessel at any place other than that named as the destination of such laborer in his pass, such master shall be liable to fine not exceeding ten rupees for each such immigrant.

Proviso.

Provided that this section shall not be deemed to prevent the master of any vessel from permitting immigrants to disembark at any place or places on the voyage, so long as such disembarkation is not intended, or known to be likely to be final; nor to prevent the final disembarkation of any immigrants in case of accident or other unavoidable necessity, if such accident or necessity be forthwith reported to the Immigration Agent by whom the license of such vessel was granted, and to the nearest Magistrate in the district within which such accident occurs or necessity arises.

Magistrate may inspect vessel.

57. A Magistrate may at any time go on board of any such licensed vessel carrying immigrants within the local limits of his jurisdiction, and may inspect the vessel, the immigrants, and all persons on board.

The master and officers of such vessel shall be bound to afford to such Magistrate all reasonable facilities for such inspection, and to give him all such information respecting the immigrants or other persons on board as may be reasonably required, and respecting any deaths which may have occurred on board, and respecting any other facts which may affect the health of the immigrants.

Penalty.

Any master or other officer who wilfully or negligently omits to give any such information to the Magistrate, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Removal of immigrants in excess of licensed number.

58. If it appears to a Magistrate making an inspection of any such vessel, that the number of immigrants on board is larger than the number specified in the license, he may remove the excess number and detain them until another opportunity of forwarding them to their destination is found.

The expense necessarily incurred on maintaining such immigrants and in conveying them to their destination shall be recovered from the master of such vessel.

Detainer of vessel for breach of Act or Rules.

59. If it appears to a Magistrate making an inspection of any such vessel, that anything required to be done or provided, under the provisions of this Act or of any rule made hereunder, has not been done or provided, he may detain such vessel until the omission has been supplied.

Provision to be made for disembarked immigrants.

60. The Magistrate shall, on the arrival at his station of any vessel licensed as aforesaid, give notice of such arrival to the respective employers of the immigrants on board, or to the agents of such employers, who shall forthwith take charge of their immigrants respectively.

The Magistrate shall ascertain whether reasonable provision has been made for the support and loading of immigrants whose place of disembarkation may be at such station from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination;

and if their respective employers fail to make such reasonable provision, or if such employers or their respective agents are not present at the place of disembarkation, the Magistrate may order such arrangements to be made, and incur such expenses as under the circumstances seem to him necessary;

and the amount of expenses so incurred by him in the disembarkation, or in respect of the food, lodging, medicines, hospital attendance, or clothing of the immigrants shall, with interest at the rate of nine per cent. per annum, be recoverable by the Magistrate from their respective employers.

Power to family of detained immigrant to remain with him.

61. Whenever an immigrant remains behind or is detained under the provisions of section fifty-eight or sixty, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such immigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the immigrant so remaining behind or detained, or to be taken forward along with the immigrant so further conveyed, whether such wife or husband have contracted to work for hire or not.

The children (if any) of an immigrant so remaining or detained shall also be allowed to remain with him.

Magistrate to send detailed report to Immigration Agent.

62. The Magistrate shall, upon the arrival or detention of any immigrants belonging to a party of more than twenty, despatch, without delay to the Immigration Agent by whose permission they were forwarded, a detailed report of the number of immigrants who have arrived or been detained, together with a copy of the report (if any) of the civil surgeon or other medical officer, and any observations which such civil surgeon or other medical officer or such Magistrate may think fit to make as to the state of health and general condition of the immigrants.

Penalty for wilful neglect to enforce rules.

63. Every master of a vessel, or medical officer in charge of immigrants on board of any vessel carrying immigrants, who wilfully and knowingly neglects or refuses to enforce on board of such vessel such rules as may from time to time be prescribed under this Act for his guidance, shall be liable to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

Jurisdiction over offences committed on board vessel.

64. Any offence against any of the provisions of this Act, or any rule passed under the provisions thereof, committed on board of any vessel, may be tried by any Magistrate exercising jurisdiction in any place at which immigrants may have embarked on board such vessel, or may have disembarked from such vessel, or in any place in which such vessel may be detained under the provisions of this Act.

Provisions to be carried on every vessel.

65. There shall be laden, under the supervision of the Immigration Agent, on board of every vessel employed in carrying immigrants within British Burma at the time of the embarkation of such immigrants, proper and sufficient provisions for the consumption of the said immigrants to the amount, or in the proportion, prescribed by any rule passed under section one and for the time being in force.

Medical and other officers.

Any master who commences the voyage without having on board such provisions as aforesaid, or without having on board such medical and other officers, cooks, and other attendants, as the Immigration Agent orders, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Provided that it shall not be lawful for the Immigration Agent to order that a medical officer shall proceed with any number of immigrants less than fifty who may go together to the place of labor.

PART IV.

THE LABOUR DISTRICTS AND RELATIONS OF EMPLOYER AND IMMIGRANT.

Imported Labour Fund.

66. The Chief Commissioner of British Burma may, from time to time, by order published in the British Burma Gazette, fix a yearly sum, not exceeding five rupees per immigrant, for the purpose of defraying the expense of carrying out the purposes of this Act, and the sum so fixed shall be paid half-yearly by the employer of such immigrant on the last day of July and the last day of January in each year.

Yearly rate payable to provide for expenses of Act.

The amount so realised shall be credited to a fund which shall be called the British Burma Imported Labour Fund, and such fund shall be at the disposal of the said Chief Commissioner for the payment of the salaries and expenses of the Agents, Recruiters, and Inspectors, and for otherwise carrying out the provisions of this Act.

67. If any employer fails to pay the amount for which he is liable under the provisions of the last preceding section, the Deputy Commissioner shall notify such default to him; and if within one month from the receipt of such notification, or such longer period as may, under special circumstances, appear to the Deputy Commissioner reasonable, such employer fails to pay the amount, the Deputy Commissioner shall levy it by distress and sale of any movable property found in the possession or under the charge of such employer.

Procedure when employer fails to pay the rate.

If the full amount has not been recovered by distress and sale, the Inspector of Immigrants, or the Deputy Commissioner on behalf of the Government, may sue the employer liable for the same in any Civil Court having jurisdiction at any place where immigrants have been employed by such employer.

Inspectors of Immigrants.

68. The Chief Commissioner may appoint, in any district in which this Act may be in force, so many Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors of Immigrants as he thinks proper, and may from time to time define, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, the local limits within which each such Inspector and Assistant Inspector shall exercise and perform the powers and duties conferred and imposed on him by this Act.

Appointment of Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors.

The Chief Commissioner may confer all or any of the powers of a Magistrate on such Inspectors and Assistant Inspectors; and they shall be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Powers of Inspectors.

69. Every employer of immigrants under this Act shall, on or before the last day of January and the last day of July in every year, make out in writing, and deliver to the Inspector of Immigrants, a return of the number of immigrants employed by such employer on the last day of the preceding month, and a return of the sickness and mortality among them during the preceding six months.

Return of immigrants to be sent in half-yearly by employer, &c., to Inspector.

70. Any employer refusing, or wilfully omitting to send in any such return as mentioned in the last preceding section, or knowingly sending in an incorrect return, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees;

Penalty for refusing or omitting to send in return, or sending in incorrect return.

and a certificate under the hand of the Inspector to whom such return ought to have been sent, stating that such return has not been sent, or is incorrect as aforesaid, shall be received as primâ facie evidence of the truth of the facts stated in such certificate.

71. Every Inspector of Immigrants shall, so often as may be directed by the Chief Commissioner, visit all lands and houses within the limits of his authority on which any immigrant is employed, and inspect every hospital, tent, camp, or building in any way used by any such immigrants, and investigate the condition of the immigrants employed, and for such purpose the Inspector may require that any immigrant shall be produced before him with his instrument of contract, and may make such enquiries as may to him seem proper.

Inspector's visits.

Every such Inspector shall keep books, in which, from time to time, shall be entered,

Inspector's books.

(a) the number of immigrants then under contract with each employer;

(b) the number who shall then be sick or missing, or who shall have complained of ill-treatment;

(c) the particulars of such complaints; and

(d) such other particulars regarding the immigrants as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs.

Each Inspector shall annually make a written report to the Chief Commissioner through the Commissioner of the Division, of the aforesaid particulars;

Inspector's reports.

and every such report, as regards the immigrants under any particular employer, shall, at all reasonable times, be open to the inspection of such employer or any person by him appointed in writing in that behalf, and the person so inspecting shall be entitled to take a copy of the report so far as it relates to such immigrants.

72. Any Magistrate exercising jurisdiction in the district, and any person authorized by him in writing in this behalf, may at any time

Power to inspect hospitals and make enquiries as to immigrants.

(a) enter and inspect any hospital, tent, or building, wholly or partially used by or for immigrants;

(b) require that any immigrant be brought before him; and

(c) make any inquiries which he thinks proper touching the condition or treatment of any immigrant.

73. Any employer, and any person acting under his orders, or on his behalf, who wilfully obstructs or impedes any entry, inspection, or inquiry under either of the two preceding sections, shall be liable for every such offence to a fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Penalty on person obstructing inspection, &c.

Regulation of Labor.

74. Every employer shall, from time to time, with the sanction of the Inspector previously obtained,

Power to fix daily tasks.

(a) fix the daily tasks to be executed by the immigrants employed by such employer;

(b) frame a schedule of such daily tasks; and

(c) publish the same by posting a copy thereof in the vernacular language of the majority of the immigrants upon the door of each place of payment of the immigrants employed by such employer, and by sending a copy thereof in the English language to the Inspector:

No deduction shall be made from the wages of an immigrant on account of the rest for one day in each week. The obligation to provide on holidays for the care of animals, and the necessities of daily life, shall not be considered as work.

75. The Inspector shall, at any time on the application of an employer, summon a committee for the purpose of revising such schedule of daily tasks, if he declines to sanction such modification thereof as the employer desires.

Committee to revise schedule of tasks.

The committee shall consist of the Inspector, of some employer to be nominated by him, and of some person to be nominated by the employer on whose application the committee is summoned.

Such committee, or the numerical majority thereof, shall have power, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, to make any modification of the schedule which it may deem proper, and the schedule so modified shall be published in manner aforesaid, and every schedule published as aforesaid shall have effect as between the employer and immigrants in substitution for any former schedule.

Suspension or Cancellation of Contract.

76. The Inspector of Immigrants, within the local limits of whose authority any laborer is employed, may suspend, for such period as he thinks fit, the contract of such immigrant, or any particular term thereof, if he or she be in the judgment of the Inspector temporarily incapacitated for the performance thereof by reason of sickness, pregnancy, or other sufficient cause:

Inspector may suspend contract of any immigrant temporarily unfitted for labor.

Provided that every such immigrant shall, during such incapacity, receive from his or her employer such subsistence money as the Inspector thinks sufficient.

77. If any immigrant is compelled to perform any species of labor for which he is at the time manifestly unfit, or for which he did not engage, the employer by whom he was so employed shall on conviction by a Magistrate be liable to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for compelling immigrant to perform work for which he is unfit.

78. If, in the opinion of the Inspector of emmigrants, any immigrant is permanently incapacitated for the performance of his contract or any material part thereof, the Inspector shall certify to that effect in writing, and deliver such certificate to the employer of such immigrant or some one on his behalf, and from the date of such certificate the contract of such immigrant shall wholly cease and determine.

Power to discharge immigrants permanently unfitted for labor.

The Inspector shall make a return of all such cases of determination of contract in his report under section seventy-one.

Every immigrant whose contract has been determined as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive from his employer such sum, not exceeding three months' wages, as the Inspector may award, and such sum shall be recoverable before a Magistrate in the manner hereinafter provided for the recovery of wages.

Provisions for the health and comfort of Immigrants.

79. Whenever any immigrants are employed in British Burma, their employer shall be bound to provide for them sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, and sanitary arrangements.

Sufficient house accommodation, &c., to be provided.

He shall also provide good rice or such food as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct, and the immigrant shall be entitled to purchase such food at the price specified in the contract into which he has entered under this Act.

80. Any Inspector or Assistant Inspector who is himself a Magistrate, may institute within the local limits of his jurisdiction, on the lands in charge of any employer, or at some place within such limits not more than ten miles distant from such lands, an inquiry whether such employer has provided for his immigrants sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice or other food.

Powers of Inspector as to house accommodation, &c.

On the complaint of any Inspector or Assistant Inspector, a similar inquiry may be made by any Magistrate.

Every such inquiry, whether conducted by an Inspector or Assistant Inspector, or before a Magistrate on the complaint of an Inspector or Assistant Inspector, shall be dealt with and conducted as a case triable by a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure.

81. Any employer disobeying rules passed under section one hundred and seven, clause (e), and binding upon him shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and the convicting Magistrate may order compliance with such rules within a reasonable time to be fixed in the order.

Penalty for breach of rules as to house accommodation.

If the employer wilfully omits to comply with such order, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees a day for every day that such omission continues.

In default of payment by the employer of the last-mentioned fine, the person on whose account such employer has been acting shall be liable to pay the fine.

82. Wherever such hospital accommodation or medical charge, as required by rules made under section one hundred and seven, or medicines of such quality and kind, and according to such scale as aforesaid, have not been provided, the employer or other person through whose neglect such default has occurred shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every week during which any such default continues.

Penalty for breach of rules as to hospital.

83. If an Inspector of Immigrants has at any time reason to believe that any estate or portion of an estate situated within the local limits of his jurisdiction is in a condition so unhealthy, or in such a situation as to be unfit for the residence of immigrants, he shall report his opinion in writing to the Magistrate of the District.

Procedure when Inspector believes any estate unfit for habitation.

On the receipt of such report the Magistrate shall forthwith summon a committee to enquire whether such estate or por tion is unfit for the residence of immigrants.

Such committee shall consist of the Magistrate of the District, the Inspector of Immigrants, the Medical Officer of the district, and, if practicable, one or more employers of immigrants.

If the Magistrate is unable to procure the service on such committee of any employer of immigrants, he may, with the sanction of the Commissioner of the Division, appoint such other person or persons as he may deem qualified to serve on the committee.

Such committee shall proceed with as little delay as possible to enquire into the condition of the estate or portion of estate to which the order appointing the committee has reference, and shall hear such evidence on the subject as the owner of the estate or portion, or the employer, or Inspector desires to place before it.

If the committee, or the majority thereof, is of opinion that such estate or portion is in a condition so unhealthy or in such a situation as to be unfit for the residence of immigrants, it shall record a finding to that effect;

Effect of finding of unfitness.

and the contract of every immigrant who has contracted to serve on such estate shall thereupon be void as regards such estate or portion as may be found unfit for the residence of immigrants:

Provided that every such contract shall continue valid in regard to any other portion of such estate belonging to the same employer.

84. Every employer causing or permitting any immigrant to reside upon any such estate or portion of an estate as under the provision of section eighty or section eigty-three has been found unfit for the residence of laborers, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five thousand rupees.

Penalty for permitting immigrants to reside on unhealthy estates.

Provided that in case it appears to the Inspector that any such estate, or portion, or any part of such portion has become fit for the residence of immigrants, he shall, with the sanction of the Magistrate of the District, give under his hand a certificate of such fitness, and no employer shall be liable to fine by reason of his causing or permitting immigrants to reside in any place respecting which such certificate of fitness has been given.

Breaches of conduct by Immigrants.

85. Any immigrant who voluntarily and without reasonable cause absents himself from his labor,

Penalty on immigrant absenting himself without sufficient cause.

or neglects or refuses to labor as required by his employer, the labour so required being reasonable and proper,

may, on conviction by Magistrate, be sentenced to lose all claim to wages or allowances during the period of such absence, and also to forfeit to his employer a sum not exceeding eight annas for each day during which such absence has continued; and in case such absence has exceeded seven days, or in case such immigrant has been already convicted of the same offence within a period of three months, he may be further sentenced at the request of the employer to rigorous imprisonment for fourteen days.

The employer of any immigrant convicted under this section may, by endorsement on his copy of the contract with such immigrant, transfer his rights thereunder to any other employer of immigrants in the same district; and such employer, on assenting in writing to such transfer, shall be deemed to be the employer of such immigrant within the meaning of the original contract.

Explanation.—Ill-treatment of such immigrant by his employer, or the neglect of the employer to fulfil any condition of the contract, may be 'reasonable cause' within the meaning of this section.

86. If any immigrant desert or attempt to desert from his employer's service, such employer or any other person acting in his behalf may, without first procuring a warrant, and without the assistance of any police officer (who, nevertheless, shall be bound to give such assistance if called upon to do so), apprehend such immigrant wherever he may be found:

Immigrant deserting may be apprehended without warrant.

Provided that if he be found in the service of another employer, he shall not be arrested without a warrant:

Proviso.

The employer or other person apprehending an immigrant under this section shall, within a reasonable time from the time of such apprehension, give him in charge at the nearest police station, and there enter the charge upon which he has been apprehended.

Further proviso.

87. Any immigrant so given in charge shall be conveyed, without delay, to the nearest Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act.

Immigrant when made over to the police, to be taken before nearest Magistrate.

If the place from which such laborer is charged with having deserted be within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate, he shall himself adjudicate upon the charge; but if not, he shall forward the said laborer, under custody, to the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such place is situate, who shall adjudicate upon such charge.

88. Every immigrant deserting from his employer's service shall be liable, upon conviction, to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to one month.

Punishment for desertion.

Every immigrant who after having been convicted under this section again deserts from his employer's service, shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to two months.

Every immigrant who after having been twice convicted under this section again deserts from his employer's service, shall be liable to rigorous imprisonment which may extend to three months.

Such punishment may be imposed in addition to the forfeiture to which the immigrant is liable under section eighty-five.

Cancellation of contract by desertion.

89. Whenever any immigrant has actually suffered imprisonment amounting in the whole to six months for desertion from his employer's service the Inspector shall if the employer so desire cancel the contract of such immigrant by endorsing the word 'cancelled' on the immigrant's copy of the contract, or the employer may, by endorsement on his copy of the contract, transfer his rights thereunder to any other employer of immigrants in the same district, and such employer, on assenting in writing to such transfer, shall be deemed to be the employer of such immigrant within the meaning of the original contract.

Provisions regarding desertion and unlawful absence to apply to desertion in transit.

90. All the provisions of this Act regarding the desertion or unlawful absence of immigrants shall apply to immigrants who desert while in transit to the district in which they have contracted to labor for hire; and such immigrants may be tried either in the district in which they may be apprehended, or in the district in which under their contracts they are bound to labor for hire.

Penalty for enticing away, harbouring, or employing immigrants under contract to another person.

91. Any person who knowingly and wilfully entices away, harbours, or employs, or attempts to entice from his employment any immigrant before such laborer has been lawfully released from his contract, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and the convicting Magistrate may award to the employer of such immigrant the whole or any portion of such fine.

Portion of sentence may be cancelled if employer apply for return of immigrant.

92. The employer, or any person authorized to act for the employer of any immigrant imprisoned for any offence under this Act, may apply to the Magistrate, at any time before the expiry of such sentence, that such immigrant be made over to him for the purpose of completing his contract, and the Magistrate may, if he see good cause, make over such immigrant to his employer, and in that case the Magistrate shall cancel the remainder of the sentence passed on him, and shall endorse on the instrument of contract of such immigrant a memorandum signed by him of such cancellation.

On expiry of sentence immigrant to be made over to employer.

93. When any immigrant has been sentenced to imprisonment for any offence under this Act, the Magistrate shall (subject to the provisions of section eighty-nine) make over such immigrant on the termination of his imprisonment to any person appointed on the part of his employer to receive charge of him;

Conviction not to operate as a release.

and no conviction under this Act, or imprisonment under such conviction, shall, save as aforesaid, operate as a release to any immigrant from the terms of his contract:

The period of imprisonment shall in no case be prolonged by reason of there being no person present on the part of the employer to take charge of the immigrant at the expiry of his sentence; but such immigrant shall, in that case, be sent to the place, or principal place of business of such employer, and the expense of so sending him shall be levied from the employer in the manner herein provided for the recovery of rates.

Time of unlawful absence and of imprisonment to be included in term of immigrant.

94. The duration of every unlawful absence from labor, of which any immigrant may be convicted, and every sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, shall be endorsed by the convicting Magistrate on the employer's copy of the contract with such immigrant, and no such period of imprisonment or unlawful absence so endorsed shall be reckoned as part of the term for which the immigrants is bound to serve, but such term shall entend to such further period as shall be equivalent to the aggregate amount of the imprisonment and unlawful absence so endorsed.

Breaches of contract or ill-usage by employer.

If immigrant desire to complain, employer to give notice to Inspector.

95. If any immigrant state to his employer, or to any person acting for such employer, that he desires to make a complaint to the Inspector of Immigrants of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act on the part of such employer or other person, the person to whom such statement has been made shall, within forty-eight hours, send notice thereof in writing to the Inspector, and in default of so doing, such person shall be liable to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Procedure on receipt of notice of complaint.

96. Whenever any Inspector of Immigrants receives such notice in writing as aforesaid, or whenever any complaint of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid is made to him by any immigrant against his employer, or any person acting for such employer, or whenever the Inspector has other reasonable grounds for beheving that any such immigrant has been injured by personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid, such Inspector shall forthwith, if the place in which such offence has been committed is not situate within the local limits of his own authority, give notice thereof in writing to the Inspector within the limits of whose authority such place is situated; and if such place be situate within those limits, then such Inspector shall, so soon as conveniently may be, proceed to some place not more than ten miles in a direct line from the place, or principal place, of business of such employer, and make full enquiry into the matter complained of.

Procedure if complaint be untrue or frivolous.

97. If, upon such enquiry, the Inspector finds that the complaint is untrue or frivolous, he shall enter in his book the particulars of such complaint, and a short statement of the grounds of his finding respecting it, and shall dismiss the complaint, and in such case shall endorse on the employer's copy of the contract of such complainant, the number of days during which the complainant has been absent from work in consequence of such enquiry,

and such number of days shall be added to the period for which the complainant had contracted to serve, and every such endorsement shall be conclusive evidence that such immigrant has absented himself from his labor without sufficient cause during the number of days which shall be so endorsed.

98. If, upon enquiry as aforesaid, the Inspector is of opinion that the complaint is well founded, he shall, if a Magistrate, dispose of the case in due course of law.

Procedure if the complaint be well founded.

If the Inspector is not a Magistrate, he shall without delay send the complainant and his witnesses to the nearest Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall thereupon dispose of the case in due course of law.

99. If, upon the complaint of any immigrant, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that the wages of such immigrant are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of his wages for two months, such Magistrate may award to the complainant the amount which appears to be then due to him; and also, by way of compensation, such further sum not exceeding that amount, as appears to the Magistrate to be just; and, in case of default, the Deputy Commissioner shall, upon the requisition of the Magistrate, levy the entire sum in the manner prescribed for the levy of rates under this Act.

Recovery of wages.

Compensation if wages are due for more than two months.

100. If any employer, or any person placed in authority over any immigrant by such employer, is convicted of any offence causing injury to the person or property of such immigrant and triable under the Code of Criminal Procedure by the Court of Session;

Cancellation of contract.

or if any such employer, or other person as aforesaid is twice convicted of any such offence against such immigrant triable under the said Code by a Magistrate;

or if it be proved before a Magistrate that the wages of such immigrant are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of such immigrant's wages for three months;

or if a Magistrate, on the report of the Inspector and after due enquiry, in the presence of the parties is satisfied that any immigrant has been compelled to perform any labor while he was to his employer's knowledge unfit for it, or has been subjected to ill-usage by such employer or any other person placed in authority over the immigrant by such employer, the Magistrate may, if he think fit, on the application of the immigrant, in each of such cases cancel the contract of such immigrant, and award to him, in addition to the wages (if any) due for service performed, compensation not exceeding thirty rupees.

Every such cancelment shall be certified by the Magistrate on the back of the instrument of contract.

The compensation may be recovered in the same way as rates leviable under section sixty-seven.

Determination of Contracts.

101. Every immigrant on completing the term of his contract may appear before the Inspector, in order that the completion of the contract may be registered.

Immigrant who has completed his contract may have such completion registered.

Any employer forcibly or fraudulently detaining an immigrant after the completion of his contract, or failing to give notice of such completion to the Inspector within one month after the date of such completion, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

102. If any immigrant is able and desirous to redeem the unexpired term of his contract of service by payment of a sum equivalent to the value thereof, he may demand to be taken or allowed to go before the Inspector of Immigrants within the local limits of whose authority he may be employed, and on his depositing such sum in the hands of such Inspector, such Inspector shall give notice to the employer that such immigrant requires him, within one week, to show cause why such immigrant should not be released from his contract;

Power to redeem contract.

and if no sufficient cause be shown, such Inspector shall require the production of the contract of such immigrant, and endorse thereon a certificate of release by purchase, and shall hold the sum in deposit on account of the employer of such immigrant.

If any employer, or other person authorised to act for him, neglect to comply with such demand as aforesaid, such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

The value of the unexpired term of contract shall be deemed to be the aggregate amount of one rupee for every month of the unexpired portion of the first year, of two rupees for every such month of the second year, and of three rupees for every such month of the third year of the original term of the immigrant's engagement.

103. Every immigrant whose contract has been completed, determined, released by purchase as aforesaid, or rescinded by the mutual assent of the parties thereto, shall be entitled to receive forthwith from the Inspector a certificate of release in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Chief Commissioner by an order to be published in the British Burma Gazette.

Certificate of release from contract.

104. Any immigrant whose contract has been completed, determined, or rescinded by the mutual assent of the parties thereto, shall be entitled to be conveyed back to the port from which he embarked for British Burma at the expense of the employer with whom he may have contracted.

Return passage.

The Chief Commissioner, shall, from time to time, determine what shall be taken to represent the cost of such re-conveyance, and to make rules for the care and protection of immigrants on their return journey.

The cost of such re-conveyance shall be recoverable from the employer, liable in the same manner as rates leviable under section sixty-seven.

PART V.

SUBSIDIARY RULES.

105. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act to regulate the following matters—

Power of Government of India to make rules.

(a) the periodical returns to be made by the Emigration Officers, by Magistrates, by Immigration Agents, and by the Inspectors of Immigrants;

(b) the books to be kept for the registration of emigrants and their contracts;

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill, which has been prepared at the desire of the Chief Commissioner of British Burma, is to regulate the transport of coolies to that Province, and their employment therein under contracts of service. It is divided into five Parts.

Part I contains the usual preliminary provisions and repeals, so far as regards British Burma, Madras Act V of 1866.

Part II relates to emigration. It provides for the appointment at each port of embarkation of an Emigration Agent and a Medical Inspector of Emigrants, and describes the duties of those officers. It provides for the establishment and inspection of depôts for emigrants; it prescribes rules for (a) the recruiting emigrants, (b) the contracts into which they will enter, (c) their medical examination, (d) the ascertainment of their knowledge of the nature of their contracts, (e) their registration, (f) their journey from their homes to the depôt, (g) the procedure on arriving at the depôt, (h) emigrant vessels and the embarkation of emigrants. For the survey of vessels, procedure on embarkation, space, fuel, water, provisions, &c., to be provided on board, rules will be made by the Local Government of the port of embarkation.

Part III relates to the disembarkation of immigrants in Burma, and their transit to the districts in which they have contracted to labor. The Chief Commissioner will appoint at each port of debarkation an Immigration Agent and a Medical Inspector, and the former officer will establish a suitable depôt, and provide the immigrants with proper lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance until they are despatched to the place of labor. The Bill then provides a procedure on the arrival of vessels carrying immigrants, and regulates their assignment to employers, and their transit to the place of labor.

Part IV relates to the labour-districts and the relations of employer and immigrant. It begins with clauses empowering the Chief Commissioner to fix and realise a yearly payment not exceeding five rupees per immigrant, to be paid by the employers, and to be credited to a Labor Fund, which will be applied in carrying out the provisions of the proposed Act. It then provides for the appointment of Inspectors of Immigrants, and details their duties. It requires employers, with the previous sanction of the Inspector, to fix the immigrants' daily tasks. It empowers the Inspector in proper cases to suspend the execution of the contract of any immigrant, and (where the immigrant is permanently incapacitated for labor) to cancel his contract. It contains provisions for securing the health and comfort of the immigrants. It provides penalties for immigrants breaking their contracts, and for persons enticing away, &c., immigrants under contract to others. It lays down the procedure when immigrants desire to complain of breach of contract or ill-usage by their employers.

Part IV then contains three clauses relating to the determination of immigrants' contracts, and concludes with a clause entitling immigrants whose contracts have been completed, determined or rescinded by mutual assent of the parties, to a return passage at the employer's expense.

Part V empowers the Governor-General in Council, the Local Governments, and the Chief Commissioner to make subsidiary rules consistent with the Act.

Nothing in the Bill applies to contracts with, or the emigration of, Native seamen, domestic servants, or skilled artizans.

SIMLA, The 24th July 1873. A. HOBHOUSE.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[Second Publication.]

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th August 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months.

No. 17 of 1873.

A Bill to explain and amend the law relating to certain Married Women, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to make such provision as hereinafter appears for the enjoyment of wages and earnings by women married before the first day of January 1866, and for insurances on lives by persons married before or after that day:

And whereas by the Indian Succession Act, 1865, section four, it is enacted that no person shall, by marriage, acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries, nor become incapable of doing any act in respect of his or her own property, which he or she could have done, if unmarried:

And whereas by force of the said Act all women to whose marriages it applies are absolute owners of all property vested in, or acquired by, them, and their husbands do not by their marriage acquire any interest in such property, but the said Act does not protect such husbands from liabilities on account of the debts of their wives contracted before marriage, and does not expressly provide for the enforcement of claims by or against such wives;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called. "The Married Women's Property Act, 1873."

Extent and application.

2. It extends to the whole of British India, and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her Majesty.

But nothing herein contained applies to any married woman who, at the time of her marriage professed the Hindú, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Síkh, or Jaina religion, or whose husband, at the time of such marriage, professed any of those religions.

And the Governor-General in Council may from time to time, by order, either restrospectively from the passing of this Act or prospectively, exempt from the operation of all or any of the provisions of this Act the members of any race, sect, or tribe, or part of a race, sect, or tribe, to whom he may consider it impossible or inexpedient to apply such provisions.

The Governor-General in Council may also revoke any such order, but not so that the revocation shall have any retrospective effect.

All orders and revocations under this section shall be published in the Gazette of India.

The fourth section of the said Indian Succession Act shall not apply, and shall be deemed never to have applied, to any marriage one or both of the parties to which professed at the time of the marriage, the Hindú, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, or Jaina religion.

Commencement.

3. This Act shall come into force on the passing thereof.

II.—Married Women's wages and earnings.

Married women's earnings to be their separate property.

4. The wages and earnings of any married woman acquired or gained by her after the passing of this Act, in any employment, occupation, or trade in which she is engaged, or which she carries on separately from her husband, and also any money or other property so acquired by her through the exercise of any literary, artistic, or scientific skill, and all savings from and investments of such wages, earnings, and property

shall be deemed to be her separate property, and her receipts alone shall be good discharges for such wages, earnings, and property.

III.—Insurances by Wives and Husbands.

Married woman may effect policy of insurance.

5. Any married woman may effect a policy of insurance upon her own life, or the life of her husband, on her own behalf and independently of him; and the same and all benefit thereof, if expressed on the face of it to be so effected, shall enure as her separate property, and the contract evidenced by such policy shall be as valid as if made with an unmarried woman.

Insurance by husband for benefit of wife.

6. A policy of insurance effected by any married man on his own life, and expressed on the face of it to be for the benefit of his wife, or of his wife and children, or any of them, shall enure and be deemed to be a trust for the benefit of his wife, or of his wife and children, or any of them, according to the interest so expressed, and shall not, so long as any object of the trust remains, be subject to the control or the husband, or to his creditors, or form part of his estate.

When the sum secured by the policy becomes payable, it shall, unless special trustees are duly appointed to receive and hold the same, be paid to the Official Trustee of the Presidency in which the office at which the insurance was effected is situate, and shall be held by him upon the trusts expressed in the policy, or such of them as are then existing.

And in reference to such sum he shall stand in the same position in all respects as if he had been duly appointed trustee thereof by a High Court, under Act No. XVII of 1864 (to constitute an Office of Official Trustee), section ten.

Nothing herein contained shall operate to destroy or impede the right of any creditor to be paid out of the proceeds of any policy of assurance which may have been effected with intent to defraud creditors.

IV.—Legal proceedings by Married Woman.

Married women may take legal proceedings.

7. A married woman may maintain a suit in her own name for the recovery of property of any description which, by force of the said Indian Succession Act, 1865, or of this Act, is her seperate property: and she shall have in her own name, the same remedies, both civil and criminal, against all persons, for the protection and security of such property, as if she were unmarried.

V.—Liability of wife's debts.

Husband not liable for wife's antenuptial debts.

8. A husband shall not, by reason of any marriage subsequent to the thirty-first day of December 1865, be liable to the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, but the wife shall be liable to be sued for, and shall, to the extent of her separate property, be liable to satisfy such debts as if she had continued unmarried:

Proviso.

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall affect any suit instituted before the passing of this Act, nor invalidate any contract into which a husband may, before the passing of this Act, have entered in consideration of his wife's antenuptial debts.

Wife's liability for postnuptial debts.

9 If a married woman possesses separate property, and if any person enters into a contract with her with reference to such property, or on the faith that her obligation arising out of such contract will be satisfied out of her separate property, such person shall be entitled to use her, and, to the extent of her separate property, to recover against her whatever he might have recovered in such suit, had she been unmarried at the date of the contract and continued unmarried at the execution of the decree:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect the liability of a husband for debts contracted by his wife's agency express or implied, or render a married woman liable to arrest or to imprisonment in execution of a decree.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), section four, declares that no person shall by marriage acquire any interest in the property of the person whom he or she marries. This section, however, does not apply to marriages contracted before the 1st January 1866, and, in the case of persons married after that day, the Act does not protect the husband from liability from the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, nor does it expressly provide for the enforcement of claims by or against such wives.

The objects of the present Bill are, first, to extend the protection afforded to wives by section four of the Succession Act (so far as regards future wages and earnings and policies of insurance) to women married before 1st January 1866; secondly, to declare that a married woman may sue in her own name for any property which, by force of the Succession Act, or the proposed Act, is her seperate property; thirdly, to relieve the husband of a wife married after the 31st December 1865, from her antenuptial debts: and lastly to declare that any person entering into a contract with a wife (otherwise than as her husband's agent), shall be entitled to sue for her, and, to the extent of her separate property, to recover against her whatever he might have recovered had she been unmarried.

Clause 4 (as to a wife's wages and earnings) is equivalent to the Married Women's Property Act (33 and 34 Vic., Cap. 93, section one.

Clause 5 is copied from the first paragraph of section ten of that Act. It declares that any married woman may effect a policy of insurance on her own life or on her husband's life, on her own behalf, and that the amount assured shall be her separate property. As the law stands, if a wife effects such a policy (otherwise than out of her separate estate), and dies in her husband's life-time, the husband, in the capacity of her administrator, becomes the absolute owner of the policy.

Clause 6 is equivalent to the second paragraph of the same section, the Official Trustee under Act XVII of 1864 replacing the trustee appointed in England by the Court of Chancery or the County Court. It provides that an insurance effected by a husband on his own life and expressed to be for his wife's benefit shall be deemed to be a trust for her benefit, and shall not be subject to the claims of his creditors, except, of course, when the transaction was intended to defraud them. This provision is necessitated by the doctrine that a husband as such has no insurable interest in his wife's life. It is true that, as the law stands, such a policy might be effected; but it would only be in the nature of a voluntary settlement, and it would be liable to the dangers to which such settlements are exposed.

Clauses 7 (as to legal proceedings by married women) and 8 (as to the non-liability of a husband for his wife's antenuptial debts) are respectively equivalent to sections eleven and twelve of the Married Women's Property Act.

Clause 9 declares the law as to a wife's liability for her postnuptial debts in conformity with a recent decision of Mr. Justice Phear (Archer v. Watkins, 8 Ben. L. R., 372). This decision is binding only in Bengal: the Bill will extend its authority throughout British India.

The Bill does not apply to married women who are Hindús, Muhammadans, Buddhists, Síkhs or Jainas, and power is taken to exempt from its operation, either retrospectively or prospectively, the members of any race, sect, or tribe to whom it is inexpedient to apply its provisions.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th August 1873, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months

No. 18 of 1873.

A Bill for the further amendment of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), and for other purposes.

Preamble.

Whereas Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), section one hundred provides that, in the cases of loss, abandonment, damage, or casualty therein mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Local Government, if a formal investigation appears to it to be requisite or expedient, to appoint two persons to make the same, and declares that one of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is held, and that the other may be any person conversant with maritime affairs:

And whereas it is expedient to amend the said section so as to enable the Local Government to add to the body so constituted either one or two members in each case as it thinks fit:

And whereas it is further expedient to provide more efficient means for enforcing the attendance of witnesses in investigations and trials under the said law and under Act No. XII of 1859 (to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty), and the four and sixth sections of Act No. XV of 1863 (to amend Act I of 1859), and to remove certain doubts which have arisen as the manner in which proceedings under the said fourth section of Act No. XV of 1863 should be initiated;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of Act I of 1859, section 100.

1. The following clause shall be added to the said section:—

"In addition to the persons appointed under the former part of this section, the Local Government may also appoint to make the said investigation either one or two persons, as in each case it thinks fit, provided that such person or persons is or are conversant with maritime or merchantile affairs. The provisions of sections CI and CII of this Act shall apply to all persons so appointed."

Power to compel attendance of witnesses.

2. The authority conducting a trial or investigation under Act No. I of 1859, section one hundred, or under Act No. XII of 1859 or under section four or section six of Act No. XV of 1863, may, in addition to the powers conferred by the said Acts or any other law for the time being in force for compelling the attendance of witnesses exercise all the powers in that behalf conferred on a Magistrate by the Code of Criminal Procedure, Chapter XXVI.

Amendment of Act XV of 1863, section 4.

3. The said fourth section of Act No. XV of 1863 shall be read as if, after the word "authorized," the following words were inserted (that is to say): "on a report or a statement of the case being submitted to it by the Local Government, or by such officer as the Local Government may have empowered in this behalf," and as if, in the first proviso, for the words "Report, or a statement," the words "Report or Statement" were substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Act No. I of 1859, section one hundred, enables the Local Government, in cases where a ship has been lost or abandoned, to appoint two persons to make a formal investigation, one of whom is to be a Magistrate, and the other a person conversant with maritime affairs.

Cases have recently occurred which prove the desirability of strengthening these tribunals by adding a member conversant with mercantile affairs. And the principal object of this Bill (which has been prepared at the suggestion of the chief Local Governments) is to enable them to make this addition. Another object is to provide greater facilities for the attendance of witnesses at the investigation, and to clear up some ambiguity arising out of Act XV of 1863, by which Act I of 1859 was amended.

The Hon'ble BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER.

EMBANKMENTS AND WATERCOURSES.

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved that the Bill to amend the law relating to Embankments and Watercourses be further considered in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. When this Bill was last before the Council he had expressed a hope that when it was next brought forward, it would be merely for the purpose of being passed. But during the interval that had elapsed, it had been thought expedient carefully to look over the provisions of the Bill with a view to making any amendments that might be brought to notice. The result had been that he had submitted to the Council a paper of amendments which he intended to propose. If the Council determined to take the Bill into consideration, he would then be able to state the reasons which induced him to propose these amendments.

The HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said that in his humble opinion the amendments proposed to be moved by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill were not such as could be conveniently and properly considered by the Council. The amendments were too numerous to be considered in this way, and they seemed to him to introduce a radical change in the rules of procedure as well as to modify the Bill in other respects. It would be much more convenient that the Bill be re-committed in order to the consideration of the amendments of which notice had been given.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said, perhaps it would be most convenient that he should state the course the Government proposed to take in regard to this Bill. The Hon'ble Member on the right had alluded to the changes proposed by the amendments, of which notice had been given, as radical changes. No doubt they were very bulky amendments, and in one respect the change proposed was a radical change, inasmuch as it changed the initiative from the Public Works Department to the Civil Department. The radical change was confined to that one change. His Honor was also inclined to hope that the change—a considerable change—which the Government thought it right to make, was one which would make the Bill more palatable, if not more acceptable, to the Hon'ble Member and the other Hon'ble Member who sat near to him. The Council were now near the end of the Session, and the course suggested by the Hon'ble Member would not be convenient. We were now nearly come to the long vacation; we were about to disperse to some distance, and we should find it difficult to get together an efficient Committee at this season. The changes proposed had been very carefully considered, although HIS HONOR did not think they amounted to any great change. What we proposed was that if the amendments, or some or any of the amendments, were adopted, the Bill would be immediately reprinted with the amendments made that day; and at our next meeting that day week, the Members would have an opportunity of moving any further amendments of which they might give notice. After that, during the long vacation, further proceedings with regard to the Bill would be suspended. A further opportunity would then be given of carefully considering the revised and re-amended Bill. Hon'ble Members would then again be able to bring forward any amendments which in the course of that period they might digest. This was the course proposed, and he hoped the Hon'ble Member would think it was at least as convenient a course as that suggested by him.

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER observed that after the explanation which had been offered, he would withdraw the amendment which he had intended to move. His impression was that at the next meeting it was the intention to move the passing of the Bill.

The motion was then agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said that in bringing these amendments before the Council, he wished to point out that they were not so much matter of detail, but were, in a great measure, matter of principle. This Bill had been twice if not thrice re-committed, and it would be a pity to have recourse again to that proceeding. The amendments which he had proposed might be divided into amendments of four classes. The most important was the substitution of Parts II, III, and IV, as printed in the notice of amendments, for Parts II, III, and IV, as they stood in the Bill. They were, in fact, word for word exactly the same as they stood in the Bill, with the exception that where the word "Engineer" stood we proposed to substitute the word "Collector." The reason of this proposal was twofold. First it had been suggested in some quarters, and amongst others by the British Indian Association, who represented in a great measure the zemindars, that the Bill placed too great power in the hands of the Engineer. MR. SCHALCH could not say he fully concurred with that objection, because it would be found that no power could be conferred on the Engineer until complete publication had been given to the measure proposed to be undertaken, until all parties interested had been allowed an opportunity of appearing and stating their objections, and until those objections had been disposed of upon a judicial enquiry; and when even that was done, the whole of these orders were open not only to appeal but also to revision, right up to the Government of Bengal. He thought therefore the Bill might well stand as it was.

But it was supposed that if the Collector was substituted for the Engineer there would be greater responsibility thrown upon him; he would be more careful how he conducted his proceedings, and would not be led away by professional feeling, as he was likely to be if the Engineer had the initiating power. It had therefore been suggested that it was better to give the Collector the initiative, and to vest the powers in him; and then, as far as the purely professional work was concerned, it would be exercised by the officers under him, but under his responsibility.

Another reason was that the position of the Executive Engineer as he formerly existed, had been changed: he was now the District Engineer and was more directly subordinate to the Collector than the Executive Engineer was.

These were the reasons which suggested the substitution of the Collector for the Engineer in Parts II, III, and IV. Part II was taken word for word from the Sections of the Bill as it now stood, somewhat transposed and rearranged. So also was Part III; and Part IV was also the same, with the exception that whilst we retained the more important powers in the hands of the Collector, we gave to the Engineer such powers as merely referred to the making of sluices and other subsidiary works.

It would then be seen that there was no reason for an enquiry into details: the alterations proposed involved only the principle of substituting the Collector for the Engineer. The amendments did not make any change except such as the Secretary would be empowered to make in the way of drafting. If therefore the Council were pleased to proceed at once with the consideration of the Bill, the Bill would in due course be printed and taken up again at the next meeting of the Council, so as to afford any Member who might desire it, an opportunity of proposing further amendments.

In section 3, the interpretation clause, the Hon'ble Mr. Schalch moved the following amendments:—

To add to the definition of "embankments," the words "and also all buildings intended for purposes of inspection and supervision;" the reason for the addition of these words being to include the bungalows of Engineers and other such buildings within the definition.

To substitute the following for the definition of "Engineer:" "The Engineer means the District Engineer or any Engineer specially appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to perform the functions of an Engineer under this Act." In regard to this amendment, Mr. Schalch said that it was necessary to alter the definition to meet the altered position of the former Executive Engineer. In place of the former Executive Engineer, there would now be the District Engineer; and the latter part of the proposed amendment was necessary to meet the case of long lines of embankment for the supervision of which a special Engineer would be necessary.

The motions were severally agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Schalch next moved the substitution of the following for Parts II, III, and IV, as they stood in the Bill. He had nothing further to say in explanation of this motion, except that the only question involved was whether the Collector should be substituted for the Engineer throughout these parts.

"Part II.

Powers of Collector and procedure thereon.

Powers of Collector.

4. Under the conditions and in the manner hereinafter provided—

Power to take charge of embankments.

Clause 1.—The Collector may cause any embankment which connects public embankments, or forms, by junction with them, part of a line of embankments, or any embankment or watercourse which is necessary for the protection or drainage of the neighbouring country, to be taken charge of and maintained by the officers of Government.

Clause 2.—The Collector may cause to be removed or altered any embankment which endangers the stability of a public embankment, or any obstruction of any kind which interferes with the general drainage of any tract of land.

Power to remove embankments and obstructions.

Clause 3.—The Collector may, when necessary, change the line of, or lengthen any, public embankment; or make a new embankment in the place of or renew any public embankment; or make an embankment in any place in which he may deem such embankment required for the protection of any lands, or for the improvement of any watercourse; or make a sluice in any public embankment.

Power to change line of embankment.

Clause 4.—The Collector may construct any sluice or watercourse, or effect any alteration in any public watercourse, when such construction or alteration may be required for the improvement of the health, or for the protection of any village or cultivable land.

Power to improve drainage.

Clause 5.—The Collector may call upon the person in charge of any road which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land to alter such road, or to construct any watercourse under or through such road. In the event of such person failing to comply with such requistion in such manner and within such time as the Collector shall prescribe, the said Collector may cause the road to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the person in charge of the said road.

Power to alter roads and construct watercourses.

Clause 6.—If any landholder, farmer, or cultivator be desirous of having a sluice made in any public embankment for the purpose of drainage or irrigation he shall make an application in writing to the Collector of the district in which such embankment is situate. The application shall contain such particulars of the land to be drained or irrigated as may enable the Collector to judge of the advantage which may be derived from the work.

Applications for sluices to be made to Collector.

Clause 7.—Whenever any person is desirous that any new embankment be erected, or that any new watercourse be made, or that any watercourse be obstructed or diverted, if such work is likely to interfere with, counteract, or impede any public embankment or any public watercourse, he shall apply to the Collector, and at the time of making such application shall deposit with him a statement of the proposed work.

Application for new embankment or drainage to be made to Collector.

5. When it shall appear expedient to the Collector that any of the works specified in the last preceding section should be executed, he shall cause to be prepared plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map showing the boundaries of the various estates likely to be affected by the said works, and he shall cause a proclamation to be issued giving notice of his intention to cause such works to be executed. Such proclamation shall be in the form and state the particulars mentioned in schedule (A) annexed to this Act; and there shall be appended thereto a copy of the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as aforesaid. The Collector shall not commence any of such works until final order made in respect thereto under the provisions of sections 8, 65, and 66 of this Act.

Procedure.

6. Every such proclamation shall be published by affixing the same at the cutcherry of the Collector, and in the manner provided in the third clause of section 62.

Publication of proclamation.

7. Every such proclamation shall be published not less than thirty days before the day appointed for hearing the persons interested.

Proclamation to be published for thirty days.

8. The Collector shall, on the day appointed for the hearing, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing shall be adjourned, hear the objections of any persons who may appear, and, after recording any evidence which they may adduce, shall pass an order in regard to the execution of the proposed works. Notice of such order shall be served on such persons as may have appeared in pursuance of the proclamation.

Hearing of objections to works.

9. If the lands, which are likely to be affected by any such proposed works, are situated are within the limits of different districts, the Collector of any district within which any portion of such lands is situated, shall apply to the Commissioner of the division for authority to proceed in such matter; and the Commissioner of the division, if all the lands are situated within the division, may give authority to such Collector or to any other Collector within whose district any portion of such lands is situated to proceed in respect of all the lands likely to be affected by such works.

Authority to take proceedings where lands likely to be affected by the works are in different districts;

If the districts within which the lands likely to be affected by any such works are situated, are subject to the Commissioners of different divisions, the Collector shall apply to the Commissioner of the division within which his district is situated, and such Commissioner may, with the concurrence of the Commissioner to whom the other district is subject, give authority to proceed to such matter.

or different divisions.

PART III.

Procedure in cases of imminent danger to life or property.

Proceedings in emergencies.

10. Whenever the Collector shall be of opinion that the proceedings commenced by notice under sections 5 to 8 of this Act would cause delay in the exercise of any of the powers conferred upon him by clauses 2, 3, and 4 of section 4 likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to commence to exercise such powers. Provided that he shall forthwith cause to be prepared the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as provided in Section 5, and shall cause a proclamation to be issued as provided in that section giving notice that the work mentioned therein has already been commenced, and thereupon such proceedings and inquiries shall be had as in by Part II of this Act are directed.

Power to take possession of land.

11. Whenever any land, or earth from any land, the property of any person, is required for purposes of any works commenced in pursuance of the provisions of the last proceeding section, or for the purposes of section 17 in cases where the Collector shall be of opinion that proceedings for the acquisition of such land, according to the provisions hereinafter contained in section 30, would cause delay as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause a proclamation to be issued in form in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act, giving notice thereof at convenient places in the locality in which such land is situated, and he may at the same time take possession of the same for the said purposes.

Compensation for standing crops and trees.

12. The Collector shall ascertain and record the nature and estimated value of the crops and trees (if any) standing on such land and shall offer adequate compensation to the persons interested. If such offer is not accepted, the value of such crops and trees shall be allowed for in awarding compensation for the land under the provisions of section 34.

Power to Engineer to act in absence of Collector.

13. The Collector may depute to the Engineer the powers described in sections 10, 11, and 12, subject to his own general orders, and in that case when the Collector is not present the Engineer may, if he shall be of opinion, that delay for the purpose of obtaining the orders of the Collector would be attended with grave and imminent danger to life and property, exercise the powers conferred on him by the Collector.

Power to restore embankments, &c.

14. Whenever, upon an inquiry had under the provisions of this Part, it has been determined in the final order to be passed on such inquiry that anything done by the Collector or by the Engineer under the last preceding section was necessary, the land or the embankments or drainage shall, so far as any alteration thereof shall appear to be necessary, be at the expense of the Government restored as nearly as possible to the state in which they were when the Collector commenced to act under the provisions of this Part; and any person who shall have sustained loss, damage, or injury by the execution of such works shall receive compensation from the Government to be assessed according to the provisions contained in Part V of this Act.

Section 9 to apply to proceedings under this Part.

15. The provisions of section 9 shall be applicable to proceedings taken under this Part.

PART IV.

Powers of Engineer.

Engineer subject to control of Collector.

16. The power conferred on the Engineer under this Part shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Collector.

Power to make repairs.

17. The Engineer may make any repairs in, and may do all acts necessary and proper for the maintenance of any public embankment, public watercourse, or other work executed or taken charge of under the provisions of this Act, or of any of the Acts repealed by this Act.

Power to alter railroads or construct watercourses.

18. The Engineer may call upon the manager or other person in charge of any railroad which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land, to alter such railroads or to construct any watercourse under or through such railroad. In the event of such person failing to comply with such requisition in such manner and within such time as the Engineer shall prescribe, the Engineer may thereupon, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, cause the said railroad to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct. The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the said manager or other person in charge of the said railroad.

Power to make temporary roadway, watercourse, or dam.

19. When any person is desirous that a temporary roadway should be made over, or that a temporary watercourse should be made through any public embankment, or that a temporary dam should be constructed in any embankment, river, or public watercourse, he shall apply to the Engineer, who shall communicate the application to the Collector, and the Collector shall pass such orders thereon as he shall think fit. If the proposed work is to be executed by an officer of Government, the applicant, before the commencement of the work, shall deposit the amount estimated by the Engineer to be necessary to defray the expenses of, and incidental to, making and removing such roadway, or of, and incidental to, making and closing or removing such watercourse or dam. If the amount deposited is found insufficient, the Engineer shall recover from the said applicant the further amount required; and if it exceeds the amount required, such excess shall be returned to the said applicant.

Power to remove houses.

20. Whenever the Engineer shall be of opinion that the removal of any trees, houses, huts, or other buildings, situated between a public embankment and the river, is necessary, he shall make a report to that effect, accompanied by a detailed statement of the trees, houses, huts, or other buildings to be removed, to the Collector of the district in whose jurisdiction the land on which such trees, houses, huts, or other buildings stand, is situated, and the Collector shall report the same to the Lieutenant-Governor in order that proceedings may be taken, in accordance with the provisions of "The Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870," or other law for the time being for the acquisition of land for public purposes, for obtaining possession of such trees, houses, huts, and buildings. Provided always that in case the Collector be of opinion that the delay required by such proceedings is likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to cause such trees, houses, huts, or buildings to be removed, and in such case the compensation due therefor shall be ascertained and paid in the manner hereinafter provided.

Sluices to be opened or shut under authority of the Engineer

21. Sluices constructed in any public embankment shall be opened or shut only by or with the general or special permission of the officer in the immediate charge of the embankment, under such orders, either general or special, as he may receive from the Engineer.

Power to appropriate land or earth for embanked towpath.

22. In any case where an embanked towpath has heretofore been maintained by Government alongside any canal, river, khal, or channel, the Engineer shall be entitled to appropriate, without payment, as heretofore, land or earth for the maintenance, repair, or reconstruction of such embanked towpath. If in any case the Engineer shall consider it necessary for the purposes of towing to enlarge an existing towpath, or to construct a new towpath, proceedings shall be taken in accordance with the subsequent provisions of this Act relating thereto.

Power to enter and survey land, &c.

23. It shall be lawful for the Engineer, or any person whom he may authorize in that behalf, in order to carry out any of the purposes of this Act, to enter upon, and survey, and take levels of any land;

to dig or bore into the subsoil;

to do all other acts necessary to ascertain whether the lands is adapted to the purpose projected by such Engineer; or by the Collector;

Power to mark out line.

to set out the boundaries of the land proposed to be taken, and the intended line of the work proposed to be made thereon;

to mark such levels, boundaries, and line, by placing marks and cutting trenches;

and, where otherwise the survey cannot be completed or the levels taken, to cut down and clear away any part of any standing crop, fence, or jungle.

Power to clear land.

Provided that no person shall enter into any building or upon any enclosed court or garden attached to a dwelling-house (unless with the consent of the occupier thereof) without previously giving such occupier at least seven days' notice in writing of his intention to do so

Previous notice of entry

The Engineer or other person so authorized shall at the time of such entry pay or tender payment for all necessary damage to be done as aforesaid, and in case of dispute as to the sufficiency of the amount so paid or tendered, he shall at once refer the dispute to the decision of the Collector, and such decision shall be final."

Payment for damage.

The Hon'ble Rajah Jotendro Mohun Tagore said before the Council proceeded to consider the amendments now before them, he wished to offer a few remarks. The main object of these amendments seemed to him to be the transfer to the Collector of the power originally vested in the Engineer. To him this seemed practically a nominal change. For it was a well-known fact that the hands of the Collector were already too full and that the proper supervision and direction of embankment works would require much more time and attention than he could well spare. Besides, the professional advice of the Engineer would always weigh with the Collector, and that officer it might be emagined would much rather prefer to leave the settlement of embankment questions in the hands of the Engineer than to take the responsibility upon himself. Then again, section 64, as proposed to be amended, distinctly authorized the Collector, at his discretion, to delegate his power to the Engineer, and this would much facilitate that end. So that virtually the matter would remain very much in the same state as it stood in the Bill at present, and these amendments could in no way be considered improvements On the contrary, they were likely to do more harm than good. For under the Bill as it stood the Collector held the position of a disinterested judge; but as it was proposed to alter it under the amendment, if the Collector was to have a nominal power, and have the discretion of delegating afterwards that power to the Engineer, he would naturally feel a sort of bias to uphold an authority which he had himself delegated. Under these circumstances, RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE thought the adoption of the amendments before the Council would be of scarcely any advantage.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he should like to say one or two words in explanation. It was perfectly true, as the hon'ble member said, that the Collector had his hands pretty full, and that he might not be master of engineering details. But on the other hand, it seemed to him that the most essential and practical advantage of the amendment was this, that as the Bill stood, the Engineer was entitled to take the initiative, and if the Collector was opposed to the proposal of the Engineer, he had to find the means or arguments to controvert the opinion of the Engineer. The Collector in that case was bound to take up the whole case and decide upon it. As the Bill stood, the Collector was not bound to move at all; he was not bound to give any reasons. He might pooh pooh the Engineer; he might say, "I am not going to take it up." It was for the Collector to be satisfied that there was necessity before he would move. He was the person who under the law, if the amendment was accepted, would be required to take the initiative. The Engineer would not be in the field until the Collector had taken the initiative. That was entirely different to the case as it now stood, where the Engineer was entitled to take the initiative and force the matter to a decision.

As regards Part IV, it was true the Collector had the power to delegate his powers under that Part to the Engineer. But if hon'ble members would look to that Part they would find that under it none of the radical functions of the Collector could be delegated. The functions that could be delegated were minor and subsidiary, such as the power to make repairs, the power to alter roads, the power to make temporary roadways, watercourses, or drains, the power to remove houses, the power of opening or shutting sluices, the power to take land or earth for embanked tow-paths, the power to enter and survey land, and such like minor powers. These were minor and subsidiary powers altogether of a secondary description, and not the radical and main powers which the Collector was to exercise under the Bill.

The HON'BLE RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE observed that under section 64 as proposed to be amended all the powers of the Collector might be delegated to the Engineer. If the delegation were confined to the minor powers referred to by His Honor, he would not have raised the objection.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT remarked that the Council had not yet come to the amendment upon section 64. If the amendment proposed would have the effect suggested by the hon'ble member, the Government would be open to conviction.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said the Collector would have all the powers under the Bill. The Collector had very hard work, and he could not do everything himself, he must do the work through the officers of the various departments under his control. He could not, for instance, personally investigate every case of manslaughter. He was the head of the Executive in the district, and must work through his subordinates in the different grades; but he was responsible that the men under him did their work properly: the responsibility was his. The Engineer might be inclined to look to the credit of his work regardless of expense; but now we proposed to place the power of initiation in the hands of one who might be deficient in engineering, but who would study the interests of the parties concerned.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT observed that at any rate they should follow the regular order of the amendments proposed. Until an amendment was made in section 64, the clause would not have that effect. He should be prepared to support the objection raised to the amendment proposed in section 64; but the consideration of that matter must be reserved until they came to it in regular order. The amendment now before the Council would not have the effect which the hon'ble member apprehended, except as to such minor works as those to which His Honor had referred.

The HON'BLE RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE observed that his objection was as to the tendency of the whole of the amendments. He wished to point out that the amendments would have very little practical effect in altering the state of things in the Bill as it stood, and the objections against vesting the Engineers with too large powers would remain much the same.

The motion to substitute the amended Parts II, III, and IV was then agreed to.

The HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER rose to move the amendments of which he had given notice, when—

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said the notice given by the hon'ble member had not been sufficiently long in the hands of the members. The discussion upon the amendments under consideration would not now be closed, and the hon'ble member could have an opportunity of bringing forward his amendments at the next meeting. The notice of amendments of the hon'ble member only reached MR. SCHALCH that morning, and he had scarcely had the opportunity of considering their bearing upon the Bill.

The HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER observed that the amendment which he was first about to propose was an amendment upon an amendment, and was rendered necessary by the amendments of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, and therefore hardly required notice.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said that although ordinarily an amendment upon an amendment did not require notice, it might be of such an important nature as to necessitate much consideration. He himself had only received the notice that morning, and would ask the hon'ble member to postpone his amendments until the next meeting, when he could have an opportunity of bringing them forward.

The HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER observed that after the explanation given by HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT that it was not the intention to pass the Bill at present, he would agree to postpone the consideration of his amendments until the next meeting of the Council.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved the substitution of the following for section 30, the only alteration being a legal one as to the mode of referring to the Land Acquisition Act:—

Acquisition of land.

"30. Whenever in the course of proceedings under this Act, save in those cases in which the Collector has proceeded under the provisions of Part III, it appears that land is required for any of the purposes thereof, proceedings shall be forthwith taken for the acquisition of such land in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being for the acquisition of lands for public purposes."

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of MR. SCHALCH verbal alterations were made in sections 32, 35, 38, 39, 40, 42, 43, 56, 60, 65, and 67.

The amendments in reference to sections 57, 59, and 60 were, by leave, withdrawn.

With reference to the proposed amendment to section 64—

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said the object of these amendments was to give the Collector power to delegate his powers to the Engineer.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT observed that he did certainly think that the amendment was open to the objection urged by the hon'ble member on the right (RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE). The section, as proposed to be amended, would read thus:—

"All the powers and authorities vested in the Collector by any of the sections of this Act may be exercised by the engineer in cases referred to him by the Collector, provided always that it shall be lawful for the Collector to recall any case so referred, and to proceed thereon, either adopting or not adopting any of the proceedings theretofore had thereon as to him shall seem fit"

HIS HONOR thought the section had better be omitted altogether.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said the Collector could not exercise all these powers himself. It must be first judicially settled whether in any particular case the Collector should exercise the powers proposed to be vested in him, and then when it had been decided that he should exercise these powers, he would delegate the execution of them to the Engineer. He could not delegate the power until it had been determined that he should exercise it. He would however, at the suggestion of the PRESIDENT, withdraw the amendment at present, and consider whether it was necessary to bring it forward again at the next meeting.

The amendment was by leave withdrawn.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved that after section 66 the following section be inserted: it was a mere transposition of section 21 of the Bill to this place, where it came in better, as it applied to all inquiries, and not merely to inquiries under Part III:—

Powers on inquiry and appeal.

"In any inquiry or appeal held under this Act, the Collector and the Commissioner shall respectively have the same powers as those conferred on courts by the Code of Civil Procedure of summoning and examining witnesses, and compelling the production of documents."

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved the insertion of the following section after the above, the object being to give a general power of control under the Act:—

General control of Commissioner and Government.

"All the powers of a Collector under this Act shall be exercised under the general control and orders of the Commissioner of the division, and all the powers of Collectors and Commissioners shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Board of Revenue and of the Government."

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved that it be an instruction to the Secretary to alter the numbers of the sections and letters of the schedules accordingly.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT observed that he put the motion without prejudice as to the necessity of it. His impression was that the Secretary, under the direction of the President, had this power without the necessity of a motion in Council, and that such was the practice in the Legislative Council of the Governor-General.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said, Schedules (A) and (B) were not now both necessary, and had therefore been amalgamated. He would move that the following schedule be substituted for Schedules A and B, as they now stood in the Bill:

"SCHEDULE A.—(Referred to in Section 6.)

All persons interested are hereby required to take notice that it is my intention to [here state the nature of the work to be undertaken] for the purpose of [state the purposes]. For the execution of this work the undermentioned land will be required to be taken up:—

Pergunnah in which land is situated.	Name of village in which land is situated.	Area of land.

Plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed work, together with a copy of the survey map showing the boundaries of the various estates likely to be affected by the said work, are herewith submitted.

The total probable cost of such work will be the sum of Rs. , and the rate per acre of the area benefited or protected by the said work is estimated at Rs. .

The following estates and villages will probably be affected by the work proposed [here set out a list of the estates and villages]:

Any person interested and desirous of showing cause against the execution of the works specified is hereby required to appear before the Collector for that purpose on the day of The day of

A. B., Collector of "

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of MR. SCHALCH verbal amendments were made in Schedules (C) and (D).

The further consideration of the Bill was postponed.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said care would be taken that the Bill as amended would be placed in the hands of the members at the earliest possible period, and hon'ble members would have time to consider the Bill, and if they so wished, to circulate notices of amendments. He hoped that if they wished to do so, the notices would be circulated at an early date.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 13th instant.

EMIGRATION TO THE LABOR DISTRICTS.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said the first business before the Council was the adjourned debate on the Bill to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet. Amendments had been placed on the paper in His Honor's name, the object of which was to carry out what he intimated it might be desirable to do, namely, to put in a definite form the changes which it seemed to him might be possible. His own opinion had not been definitely formed; the opinion of the Council was not definite. At the same time, the learned Advocate-General had observed on a late occasion that there was room for a great deal of misunderstanding as long as propositions were not placed in a clear and definite shape. The object was to put his suggestions into the form of amendments, clear and definite. The Council would observe that HIS HONOR had also proposed that the discussion be adjourned for the space of two months; so that we might consult all concerned. We should consult the officers of Government, planters, and coolies, as regards the particular points raised by these amendments, and we should give all parties interested, and the public in general, an opportunity of suggesting any thing more they might have to say in regard to the whole Bill before the Council. He might add, the Government would have an opportunity of communicating with the Government of India upon the subject. It would be seen that the amendments, of which notice had been given, were several. He thought it well, at the outset, to distinguish Cachar from Sylhet; because it might be that those interested in Sylhet would think it desirable to remove Sylhet from the operation of the Act, whilst those interested in Cachar might not think it desirable to remove Cachar. Therefore he put first an amendment which proposed to omit "Cachar" from the operation of this Bill, and secondly, another amendment proposing to omit "Sylhet." The result of the omission of those words would be that those districts would be wholly removed from the operation of this Labor District Act. The consequence would be that, if the amendments were accepted, Sylhet would be in the same position as Mymensingh now was, or any other district in Bengal; and if the amendment in regard to Cachar was also accepted, it would be in the same position; the movements of laborers in those districts would be perfectly free, and the relations of the coolies with regard to their masters would be regulated by the ordinary law of the land, the law of contract, and that provision of the Penal Code to which he had adverted. His Honor was not himself thoroughly up in the provisions of the various laws which regulated the carriage of the passengers. It might be necessary to enact certain provisions in order to secure that vessels carrying a large number of persons should do so in a manner consistent with their safety, and freedom from disease. This might apply to many parts of the country and to many rivers of this country. But in so far as the special provisions of this Bill were concerned, the rough general effect of the first two amendments, if they were accepted by this Council, would be wholly to remove Cachar and Sylhet from the operation of this Bill, and to place them on the same footing as all the rest of the country.

Then, he came to the third amendment, which he would take in connection with the fourth amendment, because the third amendment was merely subsidiary to the fourth. The fourth amendment was one which was adopted totidem verbis, in so many words, from the British Burmah Emigration Bill now before the Council of the Governor-General. His Honor had said that although the Committee of this Council had expressed themselves unfavorably to the concurrent operation of a free system of recruiting and a special system of recruiting, the representative of the Government of India in the Governor-General's Council had taken an opposite view, and had expressed an opinion that it would be very desirable that the free system should not be checked, but that opportunity should be given to those who preferred a free system to adopt it. The shape in which that proposition was put in the Governor-General's Council was the shape in which it was now expressed in the fourth amendment submitted to this Council. The result was that while recruiting otherwise than under the Act would in no degree be a penal offence, on the other hand no contract to go to the labor districts would be binding upon the emigrant unless made in accordance with the provisions of this Act. The consequence would be that if people did not recruit under the Act, they would recruit to a certain extent on their own risk; they would not be punishable. But contracts made before the emigrants reached the labor districts would not be valid and binding upon those laborers. A man who agreed to go was defined to be an emigrant under the Act until he reached the labor districts: when he reached the labor districts he became a laborer, and was no longer an emigrant. So long as he was in the stage of an emigrant he would not be bound by any contract to labor, which he might make otherwise than under the provisions of this Act. But when he reached the labor districts he ceased to become an emigrant; he then became a free man, and was competent to contract as any other local laborer might now contract. His Honor proposed by the third amendment to alter the definition of "emigrant" to meet that. As the definition stood an emigrant was only a man recruited by a garden-sirdar or recruiter, and registered. He proposed to strike out those words, and he proposed to make the definition to be simply this, that an emigrant would be a person who had agreed to proceed to a labor district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire. The consequence would be that in respect to whatever districts the Council might retain as labor districts, the emigrant would be subject to the provisions of the Act until he reached those districts. If the emigrants were conveyed in gangs not exceeding twenty, they were exempt from the operation of the passenger provisions of the Act, and they would be free to go as they liked; but although not recruited under the Act, if conveyed in large batches and in crowded steamers, they would still be emigrants and subject to the sanitary provisions of the Act. On reaching the labor districts they would be free, and free to contract under the ordinary law. There were various ways in which this question of free recruiting could be put. His Honor had put it in that form because it had the high authority of the member in charge of the Bill in the Council of the Governor-General. At the same time it would be free to the members of the Council and others interested to suggest that free recruiting should be put in any other form.

Then he came to the last amendment, which was on a different subject, and referred to a subject not so directly and distinctly mooted before the Council. On the last occasion there was a discussion on this Bill which had the appearance somewhat of a difference of opinion,—he hoped there was not a final difference of opinion,—but there was a certain conflict of argument between the learned Advocate-General and himself in regard to the use of the term "slavery" under the labor laws. His Honor said it seemed to him that the absence of freedom under the present labor law was of a very different character from the absence of freedom under the ordinary law of contract. As the Bill at present stood, it seemed to him that a form of quasi-slavery was involved in the 123rd section: it made it that a cooly was not a free man under the ordinary protection of the law; if he attempted to run away, his master might seize him as a master seizes a runaway slave, without the intervention of any legal proceeding That was a kind of fugitive slave law. His Honor's experience was that that provision had been to a certain extent the subject of occasional abuse. He knew that there had been gardens in which there were cordons of chowkidars, and in which the coolies were kept somewhat like prisoners in a jail. At the same time he must state distinctly that he believed that such a state of things was altogether the exception. We had lately published in the Gazette a description of the tea gardens submitted by the Commissioner of Assam, in which he told us that the condition of the tea gardens, of the planters, and of the coolies, had greatly improved; that the condition of the gardens as a rule was good, and that the coolies were happy and contented. His Honor's view of the matter was that in these good gardens where the masters were well-to-do, where the coolies were happy and contented, they did not require a fugitive slave law like this. These gardens could get on very well without it. On the other hand, in the rare cases in which abuses took place, in which the power of arrest was abused, it was desirable that that power should be removed. He did not pledge himself to an opinion on that point. He quite agreed that a great deal was to be said on both sides, and he placed the amendment on the paper in order that the matter might be fully discussed, that those interested in the matter might have an opportunity of giving their opinion, and that we might have a full expression of all that had to be said on both sides. He confessed that whilst he thoroughly acknowledged and saw with the greatest pleasure the great improvement which had taken place in the tea districts, he personally regarded with very considerable repugnance that particular provision which he had called a sort of fugitive slave law, and he thought we should consider whether we could put the laborers more in the position of free men. He had therefore deemed it fairer to put this amendment on the paper at once, that all interested might be warned that it was under consideration whether we could do without the first two clauses of section 123. The penal law for the punishment of desertion, the means of arresting deserters and putting them to labor by legal process, would remain the same as before. The whole change would be this, that, instead of the planter taking the law into his own hands and seizing a deserting laborer, he would be bound to follow and prosecute him. The deserter would still be liable to punishment, and liable to the provision which forced him to work out his contract.

These were the amendments which His Honor thought it right to place before the Council. He did not propose now to press them on for decision. He quite agreed with the Committee that these questions were not ripe for decision, and in that view he proposed that the discussion of the above amendments be adjourned for the space of two months.

The question was then put that the discussion of the following amendments, of which notice had been given, be adjourned for the space of two months :—

In the Preamble and in section 3, clause 3, definition of "Labor Districts," omit the word "Cachar."

In the Preamble and in section 3, clause 3, definition of "Labor Districts," omit the word "Sylhet."

Section 3, clause 6, definition of "Emigrant," omit the words "with any garden-sirdar or recruiter" and the words "and has been registered as hereinafter provided."

Omit sections 15, 16, and 17, and substitute the following new section :—

"No contract to labor in the Labor Districts shall be binding on an emigrant unless it is made in accordance with this Act."

Section 123 —Omit clauses 1 and 2.

The motion was agreed to.

MARINE SURVEYS—RESPONSIBILITIES OF SURVEYORS.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 16th September 1873.

READ—

Letters No. 4785, dated 1st September, and No. 5004, dated 11th September, from the Officiating Master Attendant reporting on the case of the Shahjehan Emigrant Ship.

1. With reference to recent events and rumours, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it very necessary that Government and the public should fully understand the modes, rules, and practice of marine surveys made in this port, and the responsibilities of the surveyors, in cases where the law requires such survey. His Honor would also wish to have for purposes of analogy and comparison, similar information regarding the surveys made by private surveyors for the various Marine Insurance Companies. There have lately been two or three very serious mishaps to ships passed for the conveyance of emigrants and passengers. One vessel, the Indus, has, it is feared, foundered at sea with all hands. She is, however, believed to have been a first class vessel. Another (the Shahjehan) has put back leaky from the Sandheads. Without saying that there is blame attributable in any case, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that certainly full enquiry should be made into the general practice of the port.

2. From the Master Attendant's letters in the case of the Shahjehan it appears that she was surveyed by an Assistant Master Attendant on the 26th August, who certified in the usual printed form that her "hull was sound, tight, staunch, and firm in the fastenings," and that she was "sea-worthy and in all respects fit for the reception and carriage of passengers." The details of survey are set out in the shape of answers to queries on a large printed form, but some of these are not filled up. It appears that she was also privately surveyed on the 21st July and the 17th August, when she was pronounced to be "in excellent condition about the hull, a good insurance risk, and a vessel well adapted for the carriage of East Indian Emigrants." On her return to port from outside a few days later owing to serious leakage, further surveys were held by the Government Surveyor and by two private surveyors, who discovered "on closer examination a graving piece which had been let into the fourth plank from the water's edge on the port bow; on removing which they found that the wood of the plank under it was quite rotten. Also that there was a hole quite through the plank on to the bow timbers." Four planks altogether in the bows had had graving pieces or patches let into them and are now to be replaced by sound planks. On her being placed in dry dock it was further discovered that the metal on the ship's bottom and a large portion of her false keel had been carried away, evidently by her running over a buoy or cable. It is stated that these injuries do not affect the soundness of the hull, and that they were caused by going over a buoy and cable in February last, a circumstance neither entered in the vessel's log nor mentioned by the master to the Government Surveyor when enquiring if the vessel had grounded anywhere since last in dock.

3. As regards the survey, the Lieutenant-Governor is unable to say whether a defect of the kind now acknowledged to exist in the bows should or should not have been discovered before the vessel left port. The surveyors are apparently of opinion that as the leakage was only serious when the vessel drove into head seas, the master should have discovered it himself and remedied it without returning. That too is a matter upon which only professional seamen can give a satisfactory opinion. The fact remains that a vessel passed as staunch and sea-worthy has to put back with serious leakage from the very mouth of the river and that injuries are then discovered in her bows and hull which were never suspected or discovered by the surveyors.

4. The case of another vessel, The London, has been referred to in the public prints. The Lieutenant-Governor has ascertained that this vessel was surveyed for insurance purposes in January and passed as a good risk provided she left in all February drawing not over 18½ feet, and provided a very manifest leak was stopped and very slight repairs effected. The vessel left at the very end of March, without, it is said, the repairs specified, and drawing considerably more than 18½ feet. She had to return leaky and is now, it is believed, condemned as utterly rotten. The law gives Government no power to prevent the departure of a vessel in such a state, when she carries neither emigrants nor native passengers.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor fears that these may be by no means solitary instances. The newspapers mention also the case of the Mymoon, but she is said to have been surveyed in Rangoon. The Lieutenant-Governor would wish, however, to have an immediate report of the facts from the Master Attendant.

6. A general impression seems to be abroad that there is grave cause for anxiety and enquiry on this important question in this port. It is believed that one main cause of uncertainty in the survey when made is the practice of deferring the examination till the ship is loaded or half-filled with cargo. It is also certain that in many cases no thorough examination of the hull is attempted.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that the Master Attendant and Government Surveyors will now furnish full and accurate report showing who surveys vessels requiring to be surveyed for Government or emigration purposes; who checks the survey to see that it is sufficient and complete; what rule or practice prevails in regard to surveying such a vessel with cargo in her, in regard to putting her in dock or employing divers for examination of the hull, in regard to testing the soundness of such things as graving pieces, discovery of soft caulking and other defects The cases should be enumerated in which survey by Government officers is required, and if there is any variety of practice in each case this should be fully explained. The Lieutenant-Governor wishes especially very careful report on the practice in regard to coolie ships. The Protector of Emigrants will also be asked to report on the practice in regard to the selection and survey of these vessels.

8. The Master Attendant will also be good enough to state how and under what conditions ships are privately surveyed and by whom; who appoint the various private surveyors here, and whether they are under any disciplined corporation, such as the Trinity House and Lloyds, &c. The practice of private surveyors as to holding survey when cargo is in and as to docking and examining the hull should be explained.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to have information and opinions on this subject from the leading private surveyors and merchants, the Chamber of Commerce, Port Trust Commissioners, and some experienced masters of vessels. Steps will be taken to invite such opinions. It is most desirable that Government should know whether many rotten ships are sent out of this port, and, if so, what remedies it is bound to apply to this evil.

ANNUAL REGISTRATION REPORT FOR 1872-73.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

JUDICIAL.

Calcutta, the 9th September 1873.

READ—

The Report on the administration of the Registration Department in Bengal for 1872-73.

1. The report commences by presenting the general results of registration in Bengal during the year. The number of registrations has risen from 245,270 to 279,080, the increase being nearly equally divided between optional and compulsory registration. The following table shows the figures for 1871-72 and 1872-73 in the principal classes of documents and sub-totals.

		1871-72.	1872-73.
	Compulsory.
Registration affecting immovable property ...	Instruments of sale, &c., of immovable property of value of Rs. 100 and upwards	47,625	54,125
	Perpetual leases	47,181	54,926
	Other leases	62,222	64,944
	Optional.
	Instruments, of sale, &c., of immovable property under Rs. 100	49,197	59,708
	Leases for one year or less	1,111	1,476
	Miscellaneous documents	4,911	5,678
	Total compulsory registrations affecting immovable property	158,077	174,788
	Total optional registrations affecting immovable property	55,431	67,130
	Total registrations affecting immovable property	213,508	241,918
Registrations other than those affecting immovable property	Obligations for payment of money ...	21,672	24,969
	All other registrations	10,090	12,193
	Total of above	31,762	37,162
	Number of wills registered	934	1,209

2. The increase, as the Inspector-General remarks, is well distributed over the principal districts, and does not apparently therefore depend upon abnormal local causes. Much of it is probably due to the introduction of the system of rural sub-registrars, to which reference is made below.

3. The process of sub-infeudation by grant of perpetual leases, which the Lieutenant-Governor noticed in last year's Resolution, is still going on at an increased rate, being as before most common in some of the eastern districts. Chittagong with 11,852 such leases, Jessore with 10,932, Backergunge with 8,683, Furreedpore with 5,257, and Noakhally with 6,428, are far ahead of other districts in this respect, the nearest being the 24-Pergunnahs with 2,251, followed by Burdwan, Hooghly, and Nuddea, with 1,159, 1,075, and 1,380 respectively. None of the others come up to 1,000. The number of ordinary leases registered shows no particular increase, and it is quite certain as before that agricultural leases are not as a rule registered in Bengal. The remarks of some of the district officers in Appendix II show that this is due in great measure to the fact that few pottahs are given even when kubooleuts are taken; and that in practice the exchange of pottahs and kubooleuts in any case is comparatively rare. It is suggested that no kubooleut should be registered without a corresponding pottah. But the subject is a very large one which cannot be properly discussed here.

4. The number of registrations of ordinary bonds and deeds not affecting immovable property still continues extremely small, insignificant, it may be said, as compared to the country and population. Full details are this year given with respect to money bonds. Of a total of 24,969 bonds registered, 1,324 were for sums over Rs. 1,000; 144 for sums between Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000; 8,927 for sums between Rs. 100 and Rs. 500; 5,960 for sums between Rs. 50 and Rs. 100; 4,580 for sums between Rs. 25 and Rs. 50, and 2,734 for sums less than Rs. 25. The aggregate value of the bonds was Rs. 1,03,18,692 and the fees Rs. 22,871, or a little over 14 annas per bond on the average. Jessore, Nuddea, and the 24-Pergunnahs have most transactions of this class; but in the Sonthal Pergunnahs more bonds for money are presented, in proportion to other registrations, than in any other district.

5. The Inspector-General refers to a suggestion which has been repeatedly made, viz. that the registration of bonds should be made compulsory. The Lieutenant-Governor is quite ready to believe that at present the action of the Small Cause Courts is in many instances unsatisfactory, and that compulsory registration of bonds would mitigate this evil. But, as Mr. Wilson sees, such a measure is impossible until registration offices are easily accessible in much greater numbers than at present. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the difficulty is being overcome, if the measures now ordered are actively carried out.

6. Of 266,018 deeds paying an ad valorem fee, 176,008 fell short of Rs. 100 in value. The total value of the property transferred, however, during the year was Rs. 11,34,60,805.

7. The receipts of the department were Rs. 4,35,319, an increase over 1871-72 of Rs. 62,182. But the expenditure has also risen, and, in spite of reductions in establishments at sudder offices and in salaries, has increased by Rs. 23,821 to Rs. 3,04,782, exclusive of the cost of printing and stationery. The cause of this is the establishment of new offices, and the surrender to new rural registrars of a great portion of the fees received; but this will in time, it is hoped, be more than made up for by a general increase of the number of registrations.

8. The year closed with 167 registration offices at work, increased by ten since the year closed. Eleven new rural offices were opened during the year, and ten more since its close—making thirty-four such offices at places other than sub-divisional head-quarters. At seven sub-divisions also special officers have been appointed; but it is not intended, save under special circumstances, to relieve sub-divisional officers of their duties in this department. At twenty sudder stations of importance special sub-registrars are entertained to relieve and assist the district officer, but during the year it has been determined to pay all future incumbents of these offices partly by salary and partly by commission, instead of by a fixed salary as hitherto. The Lieutenant-Governor must express his belief that the number of officers is still by far too few, and he will not be satisfied till they are three or four times as numerous. So lately in 1864 as many as 450 Kazis' offices were abolished and they should certainly be replaced by as many modern offices.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that the system of rural sub-registrars is being judiciously, though very slowly, introduced; he trusts that efforts will be made to carry out the system more rapidly. His Honor has sanctioned experimentally in one or two instances Mr. Wilson's plan of appointing additional sub-registrars to a sub-district without giving them local limits within the sub-district. He does not understand Mr. Wilson's expressions from which it would seem that one office is appointed as supplementary to two sub-divisions. This must not be allowed. Each office must belong solely to one registration sub-division. All that can be allowed is that in cases where locality is not the essence of the contract, people should have the option of going to that one of two or three offices in one division which is most convenient to them. In that view the experiment is interesting and important; but Mr. Wilson is requested to report clearly the terms and conditions which he would lay down for these offices. If this plan is adopted, the executive sub-division will no doubt be the best registration area.

10. It is gratifying to learn that the inspection of rural offices has shown that they are, on the whole, quite as well managed as sub-divisional offices used to be, and that there is already an increase in the registration work of the selected localities. The importance, however, of frequent inspection by district officers and special sub-registrars, as well as by the inspecting officers of the department, cannot be too strongly insisted on. The Lieutenant-Governor fully recognises that at least two Inspectors must be maintained. The people must be made to see that these offices, opened for their convenience, are as effective and satisfactory as those at the sudder stations.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that much would be gained by asking the High Court to order civil courts to communicate with the Registration Department whenever they reject a registered instrument. Documents may be rejected for various reasons with which the Registration Department has no concern; but whenever it becomes a question as to the genuineness of the instrument, the proceedings in the Registration Department would almost necessarily pass under review, and the department would probably become aware of the facts without any special notice. The High Court will however be moved to direct the Civil Court to communicate respecting cases in which doubt is thrown on the proceedings of the Registration Office.

12. The provision of proper offices and record racks at sudder stations has been pushed on vigorously during the year.

13. The question raised by the Inspector-General in paragraph 25 of the report as to the return of registration fees, will be brought to the notice of the Government of India. This is one of several complaints of great inconvenience resulting from recent departmental orders of the Account Department. Permanent advances have however been sanctioned to enable sub-registrars to return fees promptly at places where there is no treasury.

14. Referring to paragraph 27, the Lieutenant-Governor does not see how it would be possible for the department to insist on registrants using printed forms of documents. But probably the public would be glad to use these if they were available, and the Inspector-General may consider if, as an experiment, a few forms of the most common deeds might not be printed in blank, as suggested by Mr. Irwin, and sold at low rates by the registration offices. It is very true that it is a terrible hindrance to registration when all the verbiage of verbose mookhtars must be copied, especially when there are very many deeds all similar to one another.

15. The Inspector-General's historical note on the system of Kazi registration is interesting. His conclusion is that the Kazis' records are of no little practical value, the system having fallen into great neglect before it was abolished. There is however reason to believe that in some districts the wants of the Mahomedan population were not sufficiently considered in its sudden abolition, and no effort must be spared to give them something better.

16. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that Baboo Chunder Mohun Chatterjea of Calcutta, Mr. Rattray of Gya, and Baboo Mohesh Chunder Bose of Noakhali, are spoken of as deserving of special credit.

Mr. Beverley's services have been repeatedly acknowledged. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that Mr. Wilson, during the tenure of his present office, has shown much activity and zeal, and has done much good. His Honor hopes, however, that he will put things in train to increase materially the number of rural registration offices before he goes. He also trusts that the work of simplifying returns and statements, alluded to in Mr. Wilson's 25th paragraph, will be well carried out by him.

ANNUAL REPORT ON COLONIAL AND FOREIGN EMIGRATION FOR THE YEAR 1872-73.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

READ—

A letter, No. 887½, dated 18th June, but received on the 28th August, from the Protector of Emigrants, being his Annual Report on Colonial and Foreign Emigration for the year 1872-73.

1. The principal features in this year's returns are the great increase in the number of emigrants despatched to the British colonies, and the addition of the Dutch colony of Surinam to the places which draw upon India for agricultural labour. During the years 1870-71 and 1871-72 the annual despatch of emigrants was but little over 8,000. In the year just past it rose to 17,171, Demarara alone taking 6,087, Mauritius 5,262, Trinidad 3,850, Jamaica 1,562, and Surinam 410. It is satisfactory to know that simultaneously with this great development of emigration the terms offered by the colonies to their imported labourers have been put upon a clearer and surer basis than heretofore, a minimum rate of wages being now provided by law in nearly all cases. The fact that St. Vincent offering lower terms than any other colony and guaranteeing no minimum rate of wages, was unable to get labour, ought to convince the planters in that island that it is for their interest to treat their immigrants in a more liberal spirit.

2. As regards Surinam, the terms offered are fair enough, following as closely as possible those provided by the new ordinance for British Guiana.

3. Of course, with such an increased demand for labour, the number of recruiters has been largely increased, viz. from 171 to 258. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that the system of preliminary enquiry into character before granting license has resulted in fewer cases of cancelment for misbehaviour, only nine in all being reported during the year. His Honor is, nevertheless, far from being satisfied that the recruiters as a class are under proper control or are generally a reliable body of men. If, however, it be true, as stated, that the Emigration Agents are now themselves impressed with the necessity of getting more trustworthy servants, it may be hoped that through their co-operation, and with some amendment of the Act, a greatly improved state of things will be possible.

4. The depôts are reported to have been on the whole well managed. The Agent for Surinam has not been able yet to put his depôt into such satisfactory order as those of the old established agencies, but the Lieutenant-Governor has reason to believe that Mr Durham is anxious to do what is right, and trusts that, with the experience of other Agents to guide him, and Dr. Grant's advice and supervision, he may soon get matters into proper train. Dr. Grant must at any rate insist on this being done.

5. The great majority of the emigrants come from the North-West Provinces, Oudh, and Central India, 12,594 of the whole number despatched having been recruited there. Behar comes next, sending 3,412; while Bengal only contributed 925, and of these most were picked up in Calcutta or its neighbourhood. The whole of Eastern Bengal sent only 40 emigrants into the depôts. From the tables at the end of the report it is gathered that the classes who emigrate stood thus as to numbers (souls, not statute adults):—

Hindoos	Brahmins and high castes	2,521
	Agricultural castes	4,074
	Artizans	1,537
	Low castes	5,309
Mussulmans		2,910
Christians		8

6. The proportion of women to men has been maintained throughout the year, except in the case of Mauritius and Surinam. It is understood, however, that the deficiency in these instances has been since made up.

7. The figured returns of the detention and mortality of emigrants in depôt, mortality on the voyage, &c., are promised as soon as the colonial reports are received. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the returns of detention and mortality in depôt might accompany this report in future, leaving the mortality on the voyage only for subsequent consideration.

8. The successful results of the Enmore's voyages to Demarara under steam has led the Lieutenant-Governor to propose that no restriction should be placed on full-powered steamers as to the time of year at which they may take emigrants. So far the experiment shows that the voyage may be made by them in half the time taken by sailing vessels, and with inappreciable mortality. The incomplete figures on page 8 show that in some of the voyages by sailing ships this year the mortality was excessive, while it is much feared that one ship which sailed in January has been lost with all hands; but the Lieutenant-Governor will await the complete returns. He observes that it has been necessary to declare one master and three surgeons unfit to have to do with emigrants again. The almost certain loss of the Indus with 418 emigrants on board is a sad calamity.

9. From Mauritius, Demarara, and Jamaica 3,314 emigrants returned to India. Their condition was satisfactory, and the only mortality was among return invalids. No complete statement of their savings is given. The coolies are very reticent on this point; but it is noted that 74 return emigrants from Mauritius remitted Rs. 42,774 between them, and Rs. 2,16,106 were brought home by 551 labourers from Demarara, Rs. 14,583 of it belonging to one man.

10. The Lieutenant-Governor has to thank Dr. Grant for many careful and valuable reports during the past year, and for the conscientious and pains-taking manner in which he has performed the duties of his office. His Honor trusts that in spite of the great increase of work referred to in the early part of the report, the increase sanctioned for the office establishment will be found able to cope with it. Much of the press of work has been due to abnormal causes connected with enquiries into the emigration system, and Acts which will very soon, it may be hoped, receive final settlement.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with regret the death of Mr. Warner, so long connected with emigration from this port. Mr. Firth, who has taken up the work of both the Demarara and Trinidad Agencies, seems anxious to improve the system and get rid of undesirable sub-agents and recruiters. In this he will always have the support of this Government. Under Mr. Eales the Mauritius Agency has worked, as usual, quietly and well. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes soon to hear that the labour laws of the Mauritius have been put on as satisfactory a footing as those of the West Indian colonies are now assuming.

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE SALT MARKET FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1873-74.

No. 415B., dated Fort William, the 22nd August 1873.

From—T. B. LANE, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L. P.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

HON'BLE H. L. DAMPIER.

I AM directed by the Member in charge to submit the following report on the state of the salt market for the first quarter of 1873-74, comprising the months of April, May, and June last.

2. The quantity of salt consumed (i.e., the quantity of total clearances of salt of all descriptions) in the quarter under report amounted to 17,14,507 maunds, against 19,17,888 maunds in the previous quarter, and 17,61,675 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year; and the total amount of duty levied was Rs. 55,72,148, against Rs. 62,33,136 and Rs. 57,25,444 in the previous and corresponding quarters, respectively.

3. The quantity of Government salt sold at the Presidency and Hidgellee under wholesale rowannahs amounted to 2,385 maunds, as shown in the margin, giving a monthly average of 795 maunds, against 100 maunds in the previous quarter and 183⅓ maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

4. There were no sales of Government salt at Pooree during the present or previous quarters, all the Government salt which remained there having been destroyed under the sanction given in Government order No. 523, dated 10th November 1872. The sales during the first quarter of 1872-73 at Pooree amounted to 400 maunds.

5. The quantity of excise salt sold in Cuttack, Balasore, Pooree, and the 24-Pergunnahs, during the present quarter, from the stock of the different seasons, and the quantity which remained in store at the close of the quarter, are shown in the following table I.

The Government will observe with satisfaction that in Pooree as much as 1,20,629 maunds was manufactured.

4	Midnapore ..	„ 13th	3 56	Seasonable. Falls of rain very heavy.	Fair. Where the ground is low and the water stands, it rose this year so rapidly and after so much drought that the plants which usually overtop it failed to do so; hence total failure is reported from several places though quite insignificant in area compared to the whole district.
5	Hooghly ..	„ 13th	1·28	Clear and cloudy; slight occasional showers.	The prospects of the crops are fair, but more rain wanted

10	Dinagepore ...	„ 13th	0 72	Very hot and close; scarcely any rain fell here till the 12th, when there was a good fall, but it was local only.	More rain urgently wanted all over the district to save the rice that has been planted out.
11	Maldah ...	„ 13th	1·03	The first day of the week was rainy, the rest hot and sultry. Rain and strong easterly wind again on Saturday, the 13th.	The crops are still suffering from want of rain. The outturn promises to be from ½ to ¾ the average one.
12	Rajshahye ...	„ 13th	0·59	There has been some rain throughout the district during the past week.	The prospects of the ropa dhan are extremely unfavorable owing to want of rain; that of aus and amun are better than ropa crop. Aus continue to be reaped; teel and tobacco are now being sown.	A few cases of small-pox have been reported from the Belmeria station
13	Rungpore ...	„ 13th	0 12	The week commenced with high winds and has continued cloudy, but without any fall of rain to speak of.	Bad report received about crops, especially to the south and east. The small quantity of winter rice that has been transplanted is drying up for want of rain, and further operations have ceased.

Rajshahye Div. 14	Bograh ..	Sept. 13th	0·40	The weather has been hot and oppressive, but is cooler now.	The cutting of the aus crop has nearly been completed, but owing to the scanty supply of rain the yield is not good. The same reason renders the prospects of the amun harvest anything but good. The jute has nearly all been cut.
15	Pubna ...	„ 13th	1·14	The rain has done some good.	The rice crop is not in a flourishing condition. A ten to twelve annas crop may be expected.
Cooch Behar Division. 16	Darjeeling ...	„ 13th	3·78	Frequent heavy showers, thick mist, and high winds. A very smart squall on the evening of the 12th instant at the station.	All the crops in the district are progressing favorably
17	Julpigoree ..	„ 13th	1·11	Too little rain is falling	In the Dooars crops generally promise well; nearer the sudder station in Patgram, Boda, and more especially that part of the district near the Dinagepore district, want of rain has been felt, and some small loss of crop may be expected if it does not rain heavy.
	Cooch Behar ..	„ 13th	3·43	Generally fine; a thunderstorm, with heavy squall of wind and rain, on evening of the 10th and some on the afternoon of the 11th instant.	In the south and west the rainfall has been very deficient, and the prospects of the amun crop in those parts are unfavorable. In other parts the prospects are good. In the south the pools generally used for soaking jute are dry or nearly so, and there will consequently be difficulty in preparing the fibre.
	Eastern Districts.
Dacca Division. 18	Dacca ..	„ 16th*	0·22	Weather, intense heat on Tuesday and Wednesday; since then hot, with showers.	Prospects of crops good on the whole.
19	Furreedpore ...	„ 13th	4·75	Hot and close, gusty, with rain, since the 12th instant.	The amun rice crop on the whole is doing well, but on the high lands, in the north-west of the district, it is yellow and sickly from want of water. The rivers are again falling gradually.
20	Backergunge ...	„ 13th	1·42	Warm and close ...	Good.
21	Mymensing ...	„ 13th	0·73	Hot weather with occasional showers, but no steady rain.	The harvest is likely to be a very poor one owing to deficiency of rainfall.
22	Sylhet ...	„ 6th	3·22	Cool after a shower; otherwise close.	More rain yet wanted for the crops on the high land.
23	Cachar ...	„ 6th	2·86	Hot and sultry, with slight rain.	More rain still required, but no damage done as yet. Tea operations fair.
Chittagong Divs. 24	Chittagong ...	„ 6th	3·89	Fine until the 6th, when there has been heavy showers.	Much the same as last week.
25	Noakhally ...	„ 6th	3·64	Rainy and cloudy, with high winds from the east and south	Aus dhan almost gathered in, and the transplantation of amun dhan not yet completed.
26	Tipperah ...	„ 13th	2·83	Heavy rain at commencement of week, since then very hot and close.	Good in home thannahs except in the westernmost thannah, where the winter rice is indifferent. Heavy rain at Brahmunberiah. In Brahmunberiah the transplanting of the winter crop is said to have been completed; the early rice and jute crops do not appear to have suffered, but winter rice crop has suffered considerably.

Chittagong Div. 27	Chittagong Hill Tracts	Sept. 6th	2·86	Heavy showers on the 1st and slight falls of rain on the 5th and 6th. The weather has been seasonable.	The aus paddy crop is yet being gathered. The amun paddy and cotton crops are in flowers. Pumpkins are brought for sale in abundance. The prospects of all the crops are generally good throughout the district.
	Hill Tipperah ...	„ 6th	1·39	Light rain, weather cloudy and very warm, with breaks of sunshine.	Fair.
BEHAR.
Patna Division. 28	Patna ..	„ 16th*	0·13	Weather still very hot and close.	Rain much wanted for the crops, which are dying for want of it; with a good fall now much of the rice would be saved and land could be prepared for rubee crops.	Cholera fast dying out, and the health of the district generally good.
29	Gya ...	„ 13th	1·19	In the early part of the week the weather was dry and close, towards the latter end some rain has fallen and easterly wind prevailing. More rain anticipated.	Bhadoi crops are being harvested; the little rain that has fallen has done much good to the paddy, but more rain is wanted.
30	Shahabad ...	„ 13th	1·35	Hot during the week, heavy rain fell on the evening and night of the 12th. Rain in the sub-divisions of Bhubooah and Buxar. Cloudy and threatening at the time of report	The bhadoi crops saved from rain and inundation are rapidly ripening. Aughani rice promising, but requires more rain.
31	Tirhoot ...	„ 13th	0·60	Excessively hot and sometimes cloudy.	Bhadoi crops generally fair; but rain is very much wanted for the dhan crop, even in the lowest land. The indigo second cutting also suffering from the drought. In the north of the district, makai and murwa being slightly damaged by the inundation of the river Bagmati. Dhan crops are still planted in some parts. More encouraging reports from Madhubani, where 5 inches of rain had fallen.
32	Saran ...	„ 13th	0·72	Sultry; prevailing wind east.	Bhadoi harvest has commenced. Less than an average crop is anticipated throughout the district. Manufacture of indigo is going on. The continued want of rain is affecting the crops injuriously.	Cholera on the increase.
33	Chumparun ...	„ 13th	0·05	Very hot throughout the week; cool and cloudy on the 13th.	The bhadoi crops partially damaged for want of rain. Rain urgently required for the paddy.	Cholera decreasing.
Bhaugulpore Division. 34	Monghyr ...	„ 13th	0·31	Rain is required ...	Fair; but rain is wanted for the rice. The bhadoi crop, which is generally good, is being gathered.
35	Bhaugulpore ...	„ 16th*	1·52	Heavy rain in Banka sub-division, moderate in the north of the Ganges; strong east wind.	Transplanting of aughani paddy completed in Banka sub-division, reports thence a good area still remains untransplanted in the north of Ganges, and in parts of the sudder sub-division; prospects on the whole improving. More rain necessary.	General health very good everywhere; though fever is prevalent in parts of Mudehpoorah sub-division.
36	Purneah ...	„ 13th	2·74	Very hot and sunny ...	Paddy is still being planted out, but rain is most needed. The bhadoi crop is being cut; only an eight annas crop expected.

* Telegram of the 16th September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.

Bhaugulpore Divn. 37	Sonthal Pergunnahs ...	Sept. 13th	1·48	The middle of the week was very hot, with bright sun; on Saturday evening the weather changed, with a good blow. The rain has been general in the middle of the district: at the extreme points, Rajmehal and Jamtara, there has not been enough.	Generally good. The Indian-corn crop from Mohesalpore reported magnificent.
ORISSA.
Orissa Division. 38	Cuttack ..	,, 16th*	0·82	Weather generally hot. Little rain except at Jajpore (3·2).	Prospects of crops good. More rain wanted.	Public health good considering the season.
39	Pooree ...	,, 6th	5·65	Cloudy. Rainfall at Khoorda, 6·05.	Weeding and transplanting were finished in the Pergunnahs Rahang, Purboduai, Pachhimduai, and others. Transplanting is going on in the sarud fields of Serai, Kotrahang, Lembai, and others. Beali crop seems promising in Pergunnahs Rahang, Serai, Kotrahang, and others. The cold weather crops are generally promising. Khoorda sub-division.—Weeding and transplanting of the paddy crops still going on; the late rainfall will greatly benefit the crops Sugarcane and miscellaneous crops promising.
40	Balasore ...	,, 13th	0·82	Rainfall heavy, but partial	Promising; slight injury from insect; blight reported.
CHOTA NAGPORE.
	South-West Frontier Agency.
41	Hazareebaugh ..	,, 13th	1·98	The weather has been dry and hot.	The makai crop and murwa very scanty The rice is now looking very well. Prices are however high.
42	Lohardugga ...	,, 13th	2 13	Seasonable; heavy rain all last night.	Very favorable reports have been received of the state and prospects of the crops from all quarters.
43	Singbhoom ...	,, 6th	2·56	Greater part of the week hot and close, with alternations of sunshine and cloudy weather.	Generally good. Gora dhan in course of cutting. Goodlee crop has all been cut.
44	Maunbhoom ...	,, 13th	1·04	Unfavorable ...	Rain was beginning to be very much wanted, but some has fallen during Friday night and Saturday morning by which all the crops on the ground will be benefited; but more rain is wanted.	Cholera decreasing.
ASSAM AND ADJACENT HILLS.
45	Goalparah .	,, 6th	3·40	The whole week was cloudy and rainy, with occasional sunshine; weather yet hot.	The state of all crops good.
46	Kamroop ...	,, 15th†	0·59	Weather clear and cool ...	Shalee dhan, tea, cotton, and sugarcane crops progressing favorably.	Public health good.
47	Durrung ...	,, 6th	2·65	Temperature very variable, frequent heavy fogs in the morning, little breeze of variable duration.	Crops suffering from want of rain, but the recent heavy showers will improve them	Much sickness in the district, with a few cases of cholera.
48	Nowgong ...	,, 6th	3·45	The weather has been seasonable and there has been a fair fall of rain throughout the district during the week, though not heavy.	The rainfall has been most beneficial for the salee dhan crop, which will now do well. Tea prospects most favorable.	No new cases of cholera or small pox reported A few cases of cattle murrain

ASSAM AND ADJACENT HILLS.—(Contd.)		1873.
49	Seebsaugor ...	Sept. 6th	4·15	Heavy showers; average temperature in shade 89°.	The late rain has helped the crops, and rice planting still goes on; but more rain is still required. Tea doing fairly.
50	Luckimpore ...	„ 6th	1·66	The whole week was hot and sultry, though there were a few heavy showers; there was very little diminution of the heat a short time after. In North Luckimpore weather generally clear and temperature high.	Crops progressing favorably...	A good deal of fever about. Flood subsided very rapidly.
51	Naga Hills ...	Aug. 30th	0·70	Seasonable	The cutting of the joom dhan has been commenced, and an average outturn is expected. The terrai dhan is looking well, but the outturn is likely to be below the average. Cotton crop promises well.
52	Khasi & Jynteah Hills	Sept. 6th	2·24	The season is now on the change. Showers have fallen at intervals, and the general temperature has been lower.	The crops are looking healthy. Rice, Job's tears, and millet are all doing well.
53	Garo Hills ...	„ 6th	1·22	There has been very little rain during the week. Very hot weather. There was a stiff breeze from the south-east on the evening of the 6th September.	The dhan crop is nearly in. It is early yet to judge of the prospects of the cotton crop.

The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

5.—Memorandum by the Director-General of Statistics on the system of transliteration prescribed by the Government of India considered as to its merits.

RESOLUTION.—The system of transliteration in the Roman character of Indian proper names, which had formed since 1868 the subject of much discussion, was prescribed for adoption by the Government of India last year, and those orders were finally approved and confirmed by Her Majesty's Government.

2. The time has therefore passed for further discussion of the merits of alternative systems, and the system prescribed for adoption should be adhered to and carried into effect.

3. While, however, Her Majesty's Government have desired that the system shall be applied in the case of all the less known Indian names, they have also directed that the orthography of names of well-known places should be retained. His Excellency in Council also desires to give considerable latitude to Local Governments in respect to the extent to which the change should be immediately introduced.

4. His Excellency in Council trusts that the lists called for in the Circular from this Department, No. 15—400-415, dated the 17th October [illegible] will now be [illegible] prepared in accordance with the principles laid down by the Govert. [illegible] India, and that they will be submitted with as little delay as possible. These lists will, after revision, be published for general information, and the orthography of all names included in them shall after such publication, be scrupulously adhered to in all official documents throughout India, [illegible] the exception of British Burmah. The rules which have been laid down for the transliteration of native names do not apply to the language of that province, and it accordingly is excepted from the present orders.

5. The opinion expressed by His Honor Sir William Muir in favour of a different system of spelling will, together with the other papers upon the subject, be forwarded for the information of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

6. The revision of the spelling of names of cantonments and military stations will be made in communication with the Military Department.

ORDER—Ordered, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution, together with a copy of the papers cited in the preamble thereof, be communicated to all Local Governments and Administrations and the several Departments of the Government of India.

Ordered also, that the Resolution and the papers cited be published for general information.

The following orders issued by the Government of India, in the Foreign Department, is republished for general information :—

RESOLUTION regarding AGE-CERTIFICATE OF CANDIDATES FOR THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE re-published for general information :—

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

EDUCATION.

Fort William, the 3rd July 1871.

READ letter No. 1393, dated the 10th ultimo, from the Government of India, in the Home Department, forwarding a set of rules regarding the age-certificates of candidates for the Indian Civil Service, and requesting their promulgation if His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor sees no objection.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to adopt the rules which, as applied to Bengal, are as under :—

I.—Candidates for admission to compete in England for the Indian Civil Service are required, before leaving India, to obtain a certificate of age signed by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department.

II.—In order to obtain a certificate, candidates are required to prove the date of their birth before the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate's family resides; or, if the family residence is in Calcutta, before the Magistrate of Police in either the Northern or Southern Division.

III.—Candidates will signify their desire to compete not less than three months before the date on which they propose to go to England to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department, who will then forward each application for the purpose of inquiry to the Magistrate to whose district it belongs.

IV.—The Magistrate will call upon the candidate to appear and give evidence of the date of his birth within one month. He will carefully examine into the value of the evidence given, and forward a summary of it, with certified copies of all documents tendered, and with his comments and opinion, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the General Department.

V.—The documentary evidence which the candidates may be expected to produce comprises—

(a) The horoscope.
(b) Family books.
(c) Tradesmen's account books showing entries relating to the birth.
(d) The record of admission in the registers of the school in which the candidate was educated, and the record of the candidate's age at various periodical school examinations.
(e) If the candidate is matriculated, a certified copy of his application to the Registrar in form A.
(f) Oral testimony of persons acquainted with the candidate's family and others will also be taken, and the candidate is required to comply to the best of his power with any requisition the Magistrate may make in order to clear up any doubt as to the purport of the documentary proofs.

VI.—If the Secretary shall be satisfied by the papers submitted by the Magistrate that the candidate has stated the date of his birth correctly, he will issue a certificate declaring that the candidate has submitted the proofs of his birth to the Magistrate of the———— district, and has satisfied him that he was actually born on or about the date stated by him viz. the————day of————18—.

VII.—If the Secretary finds reason to doubt that the candidate was born on the day asserted by him, the certificate will be refused, and the candidate will be unable to obtain admission to the competitive examination for the Indian Civil Service.

VIII.—Where the date of a birth has been formally registered in a register kept by any public officer, an extract from the register duly certified by the proper official shall be accepted as sufficient proof of the date of the birth.

IX.—Any declaration of age made after the application of these rules on occasion of seeking admission to any university examination, educational institution, or Government office or otherwise recorded in a formal and deliberate manner, will be taken as conclusive evidence in disproof of the subsequent assertion by the same person that he is of a different age to that so declared or recorded.

3. The age-certificates are at present submitted to Government by the Director of Public Instruction. In future they will be submitted by the District Magistrates under the above-mentioned [illegible] but an opportunity will be given to the Director of Public Instruction to compare them with the school and college entry certificates of candidates.

Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of Divisions for communication to District Magistrates for their guidance.

Also that a copy be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction for information.

Also that a copy be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, for communication to the Police Magistrates.

NOTIFICATION.

The 8th September 1873.—The following additional rules for the guidance of officers in matters connected with the enforcement of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, have been sanctioned by the Governor-General of India in Council, and are published for general information, in conformity with Section 59 of the Act:—

Rule IX.—On the date on which payment of compensation in any case may become due under Section 41 of the Act, the Collector shall tender the amount to such of the persons entitled to receive it as may be present at his office in person or by agent duly authorized to receive the same. Should any such person be absent, and have no authorized agent at the Collector's Court, the Collector shall serve a notice upon him calling upon him to attend in person or by agent, within one week of his receipt of the notice, to receive the amount due to him, and warning him that on failure to appear, the money will be invested in Government securities, and that no interest will be allowed in excess of the interest payable on such securities. Should such person neglect to appear within the time specified, the Collector shall, on being satisfied of the due service of the notice, invest the amount of the compensation money due to such person in Government securities, and hold the same in deposit until the amount shall be applied for by the person entitled to it.

On the application of such person, the Collector shall make over the Government securities to him, or shall sell the securities and make over the amount realized to him, and at the same time pay to him any cash balance which has been too small for investment, together with interest on such balance calculated at four per cent.

The Collector shall follow the same course in regard to any compensation money which may be refused by a person entitled to receive it, provided that such investment shall be limited to even sums of Rs. 500 or multiples of Rs. 500. The amount of compensation, if less than Rs. 500, and any fractional parts, if the compensation is above that sum, shall be held by the Collector in deposit bearing interest at four per cent.

Rule X.—From and after the date of investment of compensation money under the last preceding rule, no interest on the amount so invested shall be allowed in addition to that due on the said securities.

Rule XI.—Similarly, when a Collector has referred a case to the Civil Court under Sections 30, 38, or 43 of the Act, he shall at once invest the amount of compensation awarded by him in Government securities. In all cases of reference under Section 38, and in cases of reference under Sections 15 or 43, in which the Collector's award shall be confirmed by the Court, no interest on the amount so invested shall be allowed in addition to that due on the investments. Whenever, in a case of reference under Sections 15 or 43, a higher sum than was awarded by the Collector shall be awarded by the Court, the Collector shall pay to the persons entitled to receive it the difference between the amount of interest which may have accumulated on the Government securities from the date of investment and the amount of interest calculated at six per cent. under Section 42 of the Act from the date of the taking possession of the land.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

JUDICIAL.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

THE Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that the accompanying notification regarding the duties imposed by law upon landowners and others, and upon the public generally, with reference to giving information of offences, the consorting of bad characters, and other matters of a like character, be translated into the vernaculars and circulated widely for the guidance of those concerned.

2. A copy of the notification will be given to all considerable landholders and their agents. It will, when possible, be delivered by the police at the residence of the landholder, and a receipt be taken for it; otherwise it will be handed over by the towjih nuvis to the agent of each landholder when paying in revenue or zemindary dâk tax, a receipt being taken as above directed. The district officers will determine how best to give effect to this order.

3. Copies will be affixed and renewed from time to time in some conspicuous place in each village of Bengal. The report of such proclamation having been made, shall be signed by the local representative of the zemindar and some of the principal men of the village. The report should also certify that the notification has been read in the presence of the village chowkeedar or chowkeedars. This will not exempt police officers in charge of stations from fully and regularly explaining their duty in connection with crime to chowkeedars when they visit the stations.

4. Copies will also be supplied to the managers of estates under the Court of Wards, who will be responsible for communicating them to their subordinates.

5. It will rest with Magistrates now to enforce the provisions of the law. If this is done vigorously in one or two cases, the Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt a great improvement will follow in the working of the district police.

NOTIFICATION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

JUDICIAL.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

THE following provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure set forth the duty of landholders, village police, and others, in the matter of aiding the Magistrate and police by giving early information respecting the commission of crime and co-operating in the apprehension of criminals.

2. By Section 89 of the Code of Criminal Procedure every person aware of the commission of any offence made punishable under the sections of the Indian Penal Code mentioned in the accompanying schedule is bound to give information of the same to the nearest police officer or Magistrate.

Sections 89 and 91 refer to all persons.

3. By Section 91 every person is bound to assist a Magistrate or police officer demanding his aid in the prevention of a breach of the peace, or in the suppression of a riot or an affray, or in the taking of any other person whom such Magistrate or police officer is authorized to arrest.

4. By Section 90 every village headman, village watchman, owner or occupier of land, or the agent of any such owner or occupier, and every native officer employed in the collection of revenue or rent of land on the part of Government or the Court of Wards, is (in addition to the obligations imposed on him by sections 89 and 91) bound forthwith to communicate to the nearest Magistrate, or to the officer in charge of the nearest police station, any information which he may obtain respecting—

Section 90 refers specially to land owners, village police, and others holding cognate positions.

(a) the residence of any notorious receiver or vendor of stolen property at the village of which he is headman or watchman, or in which he owns or occupies land or collects rent or revenue, as the case may be;

(b) the resort to any place within the limits of such village of any person or persons known or reasonably suspected of being a thug or robber;

(c) the commission or intention to commit suttee or other non-bailable offence at or near such village;

(d) the occurrence of any sudden or unnatural death.

5. Besides those set out in the schedule attached to this notification, the principal non-bailable offences in regard to which the persons described in paragraph 4 above are specially bound to give information are the following:—

Penal Code Sections.

Sections 194 and 195.—Giving or fabricating false evidence in order to get any person convicted of a capital offence or of an offence punishable with transportation or imprisonment for more than seven years.

Section 226.—Unlawful return from transportation.

Sections 231 to 254.—All offences connected with counterfeit coin.

Section 307.—Attempt to murder.

Sections 313 to 316.—Causing miscarriage or abortion without the woman's consent or when death ensues.

Sections 326 to 329.—Causing grievous hurt by dangerous means for purposes of extortion, and administering stupefying drugs in order to cause hurt.

Sections 331 to 333.—Causing grievous hurt to extort confession, or to deter a public servant from his duty.

Sections 363 to 369 and 371-373.—Kidnapping, dealing in slaves, selling and buying children for purposes of prostitution.

Sections 376 and 377.—Rape and unnatural offences.

Sections 379 to 382.—Theft.

Sections 386 to 389.—Extortion by putting in fear of death or grievous hurt, or by threat of accusing of heinous crime.

Sections 400 and 401.—Association of persons for habitual dacoity or theft.

Sections 411 to 414.—Receiving, dealing in, or concealing stolen property.

Sections 466 to 468. } Forgery of records, wills, and such like, or of Govern-„ 471 „ 477. } ment notes, counterfeiting seals, dies, plates, &c.

Section 505.—Circulating false statements to cause mutiny or breach of the public peace.

Offences under Special Laws.

N.B.—All offences under special laws, when punishable with three years' imprisonment or upwards, are not bailable. Hence information must be given of the following offences:—

Act XXXI of 1860, Sections 2, 18, 23.—Unlicensed manufacture of cannon and unlicensed importation or transportation of arms or military stores.

Act XIV of 1866, Section 48.—Theft, destruction, or secretion by a post office employé of any article sent by post, or the abetment of such an offence.

Act XVIII of 1854, Section 25.—Any wilful act or omission endangering the safety of railway passengers.

6. Neglect of the duties imposed by the above quoted sections (86, 90, and 91 of the Criminal Procedure Code), i.e., intentionally omitting to give the information or assistance prescribed, is punishable under several sections of the Indian Penal Code by sentences varying in severity with the precise nature of the neglect involved: but the punishment may in certain cases amount to six months' rigorous imprisonment or fine unlimited, or both. (Sections 176, 187, 202 of the Penal Code.) The punishment for giving false information is still more severe.

7. Owners or occupiers of, and persons interested in land, are liable to special penalties for failing to give information of an impending riot or for failing to do all they can to prevent it. The following sections of the Penal Code bear upon this point:—

Offences against the Public Tranquillity.

Owner or occupier of land on which an unlawful assembly is held.

(154.) Whenever any unlawful assembly or riot takes place, the owner or occupier of the land upon which such unlawful assembly is held, or such riot is committed, and any person having or claiming an interest in such land, shall be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, if he or his agent or manager, knowing that such offence is being or has been committed, or having reason to believe it is likely to be committed, do not give the earliest notice thereof in his or their power to the principal officer at the nearest police station, and do not, in the case of his or their having reason to believe that it was about to be committed, use all lawful means in his or their power to prevent it, and in the event of its taking place, do not use all lawful means in his or their power to disperse or suppress the riot or unlawful assembly.

Liability of person for whose benefit a riot is committed.

(155.) Whenever a riot is committed for the benefit or on behalf of any person who is the owner or occupier of any land respecting which such riot takes place, or who claims any interest in such land, or in the subject of any dispute which gave rise to the riot, or who has accepted or derived any benefit therefrom, such person shall be punishable with fine, if he or his agent or manager, having reason to believe that such riot was likely to be committed, or that the unlawful assembly by which such riot was committed was likely to be held, shall not respectively use all lawful means in his or their power to prevent such assembly or riot from taking place, and for suppressing and dispersing the same.

Liability of agent of owner or occupier for whose benefit a riot is committed.

8. Landholders, farmers, and managers of land should also be aware that under section 162 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the Magistrate of the district may direct a warrant to any of them for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender, or person who has been accused of a non-bailable offence, and who has eluded pursuit. The landholder or other person to whom the warrant is directed is bound to acknowledge its receipt, and to execute it, should the person for whose arrest it is issued enter on or be in his estate, farm, or land under his charge, and must then hand over the prisoner with the warrant to the nearest police officer.

9. Under sections 22 and 23 of Act XIII of 1857, all landholders, farmers, gomashtahs, and managers of land, and all village police, are bound under penalty to give information of any illegal cultivation of poppy within the estates or farms held or managed by them.

The application, together with the certificate and receipt required by Rule 33, shall be presented to the Judge of the district in which the applicant intends ordinarily to practise, and shall be forwarded by the Judge to the Registrar of the High Court, with such remarks as he may think fit to make thereon.

35. The name of the applicant and his place of abode, together with his father's name and place of abode, shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court House of the Judge to whom the application is sent, and also in the High Court, at least three weeks before the applicant is admitted to practise.

36. The High Court may call for evidence of the respectability of the applicant in any case in which it may think it necessary.

37. Upon the applicant's being admitted and enrolled by the High Court, a certificate to that effect shall be forwarded by the Registrar of the High Court to the Judge of the district, who upon the applicant's delivering and leaving with him a declaration in writing signed by the said applicant in conformity with the recital in the form of certificate given in the 2nd Schedule to Act XX of 1865, shall grant him a certificate as required by the said Act.

38. If any person having passed the examination entitling him to be admitted and enrolled as a mookhtear shall fail to apply for such admission and enrolment for a period of one year, he shall not be admitted and enrolled, unless by special order of the High Court the time for such application shall be extended.

39. If any person having been admitted and enrolled as a pleader or mookhtear shall neglect to take out a certificate, or, having obtained a certificate, shall fail to renew it for a period of three years, he shall be suspended, and shall not be entitled to receive a certificate or to have his certificate renewed without further orders of the High Court.

40. Any person who, having been admitted as pleader or mookhtear, shall accept any appointment under Government, or shall enter into any trade or other business, shall give notice thereof to the High Court, who may thereupon suspend such pleader or mookhtear from practice, or pass such orders as the said Court may think fit.

41. Any person who shall hold any appointment under Government, or shall carry on any trade or other business at the time of his application for admission as a pleader or mookhtear, shall state the fact in his application for admission, and the High Court may refuse to admit such person, or pass such orders thereon as it thinks proper.

42. Any wilful violation of any of the above rules shall subject a pleader or mookhtar to suspension or dismissal.

43. These rules shall come into force on the 1st day of January 1874, except so far as they relate to the qualifications required by clause 1 of Rules 8, 19 and 29, respectively, as to which the rules now in force shall continue until the 1st of January 1875.

Rules for admission of Vakeels in the High Court.

1. Every person, before being admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court shall have obtained the Degree of Bachelor of Laws in the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

2. Except as mentioned in Rules 20 and 23, every person, before being admitted as a pleader in the High Court, shall serve a regular clerkship to some attorney or vakeel of the High Court to be approved by the Court before the contract is entered into, under articles of clerkship by contract in writing pursuant to the rules hereinafter contained, for the full period of two years.

3. The term of service required by the last preceding rule need not be all under one and the same contract, nor to one and the same person, but may be to different persons by virtue of an assignment or assignments, or by virtue of successive independent contracts, upon the dissolution of the original or succeeding contract.

4. The person under whom the articles shall be served shall during the whole period of the service, be actually practising as an attorney or vakeel in the High Court.

5. No person who is himself acting as clerk to an attorney or vakeel shall be able to take any clerk for service under articles.

6. No person shall be capable of service under these rules until he shall have passed he B. A. examination of the University of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay.

7. The contract in writing whereby a person shall engage as aforesaid to serve as a clerk to any attorney or vakeel shall be filed with the Registrar of the High Court on the Appellate Side within one calendar month after the execution of the same, together with an affidavit by such attorney or vakeel that he has been himself duly admitted, and has been practising for five years as an attorney or vakeel, and that such contract has been duly executed by himself and by the clerk therein mentioned. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel and his place of abode or business, and the name of the clerk and his place of abode, together with the day on which the contract was actually executed.

8. In case the articles of clerkship shall be assigned, the assignment shall be in writing, and shall be in like manner filed within one calendar month after the execution thereof, together with an affidavit that the same has been executed by all the necessary parties. And in every such affidavit shall be specified the name of the attorney or vakeel to whom the articles are assigned and his place of business, together with the day on which the assignment was actually executed.

9. If by reason of death or for any other good and sufficient reason an assignment of the articles cannot be obtained, a fresh contract in writing shall be entered into by the clerk with the person under whom the service is continued, which shall be filed in the manner and with the affidavit prescribed by Rule 8.

10. In case the contract or assignment, together with the necessary affidavit, be not filed within the time specified, the same may be filed with the said Registrar after the expiration thereof; but the service of such clerk shall be reckoned to have been commenced or renewed from the date of filing such contract or assignment unless the Court shall otherwise order.

11. Every person who shall be articled to serve as a clerk to a vakeel or attorney for the purpose of being admitted as a vakeel shall, during the whole period of such service, continue, and be really and actually employed by such attorney or pleader in the proper business, practice and employment of an attorney or vakeel.

12. Before any person shall be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court, he shall sign and file with such Registrar as aforesaid answers to the questions contained in the Schedule A, hereunto annexed; and the person or persons under whom he shall have served his articles shall sign and file answers to the questions contained in the Schedule B, hereunto annexed, as also a certificate in the form given therein.

13. In case the applicant should shew sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be fully complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule which it may think fit and reasonable.

14. The applicant shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character.

15. The applicant shall also, if required, sign and leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such other questions as shall be directed by the Court touching the service and conduct of the applicant, and also, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same; and shall also, if required, procure the attendance of the person or persons with whom he shall have served his clerkship as aforesaid to answer either personally or in writing any questions touching such service or conduct, or shall make proof to the satisfaction of the Court of his inability to procure the same.

16. Upon compliance with the aforesaid rules, if the Court shall be satisfied as to the fitness and capacity of the applicant, a certificate shall be granted to him in the following form:—

In pursuance of the rules of the High Court relative to the admission of vakeels, it is hereby certified that A. B. has complied with the requirements of the said rules, and that he is a fit and proper person to be admitted to practise as a vakeel in the High Court.

(Signed) C. D.,
A Judge of the High Court.

17. Any person intending to apply to be admitted to practise as a pleader in the High Court shall also give one month's notice in writing to the Registrar aforesaid stating his intention, and shall also insert in the Calcutta Gazette a like notice for four successive weeks prior to his application.

18. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, and who shall produce the certificate mentioned in Rule 16, shall, after giving the notice required by Rule 17, be enrolled as a vakeel of the High Court.

19. Any person who has been admitted to the Degree of B. L. in the University of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, and who shall prove to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised for four years as a pleader in one or more of the Courts of the mofussil subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court, and that he is a person of good character, may, after giving the notice required by Rule 17, be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel without service under articles.

20. Every person applying to be admitted under the last rule shall, one month prior to admission, leave with such Registrar, as aforesaid, answers to the questions contained in the Schedule C hereunto annexed, and also a certificate or certificates in the form contained in Schedule D hereunto annexed.

21. In case the applicant should shew sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the last rule cannot be complied with, it shall be in the power of the Court to dispense with any part of this rule upon such terms as it may think fit and reasonable.

22. An applicant under Rule 19, shall in all cases produce satisfactory testimonials as to his good character; and shall also, if required, leave with the said Registrar answers in writing to such questions as the Court shall direct touching the qualification of such person to be admitted as a vakeel in the High Court; and shall, if required, attend the Court personally for the purpose of giving further explanation touching the same.

23. Any attorney of the High Court who shall establish to the satisfaction of the Court that he has bonâ fide practised as such for the period of three years, and that he is a person of good character and ability, may be admitted to practise in the High Court as a vakeel.

24. These rules shall come into force on the first day of January 1874.

PART III.

Acts of the Bengal Council.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

THE following Act passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, received the assent of His Honor on the 16th August 1873, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor General on the 13th September 1873, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. V OF 1873.

An Act to provide for the levy of a lighting-rate in Howrah.

WHEREAS it is desirable to make further provision for lighting the town of Howrah with gas, by imposing a rate on those persons who benefit thereby,—

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. The expression "the town of Howrah" in this Act shall be taken to mean the area of the Howrah Municipality as defined by the Lieutenant-Governor under the provisions of Section 3 of the District Municipal Improvement Act, being Bengal Act III of 1864.

Limits of the Town of Howrah.

2. It shall be lawful for the Municipal Commissioners from time to time to submit to the Lieutenant-Governor for his sanction a plan for lighting with gas any portion of the town of Howrah, whether so lighted already or not, such portion of the said town having been previously defined by the Municipal Commissioners at a meeting held for that purpose. The Lieutenant-Governor shall cause the plan to be published for one month in the Calcutta Gazette, and the Municipal Commissioners shall publish it in the vernacular in the town of Howrah; and after such publication, and after consideration of any objections which may be raised to it, or alterations suggested in it, the Lieutenant-Governor may, if satisfied that the lighting proposed in the plan is proper and sufficient, sanction such plan; or may refuse his sanction thereto; or may return it to the Municipal Commissioners for alteration in certain particulars to be specified by him, and, when altered, may sanction it as altered. The Lieutenant-Governor shall cause his sanction to any plan to be notified in the Calcutta Gazette, and shall at the same time cause the plan sanctioned to be published in the said Gazette.

Municipal Commissioners may submit to the Lieutenant-Governor a plan for lighting.

3. After notification by the Lieutenant-Governor as in the last preceding section mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Municipal Commissioners to impose an annual rate not exceeding three per centum of their annual value upon all houses, buildings, and lands situated within such portion of the said town for the purpose of defraying the whole expense of lighting.

Lighting-rate not exceeding three per centum may, after sanction of plan, be imposed on houses, buildings, and lands.

Provided that, as regards any portion of the said town already lighted with gas, and for the future lighting of which a plan shall have been sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor

Proviso as to portions already lighted under the provision of the last preceding section, if it shall appear that the estimated proceeds of the said rate at three per centum will not be sufficient to defray the whole expense of such lighting, it shall be lawful for the Municipal Commissioners to impose a rate sufficient to defray the whole expense of lighting such portion.

Rate payable by occupiers quarterly in advance.

4. The rate imposed under section 3 upon houses, buildings, and lands shall be paid by the occupiers thereof by quarterly instalments in advance; but no rate shall be leviable until the lamps in the portion of the town to be lighted shall have been lighted; nor shall any rate be leviable for any quarter or portion of a quarter antecedent to such lighting. Arable lands and lands used for pasturage, and buildings used exclusively as places of public worship or applied solely to charitable purposes, shall not be liable to the rate.

Arable lands, &c., exempted from rate.

Annual valuation how to be made.

5. The annual value of the said houses, buildings, and lands shall be the value fixed by the Municipal Commissioners year by year under the provisions of Section 27 of the District Municipal Improvement Act. And all the provisions of the said Act, and of Bengal Act VII of 1867, relating to the assessment and collection of the rate on houses, buildings, and lands shall, except so far as they are modified by the provisions of this Act, be applicable to the assessment and collection of the lighting-rate.

Assessment and collection.

Power to assess owners in certain cases.

6. If any house, building, or land shall be occupied by more than one tenant holding in severalty, or shall be of less annual value than one hundred rupees, it shall be lawful for the Municipal Commissioners to recover the rate from the owner of such house, building, or land.

Owner to recover from the occupier rates paid by owner.

7. Whenever any rate shall be recovered from any owner of any house, building, or land under the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be lawful for such owner, if there shall be but one occupying tenant of such house, building, or land, to recover from such tenant the entire amount of the rate which shall have been so paid by such owner; and if there shall be more than one occupying tenant of such house, building, or land, then to recover from each of such tenants such sum as shall bear to the entire amount of rate which may have been so recovered from such owner the same proportion as the value of the portion of such house, building, or land in the occupation of such tenant bears to the entire value of such house, building, or land, subject however to the provisions of Section 8 of this Act.

Owner may recover rate so paid as rent.

8. Every owner who under the provisions of the last preceding section may be entitled to recover any sum from any occupying tenant of any house, building, or land, or of any portion thereof, shall have for the recovery of such sum all such and the same remedies, powers, rights, and authorities as if such sum were rent payable to such owner by such tenant in respect of so much of such house, building, or land as may be in the occupation of such tenant.

Occupier liable to the rate for time of occupation only.

Excess paid in advance to be refunded.

9. Every occupier shall be liable to the lighting-rate for the time of his occupation. When any person shall have been an occupier for a part only of any quarter, he shall be liable only for so much of the rate for that quarter as may be proportionate to the number of days during which he shall have been an occupier. If he shall have paid the rate in advance, the amount paid in excess of the sum due under this section shall be refunded.

No rate to be charged during vacancy.

No such rate shall be chargeable to any person on account of any unoccupied house, building, or land for the time during which it may remain unoccupied.

Notice of cessation of occupancy to be given within seven days.

Provided always that when any person ceases to be the occupier of any house, building, or land upon which the rate has been assessed, he shall give the Municipal Commissioners notice thereof within seven days from the date of the cessation of his occupancy. If the occupier fail to give such notice within such period, he shall be liable to the rate assessed on such house, building, or land for the whole quarter, although he may have occupied for a part only of such quarter; and in cases to which the provisions of Section 6 of this Act apply, the rate assessed on such house, building, or land for the whole quarter shall be recoverable from the owner, if such owner has failed to give notice that such house, building, or land is unoccupied, within seven days from the date on which it ceased to be occupied.

Unknown owner or occupier how to be designated.

10. When the name of the owner or occupier of any house, building, or land is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in any notice served, or proceeding held under this Act, as the owner or the occupier of the house, building, or land on which the rate is assessed, and without further description.

Situation of gas-pipe or other gas-work to be altered at the expense of the Commissioners.

11. If the Municipal Commissioners deem it necessary, for the purposes of this Act, to raise, sink, or otherwise alter the situation of any gas-pipe, or other gas-work, laid in any portion of the said town, they may from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipe or work to be raised, sunk, or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Commissioners may direct; provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such pipe or work, or to prevent the gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Commissioners out of the municipal fund as well to the person to whom such pipe or work belongs as to all other persons.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Commissioners may cause the same to be made.

12. If the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk, or altered in such manner as the Municipal Commissioners require, the Commissioners may themselves cause such pipe or work to be raised, sunk, or altered as they may think fit, provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby, or the gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

Construction.

13. This Act shall be construed with, and as part of, the District Municipal Improvement Act.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

THE following Bill as settled by the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations, on the 13th September 1873, is by order of the President published for general information.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Embankments and Watercourses.

WHEREAS it is expedient that provision should be made for the better construction, maintenance, and management of embankments and watercourses in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; It is enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Bengal Embankment Act, 1873."

It extends to the whole of the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, except the province of Orissa and the Soonderbuns as defined under the provisions of Clause 2, Section 13, Regulation III of 1828.

And it shall come into force on the day of the passing thereof.

Repeal of former Acts

2. From such day Act No XXXII of 1855 (relating to embankments) and Bengal Act No. VII of 1866 (to make better provision for the acquisition of land for embankments and other matters relating thereto) shall, except so far as relates to the province of Orissa and the said Soonderbuns, be repealed.

Interpretation.

3. The following words shall, for the purposes of this Act, have the meanings hereby declared, save where, from the context, a contrary intention appears:—

"Estate." "Estate" means—(1) Any land or share in land subject to the payment to Government of an annual sum, in respect of which the name of a proprietor is entered on the register, known as the general register of all revenue-paying estates, or in respect of which a separate account may, in pursuance of Section 10, or Section 11 of Act XI of 1859, have been opened;

(2) Any land entered in the register of revenue-free tenures;

(3) Any land acquired under any rules issued by or under authority of Government for the sale, grant, or clearance of waste lands.

"Embankment." "Embankment" includes every bank, dam, wall, and dyke, made or used for excluding water from, or for retaining water upon, any land, and every sluice, spur, groyne, training wall, or other work annexed to or portion of any such embankment, and every bank, dam, dyke, wall, groyne or spur made or erected for the protection of any such embankment or of any land from erosion or overflow by or of rivers, tides, waves, or waters; and also all buildings intended for purposes of inspection and supervision.

"Watercourse." "Watercourse" includes a line of drainage, weir, culvert, pipe, or other channel for the passage of water, whether natural or artificial.

"Zemindar" means all or any of the holders of an estate; and where two or more zemindars are jointly holders thereof, they shall be jointly and severally liable under this Act.

"Zemindar."

"Tenure" includes all interests in land other than estates as above defined, held permanently at a fixed rental, or held lakhiraj.

"Tenure."

"Proprietor" means the holder of a tenure.

"Proprietor."

"Public Embankment" means an embankment maintained by the officers of Government.

"Public Embankment."

"Public watercourse" means any watercourse under the charge of the officers of Government.

"Public watercourse."

"The Engineer" means the District Engineer or any Engineer specially appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to perform the functions of an Engineer under this Act.

"The Engineer."

"Collector" means any Collector, Deputy Collector or other Revenue Officer in independent charge of any district or portion of a district, or specially appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to perform the functions of a Collector under this Act.

"Collector."

"District" means the portion of territory throughout which any person vested with the powers of a Collector is authorized to exercise such powers.

"District."

"Land" includes interests in land and benefits arising out of land and things attached to the earth or permanently fastened to anything attached to the earth.

"Land."

PART II.

Powers of Collector and procedure thereon.

Powers of Collector.

4. Under the conditions and in the manner hereinafter provided—

Power to take charge of embankments.

(1.) The Collector may cause any embankment which connects public embankments, or forms, by junction with them, part of a line of embankments, or any embankment or watercourse which is necessary for the protection or drainage of the neighbouring country, to be taken charge of and maintained by the officers of Government.

Power to remove embankments and obstructions.

(2.) The Collector may cause to be removed or altered any embankment which endangers the stability of a public embankment, or any obstruction of any kind which interferes with the general drainage of any tract of land.

Power to change line of embankment.

(3.) The Collector may, when necessary, change the line of or lengthen any public embankment; or make a new embankment in the place of or renew any public embankment; or make an embankment in any place in which he may deem such embankment required for the protection of any lands, or for the improvement of any watercourse; or make a sluice in any public embankment.

Power to improve drainage.

(4.) The Collector may construct any sluice or watercourse, or effect any alteration in any public water course, when such construction or alteration may be required for the improvement of the health, or for the protection of any village or cultivable land.

Power to alter roads and construct watercourses.

(5.) The Collector may call upon the person in charge of any road which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land to alter such road, or to construct any watercourse under or through such road. In the event of such person failing to comply with such requisition in such manner and within such time as the Collector shall prescribe, the said Collector may cause the road to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed. The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the person in charge of the said road.

Applications for sluices to be made to Collector.

(6.) If any landholder, farmer, or cultivator be desirous of having a sluice made in any public embankment for the purpose of drainage or irrigation, he shall make an application in writing to the Collector of the district in which such embankment is situate. The application shall contain such particulars of the land to be drained or irrigated as may enable the Collector to judge of the advantage which may be derived from the work. The Collector shall decide whether it is expedient that such application shall be granted.

Application for new embankment or drainage to be made to Collector.

(7.) Whenever any person is desirous that any new embankment be erected, or that any new watercourse be made, or that any watercourse be obstructed or diverted, if such work is likely to interfere with, counteract, or impede any public embankment or any public watercourse, he shall apply to the Collector, and at the time of making such application shall deposit with him a statement of the proposed work. The Collector shall decide whether it is expedient that such application shall be granted.

Procedure.

5. When it shall appear expedient to the Collector that any of the works specified in the last preceding section should be executed, he shall cause to be prepared plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map shewing the boundaries of the various estates likely to be affected by the said works, and he shall cause a proclamation to be issued giving notice of his intention to cause such works to be executed. Such proclamation shall be in the form, and state the particulars mentioned in Schedule (A) annexed to this Act; and the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as aforesaid, shall be kept at the office of the Collector and shall be open to the inspection of any interested persons who shall be allowed to take copies thereof. The Collector shall not commence any of such works until final order made in respect thereto under the provisions of Sections 8, 59, and 60 of this Act.

Publication of proclamation.

6. Every such proclamation shall be published by affixing the same at the cutcherry of the Collector, and in the manner provided in the third clause of Section 56.

7. Every such proclamation shall be published not less than thirty days before the day appointed for hearing the persons interested.

Proclamation to be published for thirty days.

8. The Collector shall, on the day appointed for the hearing, or on any subsequent day to which the hearing shall be adjourned, hear the objections of any persons who may appear, and, after recording any evidence which they may adduce, shall pass an order in regard to the execution of the proposed works. Notice of such order shall be served on such persons as may have appeared in pursuance of the proclamation.

Hearing of objections to works.

9. If the lands, which are likely to be affected by any such proposed works, are situated within the limits of different districts, the Collector of any district, within which any portion of such lands is situated, shall apply to the Commissioner of the division for authority to proceed in such matter; and the Commissioner of the division, if all the lands are situated within his division, may give authority to such Collector, or to any other Collector within whose district any portion of such lands is situated, to proceed in respect of all the lands likely to be affected by such works.

Authority to take proceedings where lands likely to be affected by the works are in different districts;

If the districts, within which the lands likely to be affected by any such works are situated, are subject to the Commissioners of different divisions, the Collector shall apply to the Commissioner of the division within which his district is situated, and such Commissioner may, with the concurrence of the Commissioner to whom the other district is subject, give authority to proceed in such matter.

or different divisions.

10. All the powers vested in the Collector by Section 4 of this Act, may be exercised by the Engineer in cases referred to him by the Collector subject to the general orders of the Collector.

The Collector may delegate certain powers to Engineer.

PART III.

Procedure in cases of imminent danger to life or property.

11. Whenever the Collector shall be of opinion that the proceedings commenced by notice under Sections 5 to 8 of this Act would cause delay in the exercise of any of the powers conferred upon him by Clauses 2, 3, and 4 of Section 4, likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to commence to exercise such powers. Provided that he shall forthwith cause to be prepared the plans, specifications, and estimates of the proposed works, together with a copy of the survey map as provided in Section 5, and shall cause a proclamation to be issued as provided in that section giving notice that the work mentioned therein has already been commenced, and thereupon such proceedings and inquiries shall be had as in and by Part II of this Act are directed.

Proceedings in emergencies.

12. Whenever any land, or earth from any land the property of any person, is required for the purposes of any works commenced in pursuance of the provisions of the last preceding section, or for the purposes of Section 18 in cases where the Collector shall be of opinion that proceedings for the acquisition of such land according to the provisions hereinafter contained in Section 25, would cause delay as aforesaid, the Collector shall cause a proclamation to be issued in form in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act, giving notice thereof at convenient places in the locality in which such land is situated, and he may at the same time take possession of the same for the said purposes.

Power to take possession of land.

13. The Collector shall ascertain and record the nature and estimated value of the crops and trees (if any) standing on such land, and shall offer adequate compensation to the persons interested. If such offer is not accepted, the value of such crops and trees shall be allowed for in awarding compensation for the land under the provisions of Section 29.

Compensation for standing crops and trees.

14. The Collector may depute to the Engineer the powers described in Sections 11, 12, and 13 subject to his own general orders, and in that case when the Collector is not present the Engineer may, if he shall be of opinion that delay for the purpose of obtaining the orders of the Collector would be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, exercise the powers conferred on him by the Collector.

Power to Engineer to act in absence of Collector.

15. Whenever, upon an inquiry had under the provisions of this Part, it has been determined in the final order to be passed on such inquiry that anything done by the Collector, or by the Engineer under the last preceding section was unnecessary, the land or the embankments or drainage shall, so far as any alteration thereof shall appear to be unnecessary, be at the expense of the Government restored as nearly as possible to the state in which they were when the Collector commenced to act under the provisions of this Part; and any person who shall have sustained loss, damage, or injury by the execution of such works, shall receive compensation from the Government to be assessed according to the provisions contained in Part V of this Act.

Power to restore embankments, &c.

16. The provisions of Section 9 shall be applicable to proceedings taken under this Part.

Section 9 to apply to proceedings under this Part.

PART IV.

Powers of Engineer.

17. The power conferred on the Engineer under this Part shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Collector.

Engineer subject to control of Collector.

18. The Engineer may make any repairs in, and may do all acts necessary and proper for the maintenance of any public embankment, public watercourse, or other work executed or taken charge of under the provisions of this Act, or of any of the Acts repealed by this Act.

Power to make repairs.

19. The Engineer may call upon the manager, or other person in charge of any railroad which interferes with the drainage of any tract of land, to alter such railroad or to construct any watercourse under or through such railroad.

Power to alter railroads or construct watercourses.

In the event of such person failing to comply with such requisition in such manner and within such time as the Engineer shall prescribe, the Engineer may thereupon, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, cause the said railroad to be altered, or a watercourse to be constructed in such manner as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct. The expenses of such alteration or construction shall be borne by the said manager, or other person in charge of the said railroad.

Power to make temporary roadway, watercourse or dam.

20. Whenever any person is desirous that a temporary roadway should be made over, or that a temporary watercourse should be made through, any public embankment, or that a temporary dam should be constructed in any embanked river or public watercourse, he shall apply to the Engineer, who shall communicate the application to the Collector, and the Collector shall pass such orders thereon as he shall think fit. If the proposed work is to be executed by an officer of Government, the applicant, before the commencement of the work, shall deposit the amount estimated by the Engineer to be necessary to defray the expenses of, and incidental to, making and removing such roadway, or of, and incidental to, making and closing or removing such watercourse or dam If the amount deposited is found insufficient, the Engineer shall recover from the said applicant the further amount required; and if it exceeds the amount required, such excess shall be returned to the said applicant.

Power to remove houses.

21. Whenever the Engineer shall be of opinion that the removal of any trees, houses, huts, or other buildings, situated between a public embankment and the river, is necessary, he shall make a report to that effect, accompanied by a detailed statement of the trees, houses, huts, or other buildings to be removed, to the Collector of the district in whose jurisdiction the land on which such trees, houses, huts, or other buildings stand, is situated; and the Collector shall report the same to the Lieutenant-Governor in order that proceedings may be taken, in accordance with the provisions of "The Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870," or other law for the time being for the acquisition of land for public purposes, for obtaining possession of such trees, houses, huts, and buildings. Provided always that in case the Collector be of opinion that the delay required by such proceedings is likely to be attended with grave and imminent danger to life or property, it shall be lawful for him forthwith to cause such trees, houses, huts, or buildings to be removed, and in such case the compensation due therefor shall be ascertained and paid in the manner hereinafter provided.

Sluices to be opened or shut under authority of the Engineer.

22. Sluices constructed in any public embankment shall be opened or shut only by or with the general or special permission of the officer in the immediate charge of the embankment, under such orders, either general or special, as he may receive from the Engineer.

Power to appropriate land or earth for embanked towpath

23. In any case where an embanked towpath has heretofore been maintained by Government alongside any canal, river, khal, or channel, the Engineer shall be entitled to appropriate without payment, as heretofore, land or earth for the maintenance, repair, or re-construction of such embanked towpath. If in any case the Engineer shall consider it necessary for the purposes of towing to enlarge an existing towpath, or to construct a new towpath, proceedings shall be taken in accordance with the subsequent provisions of this Act relating thereto.

Power to enter and survey land, &c.

24. It shall be lawful for the Engineer, or any person whom he may authorize in that behalf, in order to carry out any of the purposes of this Act, to enter upon, and survey, and take levels of any land;

to dig or bore into the sub-soil;

to do all other acts necessary to ascertain whether the land is adapted to the purpose projected by such Engineer; or by the Collector;

to set out the boundaries of the land proposed to be taken, and the intended line of the work proposed to be made thereon;

Power to mark out line.

to mark such levels, boundaries, and line, by placing marks and cutting trenches;

and, where otherwise the survey cannot be completed or the levels taken, to cut down and clear away any part of any standing crop, fence, or jungle.

Power to clear land.

Provided that no person shall enter into any building or upon any enclosed court or garden attached to a dwelling-house (unless with the consent of the occupier thereof) without previously giving such occupier at least seven days' notice in writing of his intention to do so.

Previous notice of entry.

The Engineer or other person so authorized shall at the time of such entry pay or tender payment for all necessary damage to be done as aforesaid, and, in case of dispute as to the sufficiency of the amount so paid or tendered, he shall at once refer the dispute to the decision of the Collector, and such decision shall be final.

Payment for damage.

PART V.

Acquisition of lands.

Acquisition of land.

25. Whenever in the course of proceedings under this Act, save in those cases in which the Collector has proceeded under the provisions of Part III, it appears that land is required for any of the purposes thereof, proceedings shall be forthwith taken for the acquisition of such land in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being for the acquisition of lands for public purposes.

When land taken, proclamation to be published.

26. Whenever any land shall have been taken or used under the provisions of Part III, the Collector shall cause a proclamation to be issued in form in Schedule (C) annexed to this Act at convenient places on or near the land so taken, stating that Government has taken possession of the land, and that claims to compensation for all interests in such land shall be made to him. Thereupon the land shall vest absolutely in the Government free from all incumbrances, subject, however, to the claims for compensation to be ascertained in manner as in this Part is provided.

Contents of proclamation.

27. Such proclamation shall state the particulars of the land so taken, and shall require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent before the Collector at a time and place therein mentioned (such time not being earlier than fifteen days after the date of issuing the proclamation), and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land, and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for such interest.

Further notice to be served on certain parties.

28. The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier (if any) of such land, and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, or to be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside, or have agents authorized to receive service on their behalf, within the revenue district in which the land is situate.

Proceedings after notice.

29. After service of such notice proceedings shall be had and taken to determine the amount of compensation to be payable in respect of such land, in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

Compensation for consequential damage.

30. Whenever any land other than land required or taken by the Engineer, or any right of fishery, right of drainage, right of the use of water, or other right or property, shall have been injuriously affected by the due exercise of the powers or provisions of this Act, the person in whom such property or right is vested may prefer a claim by petition to the Collector for compensation.

Application to be made within a year.

31. No claim shall be entertained which shall be made later than one year next after the completion of the work by which such right is injuriously affected.

Procedure for such compensation.

32. When any such claim is made, proceedings shall be taken in view to determine the amount of compensation, if any, which should be made, and the person to whom the same should be payable, in accordance with the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, X of 1870, or any other law for the time being in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

Matters to be considered in determining compensation

33. In determining the amount of compensation to be awarded in such cases, the Judge and Assessors shall take into consideration—

First, the market value of the property or right injuriously affected at the time of acquiring the land;

Secondly, the damage sustained by the claimant by reason of such acquisition injuriously affecting the property or right;

Thirdly, the consequent diminution of the market value of the property or right injuriously affected at the time of acquiring the land.

But the Judge or Assessors shall not take into consideration—

Matters not to be considered in determining compensation.

First, the degree of urgency which has led to the acquisition;

Secondly, any damage sustained by the claimant, which, if caused by a private person, would not in any suit instituted against such person justify a decree for damages.

Land, &c., taken possession of to vest in Government.

34. All buildings, land, earth, pathways, sluices, gates, bermes, hedges, belonging to, or forming part of, any embankment or watercourse, of which charge has been or may hereafter be taken by the officers of Government, shall vest in the Government, and shall be held on behalf of the Government in respect of the embankments mentioned in Schedule (D) annexed to this Act, and in respect of other works on behalf of the persons interested in the lands to be protected or benefited by such embankment or watercourse, subject to the provisions of Section 63; and all monies received on account of such lands shall be payable to the Engineer and credited to the cost of the construction and maintenance of such works respectively.

PART VI.

COST OF WORKS, PROCEEDINGS, &c.

1. Ascertainment thereof.

Embankments in Schedule (D).

35. The provisions in this Part contained shall not apply to any of the embankments mentioned in Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, save so far as any works or repairs are executed therein or in relation thereto under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 20 of this Act; or to any of such embankments as may hereafter be erected for the protection of lands which at the time of the passing of this Act are protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule, save so far as the erection of such embankments may protect lands not protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule. All sums payable in respect of any works or repairs executed therein, or in relation to the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule except under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 20 of this Act, shall be paid by the Government.

Exclusion from Schedule.

If at any time after the passing of this Act, on inquiry made by the Collector as far as possible in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Act, it shall be found that it is unnecessary for the public interests to retain any embankment mentioned in Schedule (D), the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that the same shall be no longer included in the said schedule. Provided that the Lieutenant-Governor may restore the same to the said schedule if on any subsequent enquiry similarly conducted it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor that it is necessary so to do.

Addition to Schedule.

The Lieutenant-Governor may at any time after the passing of this Act, by a notification published in the Calcutta Gazette, direct that any embankment not mentioned in Schedule (D) be included in the said schedule, and the provisions of this section shall apply to such embankment.

Contribution of public money towards the maintenance of the embankments in the pergunnahs entered in Schedule (F) to be continued.

36. In accordance with the custom heretofore in force in respect of the pergunnahs entered in Schedule (E) annexed to this Act, the Government shall continue to contribute annually the sum noted therein for each pergunnah respectively towards the maintenance of the embankments thereof.

If such embankments are declared to be public, Collector to keep a separate account.

If the embankments maintained in any such pergunnah shall at any time be declared to be public embankments under the provisions of Section 4, the Collector shall, from the date of such declaration, keep a separate account for such pergunnah, in which the aforesaid sum shall be credited at the commencement of each financial year. The unexpended balance at the close of each year shall be carried on to the credit of the account in the next succeeding year, and shall be available for the cost of repairing or erecting all the embankments which it may be deemed necessary to maintain in such pergunnah.

Contribution may be discontinued if it be found unnecessary for the public interest to maintain the embankments.

If at any time after the passing of this Act, on an inquiry made by the Collector as far as possible in accordance with the provisions of Part II, it shall be found that it is unnecessary for the public interest to retain any embankment in either of the said pergunnahs, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct that such contribution shall cease in respect of such pergunnah. Provided that such contribution shall again be made in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore contained, if it shall appear to the Lieutenant-Governor, on the report of an inquiry similarly conducted, that the maintenance of any embankment in such pergunnah has again become necessary for the public interest.

Estimates and specifications to be prepared.

37. Specifications of any works or repairs to be executed under the provisions of this Act, and estimates of the expenses to be incurred therein or relating thereto, including such proportion of establishment charges as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, shall be prepared by the Engineer as soon after the month of October in each year as may be practicable. And whenever it appears that the actual expenses to be incurred will exceed the amount mentioned in the said estimates by one-tenth, the Engineer shall forthwith prepare further estimates, and, if necessary, further specifications. Copies of all specifications and estimates shall be transmitted to the office of the Collector, together with vernacular translations thereof, or such abstracts thereof as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time direct, and may be examined by any person interested in such works or repairs. Notice of the receipt of specifications and estimates shall be served for all estates chargeable for, or likely to be affected by, the said works or repairs; and should any objection in regard to the amount of such expenses be preferred by any such person within a period of one month from the date of such notice, the Collector shall pass such orders as may appear to him reasonable and proper. Such order shall be subject in any case to an appeal by the person making such objection to the Commissioner of division whose decision shall be final.

Preparation and settlement of accounts.

38. The accounts of the actual expense incurred in executing any works or repairs shall be prepared as soon as possible after the completion thereof. The Engineer shall sign a certificate stating the true amount of all such expenses, and the names of the estates chargeable for, and of the estates and villages affected by, the said works and repairs. Copies of the said accounts and certificates shall be forwarded to the office of the Collector, and may be there examined by any person interested. Notice of the receipt thereof shall be served for the said estates and villages and such others as in the opinion of the Collector are liable to contribute to the payment of the said amount; and if, within thirty days from the service of such notice, any interested person shall object to the accounts on the ground either that the work charged for has not been performed, or that the whole sum charged has not been expended, or that the rates of charge are higher than those mentioned in the estimates, the Collector shall inquire into such objection, and may pass any order thereon subject in any case to an appeal by the objector to the Commissioner of division whose decision shall be final.

Total sum payable.

39. The Collector shall add to the amount appearing in the said certificate all sums which have been paid or have become payable in respect of compensation, costs and expenses under and incidental to any proceedings taken or directed to be taken under Parts II and V of this Act, including costs of all surveys and plans. He shall thereupon make an order specifying the total sum found payable, and in respect of works done under Section 4, Clause 5, and Sections 19 and 20, the persons by whom, or in respect of other works the estates in respect of which, the same is payable to him. If the order is made in respect of work done under Section 4, Clause 5, and Sections 19 and 20, the same shall forthwith be served upon the party or parties liable to pay; otherwise the Collector shall proceed under the provisions in the next chapter contained.

Interest.

Interest may be charged upon any sum paid as compensation from the date of payment thereof at such rate, not exceeding 5 per centum per annum, as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct.

Parties liable to pay.

40. The said total sum, save so far as is otherwise provided in this Act, shall be paid to the Collector by the zemindars of the estates in which are situated the lands benefited or protected by the repairs or works executed. Provided that where any specific sum has hitherto been annually demanded in respect of any embankment not included in Schedule (D), and when the said embankment is at the time of this Act coming into operation being maintained by Government, then such special payments shall, after the passing of this Act, thenceforth cease and determine.

Every zemindar, who is liable under this rule for the payment of the whole or a portion of such total sum, shall be entitled to recover from the proprietor of every tenure which is declared to be a part of his estate, the sum apportioned to such tenure by the Collector, under the provisions of Section 45. And similarly, every proprietor shall be entitled to recover from the proprietor of any subordinate tenure which is declared to be a part of his tenure, the sum apportioned to such subordinate tenure by the Collector, under the said provisions.

2. Apportionment thereof.

Notice to be given before apportionment.

41. So soon as the total sum payable as aforesaid has been ascertained, the Collector shall cause a notice to be served for every one of the said estates and villages mentioned in Section 38. Every such notice shall specify the estates and villages aforesaid, and that an inquiry will be held at a day and place therein named for the purpose of apportioning amongst the zemindars and proprietors the said total sum, with interest and the costs of apportionment.

Mode of enquiry as to the proportion chargeable to each estate.

42. On the day fixed in the said notice, which shall not be less than thirty days later than the date of any service of such notice, the Collector shall proceed to make the said enquiry. In making this enquiry he shall receive such evidence as may be tendered by, or on behalf of, the said zemindars and proprietors, and by, or on behalf of, any other persons who may claim to be interested therein.

Names of proprietors.

43. In any such enquiry the Collector shall take down in writing the names of all persons who may claim, or who may be alleged by any party interested, to be proprietors of tenures within any of the estates mentioned in such notice. In default of appearance of any such person, the Collector shall issue and serve a notice calling on him to appear at a date and place therein mentioned, and to show cause against being included in the order of apportionment to be made therein, and shall adjourn the enquiry till such date.

Apportionment amongst zemindars.

44. At such or any subsequently adjourned enquiry, the Collector, if there be only one estate liable, shall charge the zemindar thereof with the total amount payable; and if there be two or more estates, he shall apportion the same amongst the zemindars thereof, rateably in proportion to the respective benefits derived by such estates from such works or repairs; or in proportion to the areas of the lands benefited or protected thereby, and comprised within such estates respectively; or with the sanction of the local Government in proportion to the amount of revenue respectively payable for such estates, if, before the passing of this Act, such proportion has been usually adopted.

Provided that the said total amount payable in respect of the embankments on the right bank of the river Gunduk shall be chargeable, in accordance with the custom in force for such estates, to the zemindars of all the estates situated in the district of Sarun, in proportion to the amount of revenue respectively payable for such estates.

Proviso in respect of the pergunnahs in Schedule (E.)

Provided also that the sum standing to the credit of a pergunnah in Schedule (E) in the account kept by the Collector, at the time when the total amount payable is fixed under the provisions of Section 39, shall be deducted from the total amount payable in respect of such portion of any embankment as is situated in such pergunnah; and that the zemindars of the estates situated therein shall be charged only with the balance of the amount (if any) which may remain payable.

Apportionment amongst proprietors.

45. The Collector shall, in like manner, apportion, except in respect of the said Gunduk embankments, the amount payable in respect of each estate amongst all the tenures therein rateably in the proportion of benefit so received or area so benefited or protected, first deducting therefrom such sum as, on the like principle of proportion, is payable in respect of such portion of the estate as is not included within any tenure.

Apportionment where the lands held without payment of rent, not being estates on the register of revenue-free tenures.

46. All lands held without payment of rent not being estates entered in the register of revenue-free tenures, shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to form a part of the tenure within the local boundaries of which they are included; and, if they are not included within the local boundaries of any tenure, then to be a part of the estate within the local boundaries of which they are included; and, if they are not included within the local boundaries of any estate, then to be a part of such conterminous estate as the Collector, in whose district such conterminous estate is situated, shall, by an order under his seal and signature, declare.

Amount apportioned payable by instalments.

47. The amount apportioned to any estate or tenure, shall be payable in equal instalments on such days as the Lieutenant-Governor shall direct, provided that no instalment shall exceed four annas for every acre of land in respect of which the same is payable, and that not more than four instalments shall be payable in any one year.

Interest.

Interest shall be charged on the unpaid portion of the said amount from the date of the same becoming due until payment thereof at such rate, not exceeding five per centum per annum, as the Lieutenant-Governor shall from time to time determine.

Final order of apportionment.

48. On the completion of the apportionment the Collector shall make an order specifying the estates and tenures, and the several sums payable in respect thereof, the instalments of such sums, and the dates on which the same are payable.

3. Recovery thereof.

Orders for payment.

49. The Collector shall, within thirty days from the final order of apportionment, make and serve for every estate therein mentioned an order, stating the amount with interest due in respect thereof, and that the same is payable to him, and the date or dates at which such amount or instalments thereof shall become payable to him.

Recovery from zemindars.

50. If such sum or any instalment thereof be not, pursuant to the said order, paid, the same with interest shall be recoverable as arrears of a demand under the provisions of Bengal Act VII of 1868 (to make further provision for the recovery of arrears of land revenue and public demands recoverable as arrears of land revenue).

Recovery by zemindars or proprietors.

51. Every zemindar or proprietor to whom any sum or instalment thereof is payable under the said order, may recover the same with interest as aforesaid in the manner provided for the recovery of arrears of rent in respect of putnee tenures by the provisions of Clauses 2 and 3 of Section 8, Sections 9, 10, 14, 15, and Clauses 1, 2, and 3 of Section 17 of Regulation VIII of 1819, as amended by Bengal Act VIII of 1865; provided that the right or interest of any person holding from the proprietor of such tenure shall not be affected by any sale held under these provisions.

PART VII.

Miscellaneous.

Penalty for obstructing persons in exercise of powers of Act.

52. Whoever wilfully obstructs any person duly authorized under this Act in removing or levelling any embankment, house, hut, or other building, or in the lawful exercise of any of the powers in this Act conferred, shall, in case such obstruction shall not amount to an offence within the provisions of the Indian Penal Code, be liable to imprisonment of either description for any period not exceeding six months, at the discretion of the Magistrate, or to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, commutable, if not paid, to a period of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

Penalty on unauthorized interference with embankments or drainage.

53. Every person who, without the previous permission of the Engineer, shall erect, or cause or wilfully permit to be erected, any new embankment, or shall obstruct or divert, or cause or wilfully permit to be obstructed or diverted, any watercourse, if such embankment or watercourse is likely to interfere with, counteract, or impede, any public embankment or any public watercourse, or shall abet any such act, shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or in default of payment, to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months.

Penalties for injuring works under Act.

54. No person shall, without due authority, cut through, or attempt to cut through, any public embankment, or destroy, or attempt to destroy any such embankment, or open or shut, or obstruct any sluice in any such embankment, or any public watercourse; and every person who shall commit any breach of the provisions of this section shall, in case the act shall not amount to mischief within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, be liable to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding one month, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Penalties for diverting rivers or permitting cattle to graze on embankments.

55. Every person who shall make any dam or other obstruction for the purpose of diverting or opposing the current of a river, wherein or whereon there are public embankments, without the permission of the officer in immediate charge of the embankments, or shall refuse or neglect to remove any such dam or obstruction when so required by the Engineer, or shall cut or otherwise alter the banks of any embanked river, or shall remove the earth from any public embankment, or shall drive stakes into it, or by any other wilful act destroy or diminish the efficiency of such embankment; and every person who shall cause or knowingly and wilfully permit any cattle to graze upon any such embankment, or shall tether, or cause or wilfully permit any cattle to be tethered upon any such embankment, or who shall root up any grass or other vegetation growing on any such embankment, shall be liable to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Obstructions to be removed and damage repaired.

56. Whenever any person is convicted of an offence under either of the three last preceding sections, the convicting Magistrate may order that he shall remove the embankment or obstruction, or repair the damage, in respect of which the conviction is held, within a period to be fixed in such order. If such person neglects or refuses to obey such order within the fixed period, the Engineer may remove such embankment or obstruction or repair such damage, and the cost of such removal or repair shall be levied from such person in addition to any other penalty in the manner provided in Section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Service.

57. Every proclamation, notice or order in and by this Act required to be served may, unless when otherwise provided, be served—

(3) by posting a copy of the proclamation, notice or order at the mal-cutcherry of the estate, village or tenure to which the same relates; or if no such mal-cutcherry be found, on some conspicuous place on the said estate, village or tenure, and by delivering, in the case of estates paying their annual revenue by four instalments, another copy thereof to the agent who shall have paid an instalment of revenue next before or after the preparation of such proclamation, notice or order. In all cases where two or more persons are holders of an estate, village or tenure service under this clause shall be deemed to be good and sufficient service on each and all of such persons.

No proceedings to be impeached for want of form.

58. No proceedings under this Act shall be impeached or affected by reason of any mistake in the name of any person thereby rendered liable to pay any sum of money, or in the description of any estate or tenure or land in respect of which he is rendered liable to pay; provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with; and no proceedings under this Act shall for want of form be quashed or set aside in any Court of Justice.

Appeal from orders made on objection.

59. Every order passed by the Collector in respect to applications under Section 4, Clauses 6 and 7, or under Sections 8, 39, and 48, shall be appealable to the Commissioner of Revenue, and every order of the Commissioner except when otherwise directed by this Act, shall be appealable to the Board of Revenue, but no appeal shall lie under this section against any order unless the same be presented within one month from the date of the order.

60. Subject to the right of appeal above mentioned and to the orders and control of Government, every order passed under the provisions aforesaid shall be final, and shall not be open to revision by any Civil Court.

Orders to be final.

61. In any inquiry or appeal held under this Act, the Collector and the Commissioner shall respectively have the same powers as those conferred on Courts by the Code of Civil Procedure of summoning and examining witnesses and compelling the production of documents.

Powers on inquiry and appeal.

62. All the powers of a Collector under this Act shall be exercised under the general control and orders of the Commissioner of the Division, and all the powers of Collectors and Commissioners shall be exercised subject to the general control and orders of the Board of Revenue and of the Government.

General control of Commissioner and Government.

63. Whenever the maintenance of any public embankment, or the retention of any land appropriated to the purposes thereof, may no longer be required, and the permanent relinquishment of the same may be deemed expedient, such land shall be conveyed by the Collector to the proprietor of the land, within the limits of which it may be situated, on payment of the compensation, if any, which was paid for such land when the same was taken for the purpose of the embankment. If the proprietor of such lands refuse or neglect to pay such price within a reasonable time after demand, the same shall be sold by the Collector for such price as he can obtain for the same. All sums obtained for the conveyance of lands under the provisions of this section shall, after the payment of all expenses incurred on account of the same, be applied to the payment of the cost of any new embankment or drainage works affecting the said lands, and in such case the residue only of the cost of such new works shall be charged upon the zemindars of estates benefited as hereinbefore provided.

Disposal of lands no longer required for embankments.

64. A Collector may delegate any of his powers under this Act to a Deputy Collector, but from any order passed by a Deputy Collector to whom powers have been so delegated, an appeal shall lie to the Collector if presented within thirty days of the date of the order.

Collector may delegate any of his powers to a Deputy Collector.

65. All offences created by this Act shall be inquired into and tried by a Magistrate of the first or second class.

Jurisdiction.

66. Nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of "the Hooghly and Burdwan Drainage Act, 1871."

Saving of Bengal Act V of 1871.

From Messrs. Schoene, Kilburn and Company, dated 9th June 1873, and enclosures.
Petition of certain contractors under Act II of 1870.
From Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association, dated 19th July 1873.

We have received and considered the papers noted in the margin.

We have made numerous alterations in the draft of the Bill, restoring in many cases the language of Act II of 1870, for instance, in Sections 11, 14, 35, 38, 62, 78, 84, 94, 97, 99, 109, 111, 116, 117, 122, and 125. We have altered the definition of "emigrant" and of "magistrate," and in reference to the latter we have specified in Section 98 the sections under which a Subordinate Magistrate may be deputed to act.

We have omitted the provisions relating to evidence in Sections 28, 62, 63, 66, 106, and 133, and the references to the Penal Code in Sections 18, 103, 108, and 132. We have omitted Section 12, the Council of India having brought in a Bill to deal with the subject of it. We have also omitted the definition of "servant" from Section 3; Clauses 4, 15, and 16 from Section 5; and the following sections or parts of sections :—Sections 26, 34 (last part), 42, 65, 67, 83 (last part), 97, 109 (last part), 112, 116 (last sentence), 122 (proviso), 124 (last sentence), and 140.*

We have not required that a garden-sirdar should pay a fee for having his certificate countersigned under Section 19, or that a recruiter should pay a fee to the medical officer for a certificate under Section 45. We have slightly altered the constitution of the Labor Transport Fund to meet the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, Section 308.

We have given power to a Magistrate to advance any sum which a garden-sirdar may be ordered to pay to an emigrant under Section 31 and to recover the amount from the employer with interest; and we have provided that interest shall be recoverable on sums advanced by a Magistrate under Sections 79, 80, 81, and 86.

We have reduced the amount of fine which may be imposed under Sections 66, 67, 72, 75, 77, and 94. We have given power to the Lieutenant-Governor to affix penalties to the breach of rules framed by him under Section 5, and we have provided that the penalties (if any) shall be published with the rules.

We have required (in Sections 22, 46) that the garden-sirdar or recruiter, as the case may be, shall produce his certificate or license when he appears with a recruit before a

Magistrate for registration. We have struck out the provision that a recruiter shall wear a badge. We have given the same power of cancelling the license or certificate of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar under Sections 21, 36, and 41. We have substituted the word "rice" for "food" in Sections 5 (clause 13), 17, 23, 46, and 114.

We have slightly modified Sections 67, 119, 120, and 135.

We have annexed as Schedules to the Act forms of a garden-sirdar's certificate of a contract between emigrant and employer, and of a certificate of release on determination of contract. We have omitted Schedule D.

We have also made many verbal alterations.

The 25th August 1873.

As I am going to England for three or four months, I shall be unable to sign the final report of the Select Committee, but having attended nearly all meetings up to this date, I wish to record my general assent to the Bill with the alterations and amendments agreed to by the Select Committee so far as they have at present been considered, viz., to Section 99.

25th June 1873. B. D. COLVIN.

I agree to the report, but think that the objections raised to the Sections CV, CVIII, CIX, and CXI in Act II of 1870 (being part of the Bill, Sections 125, 126, 127, and 128,) still hold good.

T. M. ROBINSON.

RE-AMENDED BILL.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the emigration of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and to regulate contract labor and service.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law regulating the emigration of native inhabitants of India from or through the provinces subject to the Government of Bengal to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and the manner of engaging and contracting with native inhabitants of the said provinces to proceed to the said districts, and providing for the protection of the persons so proceeding, and for the enforcement of the contracts of service entered into by them; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.—PRELIMINARY.

Chapter 1.—Application and Miscellaneous.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Labor Districts Emigration Act."

Repeal of Act II of 1870.

2. Bengal Act II of 1870 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to the transport of laborers to the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and their employment therein) is hereby repealed. All contracts entered into, appointments made, and licenses granted, under the said Act or any of the Acts thereby repealed, shall be deemed to have been respectively entered into, made, and granted under this Act.

Interpretation clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

India.

"India" means the territories for the time being vested in Her Majesty by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 106, entitled "An Act for the better government of India," other than the settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca.

Labor Districts.

"The Labor Districts" means the districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, and "a labor district" means one of those districts.

Magistrate.

"Magistrate" includes a magistrate of a district or of a division of a district, and any magistrate of the first and second class, and any magistrate of police for the town of Calcutta.

Employer.

"Employer" means the chief person for the time being in charge of any lands upon which laborers may be employed.

Emigrant.

"Emigrant" means any native of India above the age of sixteen years who has engaged with any garden-sirdar or recruiter to proceed to a labor district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, and has been registered as hereinafter provided.

Laborer.

"Laborer" means any emigrant who has been conveyed to a labor district in accordance with a contract made under the provisions of Bengal Act III of 1863, Bengal Act VI of 1865, Bengal Act II of 1870, or this Act, during the duration of such contract.

Vessel.

"Vessel" includes a steamer, a flat, a boat, and anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

Master.

"Master" means the person for the time being in charge of a vessel.

Provisions regarding emigration not to apply to domestic servants, or to persons proceeding alone.

4. The provisions of part II of this Act regarding emigration shall not apply to domestic servants, or to any person proceeding alone, or accompanied by his family only, or to any persons not exceeding twenty in number proceeding to a labor district to labor for hire, without the intervention, direct or indirect, of any person employed to induce natives of India to emigrate to a labor district. In computing the number of persons two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

Power of the Lieutenant-Governor to make rules.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act, and from time to time alter, vary, and revoke such rules:—

(1)—To regulate the subordination of the several officers of emigration to the superintendent.

(2)—To prescribe the periodical returns and reports to be made by the emigration officers, by magistrates, and by the inspectors of laborers.

(3)—To prescribe the amount of the several fees to be paid under the provisions of this Act.

(4)—To provide for the management and regulation of contractors' depôts and of hospital depôts.

(5)—To provide for the medical care of emigrants during their residence at the depôts and during transport to a labor district.

(6)—To prescribe the nature, quality, and quantity of medical drugs and other stores to be carried on vessels taking emigrants.

(7)—To prescribe the clothing to be supplied to emigrants while proceeding to a labor district.

(8)—To prescribe the description, quantity, and quality of provisions to be taken by vessels carrying emigrants, and the daily allowance to be issued to each emigrant during the journey.

(9)—To provide for the ventilation and cleanliness of vessels during the journey, to prescribe the number of officers, cooks, and other servants, and to provide for their control; and to provide generally for the accommodation of emigrants.

(10)—To provide for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of all emigrants detained at any place by order of a magistrate on account of sickness.

(11)—To provide for the periodical inspection of laborers, and the books to be kept by inspectors of laborers.

(12)—To provide for the house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and supply of rice to be provided by employers for their laborers.

(13)—To provide for the hospital accommodation and medical care of laborers, and to prescribe the nature, quality, and quantity of medical drugs and other stores to be provided for them.

The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time fix penalties not inconsistent with any of the provisions of this Act for infringements of any such rules, which may be enforced and recovered as other penalties under this Act on conviction by a magistrate. Provided that no penalty shall exceed five hundred rupees.

All such rules, with the penalties (if any) for their infringement, shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and shall be separately printed and sold to the public at 4 annas for each copy.

Contract made with emigrant is a charge upon the land;

6. Every contract made with an emigrant, and all arrears of wages due under any such contract, and all fines imposed on any employer under the provisions of this Act, shall be a charge upon the lands upon which such laborer has been engaged to work.

and is transferred with the land.

The owner of such lands for the time being shall have all rights and remedies against such laborer, as if such owner had been originally the party executing such contract as employer.

Determination of ownership determines liability.

No person, after he has ceased to be the owner of such lands, nor his property nor effects, shall be in anywise liable or responsible for any breach of such contract which may have occurred after he has ceased to be such owner.

Any person above the age of 16 years may contract.

7. Any engagement or contract made under the provisions of this Act by a native of India, who is above the age of sixteen years, shall be held valid.

Procedure on trial of offences created by Act.

8. All offences against this Act committed without the town of Calcutta shall be inquired into and tried according to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and all offences against this Act committed within the said town shall be inquired into and tried by a police magistrate of the said town according to the provisions of the laws regulating the investigation and trial of offences within the said town, which shall be for the time being in force.

Penalty for any offence not especially provided for.

9. For every offence against the provisions of this Act, for which no special penalty or amount of fine is prescribed, the offender shall on conviction by a Magistrate be punished with a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees. Wherever in this Act no special term of imprisonment is appointed in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall be liable to imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term not exceeding one month.

PART II.—EMIGRATION.

Chapter 2.—Restrictions and Appointment of Officers.

Power to prevent emigration of laborers.

10. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in case he shall be of opinion that the emigration of natives of India from any district, or to any particular part of any labor district, for the purpose of becoming laborers, is likely to be attended with danger to the health of any native so emigrating or others, or if the Lieutenant-Governor has reason to believe that a political disturbance is likely to occur in any labor district, to prohibit, by an order under his hand, the emigration of such natives from such district, or to such labor district or particular part thereof, and from time to time to revoke or vary any such order; and every such order or variation or revocation thereof shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Penalty on engaging natives contrary to such order.

11. Any person who shall knowingly engage native so to emigrate while any such emigration shall be prohibited under the provisions of the last preceding section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every native who may have been so engaged.

Appointment of superintendent of emigration, embarkation agents, and medical inspectors.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint a proper person to be the superintendent of emigration at Calcutta, and may also appoint proper persons to be embarkation agents and medical inspectors of emigrants at any places where he may think proper, and define by notification in the Calcutta Gazette the local limits within which each such officer shall exercise the powers and authority conferred upon him by this Act. He may at any time suspend or remove any such officer.

Employer may recruit by garden-sirdar.

13. It shall be lawful for any employer to engage, by the agency of a garden-sirdar, or by the agency of a contractor, natives of India to proceed to a labor district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire upon lands of which such employer is in charge.

Superintendent may license contractors and recruiters.

14. It shall be lawful for the superintendent of emigration to grant to such persons as he may think fit licenses to act as contractors for engaging and supplying persons for the purpose of laboring for hire in the labor-districts, or to act in behalf of some contractor as recruiters for engaging persons to proceed to the said districts for the purpose of laboring therein for hire.

Natives of India shall not be engaged to proceed to the labor districts, or be conveyed there, save under this Act.

15. From and after the commencement of this Act, whoever shall, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, engage any native of India in any of the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to proceed to any or either of the labor districts for the purpose of laboring there for hire; and whoever shall, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, convey any such native through any of the said provinces to any or either of the labor districts for the purpose of laboring there for hire, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine for every person so engaged or conveyed.

Penalty.

No person not licensed as a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, may engage or contract to supply laborers.

16. Whoever, not being a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, shall otherwise than through or by the agency of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar engage any native of India to proceed to any of the labor-districts for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, and whoever, not being a contractor, shall enter into any contract to supply, or shall supply, or shall transfer or make over whether to a recruiter or any other person, any such native for the purpose of laboring for hire in any of the labor districts; and whoever not being a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, shall enter into any contract to engage, or shall attempt to engage, any such native to proceed to any of the labor-districts for the purpose aforesaid; and whoever shall employ or appoint any person other than a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, to engage any such native, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished for each offence with fine or imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term not exceeding three months.

Penalty.

17. It shall not be lawful for any emigrant to be conveyed to any labor-district, unless and until he shall have entered into a duly registered contract with some person to serve such person there for a fixed period, which shall in no case exceed the term of three years from the date of his arrival on the estate of his employer in the said labor district. Every such contract shall be in the form in Schedule (A) annexed to this Act, and shall be reduced to writing, and shall specify the monthly amount of wages in money, the period of service, the name of the district in which the service is to be performed, and the price at which rice is to be supplied to the laborer.

Emigrant not to be conveyed to or towards a labor district until contract is executed.

Form and particulars of contract.

Chapter 3.—Garden-sirdar.

18. Every garden-sirdar, authorized by an employer under the provisions of section 13 to engage natives of India to proceed to a labor-district for the purpose of laboring therein for hire, shall, before proceeding to engage any such native, personally present to the magistrate of the district, or division of the district within which is situate the estate of the employer, a certificate signed by such employer, in which shall be stated the name and description of such garden-sirdar, the name and description of the lands for the purpose of laboring upon which he is about to engage such natives, the district (or the town of Calcutta, as the case may be) in which he is about to engage them, the number which he is authorized to engage, and, if the number exceeds twenty, the name of the contractor to whose depôt they shall be conveyed. The certificate shall be in the form set forth in Schedule (B) annexed to this Act.

Garden-sirdar to obtain certificate from employer, and to present it to magistrate.

19. Such magistrate shall inquire into the facts stated in such certificate, and, upon being satisfied that the same are true, shall, unless it appears to him that the person so presenting such certificate is unfit to be employed for the purpose of engaging natives to proceed to a labor-district to labor therein for hire, countersign and date such certificate; and every such certificate shall be in force for six months from the date last mentioned, and no longer.

Magistrate after inquiry to countersign it.

20. If, under his certificate from his employer, any garden-sirdar is authorized to engage more than twenty natives of India, he shall be in all respects, save as regards his certificate, subject to the provisions of this Act which relate to recruiters. The following rules of this chapter shall apply to every garden-sirdar who is not authorized to engage more than twenty such natives.

Garden-sirdar authorized to engage more than twenty natives to be subject to provisions relating to a recruiter.

Garden-sirdar who is not a Recruiter.

21. A garden-sirdar shall not have authority in any district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant, until his certificate has been countersigned by the magistrate of such district or of such division of the district; or in Calcutta, until his certificate has been countersigned by the commissioner or the deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta.

Has no authority until certificate is countersigned by magistrate.

It shall be lawful for such magistrate, in case of misconduct or disobedience to or neglect of any of the provisions of this Act by a garden-sirdar, to cancel the certificate of such garden-sirdar.

Magistrate may cancel certificate.

22. Every native of India, who enters into an engagement with a garden-sirdar to proceed to a labor-district for the purpose of laboring for hire, shall appear with the garden-sirdar before the magistrate of the district or of the division of the district within which the engagement was made, or through which he shall first pass on the road to his destination. The garden-sirdar shall at the same time produce his certificate to the Magistrate.

Every native to appear before magistrate before removal from district.

23. On the appearance of such native the magistrate shall examine him with reference to his engagement; and, if it appears that he understands such engagement as regards the locality, period, and nature of the service, the rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the magistrate shall register, in a book to be kept for the purpose, the following particulars, viz.—

Magistrate to examine native, and if the examination is satisfactory, to register particulars;

(1)—The name, the name of the father, and the age of such native;

(2)—The name of the village or place of which such native is a resident;

(3)—The labor-district to which he is engaged to proceed;

(4)—The period of service;

(5)—The rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied.

Provided that the magistrate may, if he thinks fit, require such native to appear before such medical officer as he may direct, and may refuse to register such native unless the medical officer certifies in writing that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district.

but may require medical certificate.

24. If the magistrate finds that such native does not understand the nature of the engagement, or has been induced to enter into the engagement by fraud or misrepresentation, or if the garden-sirdar shall not have produced his certificate, he shall refuse to register such native.

Magistrate, &c., may refuse to register.

25. For the registration of every such native the garden-sirdar shall pay to the registering officer a fee not exceeding one rupee and eight annas.

Fee to be paid for registration.

26. When such registration has been made, the emigrant shall execute a contract with the employer with whom he intends to contract. Such contract shall, in the presence of the magistrate, be signed in duplicate both by the emigrant and by the garden-sirdar on behalf of his employer. The contract may be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, and shall be on substantial paper. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the magistrate for the purpose; and after such abstract has been so entered, one of the duplicates shall be given to the emigrant and the other to the garden-sirdar.

Contract to be executed in duplicate and abstract to be entered in book to be kept by the magistrate;

The magistrate shall forward a certified copy of every such abstract so entered as aforesaid to the superintendent of emigration, by whom it shall be forwarded, after entry in his own register, to the magistrate of the district within which the service under such contract is agreed to be performed.

and copy to be sent to superintendent and magistrate.

27. The provisions of the six last preceding sections shall be applicable to natives of India engaged by a garden-sirdar within the town of Calcutta, except that they shall appear for registration and execution of contract before the superintendent of emigration.

Similar provisions for natives recruited in Calcutta.

28. Every native of India who shall be brought or induced to come by any garden-sirdar from any province or district not under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of entering into a contract to proceed to the labor-districts to labor therein for hire, shall be presented by the garden-sirdar for registry under the provisions of this chapter at some place within the district under the control of the said Lieutenant-Governor into which he shall first come, or at Calcutta, if he shall first come there.

Natives recruited in districts not in Bengal.

29. The garden-sirdar shall personally accompany natives of India engaged by him throughout their journey from the place in which the engagement was made to the place in which they are to be employed.

Garden-sirdar must personally accompany emigrants.

30. It shall not be lawful for two or more garden-sirdars to proceed together towards a labor-district accompanied by emigrants, if the total number of such emigrants exceeds twenty, or unless the permission of the superintendent of emigration or embarkation agent shall have been first obtained.

Garden-sirdar cannot proceed with more than twenty emigrants in one batch.

31. Every garden-sirdar, by whom any emigrant is accompanied, shall provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging throughout such journey. If it shall appear to any magistrate, on the complaint of any such emigrant, at any place on the journey that he has suffered any ill-treatment during the journey or that the garden-sirdar has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging; or if it be found on examination by a medical officer appointed by a magistrate for such purpose, that any such emigrant is not in a fit state of health to proceed to or to labor in a labor-district; such magistrate may order the garden-sirdar to pay to such emigrant a sum of money by way of compensation, or may cancel the contract and order the garden-sirdar to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged.

Garden-sirdar must provide food and lodging for emigrants on journey.

If such not provided, or if emigrant unfit, magistrate may award compensation, or cancel contract.

32. If any garden-sirder, who may be ordered under the provisions of the last preceding section to pay any sum of money, shall for twenty-four hours omit to comply with such order, it shall be lawful for the magistrate to advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the emigrant named in such order, and to recover from his employer the sum so advanced with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the date of such advance.

Recovery of fines ordered to be paid by Magistrate.

33. On the arrival in Calcutta of any emigrant whose contract has been executed by a garden-sirdar on behalf of his employer, any person empowered to act as the agent or representative of such employer may require the emigrant to appear before the superintendent of emigration for the purpose of cancelling the contract. The superintendent of emigration shall, on the appearance of such emigrant, declare that the contract is cancelled, if a sum of money sufficient for his support during his return to the place at which he was engaged, be paid to him before himself, and not otherwise, and shall make an endorsement to that effect on the contract, and shall attest it with his signature. Provided that the contract of any husband or wife or parent or child of such emigrant, who may have executed a contract at the same time with the same employer, shall be cancelled at the request of such person, and in such case an equal sum of money shall be paid to such person.

Agent in Calcutta may procure order from superintendent of emigration cancelling the contract on payment of expense of return.

34. It shall not be lawful for a garden-sirdar to embark any emigrants on board a vessel for conveyance to or towards a labor district, if the total number of persons to be carried by such vessel, exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying the emigrants, exceeds twenty, unless such emigrants are furnished with a pass by the embarkation agent in the form set forth in schedule (E) annexed to this Act.

Not to embark emigrants on any vessel containing more than twenty persons without a pass from the embarkation agent.

The embarkation agent shall not grant any such pass without a certificate from the medical inspector that such emigrants may be allowed to embark without danger to the health of other persons on board the vessel.

Pass not to be granted unless medical inspector is satisfied in regard to health.

35. As soon as possible after the arrival of the garden-sirdar with emigrants at the place of disembarkation, or at the nearest civil station in the district within which the emigrant has engaged to labor, the garden-sirdar shall report himself to the magistrate of the district or division of the district or to any subordinate magistrate whom the magistrate may depute for that purpose, and such magistrate shall check the number of emigrants landed with the number of those registered, and shall report to the superintendent of emigration any deaths which may have occurred on the journey. Any garden-sirdar who neglects to report himself as aforesaid shall on conviction by a magistrate be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to three months.

Must report arrival in labor-district.

Chapter 4.—Contractor.

36. The license granted to a contractor under section 14 shall be in the form set forth in the schedule (C) annexed to this Act. For every license there shall be paid to the superintendent of emigration a fee not exceeding one hundred rupees. Every such license shall be in force for one year and no longer; and in case of misconduct or disobedience to, or neglect of, any of the provisions of this Act by a contractor, the superintendent may cancel his license before the expiration of such period.

Period.

37. It shall be the duty of every contractor to afford such information to the superintendent of emigration and to make such returns and reports to him as the superintendent, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, may from time to time require.

To give information to superintendent.

38. Every contractor shall forthwith, upon obtaining his license, establish a depôt in a place to be approved of by the superintendent of emigration. Every such depôt shall be maintained by such contractor for the reception of natives of India to be supplied or forwarded by or through him. All such natives shall on their arrival at or in the neighbourhood of the depôt so established by the contractor, by, through, to, or for whom they were engaged or forwarded, be forthwith received therein; and shall receive in such depôt, at the expense of such contractor, suitable lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance, until such native shall be declared by the superintendent to be no longer thereto entitled. Every such depôt as aforesaid shall be under the supervision of the superintendent, and shall be open to his inspection and the inspection of the medical inspector at all times.

To establish and maintain depôts.

39. A contractor may without other license act as a recruiter, and shall in such case be subject to all the provisions hereinafter contained with regard to recruiters.

May act as recruiter.

40. In addition to the depôts for the reception of emigrants which the contractors are required to establish and maintain, the Lieutenant-Governor may at any time direct that a separate depôt shall be established and maintained at any place for the reception of emigrants who are affected with cholera or other contagious disease. Whenever such hospital depôt is established, every contractor may be required to contribute to the expense of establishing and maintaining it in such proportion as the Lieutenant-Governor may direct. Such hospital depôt shall be under the charge of the medical inspector, who shall be competent at any time to direct the transfer thereto of any emigrants on or after their arrival at any depôt.

Establishment of hospital depôt.

Contractor to contribute to expense.

Under charge of medical inspector.

Chapter 5.—Recruiter.

41. The license granted to a recruiter under section 14 shall be in the form set forth in schedule (D) annexed to this Act. For every license there shall be paid to the superintendent of emigration a fee not exceeding sixteen rupees. Every such license shall be in force for one year and no longer; and in case of misconduct or disobedience to, or neglect of, any of the provisions of this Act by a recruiter, the superintendent may cancel his license before the expiration of such period.

Form of license.

Fee.

Period.

42. Every recruiter shall hold a written pass signed by the contractor on whose behalf he is licensed to act.

Recruiter must hold a pass.

43. A recruiter shall not have authority in any district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to engage or attempt to engage a native of India to become an emigrant until his license has been countersigned by the magistrate of the district or of the division of the district, or in Calcutta, until his license has been countersigned by the commissioner or the deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta; and such magistrate or commissioner or deputy commissioner of police shall, unless it appears to him that the person to whom a license has been granted is unfit to be employed as a recruiter, countersign such license.

No authority till license is countersigned by magistrate of recruiting district.

The magistrate or commissioner or deputy commissioner of police may at any time for any sufficient reason withdraw such license, provided that in any such case he shall record his reasons in writing and shall forward a copy thereof without delay to the superintendent of emigration.

Magistrate may withdraw license and suspend recruiting.

44. The magistrate or the commissioner or deputy commissioner of police in Calcutta, to whom any recruiter's license shall have been exhibited for countersignature, shall not countersign the same until he shall be satisfied that sufficient accommodation has been provided and is available for such natives of India as may be engaged by such recruiter pending their removal to a depôt.

Recruiter to provide accommodation for natives before license is countersigned.

Magistrate charged with superintendence of accommodation.

The magistrate of the district, or division of the district, in which there may be any such accommodation provided, shall have, for the supervision, management, and regulation of such accommodation, all such and the same powers and authorities as are vested in the superintendent of emigration for the supervision, management, and regulation of depôts which are subject to the powers and authority of the superintendent.

Native to be taken for examination to medical officer, who may reject.

45. Every native of India who shall, in any place or town within the said provinces, enter into any engagement with any recruiter to proceed to a labor-district, for the purpose of laboring for hire, shall be brought by such recruiter before such medical officer as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time appoint to examine such natives within such place or town; or, if no such officer has been appointed, before such medical officer as the magistrate may direct. The medical officer shall thereupon examine the native brought by the recruiter, and shall reject him or shall certify in writing that he is in a fit state of health and able, in point of physical condition, to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district.

If certified to be fit, native to be taken to magistrate.

46. Every such native who is certified by the medical officer, as required in the last preceding section, to be fit to emigrate to a labor district, shall thereupon appear with the recruiter before the magistrate of the district or division of the district within which the place or town where the engagement was entered into is situate. The recruiter shall at the same time produce his license to the magistrate.

Magistrate to examine native respecting the engagement.

On the appearance of such native the magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall examine him with reference to his engagement, and if it appears that he understands such engagement as regards the locality, period, and nature of the service, the rate o wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the magistrate shall register in a book to be kept for the purpose—

If satisfied, magistrate will register certain particulars.

(1.) The name, the name of the father, and the age of such native;

(2.) The name of the village or place of which such native is a resident;

(3.) The contractor's depôt to which it is intended that he shall proceed;

(4.) The labor-district to which he is engaged to proceed;

(5.) The period of service;

(6.) The rate of wages, and the price at which rice is to be supplied.

If dissatisfied, will reject.

If the magistrate thinks that such native does not understand the nature of the engagement, or has been induced to enter into the engagement by fraud or misrepresentation, or if the recruiter shall not have produced his license, he shall refuse to register such native.

Copy of registration to be given to emigrant.

47. A certified copy of his registration, written on substantial paper, shall be furnished by the magistrate to each emigrant.

Copy of registration and medical certificate to be sent to superintendent.

48. A certified copy of every such registration and the original certificate of the medical officer shall be forthwith forwarded by the magistrate to the superintendent of emigration.

Fee for registration.

49. For the registration of every such native the recruiter shall pay to the registering officer a fee not exceeding one rupee and eight annas.

Similar provisions for natives recruited in Calcutta.

50. The provisions of the five preceding sections shall be applicable to all natives of India engaged by recruiters within the town of Calcutta, except that they shall be brought for registration before the superintendent of emigration therein.

Natives recruited in districts not in Bengal.

51. Every native of India who shall be brought or induced to come by any recruiter from any province or district not under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, for the purpose of entering into a contract in a district under such control, shall be presented by the recruiter for medical examination and registry under the provisions of this chapter at some place within the district under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor, into which he shall first come, or at Calcutta, if he shall first come there.

Penalty for forwarding natives without registration.

52. Every recruiter, who forwards or accompanies any native of India from the district or division of the district within which the place or town where he has been recruited, is situate, or into which, under the last preceding section, he has first come, or who induces any such native to leave such district or division of district for the purpose of proceeding to a labor district, without being duly registered as above required; or who forwards, accompanies, or induces any such native to proceed to any depôt other than the depôt registered under section 38, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished in respect of every such native so forwarded, accompanied, or induced, with a fine which may extend to fifty rupees, or with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term which may extend to one month.

Recruiter must accompany emigrants to depôt, or depute person approved by magistrate.

53. All emigrants proceeding to a depôt shall be accompanied throughout the journey by the recruiter himself, or by a competent person appointed by him with the approval of the magistrate, by whom such emigrants have been registered. The magistrate shall give to the person so appointed a certificate under his signature stating that he has been appointed for the journey to the depôt.

Recruiter must provide food and lodging for emigrants on journey.

54. Every recruiter, by whom any emigrant is forwarded or accompanied to a depôt, shall, throughout the journey, provide such emigrant with proper and sufficient food and lodging. If it shall appear to a magistrate, on the complaint of any such emigrant at any place on the journey, that the recruiter has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging at such place, such recruiter shall, on conviction by such magistrate, be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees. The whole or any portion of such fine may be awarded to such emigrant as compensation. If the fine be not paid within twenty-four hours, the recruiter shall be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to one month.

Chapter 6.—Depôt.

Contractor to report arrival of emigrants.

55. Within twenty-four hours after the arrival at any depôt of any emigrant, the contractor by whom such depôt is maintained shall give to the superintendent of emigration a notice in writing of such arrival, which notice shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the superintendent shall prescribe.

Emigrants to be inspected by medical inspector immediately on arrival.

56. The copy of the registration and the medical certificate of every emigrant received by the superintendent as provided in section 48 shall be shown to the medical inspector; and all emigrants shall be inspected by the medical inspector at the depôt. If he be satisfied that an emigrant is in a fit state of health, and able in point of physical condition to journey to and labor in a labor-district, he shall countersign the copy of the registration; if he be not satisfied thereof, he shall give a certificate to that effect to the superintendent.

Medical inspector to examine emigrant if medical certificate not given.

The medical inspector shall examine any emigrant in regard to whom a medical certificate is not forthcoming, and shall certify whether such emigrant is in his opinion in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to journey to and work for hire in a labor-district; and if satisfied of his fitness, he shall countersign the copy of the registration.

Emigrant rejected by medical inspector to be sent back.

57. If the medical inspector shall certify that any emigrant so examined is in such a state of health that his journey to a labor-district would be dangerous to himself or to others, or that he is unfit for labor in a labor-district, the superintendent may order the contractor, or the garden-sirdar, if such emigrant has been forwarded or brought to the depôt by a garden-sirdar, to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged. Provided that any such person, who from his state of health is, in the opinion of the medical inspector, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where he was engaged, shall, until he is reported by the medical inspector fit to undertake such journey, be fed, clothed, lodged, and medically attended at the expense of such contractor, or of such garden-sirdar, as the case may be. If such contractor or garden-sirdar negligently or wilfully omits to provide food, clothing, lodging and medical attendance for such person, the superintendent may order such contractor or garden-sirdar to pay to him a sum of money by way of compensation.

Family of detained emigrant may remain with him.

58. Whenever an emigrant remains behind or is detained under the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such emigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the emigrant so remaining behind or detained. If there are any children, they shall also be allowed to remain behind with the father or mother.

Emigrant ill-treated during journey may obtain compensation.

59. If upon the arrival of any emigrant at a depôt, it shall appear to the superintendent of emigration on the complaint of such emigrant, that he has suffered any ill treatment on the journey or that the recruiter or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, has failed to provide him with proper and sufficient food and lodging, the superintendent may cause him to be removed from the depôt, and may order the contractor or garden-sirdar, for or by whom he shall have been taken to such depôt, to pay to him a sum of money by way of compensation, or sufficient to enable him to return to the place at which he was engaged, and in such latter case he shall not be bound to execute any contract.

Contract to be explained by superintendent and executed in duplicate, and abstract to be entered in book to be kept by superintendent.

60. Every emigrant, who is passed by the medical inspector as in a fit state of health and able, in point of physical condition, to journey to and labor in a labor-district, shall execute a contract with the employer with whom he intends to contract before he is forwarded from the depôt. Such contract shall, in the presence of the superintendent of emigration, be signed in duplicate both by the emigrant and by the employer with whom he intends to contract or his agent. The contract may be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, and shall be on substantial paper. Before the emigrant signs the contract, the superintendent shall personally explain it to him, and shall attest such contract and certify at the foot thereof that he has personally explained the same. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered in a register to be kept by the superintendent for the purpose, and after such contract has been so entered, one of the duplicates shall be given to the emigrant, and the other to the person with whom he has contracted or his agent.

The superintendent shall, within seven days after the entry of such abstract, send by post a certified copy of every such abstract to the magistrate of the district in which the service under such contract is agreed to be performed.

Penalty on emigrant refusing to execute contract.

61. Any emigrant who, without reasonable cause, refuses to execute such contract in conformity with the engagement previously registered shall, on conviction by a Magistrate, be punished with a fine equal in amount to the entire cost incurred by, or on behalf of, the contractor, or the garden-sirdar, as the case may be, in engaging, registering, and bringing or forwarding him to the depôt, and shall forthwith be discharged from such depôt. Every fine levied under the provisions of this section shall be paid to the contractor or garden-sirdar on whose behalf or by whom the person from whom such fine shall have been levied was originally registered.

Penalty on contractor failing to provide contract.

62. If within thirty days after the arrival of any emigrant at a depôt, the contractor or, if he has been engaged by a garden-sirdar, the garden-sirdar on whose behalf or by whom such emigrant has been registered, shall not tender to him for execution such contract as under the provisions of the preceding sections he would be bound to execute, the superintendent may order the contractor or the garden-sirdar, as the case may be, to pay to him a sum of money sufficient to enable him to return to the place where he was engaged, and in such case such emigrant shall not be bound to execute any contract.

Money ordered to be paid by superintendent, may be advanced by him and recovered.

63. If any contractor or garden-sirdar who may be ordered, under the provisions of sections 57, 59, and 62, to pay any sum of money, shall for twenty-four hours omit to comply with such order, it shall be lawful for the superintendent to advance the amount so ordered to be paid to the person named in such order, and to recover from such contractor or garden-sirdar or his employer the sum so advanced, with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum from the date of such advance.

Chapter 7.—Transport.

Transport rules when applicable.

64. The provisions of this chapter excepting sections 70, 79, 80, 81, 82, and so much of section 97 as refers to sections 29, 31, 32, and 33, shall not apply to the transport of emigrants recruited by a garden-sirdar when the number of such emigrants does not exceed twenty, unless they have embarked under a pass from the embarkation agent in accordance with the provisions of section 34.

Emigrant to be forwarded to labor-district with permission of superintendent.

65. When the contract of any emigrant has been duly executed, he may, with the permission of the superintendent of emigration, be forwarded to the labor-district in which he has engaged to labor by the contractor in whose depôt he is residing, or by the employer with whom he has made the contract or his agent.

To be furnished with a pass.

Every such emigrant shall be furnished with a pass in the form set forth in schedule (E) annexed to this Act, signed by the contractor or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, and countersigned by the superintendent of emigration and by the embarkation agent at the place at which the laborer embarks, specifying his name and age, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer. Every such pass shall be entered in a book to be kept by the embarkation agent, and shall be dated and numbered in a consecutive series

Vessel must be licensed to carry emigrants.

66. It shall not be lawful for the master of any vessel, without a license granted by the embarkation agent within the local limits of whose authority any emigrant may embark, to convey more than twenty emigrants at any one time to or towards any labor-district; provided always that the number of persons (exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) carried by any vessel shall not exceed twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34.

Fee for license.

A fee not exceeding four annas for every emigrant shall be paid for every such license, and it shall be in the discretion of the embarkation agent to whom application is made to grant or withhold any such license. Such license shall be in force for only one voyage to one or more of the labor-districts, and shall specify the number of emigrants which the vessel is licensed to carry and the number of persons (including the crew) other than emigrants whom such vessel is licensed to carry.

Penalty for carrying without license.

The master of any vessel, in which at one time more than twenty emigrants are conveyed without a license having been obtained as aforesaid, or in which the number of persons on board (exclusive of the crew and of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) exceeds twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for delay in despatching vessel.

67. Such license shall state the date on which the vessel shall leave the place at which the emigrants are to embark. If the vessel does not leave such place and proceed on its voyage within 24 hours of the day fixed, the master thereof shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for each day during which the vessel remains at or within five miles of the place of embarkation. Provided that such penalty shall not be incurred if the delay is caused by or with the sanction of the embarkation agent or by any casualty incidental to or attending navigation, or is due to other reasonable and sufficient cause.

Fraudulent alteration of vessel after grant of certificate.

68. If the master of any vessel, after having obtained a license as aforesaid, fraudulently does or suffers to be done any act or thing whereby the state of the vessel is altered, so that such vessel is unfit for the accommodation of the number of emigrants mentioned in such license, such master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for receiving on board more passengers than number specified in license.

69. The master of any vessel licensed to carry emigrants, who receives on board his vessel a greater number of emigrants or other persons than the number specified in his license shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine for every emigrant or other person so received in excess of the licensed number.

Two children under ten to be counted as one person.

70. In computing under this Act the number of persons on board of any vessel, two children under the age of ten years shall be reckoned as one person only.

No emigrant to be received on board without pass.

71. The master of any vessel, whether licensed or not, shall not take on board any emigrant, if the number of such emigrants exceeds twenty, unless such emigrant, or some person accompanying him, shall show the pass prescribed by section 65 countersigned by the embarkation agent; or if the number of persons to be carried by such vessel (exclusive of the crew or of any garden-sirdar accompanying emigrants) exceeds twenty, unless the emigrants are furnished with a pass under the provisions of section 34. The master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with a fine not exceeding ten rupees for every emigrant illegally taken on board.

Embarkation agent to furnish the master with a list of emigrants on board.

72. The master of a licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall not proceed on the voyage towards a labor-district until he has received from the embarkation agent a list of all the emigrants on board.

List what to contain.

Such list shall contain all the particulars noted in the pass of each such emigrant; but if all the emigrants whose names are entered in any one pass embark on board the same vessel, it shall be sufficient if the number and date of such pass are noted in the list.

To be compared with emigrants by agent and master.

The embarkation agent and the master of the vessel shall together personally ascertain that the number of emigrants on board corresponds with the number entered in such list.

Penalty for admitting emigrants not in list.

If the master of such vessel allows any emigrant not entered in such list to proceed in the vessel, he shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Copy of list to be sent to magistrate.

The embarkation agent shall send a copy of the said list or an extract from it to the magistrate of the labor-district to which any of the emigrants are proceeding.

Provisions, medical and other stores, medical officers, cooks, &c.

73. There shall be laden under the supervision of the embarkation agent on board of any licensed vessel carrying emigrants to or towards any labor-district, at the time of the embarkation of such emigrants, such supplies of provisions, clothing, medical drugs, and other stores, and such medical and other officers, and such cooks and other attendants, as may be required under the rules made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act.

Penalty if master proceeds without.

The master of any such vessel who shall commence the voyage without having on board such supplies of provisions, clothing, medical drugs, and other stores, and such medical and other officers, and such cooks and other attendants, as may be required as aforesaid, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Vessel carrying 200 emigrants must carry a qualified medical officer.

74. No vessel carrying two hundred emigrants shall be allowed to proceed on the voyage unless a medical officer, who is a licentiate in medicine, or who is declared to be qualified for such charge by order of the Lieutenant-Governor, has been appointed to the charge of such emigrants. And any master who shall commence the voyage without having on board such medical officer as aforesaid shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months.

Emigrant not allowed finally to leave vessel at any place other than that mentioned in pass.

75. If the master of any licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall, save as hereinafter is provided, cause or permit any emigrant finally to leave such vessel at any place other than that named as the destination of such emigrant in his pass, such master shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for each such offence. Provided always that this section shall not be deemed to prevent the master of any vessel from permitting emigrants to disembark at any place or places on the voyage so long as such disembarkation is not intended or known to be likely to be final; nor to prevent the final disembarkation of any emigrants in case of accident or other unavoidable necessity, if such accident or necessity be forthwith reported to the embarkation agent by whom the license of such vessel was granted, and to the nearest magistrate in the district within which such accident may occur or necessity arise.

Master to report arrival of emigrants at every intermediate station where there is a magistrate.

76. Every licensed vessel carrying emigrants shall stop at every place in which a magistrate is stationed, intermediate between the places of embarkation and disembarkation of such emigrants, and shall remain during not less than six hours of daylight. The master of every such vessel shall immediately on arrival report to the magistrate, or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 94, the number of emigrants on board, the general state of their health, and the number of deaths (if any) which have occurred among the persons who embarked on such vessel.

Any master who wilfully omits to comply with the provisions of this section shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may at any time inspect vessel.

77. A magistrate may at any time go on board of any such licensed vessel carrying emigrants while within the limits of his jurisdiction, and may inspect the vessel, the emigrants, and all persons on board.

Master bound to give all information required.

The master and officers of such vessel shall be bound to afford to such magistrate all reasonable facility for such inspection, and to give him all such information respecting the emigrants or other persons on board as may be reasonably required, and respecting any deaths which may have occurred on board, and respecting any other facts which may affect the health of the emigrants.

Penalty for omission.

Any master or other officer, who wilfully omits to give any such information to such magistrate, shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may regulate communication between vessel and land.

78. On the arrival of such vessel, or at any time while it is within the limits of his jurisdiction, the magistrate may regulate the communication between such vessel and the land, and may prohibit all persons from leaving the vessel and all persons on land, from proceeding on board. And any person not complying with any order made under this section shall on conviction be punished with fine.

Magistrate may detain vessel for inspection and for removal of disease, and may detain sick emigrants.

79. A magistrate may, if he has reason to believe that any emigrants on board any vessel within the limits of his jurisdiction are or are likely to be affected with any infectious or contagious disease, detain such vessel, and require the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inspect the emigrants on board such vessel, and to report on their health, and whether any or what measures are requisite for the removal or prevention of such disease. After the submission of such report the magistrate may detain the vessel for a further period not exceeding five days for the purpose of carrying out such measures, if any, recommended by the medical officer in his report, and he may further detain at such station for medical treatment any emigrant who is affected with any infectious or contagious disease.

Magistrate may detain emigrants proceeding by land.

80. A magistrate may, if he has reason to believe that a party of emigrants proceeding by land within the limits of his jurisdiction are or are likely to be affected with any infectious or contagious disease, detain such party and require the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inspect the emigrants and to report on their health, and whether any and what measures are requisite for the removal or prevention of such disease, and the magistrate may further detain for medical treatment such party or such emigrants of the party as are affected with any infectious or contagious disease for such period as the medical officer may certify to be requisite.

Magistrate may detain sick emigrants,

and shall arrange for their accommodation and treatment.

81. If in any case whatever it appears to a magistrate expedient that any emigrant, in consequence of ill health, should not be allowed to proceed towards a labor district, he may order the detention of such emigrant; and in such case he shall cause all necessary arrangements to be made for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of such emigrant.

Expenses how to be recovered.

82. All expenses incurred under sections 79, 80, or 81, by a magistrate or other officer deputed by him under the provisions of section 93, in respect of any emigrant so detained shall, with interest at six per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the contractor by whom the emigrant has been engaged or forwarded; or in the case of an emigrant engaged by a garden-sirdar, from the employer from whom such garden-sirdar received his certificate.

Measures to be taken if excess number of emigrants is found on board.

83. If it appears to a magistrate making an inspection of any licensed vessel that the number of emigrants on board is larger than the number specified in the license, he may remove the excess number and detain them until another opportunity of forwarding them to their destination is found. The necessary expense of maintaining such emigrants, and of conveying them to their destination, shall be recoverable by such magistrate or other officer who may have been deputed as aforesaid from the master of such vessel.

Infraction of the Act and rules to be reported.

84. In any case in which, on making an inspection of a licensed vessel, a magistrate shall find that any of the provisions of this Act or of any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act have not been complied with, he shall report the same to the embarkation agent by whom the license to carry the emigrants was granted to such vessel;

Vessel may be detained.

and, if the circumstances of the case are such as in such magistrate's opinion make it necessary so to do, he may detain the vessel until the provisions of this Act, or any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor as aforesaid, have been complied with, so far as to make it possible for the voyage to be further prosecuted with safety and reasonable comfort to the emigrants.

On arrival of licensed vessel at the place of disembarkation, the master shall give information to the magistrate.

85. Whenever any licensed vessel carrying emigrants arrives at a civil station at which it is intended that any of such emigrants shall disembark, the master shall immediately give notice of the arrival to the magistrate or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 93, and shall forward to him at the same time the list furnished to him by the embarkation agent under the provisions of section 72, or a copy of so much of the said list as relates to the emigrants who are to disembark. The master shall not permit any such emigrants to leave the vessel without the order of the magistrate.

Magistrate shall send information to employer or agent,

Immediately on the receipt of such notice the magistrate shall send information of the arrival of the emigrants to the employers with whom they have contracted, or to the agents of such persons. And he shall at the same time direct the civil medical and direct medical inspection.

officer of the station, or other qualified medical officer, to go on board such vessel and to inspect such emigrants.

Report of medical inspection.

Such medical officer shall, without delay, make a careful inspection of all such emigrants; and, after making such inspection, shall prepare and sign a report, in which he shall certify the state of health and general condition of each emigrant so inspected.

Sick emigrants to be detained at station.

86. The magistrate shall detain at the station for medical treatment any emigrant who is, in the opinion of the medical officer, in such a state of health as to be unfit to proceed to the place at which he has contracted to labor. In such case he shall cause all necessary arrangements to be made for the accommodation, support, and medical treatment of such emigrant, and all expenses so incurred by the magistrate in respect of any emigrant so detained shall, with interest at six per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the employer with whom such emigrant has contracted.

87. The magistrate shall also ascertain whether reasonable provision has been made for the support and lodging of the emigrants from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination. If he is satisfied that such reasonable provision has been made, the employer with whom such emigrants have contracted or his agent shall forthwith take charge of such emigrants except those, if any, detained under the provisions of the last preceding section. But if such reasonable provision has not been made, or if the employer or his agent shall not be present at the place of disembarkation, the magistrate shall order such arrangements to be made, and incur such expenses as under the circumstances may seem to him necessary; and the amount of expenses so incurred by him in the disembarkation, or in respect of the food, lodging, medicines, hospital attendance, or clothing of the laborers, shall, with interest at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, be recoverable by him from the employer with whom such emigrants have contracted.

If necessary provision has been made for the support and lodging of the emigrants, they shall be made over to employer or agent.

If not made, or if employer or agent not present, magistrate to make arrangements;

expenses recoverable from employers.

88. If it is intended that the emigrants on board of any licensed vessel shall disembark at a place which is not a civil station, the master of such vessel shall report the arrival, as required in section 85, to the magistrate or such officer as may have been deputed by the magistrate in that behalf under the provisions of section 93, at the last civil station which such vessel shall pass before arriving at the said place of disembarkation, and shall not proceed on his voyage until the medical inspection of such emigrants has been made as provided in the said section. The master shall not permit any such emigrants to leave the vessel without the order of the magistrate. Immediately on the receipt of such notice, the magistrate shall send information of the arrival of the emigrants to the employers with whom they have contracted, or to the agents of such persons. When such inspection has been made, the magistrate shall, without delay, authorize the master to proceed on his voyage, provided that he may, if he thinks fit, detain any emigrant who is unfit to proceed under the provisions of section 81.

If emigrants are to disembark at a place other than a civil station, medical inspection to be made at the civil station last preceding.

89. On the arrival of any licensed vessel at a place of disembarkation which is not a civil station, the emigrants who are to disembark at such place shall, in case the employers with whom they have contracted to labor, or the agents of such persons, be present, be disembarked and given in charge to such employers or agents. Provided that in case the medical officer in charge of such emigrants, if there be any such medical officer, and if there be not, then the master of the vessel in which such emigrants have been conveyed, shall be of opinion that any of such emigrants are in such a state of health as to be unfit to proceed to the places where they have respectively contracted to labor, or that reasonable provision for the support and lodging of such emigrants from the time of their disembarkation till they reach their final destination has not been made, or in case the employers with whom such emigrants have contracted to labor, or the agents of such persons, shall not be present at the place of disembarkation, then and in every such case the emigrants so unfit to proceed, or for whose support reasonable provision has not been made, or whose employers may not be present personally or by their agents, shall be further conveyed in the vessel to the next civil station, and shall be there disembarked, and the place at which they shall be so disembarked shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be their place of disembarkation.

Disembarkation at such place.

If necessary provision not made, emigrants to be carried on to next station.

90. Whenever an emigrant is detained under the provisions of sections 81, 86, or 88, or is further conveyed under the provisions of section 89, it shall be optional with the wife or husband of such emigrant, as the case may be, to remain with the emigrant so detained, or to be taken forward along with the emigrant so further conveyed. If there are any children, they shall also be allowed to remain, or be taken forward with the father or mother.

Family of detained emigrant may remain with him.

91. Every medical officer who is required to make a report under the provisions of this chapter, shall submit such report to the magistrate, and shall enter therein the name and age of each emigrant, the name of his father, the place of his destination, and the name of his employer, as set forth in the list prepared by the embarkation agent under the provisions of section 72.

Particulars to be entered in the reports of medical officers.

92. The magistrate or other officer deputed by him under the provisions of section 93, shall make a detailed report to the superintendent of emigration, of the arrival of all emigrants carried in a licensed vessel, and of all proceedings taken and orders passed by him under the provisions of this chapter, and shall forward with such report a copy of every report made to him by a medical officer relating to emigrants proceeding to a labor-district. He shall also forward to the superintendent any observations which he or the medical officer may think fit to make in regard to the state of health and general condition of the emigrants. Whenever such reports or observations relate to emigrants carried in a licensed vessel, he shall forward them to the embarkation agent by whom such emigrants were despatched, and the agent shall transmit them to the superintendent with any remarks which he may desire to record.

Magistrate to report arrival of all emigrants, and all proceedings, to the superintendent of emigration;

in certain cases through the embarkation agent.

93. The magistrate of a district, or of a division of a district, may depute any subordinate magistrate to exercise the powers and authorities conferred, and perform the duties imposed on a magistrate under the provisions of sections 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 83, 84, 85, 86, 88, and 92.

Magistrate may depute a subordinate magistrate to discharge the functions of the magistrate.

94. Every master of a vessel, or medical officer in charge of emigrants on board of any vessel carrying emigrants, who shall wilfully and knowingly neglect or refuse to obey or to enforce on board of such vessel any rule which may from time to time be prescribed by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty, if master or medical officer neglects to enforce rules.

95. Any offence against any of the provisions of this chapter, or of any rule made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority of this Act, committed on board of any vessel, may be tried by any magistrate exercising jurisdiction in any place at which emigrants may have embarked on board such vessel, or may have disembarked from such vessel, or in any place in which such vessel may be detained under the provisions of this Act.

Jurisdiction, if offence created by this Act is committed on board.

96. Any emigrant who deserts while in transit from the district in which he has been registered to the district in which he has engaged to labor may, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, for a period which may extend to three months. Such offence may be inquired into and tried in the district in which such emigrant is apprehended, or in the district in which the desertion took place, or in the district in which he was registered.

Punishment of emigrant for desertion.

97. The provisions with regard to engaged natives of India and emigrants contained in sections 29, 31, 32, 33, 54, 57, 59, 73, 79, 80, 81, 84, 86, 87, and 88 of this Act, shall be applicable to such women, children, and aged relatives of such natives and emigrants as may, with the consent of a contractor, recruiter, or garden-sirdar, as the case may be, and with the written permission of the registering magistrate or superintendent, accompany them without having entered into an engagement.

Provisions of sections 29, 31, 32, 33, 54, 57, 59, 73, 79, 80, 81, 84, 86, 87, 88 to apply to children, &c., accompanying emigrants.

PART III.—LABOR DISTRICTS.

Chapter 8.—Inland Labor Transport Fund.

98. The Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time, by order published in the Calcutta Gazette, fix a yearly rate, not exceeding one rupee and eight annas per laborer, for the purpose of defraying the expense of carrying out the purposes of this Act; and the sum or rate so fixed shall be paid half-yearly by each employer on the last day of July and the last day of January in each year for each laborer entered in the last return of laborers furnished (as is hereinafter provided) by such employer before such date.

Annual rate payable by employers.

99. If any employer shall fail to comply with the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to notify such default to him; and if within one month from the receipt of such notification, or such longer period as it may, under special circumstances, appear to the magistrate reasonable, such employer shall not so comply, the magistrate shall, by distress and sale of any moveable property which may be found in the possession or under the charge of such employer, levy the sum so payable.

If there shall be no such moveable property, or insufficient moveable property so found, the amount shall be recoverable by a civil regular suit from the person for whose benefit the laborers in respect of whom the same may be payable shall have been employed. In every such suit the Government shall be named as plaintiff, and the cause of action shall be taken to have arisen within the limits of the jurisdiction of any court having jurisdiction at any place where any such laborers may have been employed by such employer.

Payment of rate how to be enforced.

100. Subject to the powers conferred on a magistrate by this Act or by the Code of Criminal Procedure, of awarding fines in whole or in part as compensation to or for the benefit of any complainant or other person, all fines, fees, and rates levied and paid under this Act shall be credited to a fund which shall be called the "Inland Labor Transport Fund," and such fund shall be at the disposal of the Lieutenant-Governor for defraying the expenses of carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Fines, fees, and rates to be credited to "Inland Labor Transport Fund."

Chapter 9.—Inspector's Returns and Magistrates' Inspections.

101. The Lieutenant-Governor may appoint in any labor district so many inspectors and assistant inspectors of laborers as he may think proper, and may define, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, the local limits within which each such inspector and assistant inspector shall exercise the powers and authorities conferred, and perform the duties imposed on him by this Act. Such inspectors and assistant inspectors may be by the said Lieutenant-Governor vested with all or any of the powers of a magistrate.

Appointment of inspectors and assistant inspectors.

102. The Lieutenant-Governor may authorize inspectors and assistant inspectors to entertain such establishment as he may think fit. An assistant inspector shall perform all such duties and exercise all such powers of an inspector as he is authorized in writing by the inspector to perform or exercise.

Establishment.

Duty of assistant inspector.

103. Every employer shall, on or before the last day of January and the last day of July in each and every year, make out in writing, and deliver to the inspector of laborers, a return of the number of all laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed by such employer on the last day of the preceding month, and return of the sickness and mortality among the laborers during the preceding six months.

Half-yearly report of laborers employed, of their state of health, and of mortality.

104. If any employer shall refuse or wilfully omit duly to send in any such return, or shall knowingly send in an incorrect return, such employer shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Penalty for omission to furnish such report or for submitting false report.

Periodical inspection of laborers to be made by inspector.

105. Every inspector of laborers shall once within each of such periods as may be fixed for such purpose by the Lieutenant-Governor, visit all lands within the limits of his authority on which there shall be employed any laborers, and inspect every hospital, tent, camp, or building in any way used by any such laborers, and investigate the condition of the laborers employed; and for such purpose the inspector may require that any laborer shall be brought before him with his contract, and may make such inquiries as may to him seem proper. Every such inspector shall keep books, in which from time to time shall be entered the number of laborers then under contract with each employer, the number who shall then be sick or missing, or who shall have complained of ill-treatment, the particulars of such complaints, and such other particulars regarding the laborers as the Lieutenant-Governor shall from time to time direct. Each inspector shall annually make a written report to the Lieutenant-Governor through the Commissioner of the division of the aforesaid particulars; and every such report, as regards the laborers under any particular employer, shall, at all reasonable times, be open to the inspection of such employer or any person by him appointed in writing in that behalf, and the person so inspecting shall be entitled to take a copy of the report so far as it relates to such laborers.

Books to be kept by inspector.

Annual report.

Such report open to inspection by employer.

Magistrate may at any time inspect laborers' buildings used by them, &c.

106. It shall be lawful for any magistrate exercising jurisdiction in the district, or any person authorized by him in writing in that behalf, at any time to enter and inspect any hospital, tent, camp, or building, wholly or partially used by or for laborers, and to require that any laborer shall be brought before him with his contract, and to make any inquiries which he may think proper touching the condition or treatment of any laborer.

Penalty for obstructing inspection or inquiry.

If any employer, or other person acting for or under such employer, wilfully obstructs or impedes any entry, inspection, or inquiry, made under either of the two preceding sections, such employer or other person as aforesaid shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for each such offence.

Chapter 10.—Regulation of Labor.

Schedule of daily tasks to be framed.

107. Every employer shall from time to time, with the sanction of the inspector previously obtained, fix the daily tasks to be executed by the laborers employed by such employer, and shall frame a schedule of such daily tasks, and publish the same by posting a copy thereof in the Bengali language upon the door of each place of payment of the laborers employed by such employer, and by sending a copy thereof in the English language to the inspector.

Maximum amount of labor.

108. No laborer shall be bound to work under his contract more than six days in one week, or more than six hours consecutively, or more than nine hours on any one day.

Inspector may submit schedule to a committee.

109. If at any time the inspector considers such schedule of daily tasks or any part thereof to be unreasonable, he shall refer the consideration of such schedule to a committee consisting of the inspector, of some employer to be nominated by him, and of some person to be nominated by the employer whose schedule is to be considered, or on his default by the inspector.

Committee to revise schedule.

110. In case the said committee or the majority in number thereof are of opinion that the daily tasks in such schedule contained, or any of them, unreasonable, they shall modify and reduce such daily tasks in such manner as they shall deem reasonable, and such schedule so modified shall be published in manner aforesaid, and every schedule published as aforesaid shall have effect as between the employer and laborers in substitution for any former schedule.

Chapter 11.—Incapacity for Labor.

Inspector may suspend contract of any laborer temporarily unfitted for labor.

111. It shall be lawful for the inspector of laborers within the local limits of whose authority any laborer may be employed, to suspend, for such period as he shall consider advisable, the contract of such laborer, or any particular term thereof, if such laborer shall be, in the judgment of such inspector, temporarily unfitted for the performance thereof by reason of sickness, pregnancy, or other sufficient cause. Provided that every such suspension shall be endorsed by the inspector on the contract. Provided also that every such laborer shall, during such incapacity, receive such subsistence money from his employer as shall be considered sufficient by the inspector, and that the time during which the suspension continues shall not be reckoned as part of the term for which the laborer is bound to serve.

Penalty for compelling laborer to perform work for which he is unfit.

112. If it shall be found that any laborer has been compelled to perform any species of labor for which he was at the time unfit, the employer by whom he was so employed shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Discharge of laborers permanently incapacitated.

113. If, in the opinion of the inspector of laborers, any laborer shall be permanently incapacitated for the performance of his contract or any material part thereof, the inspector shall certify to that effect in writing, and deliver such certificate to the employer of such laborer or some one on his behalf, and from the date of such certificate the contract of such laborer shall wholly cease and determine. The inspector shall make a return of all such cases of determination of contract in his report under section 105. Every laborer whose contract shall have been determined as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive from his employer such sum, not exceeding three months' wages, as the inspector may award, and such sum shall be recoverable before a magistrate in the manner hereinafter provided for the recovery of wages.

Chapter 12.—Necessary Provision for Laborers.

Sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, and sanitary arrangements to be provided.

114. Whenever any laborers shall be employed in any labor district, the employer of such laborers shall be bound to provide for them sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and rice.

Hospital, medicines, &c., to be provided.

115. Every employer shall be bound to provide for his laborers such sufficient hospital accommodation, and such medicines of such quality and description, and according to such scale, as shall from time to time be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor; and if three hundred or more laborers shall be employed by any employer, it shall be the duty of such employer to place in medical charge of such laborers a medical officer holding a medical diploma as licentiate in medicine, from some Indian or European collegiate institution authorized to grant diplomas, or an officer for the time being licensed by the local Government to act in such medical charge of laborers.

Inquiry whether employer has failed to provide as required by the rules.

116. It shall be lawful for any inspector or assistant inspector who is himself a magistrate, to institute within his jurisdiction, on the lands in charge of any employer, or at some place within his jurisdiction not more than ten miles distant from such lands, an inquiry whether such employer has provided for his laborers sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice. On the complaint of any inspector or assistant inspector a similar inquiry may be made by a magistrate.

Punishment for gross neglect as to house accommodation, &c., and for wilfully omitting to comply with the order of the magistrate in such respect.

117. If the employer is convicted of gross neglect in not having provided sufficient and proper house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice, such employer shall be punished with a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees. In any case where a magistrate shall find that proper or sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, or rice, has not been provided, he may order the employer to provide such proper and sufficient house accommodation, water-supply, sanitary arrangements, and rice. If the employer wilfully omits to comply with such order, he shall, on conviction, be punished with a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees a day for every day that such omission continues. In default of payment by the employer of the last mentioned fine, the person on whose account such employer has been acting shall be liable to pay the fine.

Penalty for failure to provide hospital accommodation, &c.

118. Wherever such sufficient hospital accommodation or such medicines of such quality and description, and according to such scale, or such medical officer as aforesaid, shall not have been provided, the employer or other person through whose wilful default the same shall not have been provided shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine for every week during which any such default continues.

Chapter 13.—Localities unfit for the Residence of Laborers.

Inspector to report.

119. If an inspector of laborers shall at any time have reason to believe that any estate or portion of an estate situated within the limits of his jurisdiction is by reason of climate, situation, or condition unfit for the residence of laborers, he shall give notice in writing of his opinion to the magistrate of the district, and such magistrate shall forthwith summon a committee to inquire into the fitness of such estate or portion thereof for the residence of laborers. Such committee shall consist of the magistrate, the inspector of laborers, the medical officer of the district, and one or more employers of laborers, when such persons are available. If the magistrate is unable to procure the service on such committee of any employer of laborers he may, with the sanction of the commissioner of the division, appoint one or more persons whom he may deem qualified.

Magistrate to summon committee.

Proceedings of committee.

Such committee shall proceed, with as little delay as possible, to inquire into the healthiness of the estate or portion thereof to which the order appointing the committee has reference, and shall hear such information on the subject as the owner of the estate, or the employer or inspector, may desire to place before it; and if such committee, or the major part in number thereof, shall be of opinion that such estate or any portion thereof be unfit for the residence of laborers, it shall record a finding to that effect; and the contract of every laborer who shall have contracted to serve on such estate shall thereupon be void as regards such estate or portion of estate as may be found unfit for the residence of laborers.

If committee finds unfit, contract to be void as regards such locality.

Proviso as regards other localities.

Provided that every such contract shall continue valid with regard to any other portion of such estate or to any other estate of the same employer in the same district.

Lieutenant-Governor how to proceed if mortality in past year exceeds 7 per cent., or if the average of 3 years exceeds 5 per cent.

120. If it shall at any time appear that the number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) who have died on any estate or portion of an estate during the preceding twelve months, bears a larger proportion to the whole number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed thereon during such period than 7 per centum, or if the average annual number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) who have died on such estate or portion thereof during the preceding three years bears a larger proportion to the whole number of laborers (as well laborers defined by this Act as others) employed thereon during such period than 7 per centum, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to direct the civil medical officer of the district or other qualified medical officer to inquire into and report on the following matters :—

Matters to be inquired into.

(1) The cause or causes of such mortality.

(2) The want (if any) of due care or precaution and of the adoption of proper and available sanitary measures, on the part of the owner of such estate or portion thereof or the employer, causing or contributing to such mortality.

(3) The fitness or otherwise of such estate or portion thereof for the residence of laborers and the reasons thereof.

Such medical officer shall proceed with as little delay as possible, and shall hear and record such information on the subject of the several matters aforesaid as the owner of such estate or portion thereof, or the employer, or inspector may desire to place before him, and shall visit and inspect such estate or portion thereof, and shall make his report expressing the reasons of his opinion and transmit the same with the recorded information and notes of his inspection of such estate or portion thereof to the Lieutenant-Governor.

Medical officer to report.

If the Lieutenant-Governor, after perusal and consideration of the said report, information, and notes, shall be of opinion that such mortality was caused by the want of due care or precaution and of the adoption of proper and available sanitary measures on the part of the owner of such estate or the employer, and that such estate or portion thereof is unfit for the residence of laborers by reason of the want of due care or precaution, and of the adoption of proper and available sanitary measures on the part of the owner of such estate or portion thereof or the employer, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor to declare in writing that such estate or portion thereof is unfit for the residence of laborers. Such declaration of the Lieutenant-Governor shall have the same effect as the finding of a committee under the last preceding section

Lieutenant-Governor may declare estate unfit for residence.

Contracts to be void as regards that estate

121. Every employer who shall cause or permit any laborer to reside upon any such estate or portion of an estate as under the provisions of either of the two preceding sections may have been found to be unfit for the residence of laborers, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine. Provided always that in case it shall appear to the inspector that any such estate, or portion of an estate, or any part of such portion, has become fit for the residence of laborers, he shall, with the sanction of the magistrate of the district, give under his hand a certificate of such fitness, and no employer shall be liable to fine by reason of his causing or permitting laborers to reside in any place respecting which such certificate of fitness shall have been given

Penalty on employer permitting laborer to reside in locality declared to be unfit.

Chapter 14.—Offences committed by Laborers.

122. Any laborer, who shall absent himself from his labor without sufficient cause, may, on conviction by a magistrate, be sentenced to lose all claims to wages or allowances during the period of such absence, and also to forfeit to his employer a sum not exceeding four annas for each day during which such absence shall be continued ; and in case such absence shall have exceeded seven days, or in case such laborer shall have been already convicted of the same offence within a period of three months, such laborer shall be furthermore sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for fourteen days.

Penalty on laborer for absenting himself without sufficient cause.

123. If any laborer deserts or attempts to desert from his employer's service, such employer or any other person acting in his behalf may, without first procuring a warrant, and without the assistance of any police officer (who, nevertheless, shall be bound to give such assistance if called upon to do so), apprehend such laborer wherever he may be found Provided, nevertheless, that if such laborer be found in the service of another employer, he shall not be arrested without a warrant. Provided also that such employer or other person shall without delay give the said laborer in charge at the nearest police station, and there enter the charge upon which he shall have apprehended such laborer.

Deserting may be apprehended without warrant

Any laborer so given in charge shall be conveyed, without delay, to the nearest magistrate; and, if the place from which such laborer is charged with having deserted, be within the jurisdiction of such magistrate, he shall himself adjudicate upon the charge; but if not, he shall forward the said laborer, under custody, to the magistrate within whose jurisdiction such place may be situated, who shall adjudicate upon such charge.

To be taken to nearest magistrate

Every laborer who deserts from his employer's service shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with rigorous imprisonment which may extend to one month; and every laborer, who after having been convicted of desertion, shall again desert from his employer's service, shall, on conviction as aforesaid, be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a period which may extend to two months; and every laborer who, after having been twice convicted of desertion shall again desert shall, on conviction as aforesaid, be punished with imprisonment, simple or rigorous, which may extend to three months.

Punishment.

124. On the expiry of any sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, save as is provided in section 125, it shall be the duty of the magistrate to make over such laborer to any person appointed on the part of his employer to receive charge of him; and no conviction under this Act, or imprisonment under such conviction, shall, save as is provided in section 125, be held to operate as a release to any laborer from the terms of his contract. Provided, nevertheless, that the period of imprisonment shall in no case be prolonged by reason of their being no person present on the part of the employer to take charge of the laborer at the expiry to his sentence; but such laborer shall in that case be sent to the principal place of business of such employer, and the expense of such conveyance shall be levied from the employer in the manner provided in section 99.

Conviction not to operate as a release.

Cancellation of contract by desertion.

125. Whenever any laborer shall have actually suffered imprisonment amounting in the whole to six months for desertion from his employer's service, it shall be lawful for the inspector, and he is hereby required, to cancel the contract of such laborer, and every such cancellation shall be certified by the inspector on the back of the contract.

Portion of sentence may be cancelled on application of employer.

126. The employer, or any person authorized to act for the employer, of any laborer imprisoned for any offence under this Act, may apply to a magistrate, at any time previous to the expiry of such sentence, that such laborer be made over to him for the purpose of completing his contract; and such magistrate may, if he see good cause, make over or forward such laborer to his employer; and in that case such magistrate shall cancel the remainder of the sentence passed on him, and shall endorse on the contract of such laborer a memorandum signed by him of such cancellation.

Expense of restoring deserting laborer to be paid by employer.

127. Every employer who obtains an order for the return or forwarding of any laborer who has deserted, shall pay the expense incurred in such return or forwarding, and shall, before the order is issued, deposit with the magistrate such sum as such magistrate may in his discretion deem to be sufficient for defraying the expense of such return or forwarding.

Time of unlawful absence or imprisonment to be excluded from contract period.

128. The duration of every unlawful absence from labor, of which any laborer may be convicted, and every sentence of imprisonment for any offence under this Act, shall be endorsed on the contract, at the time of its being passed, by the officer passing it; and no such period of imprisonment or unlawful absence so endorsed shall be reckoned as part of the term for which the laborer is bound to serve, but such term shall extend to such further period as shall be equivalent to the aggregate amount of the imprisonment and unlawful absence so endorsed.

Other person enticing away, harbouring, or employing laborer under contract.

129. Any person who knowingly and wilfully entices away, harbours, or employs, or attempts to entice from his employment, any laborer, before such laborer shall have been lawfully released from his contract, shall on conviction by a magistrate be punished with fine, the whole or any portion of which may be awarded to the employer of such laborer.

Chapter 15.—Complaints made by Laborers.

Employer to give notice to inspector if laborer wishes to complain of personal ill-usage or breach of contract.

130. If any laborer states to his employer, or to any person acting for such employer, that he desires to make a complaint to the inspector of laborers of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act on the part of such employer or other person, the person to whom such statement is made shall, within forty-eight hours, send notice thereof in writing to the inspector, and in default of so doing, such person shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Inspector how to proceed on receipt of notice, or if complaint is made to him, or if he has reason to believe that there is ground for a complaint.

131. Whenever any inspector of laborers receives such notice in writing as aforesaid, or whenever any complaint of personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid, is made to him by any laborer against his employer or any person acting for such employer, or whenever the inspector has other reasonable grounds for believing that any such personal ill-usage or breach of any provision of this Act as aforesaid has been suffered by a laborer, such inspector shall forthwith, if the place in which such offence has been committed is not situated within the limits of his own authority, give notice thereof in writing to the inspector within the limits of whose authority such place is situated; and if such place be situated within the limits of his own authority, then such inspector shall, so soon as conveniently may be, proceed to some place not more than ten miles from the principal place of business of such employer, and make full inquiry into the matter complained of.

Procedure.

Penalty for obstructing service of, or disobedience to, summons.

132. For the purposes of such inquiry the inspector may summon such laborer and any witnesses. If any employer, or other person acting for or under such employer, in any way wilfully obstructs the service of, or obedience to, such summons; or if the laborer or any witness summoned intentionally omits to attend as required in such summons, he shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

If complaint is untrue or frivolous.

133. If, upon such inquiry made on the complaint of a laborer, the inspector is of opinion that the complaint is untrue or frivolous, he shall enter in his book the particulars of such complaint, and a short statement of the grounds of his opinion respecting it, and shall dismiss the complaint, and in such case shall endorse on the employer's copy of the contract of such complainant the number of days during which such complainant has been absent from work in consequence of such inquiry, and such number of days shall be added to the period of the contract of such complainant.

If complaint is well founded.

134. If, upon inquiry as aforesaid, the inspector is of opinion that the complaint is well-founded, he shall, if himself a magistrate, dispose of the case according to due course of law. If the inspector shall not be a magistrate, he shall without delay send the complainant and his witnesses to the nearest magistrate, and such magistrate shall thereupon dispose of the case according to due course of law.

Recovery of arrears of wages.

Compensation may be given if arrear is for two months.

135. If, upon the complaint of any laborer, it is proved to the satisfaction of a magistrate that the wages of such laborer are in arrear for two months, it shall be lawful for the magistrate to award to such laborer the amount which shall appear to be then due to him; and also, by way of compensation, such further sum, not exceeding that amount, as shall appear to such magistrate to be just; and in case of default, the magistrate shall levy the entire sum by distress and sale of any moveable property which may be found in the possession or under the charge of such employer.

Contract may be declared cancelled, if employer is convicted of maltreatment by session court, or twice by magistrate;

136. If any employer, or any person placed in authority over any laborer by such employer, shall be convicted of any offence causing injury to the person or property of such laborer triable under the Code of Criminal Procedure by the court of session; or if any such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall be twice convicted of any such offence against such laborer triable under the said Code by a magistrate;

or if wages are in arrear for four months;

or if it shall be proved before a magistrate that the wages of such laborer are in arrear to an amount exceeding the total of such laborer's wages for four months; or if a magistrate shall, on the report of the inspector and after due inquiry, upon oath, in the presence of the parties, be satisfied that any laborer has been compelled to perform any labor while he was unfit for it, or has been subjected to ill-usage by such employer, or if ill-usage is proved.

or any other person placed in authority over the laborer by such employer; it shall be lawful for the magistrate, if he think fit, on the application of the laborer, in each of such cases, to cancel the contract of such laborer, and award to him compensation not exceeding thirty rupees, and every such cancelment shall be certified by the magistrate on the back of such contract.

Chapter 16.—Determination of Contract.

Laborer may appear before the inspector to register completion of contract.

137. Every laborer who has completed the term of his contract shall be forthwith entitled to appear before the inspector or assistant inspector in order that the completion of his contract may be registered.

Penalty if employer detains, or omits to report.

If an employer detains such laborer after the completion of his contract, or fails to give notice of such completion to the inspector within one month after the date of such completion, such employer shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Power to redeem contract.

138. If any laborer is able and desirous to redeem the unexpired term of his contract of service by payment of a sum equivalent to the value thereof, such laborer may demand to be taken or allowed to go before the inspector of laborers within the local limits of whose authority he may be employed, and on his depositing such sum in the hands of such inspector, such inspector shall give notice to the employer that such laborer requires him within one week to show cause why the contract of such laborer should not be released; and, in case no sufficient cause should be shown, such inspector shall require the production of the contract of such laborer, and endorse thereon a certificate of release by purchase, and shall hold the sum in deposit on account of the employer of such laborer. If any employer, or other person authorized to act for the employer, shall neglect to comply with such demand as aforesaid, such employer, or other person as aforesaid, shall, on conviction by a magistrate, be punished with fine.

Value of unexpired term of contract.

The value of the unexpired term of contract shall be deemed to be the aggregate amount of one rupee for every month of the unexpired portion of the first year, of three rupees for every such month of the second year, and of five rupees for every such month of the third year, of the original term of the laborer's engagement.

Certificate to be given of determination of contract.

139. Every laborer the period of whose contract has expired, or whose contract has been rescinded by the mutual consent of the parties thereto, or whose contract has been cancelled or redeemed under the provisions of this Act, shall be entitled to receive forthwith from the inspector a certificate of release in the form set forth in Schedule (F) annexed to this Act.

PART VI.

Bills of the Legislative Council of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following further report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as now settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th September 1873:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to appeals to the Privy Council from decrees of the Civil Courts, have considered the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honor to present this further report.

Minute by the Hon'ble A. Hobhouse, dated 5th September 1872.
From Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, No. 104, dated 16th September 1872, and enclosures.
From Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, No. 119, dated 13th November 1872, and enclosure.
From Chief Secretary to Government of Bombay, No. 2821, dated 20th May 1873, and enclosure.
Office Memorandum, Home Department, No. 1309, dated 13th August 1873, and enclosures.

We have provided in clause 5 that, when the decree appealed from affirms the decision of the Court immediately below, the appeal must involve some substantial question of law. This will limit the number of appeals in cases where there have been concurrent judgments on questions of fact.

The question as to whether the Court admitting an appeal under the proposed Act should have power to allow a decree to be executed without demanding security, notwithstanding the pendency of the appeal, must, we think, be answered in the affirmative. We are further of opinion that stay of execution ought to be the exception and not the rule, and that it is by no means a matter of course to take security from the respondent.

We have, therefore, struck out clause 17 of the Bill as re-amended in September 1872, and we have altered what was then clause 16 so as to enable the Court (a) to let the decree take its course, or (b) to take security from the respondent for the performance of the order of the Privy Council, and meanwhile permit him to enjoy the fruits of decree appealed against, or (c) to take like security from the appellant, and meanwhile to stay execution of the decree appealed from, or (d) to give any other direction that it thinks fit respecting the subject-matter of the appeal.

As the law stands, no time is limited for applying for execution of a decree or order of Her Majesty in Council. This is not reasonable, and may prove very inconvenient. The object of the appeal to the Crown is to correct the errors of inferior Courts, not to give unlimited, or more extended time to the parties for inforcing their rights. We have accordingly, in clause twenty, by adding six words to No. 169 of the second schedule annexed to the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, provided a period of twelve years, the same period as is fixed in the case of applications to enforce decrees of High Courts in the exercise of their Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction.

We have struck out the clause amending a portion of Bombay Regulation XIX of 1827, for that portion has been repealed by Act XII of 1873.

We have made one or two verbal alterations; and we think that the Bill as now amended might be passed. But as the Privy Council have expressed a desire to see the Bill, which now makes substantial alterations in the law, we recommended that its passage be postponed, and that in the meanwhile the Bill and this report be published in the Gazette of India and sent Home for submission to the Judicial Committee.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to appeals to the Privy Council from decrees of the Civil Courts.

[AS RE-AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE IN SEPTEMBER 1873.]

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law regulating the admission of appeals to Her Majesty in Council from certain judgments, decrees, and orders, of the Civil Courts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Privy Council Appeals Act, 1873."

Extent.

It extends to the whole of British India; but it does not apply to any matter of criminal, or admiralty, or vice-admiralty jurisdiction; nor to appeals from orders and decrees of Prize-courts.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, the expression "decree" includes also judgment and order.

II.—ADMISSION OF APPEALS.

When appeals lie to Queen in Council.

4. Subject to such rules as may, from time to time, be made by Her Majesty in Council regarding appeals from the Courts of British India, and to the provisions hereinafter contained—an appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council,

(a) from any final decree passed on appeal by a High Court or other Court of final appellate jurisdiction,

(b) from any final decree passed by a High Court in the exercise of original civil jurisdiction, and (c) from any decree, when the case, as hereinafter provided, is declared to be a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

Value of subject-matter.

5. In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of section four, the amount of value of the subject-matter of the suit in the Court of first instance must be ten thousand rupees or upwards, or the decree must involve, directly or indirectly, some claim or question to, or respecting, property of like amount or value, and where the decree appealed from affirms the decision of the Court immediately below the Court passing such decree, the appeal must involve some substantial question of law.

Bar of certain appeals.

6. Notwithstanding anything contained in section four,— no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from the judgment of one Judge of a High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter one hundred and four, or of one Judge of a Division Court, or of two or more Judges of such High Court, or of a Division Court constituted by two or more Judges of such High Court, wherever such Judges are equally divided in opinion, and do not amount in number to a majority of the whole of the Judges of the High Court at the time being; and no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from any decree which, under Act No. XXIII of 1861, section twenty-seven, is final.

Application to Court whose decree is complained of.

7. Whoever desires to appeal under this Act to Her Majesty in Council must apply by petition to the Court whose decree is complained of.

Time within which application must be made.

8. Such application must ordinarily be made within six months from the date of such decree.

But if that period expires when the Court is closed, the application may be made on the day that the Court re-opens.

Certificate as to value or fitness.

9. Every petition under section seven must state the causes of appeal, and pray for a certificate either that as regards amount, or value and nature, the case fulfils the requirements of section five, or that it is otherwise a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

Upon receipt of such petition, the Court may direct notice to be served on the opposite party to show cause why the said certificate should not be granted.

Refusal of certificate.

10. If such certificate be refused, the petition shall be dismissed:

Provided that if the decree complained of be a final decree passed by a Court other than a High Court, the order refusing the certificate shall be appealable within thirty days from the date of the order, to the High Court to which the former Court is subordinate.

Security and deposit required on grant of certificates.

11. If the certificate be granted, the applicant shall, within six months from the date of the decree complained of, or within six weeks from the grant of the certificate, whichever is the later date,

(a) give security for the costs of the respondent, and

(b) deposit the amount required to defray the expense of translating, transcribing, printing, indexing, and transmitting to Her Majesty in Council a correct copy of the whole record of the suit, except

(1) formal documents directed to be excluded by any order of Her Majesty in Council in force for the time being;

(2) papers which the parties agree to exclude; and

(3) accounts, or portions of accounts, which the officer empowered by the Court for that purpose considers unnecessary, and which the parties have not specifically asked to be included.

Admission of appeal and procedure thereon.

12. When such security has been given and deposit made to the satisfaction of the Court, the Court shall

(a) declare the appeal admitted,

(b) give notice thereof to the appellant and respondent, respectively,

(c) transmit to Her Majesty in Council, under the seal of the Court, a correct copy of the said record, except as aforesaid,

(d) give to either party one or more authenticated copies of any of the papers in the suit on his applying therefor, and paying the reasonable expenses incurred in preparing them, and

(e) give to either party an authenticated copy of any local Regulation, Act or Ordinance which he may require in the appeal.

Revocation of acceptance of security.

13. At any time before the admission of the appeal, the Court may, upon cause shown, revoke the acceptance of any such security, and make further directions thereon.

Power to order further security or payment.

14. If at any time after the admission of the appeal, but before the transmission of the record, except as aforesaid, to Her Majesty in Council, such security appears inadequate, or further payment is required for the purpose of translating, transcribing, printing, indexing, or transmitting the record, except as aforesaid, the Court may order the appellant to furnish, within a time to be fixed by the Court, other and sufficient security, or to make, within like time, the required payment.

Failure to comply with order.

15. If the appellant fail to comply with such order, the proceedings shall be stayed, and the appeal shall not proceed without an order in this behalf of Her Majesty in Council, and in the meantime execution of the judgment, decree or order appealed against shall not be stayed.

Refund of balance of deposit.

16. When the record, except as aforesaid, has been transmitted to Her Majesty in Council, the appellant may obtain a refund of the balance, if any, of the amount which he has deposited under section eleven.

III.—Proceedings pending Appeals.

Powers of Court pending appeal.

17. Notwithstanding the admission of any appeal under this Act, the decree appealed against shall be unconditionally enforced unless the Court admitting the appeal otherwise directs.

But the Court may, if it think fit, on any special clause, to be shown by any party interested in the suit, or otherwise appearing to the Court —

(a) impound the property in dispute, or any part thereof, or

(b) allow the decree appealed against to be enforced, taking such security from the respondent as the Court thinks fit for the due performance of any decree which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(c) stay the execution of the decree appealed against, taking such security from the appellant as the Court think fit for the due performance of the decree appealed against, or of any decree which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(d) place any party seeking the assistance of the Court under such conditions, or give such other direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal, as it thinks fit.

Increase of security found inadequate

18. If at any time during the pendency of the appeal the security so furnished by either party appears inadequate, the Court may on the application of the other party, require further security.

In default of such further security being furnished as required by the Court, if the original security was furnished by the appellant, the Court may, on application of the respondent, issue execution of the decree appealed against as if the appellant had furnished no such security.

And if the original security was furnished by the respondent, the Court shall, so far as may be practicable, stay all further execution of the decree, and restore the parties to the position in which they respectively were when the security which appears inadequate was furnished.

IV.—EXECUTION OF DECREES OF HER MAJESTY IN COUNCIL

Certified decrees of Queen in Council to be executed.

19. The decrees of Her Majesty in Council when duly certified shall be enforced and executed, subject to the directions of the High Court or other Court as aforesaid, by the Court by which the suit was originally tried, and in the manner and according to the rules applicable to the execution of its original decrees.

Amendment of Act IX of 1871, schedule II, No 169

20. To the first column of No. 169 of the second schedule annexed to the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, the following words shall be added (that is to say), "or of Her Majesty in Council."

Petition for execution.

21. Whoever desires to enforce or obtain the execution of any such decree of Her Majesty in Council, shall present an application to the Court which made the first decree appealed from, and the said application shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the decree made in appeal and sought to be enforced or executed.

Appeal against orders relating to execution.

22. An appeal shall lie from any decree made by such last-mentioned Court relating to the enforcement or execution of any such decree of Her Majesty in Council, in the same manner and subject to the same rules as an appeal from a decree made upon an application for the enforcement or execution of the decree first appealed from.

V.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Power to make rules.

23. The High Court may, from time to time, make general rules consistent with this Act to regulate—

(a) the service of notices under section nine,

(b) the grant of refusal of certificates, under sections ten and eleven, by Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate to the High Court,

(c) the amount and nature of the security required under sections eleven, fourteen and eighteen,

(d) the testing of such security,

(e) the estimate of the cost of transcribing the record,

(f) the preparation, examination, and certifying of such transcript,

(g) the revision and authentication of translations,

(h) the preparation of indices to transcripts of records and of lists of the papers not included therein, and all other matters connected with the enforcement of this Act.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law in the High Court and the Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate thereto.

Rules heretofore made.

All rules heretofore made and published by any High Court relating to appeals to Her Majesty in Council and in force immediately before the passing of this Act, shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made and published hereunder.

Recorder of Rangoon.

24. In sections four, nineteen, and twenty-three, the expression 'High Court' shall be deemed to include also the Recorder of Rangoon, but not so as to empower him to make rules binding on Courts other than his own Court.

Construction of Bengal Regulation III of 1828, sec. 4, clause 5.

25. The rules and restrictions referred to in Bengal Regulation III of 1828, section four, clause five, shall be deemed to be the rules and restrictions applicable to appeals under this Act from the decisions of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Saving of Her Majesty's pleasure,

26. Nothing herein contained shall be understood—

(a) to bar the full and unqualified exercise of Her Majesty's pleasure in receiving or rejecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council, or otherwise howsoever, or and of the rules for the conduct of business before the Judicial Committee.

(b) to interfere with any rules for the time being in force for the presentation of appeals to Her Majesty in Council, or their conduct before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

EMBANKMENTS AND WATER-COURSES.

The adjourned debate on the Bill to amend the law relating to embankments and water-courses was resumed.

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said it was understood at the last meeting of the Council that the Bill in the form in which it was then accepted would be early printed and circulated to the Members, so that if any objections were taken to the amendments then introduced, they might be submitted to the Council and brought up for discussion at the present meeting. He was happy to say that no amendments had been proposed in regard to the alterations made at the last meeting, although there still remained the amendments brought forward on a former occasion by the Hon'ble Member opposite (Babu Digumber Mitter). With regard therefore to the amendments made at the last meeting it was unnecessary further to discuss them. He would, however, ask the attention of the Council to a few amendments of which notice had been given on the Bill as printed since the last meeting.

The first of these amendments was in section 5, and proposed to omit the words "there shall be appended thereto a copy of" in lines 13 and 14, and insert after the word "aforesaid" in line 16 "shall be kept at the office of the Collector, and shall be open to the inspection of any interested person."

That provision enacted that with every proclamation made under that section there should be sent copies of the plans, specifications, and estimates and a copy of the survey map. As these proclamations and copies had to be made and proclaimed in the manner provided in the third clause of section 56, that was to say on the proprietor and at the mál cutchery of every estate affected by the proposal, it would be utterly impossible to send with these numerous proclamations, copies of the plans, specifications, estimates and survey map. Therefore what was now proposed was that the Collector should be bound to keep these copies in the Collectorate open for the inspection of all interested. This would be sufficient to enable parties interested to know what was proposed to be done.

THE HON'BLE RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE said he would much rather allow section 5 to stand as it was. He thought it necessary that landholders and others interested should have sufficient time and full opportunity to examine the estimates and specifications as well as to consider the details; that could not be done by a casual inspection of these papers by some agent. It must be considered that as the zemindars and other landholders would have to meet the expenditure, it would be but fair that they should have the opportunity of thoroughly considering the nature of the works proposed. If the Hon'ble Member, however, pressed the amendment, Rajah Jotcendro Mohun Tagore would say that the following words should be added:—"Provided that each interested person shall be furnished with copies of the same free of charge on application made on plain paper."

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH observed that the objection of the Hon'ble Member would be met if we added the words "who shall be allowed to take copies thereof:" in the one case there would be no charge; in the other, if copies were given, the charge would go to the general expenses.

THE HON'BLE RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE remarked that if the persons interested were to make copies for themselves, there would be no necessity, he imagined, of providing for it under the law.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said it seemed to him that the preparation of these copies of plans and specifications might be an expensive and elaborate thing, and the number of persons interested might be very numerous, and it might lead to a prodigious charge if every such person were to be supplied with copies. On the other hand the persons interested might take rough copies sufficient for their purposes. Therefore he would prefer not by law to throw the charge upon the scheme: it would lead to great complications and great expense.

THE HON'BLE RAJAH JOTEENDRO MOHUN TAGORE observed that as the sense of the Council appeared to be against him, he would withdraw the amendment which he had proposed.

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH'S amendment with the addition proposed by him was then agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said the next amendment of which he had given notice referred to a question which he kept in abeyance at the last meeting. It was in substitution of the amendment which he had proposed in section 64, now section 58. By that amendment we proposed that all the powers and authorities vested in the Collector under section 4 of the Act might be delegated to the Engineer. It was now proposed, in lieu of that amendment, to move that section 58 be omitted altogether, and that the following new section be inserted after section 9:—

"All the powers vested in the Collector by section 4 of this Act may be exercised by the Engineer in cases referred to him by the Collector, subject to the general orders of the Collector."

The amendment referred merely to the powers vested in the Collector by section 4, and it would be seen that none of those powers could be exercised by the Collector himself until after full promulgation and a judicial inquiry. The whole question as to whether the measures to be carried out were expedient or otherwise must have been discussed and decided previously to that power being delegated, and all that remained to be done would be the mechanical and professional question as to how the work was to be carried out. Therefore the mere professional execution of the work would be the power that would be delegated; there were no other powers which would be concerned.

The motion was agreed to.

On the motion of the HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH, verbal amendments were made in sections 25, 34, 35, and 38.

The HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH moved that the words "or to both," at the end of sections 51, 53, and 54, be omitted. As the Bill stood, offences under these sections were punishable with imprisonment or fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, commutable, if not paid, to a period of imprisonment not exceeding six months, or with both. This he proposed to alter in relation to the Code of Criminal Procedure. It was thought at the time that as the offences punishable under these sections were not punishable offences within the provisions of the Penal Code, they might be allowed to stand as they were. But by the last amendment of the Code of Criminal Procedure section 309 all offences under any Act for the time being in force were brought under its provisions, and the Code did not now, as before, apply merely to offences under the Penal Code. It was now found that in the case of offences punishable by imprisonment as well as fine, if a fine only were imposed the commutation in lieu of payment of the fine could extend to six months; but if fine were imposed in addition to imprisonment, the commutation could only extend to one-fourth of the term of imprisonment. Therefore, the limit of imprisonment under these sections being six months, if the fine imposed in addition to imprisonment were not paid, the limit of punishment in commutation of fine would be one and a half month, or one-fourth of the term of imprisonment. This would happen in the case of fines imposed in addition to imprisonment under sections 51 and 54 of the Bill; but in sentences passed under section 53, the limit of imprisonment in lieu of the payment of the fine would be one week, the limit of imprisonment under that section being one month. It was therefore proposed to rectify the error by omitting the words "or to both" from these three sections. If on the other hand it was desired to retain the power of inflicting both fine and imprisonment, the object would be effected by omitting the words "commutable, if not paid, to a period of imprisonment not exceeding six months," as the Procedure Code provided for commutation without any specific period of commutation being mentioned in the Act. But MR. SCHALCH thought the better way would be, considering the nature of the offences provided for by these sections, to rectify the error by omitting the words "or to both."

His Honor the President said it was clear enough that these sections as they stood were illegal, but the words that made these sections illegal were the words "commutable, if not paid, to a period of imprisonment not exceeding six months," because under the general provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure the fine here imposed would only be commutable to one and a half month's imprisonment. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill proposed to obviate the difficulty in another way, but without looking more minutely into the matter His Honor could not say whether what was proposed was sufficient.

The Hon'ble Mr. Robinson said it seemed to him that the provisions of these sections applied the same severe penalties to a great variety of offences. He should like to know, for instance, if it was intended that any person who caused or permitted any cattle to graze upon any embankment was to be liable to a fine of two hundred rupees or imprisonment for six months. As he understood the amendment there was to be an alternative of imprisonment or fine; but even if the fine only were imposed, it was to be commutable to imprisonment for six months. That seemed a very severe punishment to inflict upon every old woman who permitted a goat to graze upon an embankment.

The Hon'ble Mr. Schalch said it must be remembered that we had to provide not only for the case of the old woman with the goat, but for the very common offence of the villagers tying their cattle to graze upon embankments by hundreds. Any Engineer would tell you that nothing was more injurious to an embankment than to have cattle grazing upon it; they made holes in it, which led to rats and other vermine undermining and destroying the embankments. In providing an amount of punishment for any offence, we must suppose that the officer to whom the power was entrusted would exercise a proper discretion. We must not suppose that he would impose a fine of two hundred rupees upon every old woman who permitted her goat to graze upon an embankment. The fine of two hundred rupees was put as a maximum.

His Honor the President observed that there was no class of Her Majesty's subjects with whom he had greater sympathy than the old women with the cows. Engineers were hard-hearted on that subject, and he had been trying to mitigate their persecution of these old women. But we trusted to the discretion of the Judge or the Magistrate passing sentence under these sections. One result of these provisions would be to prevent the Engineers from taking the law into their own hands. Our object now was to get the Bill into shape in a way in which it might be considered by those interested. Anything like a substantive amendment would be better considered a couple of months hence. Perhaps these sections might be allowed to pass now with the understanding that it would be open to the Hon'ble Member when the Bill came up again for consideration, to propose any amendment he might think fit.

The Hon'ble Mr. Robinson said he believed he was right now in supposing that offences under these three sections might be punishable with fine or imprisonment and not by both. He thought, however, that some distinction should be made between trivial offences and those of a more serious nature.

The motion was then agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Schalch moved that in section 59, after the word "Collector," in line 1, the words "in respect to applications under section 4, clauses 6 and 7, or," be inserted. He said this was in effect the amendment to be moved by the Hon'ble Member opposite (Baboo Digumber Mitter). He had not at first understood the reason which induced the Hon'ble Member to bring it forward; because as this section gave a power of appeal from all orders passed under section 8, and those referred to section 4, the appeal he desired to have was already given. But it would be observed that section 8 proceeded upon section 5, and section 5 again gave the Collector power under section 4. Therefore, when an application was made under section 4 for the opening of a sluice, or for a new embankment or drainage work, the Collector might say, "I do not think it expedient," and do nothing, and thus there would be no order under section 8, and therefore the party making the application would have no power of appealing. The Hon'ble Member opposite thought there was still something wanting, because it might happen that when the Collector received an application under clauses 6 or 7, he might pass no order. But MR. SCHALCH said that whenever a petition was presented to the Collector an order of some kind must be passed, either that he won't do it, or that it would be done, or that the application should be filed, and on such order an appeal would lie under section 59 as now proposed to be amended.

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said, the amendment moved in respect of Section 59 by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill would substantially meet the object aimed at by the amendment which stood first in Baboo Digumber Mitter's notice of amendments. Some verbal alterations, however, would appear to be needed in Clauses 6 and 7 of Section 4, and in Section 5 as well, to make the different sections of the Bill consistent with each other, and to prevent any possible misconception in future as to the intention of the legislature on the subject. As the clauses now stood, the Collector might not pass any order on the application for works mentioned in them, and unless an order was passed there could be no appeal under the amended Section 59. In fact the clauses were intentionally so framed, inasmuch as the orders to be passed in reference to applications for works mentioned in them, as in the other clauses of the same section, were provided for by the general Section 8. But as exception was made in regard to Clauses 6 and 7 by the amendment proposed to be introduced in Section 59, those two clauses should be made quite independent of Section 8, and towards that end he would move—

First.—That at the end of Clause 6 be inserted the words "and he shall pass orders accordingly;" and

Secondly.—That at the end of Clause 7 be inserted the words "the Collector shall pass such order upon the application as may appear to him fit."

THE HON'BLE THE ACTING ADVOCATE GENERAL observed that clauses 6 and 7 of section 4 did not say what the Collector was to do on receiving applications under them, or that he was to do anything. The other clauses provided what action the Collector was to take. But clauses 6 and 7 were vague.

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said there was one unanswered objection to the amendments proposed, that they would have the effect of taking away applications under clauses 6 and 7 of section 4 from the procedure under section 5. If you used the words proposed, the Collector might at once dispose of the matter without subjecting it to the procedure provided in section 5, that was to say without issuing a proclamation and without holding a judicial enquiry.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT suggested that in lieu of the words proposed by the HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER, the words "The Collector shall decide whether it is expedient that such application shall be granted" be added to clauses 6 and 7 of section 4. If that were adopted, then the whole of the clauses of section 4 would be covered by section 5.

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER having accepted the amendment—

The motion was agreed to, as well as the HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH's amendment to section 59.

On the motion of MR. SCHALCH, for the words "herewith submitted" in clause 2 of Schedule A, the words "open for inspection by any interested person at this office, who is allowed to take copies thereof," were substituted.

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER said, in moving the amendment which stood second in his notice of amendments, he thought he was simply pointing out an oversight on the part of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, rather than supplying an intentional omission. He need not tell the Council that it was for the protection of certain properties guaranteed to be protected by the State that the embankments mentioned in Schedule E (now D) were maintained. It was true that owing to a change in the course of a river or other causes some of those embankments might cease to be needed, and provision was therefore very properly made for their abandonment and exclusion from the Schedule. But it was equally true that necessity would always arise for the erection of new lines of embankment for the protection of the very properties which the embankments included in Schedule E were intended to protect Some of the new embankments, the erection of which was provided for under Part II of the Bill, must come under that class, viz. embankments needed for the protection of lands hitherto protected by the State embankments. It was but bare justice therefore that the cost of such embankment should be borne by the State.

He begged therefore to move—

In section 34, after "annexed" in line 5, insert the following:—"nor to such embankments as may hereafter be erected for the protection of lands which at the time of the passing of this Act are protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid schedule."

THE HON'BLE MR. SCHALCH said it appeared to him that the object which the Hon'ble Member sought to attain by the amendment he proposed was already provided for under the Act. There were certain embankments which the Government had undertaken to keep up at their own expense. If any of these embankments became useless, and if it was found necessary to construct another embankment to protect the lands protected by the embankment which had become useless, the Government would undertake to construct and maintain such embankment; and MR. SCHALCH was therefore perfectly willing to accept the amendment on that understanding. But it might possibly be that a new embankment constructed in the place of an old embankment might protect not only the lands protected by the old embankment, but might extend protection beyond those limits; and as the Hon'ble Member's amendent stood, the persons so newly benefited would be exempted from all charge for such embankment. That such protection might be afforded by the construction of new embankments in the place of old ones was not only possible but very probable. Therefore MR. SCHALCH would move the following amendment, in lieu of the amendment proposed by the Hon'ble Member, that the first paragragh of section 34 be amended so as to stand thus:—

"The provisions in this Part contained shall not apply to any of the embankments mentioned in Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, save so far as any works or repairs are executed therein or in relation thereto under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 19 of this Act, or to any of such embankments as may hereafter be erected for the protection of lands which at the time of the passing of this Act are protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule, save so far as the erection of such embankments may protect lands not protected by the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule. All sums payable in respect of any works or repairs executed therein or in relation to the embankments mentioned in the aforesaid Schedule, except under the provisions of Section 4, Clause 7, or Section 19 of this Act, shall be paid by the Government."

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER having accepted this amendment in lieu of the one proposed by him—

The motion was agreed to.

THE HON'BLE BABOO DIGUMBER MITTER withdrew the third amendment of which he had given notice.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE COUNCIL.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said, it would be convenient not to carry the discussion of the Bill further at the present time, but that the Council should be adjourned, and then after an interval of not less than two months, we should revert to the consideration of the Bill. He should in all probability not have occasion to ask the Council to meet again for at least two months. He might say that unless there were any emergency he did not propose to re-summon the Council till after the vacation of the Courts was completed, till the end of the long vacation. He had to thank the Members very much for all their labors, and would adjourn the Council until further notice. He proposed that the two Bills under consideration that day should be re-published in order that full consideration might be given to them by the public before the Council met again.

The Council was adjourned sine die.

SALT REVENUE REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1872-73.

RESOLUTION.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 10th September 1873.

READ—

The Salt Report for the year 1872-73, submitted by the Board of Revenue on the 6th August 1873.

RESOLUTION.—The report shows that the salt revenue, which fell off considerably during the year 1871-72, had recovered itself during the year under review. The figures for the last three years are :—

	Total quantity of salt paying duty during the year.	Total salt revenue, including miscellaneous receipts.
	Mds.	Rs.
1870-71	7,957,221	2,61,44,441
1871-72	7,766,133	2,54,66,055
1872-73	7,981,286	2,61,19,562

During the past year the Lieutenant-Governor has examined the salt consumption statistics of Bengal for the last eighty years. Below are given extracts from the statement furnished by the Board, showing the quantity and classes of the salt which paid duty each year 1790 to 1871-72. It will be seen that the quantity in some years was abnormally low. But if cycles of three years are taken, it will be apparent that the consumption of salt in Bengal increased steadily, but not very rapidly, in the first forty years of this century, increased very largely in the next few years, when the duty was reduced to Rs. 2-8 per maund, and has remained nearly stationary, or only very slightly increased since the duty has been again raised to the rate of Rs. 3-4 per maund.

The people of Bengal began (about the year 1863) very largely to consume Liverpool salt instead of home-made salt, and by far the greatest part of the consumption is now foreign salt.

NOTE. The "rate of duty" column is so far open to correction that the rate of salt duty in Orissa was for many years very much less than the rate for the rest of Bengal. It is only during the last ten years that the Orissa salt duty has been brought up to the full Bengal rate.

2. Consumption of Salt.—The average annual consumption of the last three years has been 7,901,546 maunds. Seventy-nine lakhs of maunds on a population of 66¾ millions gives a consumption of 4·74 seers per head, or about 9½lb. We know that a certain amount of Ganjam salt is consumed in the tributary estates of Orissa; that a good deal of illicit salt is consumed in Behar; that some small supply of illicit salt is made along the coast by the lower classes for their home consumption; and that a small amount of foreign salt is consumed on our northern and eastern frontier. We do not yet know with any precision how much Bengal salt finds its way up the Gogra into a corner of the North-Western Provinces, but the quantity that goes beyond the limits of these provinces by railway is very small; while Agra and Delhi salts come into parts of Palamow, and occasionally find their way by train to Patna. We may fairly reckon, then, that the average consumption of salt by the people of Bengal is not very widely different from the rate above stated, viz., 9½lb per head.

3. Price of Salt.—The range of the retail price of salt in different parts of Bengal during the last thirty years appears, from such records as are available, to have been as follows:—

	Rate of duty per 100 maunds.	Number of seers of 80 tolahs of salt selling retail for one rupee during the month of April at—
		Calcutta.	Dacca.	Rungpore.	Patna.	Cuttack.*
	Rs.
1840	325	8	8¾	.....	.....	24
1845	825	8	9¼	... ..	8	24
1850	250	10	10	.....	8	21
1854	250	9⅛	9⅛	8⅞	8⅞	19
1860	300	8¼	8	6	8	16
1865	325	8⅛	8¾	7¼	6⅛	8¾
1869	325	8¼	8	6	8	8⅛
1870	325	9	8	6	8	9
1871	325	8¾	8	7⅜	8	9
1872	325	8¾	8½	6⅛	8	9
1873	325	9	9	7¼	8	9

The month of April has been taken throughout as the test month. It will be seen that of late years, and in ordinary Bengal districts, the retail price of salt ranges from 7 to 9 seers of 80 tolahs (or about 14 to 18lb) per rupee. The prices quoted for the older years may not be absolutely correct, inasmuch as the Government of those days did not publish price-currents. The prices quoted for the year 1854 are from Mr. Plowden's salt report of 1856, and are probably correct.

A Bengalee ryot of the present day with a wife and three children may consume during the year (at 4·74 seers per head) about 23¾ seers of salt, on which the duty would be (at Rs. 3-4 a maund) a little under Rs. 2; so that the salt tax paid by an ordinary laboring man whose yearly earnings are perhaps Rs. 60, all told, comes to nearly 3 per cent. on his income.

The price of bonded Liverpool salt in Calcutta ranged during the year 1872-73 from Rs. 56 to Rs. 104 per hundred maunds; but these fluctuations do not seem very greatly to affect the retail price of salt in the towns and bazars of the interior.

4. Salt supplies of 1872-73.—The main salt transactions of the last three years compare as follows:—

	1870-71.	1871-72.	1872-73.
	Mds.	Mds.	Mds.
Salt imported and manufactured	7,091,545	8,014,098	7,331,304
Cleared for consumption on payment of duty ...	7,957,221	7,766,133	7,981,286
Balance in stock at the close of the year	2,653,738	2,841,001	2,325,766
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Proceeds from sale of Government salt	1,31,967	45 853	16,285
Duty on imported salt	2,49,10,428	2,41,56,330	2,46,85,766
Duty on excised salt	8,35,890	10,14,475	13,38,301
Total duty ...	2,58,81,285	2,52,46,658	2,59,40,352

* In Orissa the full Bengal salt duty was not levied until the year 1863; the rate was Rs. 1½ a maund up till 1859, it was raised to Rs. 1¾ in 1859, and to Rs. 1¾ in 1861.

Thus the supply of salt was 12 per cent. less in 1872-73 than in the previous year, while the consumption was more than 3 per cent. larger. The balance of salt in stock at the end of the year was therefore very much smaller than in previous years, and was barely 3½ months' consumption. Mr. Money points out that the Bengal salt stocks might, in time of difficulty, be dangerously low.

The imports of Liverpool salt into Calcutta were 20 per cent. smaller than during the preceding year; but as a set-off against this decrease, the imports of salt from Bombay and Madras together nearly doubled; the imports from France and Italy were three times as large as during the previous year; and the imports of Liverpool salt to Chittagong increased 60 per cent. The imports from the Arabian and Persian Gulfs decreased by about 11 per cent. As the Board remarks, it is satisfactory that the foreign sources of salt supply for Bengal are extending and becoming more permanent.

5. The quantity of salt manufactured under the Excise Rules in Bengal during the last three years has been—

1870-71.	1871-72.	1872-73.
Mds.	Mds.	Mds.
578,707	214,427	363,402

Almost the whole of this manufacture takes place in Orissa, and more than half of the whole of the excised salt is made in the Pooree district. The salt manufacture is a very important industry to the poorer classes who inhabit the shores of the Chilka Lake; and it is very greatly to be wished that the industry could become permanent, instead of fluctuating from 371,000 maunds one year to 32,000 maunds next year. The circumstances of the season have no doubt much to do with these fluctuations; and salt cannot be made cheaply or well during a rainy summer like that of 1871. Still the principal obstacle to the Pooree salt industry is the great difference between the duty paid on salt manufactured at the two ends of the Chilka Lake. As the Commissioner says, the difference in price makes Pooree people consume Ganjam salt, as they are allowed by law to buy it across the border, so long as they carry home less than five seers at a time. The Ganjam salt producers also must command the Sumbulpore and Tributary Estates markets, so long as their duty is little more than half what the Pooree salt dealers have to pay. It will be the greatest possible boon to the people of Pooree when the Madras and Orissa rates of salt duty are equalised.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor is not prepared to admit the Board's position (paragraph 6) that "the total quantity manufactured in Orissa, exceeding 340,000 maunds, amply provides for the local consumption." The whole population of Orissa amounts to 4,300,000 souls; and this population, at 10lb of salt per head, would consume 532,500 maunds of salt a year. If the Tributary Estates, which are believed mainly to consume Ganjam salt, be omitted, still the remaining three millions of souls in the three Orissa districts ought to consume 375,000 maunds a year.

7. The small balance of salt in the Government warehouses at Hidgellee and Pooree do not find any sale. It is said that it would have been unfair to the local salt-makers and dealers, and would have disarranged their trade, if the salt had been offered at a greatly reduced price. The establishment in charge of these small stocks costs money; and the stocks themselves gradually get spoilt and decreased. Much of the salt had become so deteriorated that no one would pay the duty on it. Accordingly the Lieutenant-Governor agreed to the Board's exercising its discretion and destroying the small stocks at Pooree or elsewhere, for which no purchaser could be found. Whatever will sell should be sold for what it will fetch in excess of the duty and the account closed.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor is not disposed to place very great reliance on the statistics of salt sales in the salt-bearing tracts (table No. 7 of the Board's report). As has been already remarked, the Orissa sale statistics are probably much below the real consumption. For the rest of the salt tracts, it would be well that the rates on the increase or decrease of sales should show in future years the population of the thannahs which are declared to be salt-bearing tracts under the law.

9. The measures which have recently been taken for checking the production of illicit salt in Behar will find a place in the Board's next report. Meanwhile the discussions of the year under review, which ended in the introduction of Act XXXI of 1861 into Behar, should have received some notice in the present report.

10. Statement 8, which shows the result of attachments and confiscations of salt, is on the whole favorable to the police. The decrease in the number of attachments occurred chiefly in the 24-Pergunnahs, where petty cases of illicit salt manufacture had been very numerous, and in which district the Board had very properly discouraged the police from searching too readily in suspected cases of very petty illicit manufacture for home consumption. The percentage of releases to salt confiscations was much smaller than in the previous year. But at the same time the explanations of the Inspector-General of Police, as extracted at paragraph 22 of the Board's report, are somewhat conflicting. In Balasore credit is taken for the police because attachments and confiscations increased largely; while in Pooree the extreme fewness of the attachments and confiscations is attributed to the excellent patrol arrangements made by the police.

11. The results shown in statement No. 10 are on the whole satisfactory; for while the number of cases brought to trial increased 20 per cent., the number of convictions has increased 26 per cent.; so that the proportion of cases which were not proved is less than in the previous year.

12. It is satisfactory that the amount of salt carried by the Eastern Bengal Railway should have increased by more than two lakhs of maunds. The Lieutenant-Governor has never fully understood why the Eastern Bengal Railway gets none of the salt traffic of Eastern Bengal. Native boats that bring jute and seeds to Goalundo should certainly find it worth their while to carry back salt. Possibly, now that the Chitpore station is open by the riverside, the active and successful Agent of this Railway may succeed in attracting some of the salt traffic.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor desires that the acknowledgments of Government may be conveyed to the Member in Charge and to the officers named at paragraph 40 of the Board's report for their services in the Salt Department during the year.

MECHANICAL DRAWING CLASS,—PRESIDENCY COLLEGE.

Dated Calcutta, the 10th December 1872.

From—Lieutenant-Colonel H. Hyde, R.E., Mint Master,

To—H. Luttman-Johnson, Esq., Offg. Private Secy. to Lieut.-Governor of Bengal

Some time ago on speaking to the Lieutenant-Governor regarding my desire to start an evening class to teach mechanic drawing to mechanics and artizans, both European and Native, His Honor gave me to understand that if a scheme was put before him in a tangible form he would be prepared to sanction it, and to give a grant of money for the purpose.

2. There has been some difficulty and considerable delay in maturing the scheme, but now that a great difficulty, viz., that of providing a suitable room for the purpose, has been removed by the offer, from the head of the Presidency College, to place at the disposal of the class for the evenings the room used by the Civil Engineer classes during the day, I am able to submit my proposals for the consideration of His Honor.

3. The proposals are—

To begin by opening a class three times a week in the evening after all work-shops are closed to teach free of charge drawing to mechanics and artizans, both European and Native.

That applicants should only be admitted to the class on certificates of character, either from their employés or other responsible parties.

That the drawing to be taught shall be simple mechanical drawing of a nature to enable workmen to understand drawings given to them, and to make rough working drawings of articles they are called upon to make in the practice of their trade; that is, the teaching will be confined to that which is necessary to make working men efficient, and it will in some trades include a small amount of mechanical instructions that will be necessary to ensure a proper understanding of the work.

4. If, as is probable, some of those attending the classes show ability to go beyond what is provided for in the class at first, such men will have to resort to the Civil Engineering classes; but if hereafter a sufficient number advance as to enable a higher practical class to be started, a special class may be opened on a separate evening for the purpose.

5. For starting the school the following will be required:—

Expenses.—Gas to be laid on to the room occupied in the Presidency College; the Executive Engineer has estimated the cost of this to be Rs. 450.

To provide drawing-boards, straight edges, squares, &c., Rs. 200.

Stationery.—Authority to indent for such as may be necessary on the Stationery Office, rough paper only will be required with pencils, &c.

6. For conducting the school:—

	Rs.
A drawing master, European Mechanical Engineer, salary per month	100
A native draughtsman to assist	30
Chuprassee	6
Total ..	136

7. The pay of the drawing master may at first seem large for so short attendance, but this attendance will form only a small portion of his work, the main part of which will be in the preparation of drawings for the men to copy. The following shows somewhat the work to be done:—

(1.)—Simple lines and geometrical figures.

(2.)—Outline drawings of small objects, full size, to be copied with object before the learner.

(3.)—Outlines, drawing to scale, of larger objects to be copied with object before the learner.

(4.)—Rough plans of buildings, such as bricklayers would be called upon to understand.

(5.)—Drawings of work, such as carpenters and others of like trades would be called upon to use.

(6.)—Drawings, such as turners and fitters would be called upon to use.

(7.)—Drawings to supply a knowledge of all ordinary scales.

(8.)—Drawings of all kinds showing how each description of work is in practice set out.

8. These drawings would necessarily have to be made from actual objects, so that every object may be brought into class to enable the learner to examine it with the drawing.

9. From this it will be seen that the teacher of drawing will have to devote a considerable time to the work.

10. As soon as His Honor sanctions the scheme and the grant of money, I propose to advertize the school in all such vernacular papers as are likely to give publicity to it, and I propose to send round a circular to all employés of labor, inviting them to send their good men to the class.

No. 4559, dated Calcutta, the 20th December 1872.

From—J. W. EDGAR, Esq., Offg Junior Secy. to the Government of Bengal,

To—COLONEL H. HYDE, R.E., Mint Master.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th December, in which you make proposals for the formation of an evening class at the Presidency College for the instruction of artizans and others in mechanical drawing.

2. In reply I am to communicate to you the Lieutenant-Governor's thanks for moving in this matter. His Honor most readily sanctions the scheme propounded by you, and also the expenditure of money involved as shown on the margin, on the condition of your undertaking to manage the details of the plan.

	Rs.
Gas-fitting	450
Instructive apparatus	200
Total ...	650
Monthly Charges.
Drawing master	100
Native draughtsman	30
Chuprassee	6
Total .	136 per mensem.

3. The Director of Public Instruction will be apprised of these orders, and the Principal of the Presidency College will be authorized to arrange all particulars in communication with yourself.

4. Instructions will be issued to the Stationery Office for the supply of the articles enumerated in paragraph 5 of your letter.

Memorandum on the Evening Drawing Class.

ENCLOSED is a list of men and lads who have availed themselves of the evening class.

The class was opened on the 13th March 1873.

It was at first purposely restricted in numbers till such time as some of the pupils had made some definite progress in drawing; for it is obviously not desirable in a drawing class to have all the pupils at the very first stage; such a condition holding out little hope to those not very sanguine of succeeding, and leaving a general depressing effect on the whole.

As soon as a few of the sharpest men had made some progress in their drawing, and when it was evident that they began to see an advantage and to exhibit a decided interest in what they were doing, their example became of use and it was time to open the class to all who would come to it. I therefore advertized the class in the Exchange Gazette and in the vernacular papers, and the result is an attendance as per list.

The pupils may be classified thus:—

A.—Workers in metal	22
B.—Bricklayers	4
C.—Carpenters	1
D.—Apprentices, builders, and mechanics	21
E.—Overseers (native)	14
F.—Petty contractors (builders)	4
G.—Clerks in building and construction offices ...	4

The attendance of classes A and D may be considered satisfactory and will increase.

The attendance of class E is also satisfactory.

The attendance of class B is not satisfactory.

In northern India one would look for a very large (in fact the largest) attendance from this class, for to no men can the knowledge of drawing sooner bring remuneration.

The bricklayers of Calcutta, however, are the worst of all the workmen I have met; they take less interest than any other class of men I know of in their works and in keeping in good employ, so that they are almost vagrants; and one seldom sees a good, intelligent bricklayer coming to the front understanding what good work is, and able to take charge of small constructions as one invariably does on every large work in Upper India.

The only way to alter this is by employers using their influence and obliging the men to improve themselves; and in no way can this be done better than by sending them to attend the drawing class. I have hope of something being done, and I am directing my attention to the point.

In class C there is only one man. Since the influx of iron ships to this port, there has been less work for carpenters, and the number in the trade is fast decreasing. Drawing is not of so much use to a carpenter as it is to a bricklayer or rather a builder. I trust, however, during the next six months to get a fair attendance.

The attendance of men in class F is a good sign, and I trust the number will increase.

The men in class G have been admitted, for there is a necessity for clerks who have to take out figures to form estimates to understand drawing.

On the whole I think there is reason to be satisfied with the starting of this class, and to hope that it may in some small degree tend to meet a want that certainly does exist.

The funds granted by Government have proved sufficient up to date; but I think we shall require the services of an additional native draughtsman as teacher only for class hours, and the salary to be given for this will be small.

CALCUTTA,
The 3rd September 1873.

H. HYDE, Lieut.-Colonel, R. E.,
Master of the Mint.

No. 3342, Calcutta, the 15th September 1873.

From—H. J. S. COTTON, ESQ., Officiating Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—The Master of the Mint.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your memorandum of the 4th September 1873, on the evening drawing class opened at the Presidency College under your charge, and in reply to convey the Lieutenant-Governor's best thanks for the trouble you have taken in the matter. As the evening class is a real practical school, His Honor quite agrees with you that no amateurs, but only tradesmen, should receive its benefits.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor has however been lately informed that there are in Calcutta Bengalis who after leaving school had taken to and become successful in the higher classes of handicraft. His Honor heard of an authentic instance of a Brahmin who, after passing the entrance examination, took to the trade of a plumber, and has now become a master-plumber; and he hopes that under your teaching similar instances may be multiplied. He is sure you will gladly receive men of any class who are bonâ fide working to become efficient tradesmen.

IMPROVEMENT OF CHANDBALLY PORT.

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

MARINE.

Calcutta, the 22nd September 1873.

READ—

A recent correspondence relative to proposals for improving the ports of Orissa.

1. On a consideration of a report submitted by Mr. J. Beames, Officiating Commissioner of the Orissa Division, from Captain J. H. Jones, Commander of the steam ship Madras of the British India Steam Navigation Company, plying between Calcutta and Chandbally, and of a note recorded by the Hon'ble V. H. Schalch, the Member in Charge of the Land Revenue Department of the Board of Revenue, on his late visit to Chandbally, the Lieutenant-Governor has sanctioned the following measures for improving that port :—

(1) The erection of two additional posts on the bank at the bottom of the Chandbally reach to define the line of deepest water across the bar, and of three posts to define the limits of the false bar off Centre Island.

(2) The erection of a conspicuous first class durable beacon on the mainland, 2,800 yards north of the Chanpaul tree, to serve as a safe and certain guide to the mouth of the river in the event of the K buoy and Short's Island beacon, which is only a temporary affair, being washed adrift or displaced by an easterly gale.

(3) The survey of the Byturnee river.

2. His Honor has expressed his readiness also to support the Hon'ble Mr. Schalch's recommendation, that a dispensary should be opened at Chandbally. Government support will be given on the most liberal terms allowed by the rules, provided the necessary private or local funds are forthcoming; otherwise the Commissioner will suggest some arrangement for giving effect to this most desirable measure.

3. On the other marine questions noticed in Captain Jones's report and in the Hon'ble Mr. Schalch's note, orders had already issued in connexion with a memorandum of the urgent requirements of the ports of Balasore, Dhamrah, and Chandbally, drawn up by Captain Harris, Conservator of the Orissa Ports, and submitted to Government by the Commissioner, Mr. Ravenshaw, in the month of July last.

4. The measures sanctioned on Captain Harris's recommendations are detailed below :—

CAPTAIN HARRIS'S PROPOSALS.	THE ORDERS PASSED BY GOVERNMENT ON CAPTAIN HARRIS'S PROPOSALS.
Balasore Port.	Balasore Port.
1. THE entrance to the Boorabullung or Balasore river should be completely surveyed from the Balasore buoy to the Bulrangurry house in the month of November or December 1873.	THE Master-Attendant, Calcutta, has been requested to arrange, in communication with Captain Harris, for lending a survey vessel for this purpose.
2. The neck of land above Bulrangurry, called Geria bend, should be cut through.	The Commissioner's action in referring proposals 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to the Superintending Engineer, Orissa Circle, has been approved, and the Joint-Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Public Works Department has been requested to cause the survey and report to be made quickly.
3. One of two alternative cuts indicated should be made near Chargutchea.

4. Silting up of the old bend at the existing cut should be assisted by spur or bend across lower end to send all the water through the cut and deepen it.

5. A few short spurs, judiciously placed, should be tried for improving existing shoals.

6. A few posts or bamboos, with white chattees or baskets on them, might be advantageously placed as crossing marks in the various reaches.

The Lieutenant-Governor will approve of the cost of these works being charged to the road fund, so long as it is the real wish of the people so to spend the fund, and so long as too large a share of the fund is not spent on the sea and river approaches to the town of Balasore to the injury of the rest of the district. The Government will be prepared at the same time to bear from provincial funds, up to a limit of Rs. 5,000, one-third of the expenses of carrying out these proposals, provided that they are reported as feasible at reasonable cost and as practically good.

7. Tidal gauges should be put up at Chandeporo, Bulrangurry, and Nalcoolie, painted and marked to feet, and large enough to read some distance off.

The Commissioner has been authorized to arrange for this in communication with Captain Harris, the cost being charged to the Balasore Port Fund.

8. A rough but strong jetty is required at Balasore ghât for landing and embarking goods and passengers. An old native craft, well-moored, with a stage built over her, might do. She would answer also as a godown for stores.

This scheme has been approved, and Captain Baker has been asked to arrange, in communication with Captain Harris, for getting as cheaply as possible an old craft of the kind required; the work to be done during this official year, and to be charged to the Balasore Port Fund.

9. The three leaky buoys at the ghât should be sent to Calcutta, and replaced by three others of the same size, with chain and mooring complete.

The Master-Attendant has been requested to arrange, in communication with Captain Harris, for bringing to Calcutta for repair the three leaky buoys, sending down in their place new ones, with chain and mooring complete.

10. Two trees at Nalcoolie will soon fall into the river and form snags, and should be removed.

The Commissioner has been informed that the removal of the trees can be arranged for by him through the Magistrate and Captain Harris.

11. Two anchors should be laid on shore at ghât for the steamer to run lines to.

The Master-Attendant has been directed accordingly to send down two anchors, in communication with Captain Harris, to be laid on shore at the Balasore ghât.

Ports of Dhamrah and Chandbally.

Ports of Dhamrah and Chandbally.

1 & 2. An extra buoy, third class, wooden spire, is wanted to mark the sea entrance to the new or south channel of the Dhamrah river, and a first class buoy for the extreme north-east point of Palmyra's reef.

Captain Baker has been instructed to send down accordingly, in communication with Captain Harris, two buoys with chains and anchors.

3. Good tidal gauges should be put up on each side of the Chandipaul bar to enable vessels entering and leaving to ascertain exact rise of the tide.

Captain Harris has been authorized to set up these gauges, the Balasore Port Fund being debited with the cost.

4 The channel at the back of Kallibunge Island should be closed, so as to send all the water down the north side of the island and keep Chandipaul bar open.

The Commissioner has been directed to refer this proposal, in the first instance, to the Government Engineer for report. He has been informed at the same time that the work cannot, if decided upon finally, be thrown on the Marine Department as suggested by him, but must be undertaken as a local work, though the Government may possibly be able to contribute one-third the cost from provincial funds.

5 Two new buoys should be laid at the entrance of the Byturnee river, to enable long steamers to turn in with confidence and safety.

The Master-Attendant is under instructions to supply two buoys with anchors and chains to Captain Harris, who will lay them down as proposed at the entrance of the Byturnee river.

6. Two new buoys should be laid at Juta crossing, west of Centre Island, Byturnee river, to mark the limits of shoal water.	No orders have been passed by Government on this proposal, as, the buoys being urgently required, Captain Harris has promised to send them from store at False Point.
7. A good beacon is required on South Point, Byturnee river, to serve as a crossing mark.	The proposed beacon, the Commissioner has been informed, may be set up as a local work.
8. The banks of the Byturnee river should be cleared of the patches of jungles on them. This would enable loaded boats to track up to Chandbally without stopping every few yards to clear their tow lines.	The Commissioner has been informed that this work must be treated as a local work on an internal communication line, and that it may be carried out under his orders.
9. Two new buoys are required on extreme spits of sand in reaches 3 and 4 of the Byturnee river.	Captain Baker has been instructed to supply two suitable buoys to Captain Harris, who will lay them down on the spits of sand referred to.
10. A small four-oared jolly boat should be supplied to the Inspector of Customs, Chandbally, to enable him to visit Dhamrah occasionally, and Moregaun every time the steamer calls, which could not be done without a boat, as the country is under water during the floods.	The Commissioner has been authorized to arrange through Captain Harris for getting from the Master-Attendant a four-oared jolly boat for the purpose mentioned, as soon as he finds that there is money enough in the customs budget to pay for the cost.
11. Two buoys should be laid off Chandbally for steamers to moor to, and two old anchors with large rings should be buried on shore for the same purpose, the present means of mooring being insufficient for safety in strong winds, and being attended with danger to coolies while landing and embarking.	Instructions have issued to Captain Baker for supplying Captain Harris with buoys and anchors for this object.

5. Some of the above proposals coincide with recommendations made by Mr. George Robertson in the second series of his reports to the Government of India on Indian harbours. The further proposals recommended by Mr. Robertson in connection with the ports of Orissa, and authorized to be carried out, are as follows:—

(1) To place a beacon at the newly-formed extremity of Point Reddie.

(2) To alter the construction of existing beacons by having the discs to cross each other at right angles, instead of placing them so as not to hold the wind, a position which renders them hardly visible when looked at edgeways.

(3) To replace the tidal gauges which Captain Harris had set up across the bar at the mouth of the main branch of the river Mohanuddy, but which had been lost, or had become useless from one cause or other.

(4) To remove the wreck lying near False Point anchorage.

For the last work the Master-Attendant, Calcutta, has been requested to arrange in communication with Captain Harris. The other three works will be undertaken as local works.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor has directed the publication for general information of this resolution, with Captain Jones's report and the Hon'ble Mr. Schalch's memorandum above referred to.

No. 3461.

COPY of this resolution, with copies of Mr. Schalch's note and Captain Jones's report, forwarded to the Commissioner of Orissa, with a request that Captain Harris and the Magistrate may keep in view the early prosecution of all the works which have been sanctioned.

Dated Calcutta, the 29th July 1873.

From—J. H. JONES, Esq., Commander, Steam Ship Madras,

To—CAPTAIN HARRIS, Master-Attendant, False Point.

IN accordance with your request, I have the honor to report as follows on the Dhamrah river as far as east point, the Brahmini as far as north point, and the Byturnee as far as Chandbally.

There are two entrances to the Dhamrah, the north and south channels. The north channel commences at the Khannaka buoy, follows nearly a south-west course, continues to the C buoy, a distance of 3 miles, in which at any time I have not found less than 11 feet reduced.

The south channel commences about 1¼ miles south of the K buoy at the extreme eastern point of Short's Island, runs in a westerly direction along the north shore of Short's Island, to a distance of about 300 yards west of the G buoy, when you deepen into 22 feet reduced; good anchorage in fine weather, but very exposed in bad weather; from the eastward in this channel I have not had less then 12 feet 6 inches to 13 feet reduced.

The channel from the anchorage of 24 feet shoaled to 18 feet in the vicinity of the C buoy, after passing which you deepen gradually as you approach the A buoy to 24 and 30 feet reduced (the A buoy north). This is a capital anchorage, good space, a stiff clay bottom and well sheltered from all but a north-east wind.

After passing the A buoy you gradually shoal on the inner bar, on which a fairway buoy (nun) is placed, which buoy, kept on with the Chanpaul tree, will lead you across in 8 feet reduced. After deepening over the bar you steer for the eastern point of Kalliburga Island, keeping it nearly a point open on your port bow, when you gradually deepen into a channel of 3½ fathoms along the north bank of that island carrying good water close to. When you arrive near Dhamrah Custom House, you cross over to the northern side, and keep that shore abroad, carrying 45 fathoms, till you open the channel south of Kalliburga, when you haul gradually over to Round Point, passing it at a distance of about 300 yards on your port hand; you then steer a mid channel course till you arrive off North Point, when you turn sharply into the Byturnee river. Inland of South Point there is a very conspicuous tree, which, kept on with South Point, leads you a mid channel course, but as South Point is not well defined, and as the sands on either side are very steep too, I would consider it advisable to have a conspicuous mark erected on the extreme of South Point, which, kept on with the tree above mentioned, would lead clear through, and as the sands are steep, there should be nun buoys to mark their spits and define the channel.

After rounding North Point the channel, as far as Chandbally, is very narrow and tortuous, necessitating great caution in approaching the sands, and constant care whilst running along the bank. There is a bar at the west of Centre Island called the false bar, on which there is 8 feet reduced in a very narrow line with a strong current on a flood-tide, setting right across it, causing a number of eddies and oft-times great difficulty in keeping in the fairway track; on both sides of this bar there is a spit of 5 feet reduced.

There is a bar of 9 feet at the bottom of Chandbally reach; with the exception of the above two bars there is not less than 3 fathoms in the channel between Chandbally and North Point. The spits of the sands extends well into the channel. Three of the sands are dry at half flood, as I would recommend nun buoys being placed on the spits of the sand in each reach so as to define the limits of the navigable channel.

After deepening over the bar at the bottom of Chandbally reach, you deepen into 4 fathoms, which water is continuous through the remainder of the reach; opposite to Chandbally the banks are very steep too at 3 fathoms. The reach is about 420 feet wide from bank to bank, just room to turn a steamer—the length of the Madras; if the tide is not too strong, I would recommend for Chandbally two one-ton anchors, to be laid off the bank, a distance of about 40 yards, sufficient to moor the vessel ahead and astern, and two anchors of 15 cwt., to be laid in the earth on the banks of the river opposite the first two anchors, so as to be able to moor the vessel the same as the in-shore vessels in Calcutta are.

The soil at and around Chandbally is of a sandy alluvial deposit, which, when the ground is saturated with water, becomes quite loose or alive, so that any posts placed in the earth for the purpose of fastening ship's hawsers to for mooring are perfectly worthless, as on the first burst of a squall or high wind the weight of the vessel would draw them out of the ground, as it did on the 12th of June last, when the Madras narrowly escaped being ashore, the Mary Grant was left high and dry. In the dry season, when the ground has become firm and hard through a course of fine dry weather, they are quite sufficient for the purpose of mooring, as the tides are not strong at that season. In addition there should be placed on the bank at the bottom of Chandbally reach two posts, which being kept in one would define the line of deepest water across the bar.

With regard to the false bar off the Centre Island, I would recommend that three posts, similar to the marks on at Nynan on the river Hooghly, be placed on the bank to define the limits of the bar, which is very bad.

With regard to the approaches to the river, a commander bound to the Dhamrah would not in my opinion, except under very favorable circumstances, steer direct for the K buoy coming in from the eastward, as, should he unfortunately experience a southerly set, he might find himself all at once landed on the top of Point Palmyra's shoal, which extends a distance of 7 to 8 miles eastward of Point Palmyra's deepening too, then shoaling very rapidly to 3 and 2 fathoms, the sea, except in bad weather, giving you no indication of your near approach to that danger. In bad weather the middle of the shoal is well defined in day-time by the breakers, but at night-time would scarcely be seen till the vessel was in a position of danger. In day-time and smooth water you may run close along the margin of the shoal, and the only indication given is a slight discoloration of the water.

I would strongly recommend that a first class buoy be placed on the north-east spit of the Palmyra's shoal as an indication in day-time of your proximity to the shoal.

Coming from the eastward, steering for a point 6 or 7 miles north of the K buoy, you would get soundings in 8 fathoms when about 3 to 4 miles off the land (trees in sight), shoaling into 6 fathoms, then steering about south-east by steamer you will sight the K buoy right ahead without fail, should you not go into more than 6 fathoms. I would strongly recommend that a conspicuous first class durable beacon be erected on the main land about 2,800 yards north of the Chanpaul tree, which would then bear due west from the K buoy, and would be a safe and certain guide for the mouth of the river in event of the K buoy and Short's Island beacon (which is only a temporary affair) being washed adrift or displaced by an easterly gale.

Note by the Hon'ble V. H. Schalch, Member in Charge of the Land Revenue Department of the Board of Revenue, dated 27th August 1873.

I have just returned from a visit to the village of Chandbally, situate in the district of Balasore, on the Byturnee river, some 22 miles from the mouth of the estuary of the Dhamrah. Leaving Calcutta at day-light on the 20th August, we reached the mouth of the Dhamrah before day-light on the following morning, and entering the estuary at day-light, reached the village about 10 P.M. A very considerable trade had been developed with this part of the country by the Celt, a very small steamer, and has now been taken up by the British India Steam Navigation Company, whose smallest steamer, the Madras, now plies weekly on the line.

The Dhamrah was buoyed off at my suggestion when I was Magistrate of Balasore some 18 years ago, and was found a great use for importing rice into this part of the district which suffered severely in the famine of 1866.

For the 13 miles of its course the estuary is well and sufficiently buoyed off as far as the mouth of the Byturnee. From that point, with the exception of two small buoys which were, at the request of the Captain of the Madras, obtained from Captain Harris, the Master-Attendant at False Point, the river which is somewhat tortuous with some sharp bends has not been marked off, and the Captain of the steamer which now plies on it has to trust to temporary marks fixed by himself, which are frequently removed and stolen by the fishermen. About 22 miles from the Komika buoy, at the entrance to the Dhamrah, is situate the village of Chandbally noted in the map as Simoolcea.

Here the British India Steam Navigation Company have constructed a small wooden jetty for the use of their steamer, and leased a plot of land on which they have constructed offices and rest-houses for the reception of the natives who journey to and fro in their vessels, often to the extreme number they are licensed to carry, something over 700 in the hot, and over 800 in the cold weather.

In the village close to the land of the British India Steam Navigation Company, the Government has acquired a piece of land on which there have been constructed a dâk bungalow and a police station in charge of an European Inspector, a post-office being established in the latter.

This land is of limited extent, but well raised as is, in fact, the whole of the village. A very considerable export and import trade has sprung up, and the British India Steam Navigation Company have now two vessels of somewhat smaller draught building in England to be employed solely on this line.

As many as 4,000 to 5,000 pilgrims returning from the great festival at Pooree were lately collected at the village waiting their turn to be conveyed to Calcutta in the Madras and in the Mary Grant, lately a steam ferry, but now employed on this line by some enterprising natives. Between the two a little less than 1,000 men were conveyed weekly. Most fortunately no disease appeared among the large number of natives who had been collected, for there is no medical aid or medicine available at a less distance than the sub-division of Bhuddruck, some miles to the north-west, which is connected with the village by a road lately constructed under orders of the Magistrate, I believe.

The Agent for the British India Steam Navigation Company, Mr. Clarke, has been appointed as Honorary Magistrate, and under his direction order seems to be well kept by the Police Inspector, and the conservancy of the place well attended to—a matter of no small importance when such large numbers of people are occasionally collected. The trade of the place is largely increasing. The agent of a Greek house in Calcutta has visited it to make arrangements for a more extended export of seeds and other country produce, and the people, I am informed, show great willingness to introduce other crops more suitable for the Calcutta market than the very coarse rice which now forms the main staple.

The country is a vast sheet of cultivation, nearly as far as the eye can reach, diversified with frequented and populous villages, and intersected with numerous rivers and large nullahs, which offer considerable means for communication with the country around, and promise to make Chandbally a large export town. The situations would be excellent for the site of a sub-division. In anticipation that the importance of the place will ere long necessitate such a measure, I venture to make the following suggestions :—

1. The entrance to the Dhamrah is, I am informed, on the northern channel, sufficiently buoyed off, but for the southern a buoy is required, I am told, at the extreme end of the reef, which juts out to the westward from the extreme eastern point of Short's Island.

A pillar, such as those along the Hooghly river, would be no doubt useful, if constructed, as on the main land at the north-east entrance of the channel, to mark the entrance in misty weather.

2. The Byturnee river should be surveyed, and a few buoys laid down at the proper depth opposite the more extremely sharp bends.

3. Mooring buoys are required, I am told, at Chandbally itself, where there is deep water along the bank, and space sufficient for three vessels, such as the Madras, to moor, if buoys were provided. In their absence a vessel is liable to break away from the land fastenings on a gale and to be driven over to the opposite bank.

4. At Chandbally more land should be taken up by Government adjoining that they have already acquired for the site of sub-divisional offices, dispensary, and such other buildings as will undoubtedly have to be constructed ere long. The land could probably be now acquired cheaply, but ere long it will rise generally in price, as several persons are on the look-out to purchase land for the purposes of trade.

5. A dispensary is absolutely necessary, and no doubt contributions towards its support could be calculated upon from the British India Steam Navigation Company and others trading to the place.

6. There is a small vernacular school which, I am told, is well attended and conducted in the usual native manner. It would undoubtedly serve well as the nucleus of a primary school. I anticipate that if these suggestions were carried out, Chandbally would, within a couple of years, become a thriving and populous seat of inland trade.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 20th September 1873.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
BENGAL.
	Western Districts.	1873.
Burdwan Division. 1	Burdwan ...	Sept. 23rd*	0·68	Weather hot, with slight rain.	Crops doing well, but require more rain.	Public health as before. Fever worse.
2	Bancoorah ..	„ 20th	0·90	Generally dry ..	Early rice being reaped; a good outturn is expected. Indigo manufacture completed; about four hundred maunds outturn. Other crops doing well.	General health good.
3	Beerbhoom ...	„ 20th	0·63	Bright hot weather, with occasional showers.	Good. More rain would benefit the rice crop, especially on the high lands.
4	Midnapore ..	„ 20th	0·49	Rainfall at sudder exceptionally scanty as compared with the rest of the district.	Generally prosperous up to date.
5	Hooghly ...	„ 20th	1·23	Cloudy and clear ...	The prospects of the crops are fair, but more rain is wanted.
	Howrah ..	„ 20th	0·90	There was very little rain during the week.	Early rice and jute crops nearly reaped. Transplantation of the late paddy seedling has been completed. The sugarcane is good.
	Central Districts.
Presidency Division. 6	24-Pergunnahs ...	„ 23rd†	0·13	Warm; very close and oppressive during the last three days and no rain.	The cutting of the early rice and jute continues. Transplantation of the late rice nearly finished.	Fever as usual at this season of the year.
7	Nuddea ...	„ 20th	0·17	Dry and hot ...	The early rice harvest is turning out well, but rain is wanted for the late rice crop. A slight inundation would be welcome, especially in the Kustea sub-division.
8	Jessore ..	„ 20th	0·84	Unusually dry, warm, and clear. Wind generally from the south-east.	The prospects of the late rice crop continue favorable. The indigo outturn has been good.
Rajshahye Division. 9	Moorshedabad ...	„ 20th	0·68	Very little rain and generally close.	The early rice harvest is going on. The prospects of the late rice crop have not improved.	Slight distress reported in a few villages in the north. Employment will be given locally.
10	Dinagepore ...	„ 20th	0·39	Close, steamy, and sultry, with occasional showers	Rain is much wanted everywhere for the winter rice crops. Small showers fall, and where they do so, the crops promise fairly; but where little or no rain has fallen, the crop will be very bad indeed unless good heavy rain comes immediately.
11	Maldah ...	„ 20th	1·47	Hot and dry, alternating with clouds, thunder, and occasional rain.	The winter crops are being sown; the other crops promise a little better than last week.
12	Rajshahye ...	„ 20th	0·42	There has been little or no rain throughout the district during the past week.	The prospects of the transplanted rice are still very unfavorable owing to want of rain. The early and late rice are, however, in better condition. The early rice is being reaped. Tobacco and teel (oilseed) are being sown.	A few cases of small-pox have been reported from Belmeriah and Nattore stations, and of cholera from Beauleah.
13	Rungpore ...	„ 20th	1·46	Warm, with slight showers.	Prospects better to the south of the district, where 3·49 inches of rain has fallen. Elsewhere more rain urgently required.

* Telegram of the 23rd September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

BENGAL.—(Contd.)
	Central Districts.—(Contd.)	1873.
Rajshahye Div. 14	Bograh ..	Sept. 20th	1·07	Much rain is still wanted	The prospects of the late rice crops continue to suffer in consequence of the want of rain.
Rajshahye Div. 15	Pubna ...	„ 20th	2·11	Weather hot and sometimes close, with slight showers of rain.	The prospects of the late rice is fair only.
Cooch Behar Division. 16	Darjeeling ..	„ 20th	0·86	Very little rain; alternate mist and sunshine; light winds.	The crops are progressing favorably. The early crops have all been gathered in. The loss is said to be about one-fourth of the anticipated outturn, but no serious inconvinience is experienced.
Cooch Behar Division. 17	Julpigoree ..	„ 20th	2·00	Too dry for the time of the year.	The rain fallen is sufficient for the Dooars, but more and much more is urgently needed in the south of the district, and especially towards Dinagepore. Prospects of winter rice not as good as could be wished; there will be a small loss generally.
Cooch Behar Division.	Cooch Behar ...	„ 20th	1·94	Generally fine. There was a heavy shower in the afternoon of the 17th.	The prospects of the late rice continue unfavorable in the south and west. In other parts an average crop anticipated.
	Eastern Districts.
Dacca Division. 18	Dacca ...	„ 23rd*	0·22	Weather hot, with almost no rain.	Rivers falling very fast. Crops will suffer if there is no more rain.
Dacca Division. 19	Furreedpore ...	„ 20th	2·84	Hot and clear ...	The late rice crop is not in a promising condition owing to the fall of the rivers.
Dacca Division. 20	Backergunge ...	.....	.....	.....	.....	Return not received
Dacca Division. 21	Mymensing ..	„ 20th	0·30	Same as last week. No rain beyond occasional showers.	Unfavorable.
Dacca Division. 22	Sylhet ...	„ 13th	2·17	Cool in the morning, but close for the remaining part of the day.	The early rice has not yet been fully cut. The late crop has been nearly wholly planted out. More rains still wanted for the crops on the high grounds.
Dacca Division. 23	Cachar ...	„ 13th	0·57	Hot and sultry ...	Favorable for tea operations, but more rain required for the rice.
Chittagong Division. 24	Chittagong ...	„ 13th	4·12	Hot and unsettled ...	Reaping of early rice is finished, the crop being slightly under an average one. In one or two mouzahs insects have appeared, and some damage has been done to crops in Kutubdia and Moiskal by unusually high tides.
Chittagong Division. 25	Noakhally ...	„ 13th	2·48	The weather was very hot and close on the 9th, 10th, and 11th; during the rest of the week it was cloudy or rainy.	Early rice gathered in, and the transplanting of the late or winter rice almost completed.
Chittagong Division. 26	Tipperah ..	„ 20th	0·21	Fine and hot; rainfall at Bramanberiah 3·34.	Good in south and central Tipperah. A few heavy showers however in October will be beneficial; a slight improvement in Brahmanberiah, but there must be a considerable loss in the winter rice crop.
Chittagong Division. 27	Chittagong Hill Tracts	„ 13th	1·32	Weather seasonable. Excessive heat throughout the whole week, with occasional showers. Nights cool.	Crops fair. The cotton and the late rice crops are in flowers. The early rice crop is being gathered in. Pumpkins in abundance.
Chittagong Division.	Hill Tipperah ...	„ 13th	3·37	Heavy rain in the latter part of the week, accompanied by thunder and lightning. Weather cloudy and very warm.	Fair.

* Telegram of the 23rd September received on the same day. Shows the rainfall during the seven days immediately preceding.

No.	District.	Date of return from each district.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather in the district as far as known.	State and prospects of the crops at date.	Remarks.
BEHAR.		1873.
Patna Division. 28	Patna ..	Sept. 23rd*	0·01	Weather very hot and oppressive; very little rain at head-quarters, though more has fallen generally throughout the district.	Prospects of the crops better	General health good, but a few scattered cases of cholera are still reported.
29	Gya ...	„ 20th	2·49	Hot ..	Rice crop progressing favorably.
30	Shahabad ...	„ 20th	1·65	Seasonable. Showers during the week.	Prospects on the whole good; more rain required for the rice on the high lands. Early crops being harvested in places.
31	Tirhoot ..	„ 20th	1·03	Hot and cloudy There has been scanty rain in some parts of the district.	Early crop is expected to be only an 8-annas one. The rice crop is said to be in a most deplorable condition in Mudhubani for want of rain. If no rain falls within a few days the whole of the high land crops will be destroyed.	Cholera decreased.
32	Sarun ..	„ 20th	0·38	Hot throughout the week. East and west winds.	Early crop is being harvested; manufacture of indigo going on. Rain urgently wanted all over the district to save the paddy crops.	Cholera decreasing.
33	Chumparun ...	20th	0·1	Sultry; often cloudy; east winds.	The early crop drying up for want of rain, which is urgently required for the paddy.	Cholera still prevalent.
Bhaugulpore Division. 34	Monghyr ..	„ 20th	2·59	Seasonable ..	Rain fell in the beginning of the week very opportunely and did much good. The general prospects continue fair, and reports from subdivisions are satisfactory.
35	Bhaugulpore ...	„ 23rd	0·30	Not more than an inch of rain anywhere.	Unless heavy rain falls before long, rice crop must be a poor one.	General health very good. Fever not increasing in Muddehpoorah sub-division.
36	Purneah ...	„ 20th	1·62	Cooler than last week, but still hot.	The early crop is being cut, and the late rice crop is all planted out. Rain still wanted.
37	Sonthal Pergunnahs ...	„ 20th	4·70	Fine bright morning; day clouds over from noon, and the evening and night begin in storms of wind and rain with frequent thunder and lightning.	Rice crops reported generally excellent. Indiancorn average ten-annas outturn.
ORISSA.
Orissa Division. 38	Cuttack ..	„ 23rd*	0·38	Very little rain throughout the district; weather very hot.	Rain much wanted for the late rice crops, prospects of which are fair at present.	Public health fair.
39	Pooree ..	„ 18th	0·22	Hot for the most part of the week, but heavy rainfall on the night of the 12th, and the weather was cloudy on the 13th instant. Rainfall at Khoordha 0·27.	The weeding and transplanting operations in the late rice fields of Pergunnahs Sirain, Kotrahang, Sultannagore, &c., are still going on. The weeding and transplanting operations of high land late rice fields of pergunnahs in the east of the district have been backward for want of rain. Early rice crop is being reaped in certain places in Pergunnahs Rahang, Sirain, and Kotrahang, and in others is begun to be harvested. The prospects of cold weather crops continue favorable. Recent showers have done general good. In Khoordha sub-division the state of the crops is promising.
